COPIED LOCAL MAN'S PASSPORT

Reginald Rowland Victim of German Secret Service Cupidity.

HE AIDS GOVERNMENT

German Photographed Original Passport Issued to Mr. Rowland, and by Changing Personal Description Gave Copy to German Spy.

Reginald Rowland, son of Mr. and Mrs. David H. Rowland, of West Eighth street, this city, played an innocent, but important part in the recent detection of a passport fraud which was worked by the German Secret Service to get a spy into England. As was told in the Daily Press a few weeks ago, Mr. Rowland went on a business trip to Germany last spring accompanying M. A. Rice, of Atlantic Highlands. In order to visit that country he procured a passport from the State Department at Washington.

The first intimation that Mr. Rowland had that his name was being used by a German spy was when the State Department informed him at his present home in Providence, R. I., that the alleged spy had been arrested in England, carrying what appeared to be an American passport, which he had confessed he received in Antwerp from Captain Schnitzer, of the German Secret Service.

The name given in the passport was Reginald Rowland. The latter's address was on file in the Citizenship Bureau of the State Department, and an inquiry was sent there for Rowland's address. Mr. Rowland himself responded and surprised officials by the statement that he had his passport in his possession. At the request of the State Department, he surrendered the genuine passport, and it was forwarded to the American Embassy in London in order that it might be compared with the passport taken from the German arrested in England.

TRADE PAPER PAYS TRIBUTE TO H. E. BOWEN OF THIS CITY

The Editor and Publisher, a well known trade paper, in its issue of Saturday said:

"Henry E. Bowen resigned his position last week from the advertising department of the New York Herald after a connection of twenty years with that publication. Mr. Bowen comes from a newspaper family of three generations in New York, his grandfather, Lewis Tappan, being the founder of the Journal of Commerce, and his father, Henry C. Bowen, of the Independent. His first newspaper work was as publisher of the Brooklyn Union, previous to its being known as the Standard Unon. He was also connected with the Cosmopolitan Magazine during its ownership by John Bresben Walker, and later with the Mail and Express, and placed in charge of the Brooklyn department by the late Colonel Elliott F. Shepard.

On October 1, 1895, Mr. Bowen was engaged by Albert Fox, advertising manager of the New York Herald, and he has remained with that paper until the present time. He is now enjoying a much-needed rest at his home, 740 Watchung avenue, Plainfield, New Jersey.'"

MISS GERALDINE DUNHAM TENDERED LINEN SHOWER

Miss Geraldine Dunham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William N. Dunham, of East Second street, was given a linen shower Saturday afternoon by sixteen of her intimate friends. The affair was a complete surprise to the young woman, who was the recipient of many handsome and useful pieces of linen. The afternoon was spent in a social way, games, singing and refreshments being enjoyed.

Miss Dunham will be married in September to William N. Tier, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. William N. Tier, of Westervelt avenue.

HAROLD DAVIS IN CALIFORNIA.

Harold Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry F. Davis, of Union street, has gone to Los Angeles, Cal., where he will spend one year. Mr. Davis was valedictorian of the graduating class at Plainfield High School this year, and was one of the best musicians in the school. His health has not been of the best for some time, and he has decided to take a long rest in a suitable clime before beginning his studies at Cornell.

IT'S A BOY.

Mr. and Mrs. William Lafferty, of John street, are the parents of a boy born to them Saturday.

EXCURSIONISTS SEE TRAIN RUN OVER MAN

Many Plainfielders in Throng at Lake Hopatcong Accident.

About fifty Plainfielders were among the hundreds of spectators at Nolan's Point, Lake Hopatcong, yesterday, who witnessed a serious accident, when Michael Ryan, of Paterson, was thrown beneath the wheels of the Newark excursion train and had both legs severed just above the ankles. Ryan came to the lake at about 11 o'clock yesterday morning with an automobile party, and was walking along the railroad track when the locomotive coming around the curve between Lee's and Allen's pavilion struck him. Because of the large number of excursionists and visitors the engineers failed to notice the man, or to know that he struck him until the crowds shouted and signaled him to stop the moving locomotive.

The unconscious man was removed to the Memorial Hospital at Morristown, where his condition was reported as critical this morning.

Reports from the lake this morning say that a severe electric storm visited the entire island. Bathers received a scare when a bolt of lightning struck Alpine Point, bounded into the lake and hit Frank Dixon and Harry Clennon, of Newark.

TO BREAK UP LOITERING IN NETHERWOOD SECTION

Numerous complaints filed with the police by residents living in the vicinity of Johnston and St. Mary's avenues last night resulted in the arrest of eight boys, whose ages range between fourteen and eighteen years. Captain John J. Flynn and Lieutenant Maurice Higgins took the youths into custody in a vacant house on Johnson avenue.

When the raid was made the boys were indulging in card playing and gambling, the sum of fifteen cents comprising the "pot." In court this morning Judge DeMeza gave the crowd a "shaking down" after they had been caught in lies and threatened them with jail sentences if they are arrested again for the same offense. Chief Kiely stated in court that he had instructed his men to keep a careful watch in that section, and all loiterers will be picked up and severely dealt with.

RAIN KEEPS ATTENDANCE DOWN AT UNION SERVICE

A congregation of about sixty people braved the storm last evening, and attended the union church service in the First Baptist church, where the Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, a former pastor of the First Baptist church, preached. Dr. Chambliss also occupied the pulpit in the morning in the absence of the pastor, Rev. Dr. Philip B. Strong. The union service next Sunday night will be held in the First Methodist Episcopal church. Dr. Chambliss is now located at Jefferson City, Tennessee, where he is professor of Biblical history and literature in the college there. Dr. Chambliss will preach again in the First Baptist church Sunday, August 15.

PRESTON CLAY FINED $50 IN CITY POLICE COURT

Arraigned for the second time for the purpose of changing his plea from not guilty to one of guilty, Preston Clay, a local negro, was sentenced to pay a fine of $50 or spend ninety days in the county jail by Judge DeMeza in the city court this morning. He was charged with an offense which the court this morning classed as being one of the most despicable ever made against a local man.

This is his second arrest on charges of the same nature, and Judge De Meza stated that a third appearance would probably mean a State prison term.

COMMITTEE MEETING.

The committee having charge of the euchre recently given at the Columbus Club will meet tonight at the West Front street clubhouse to make returns for the tickets. Those in charge of the affair expressed great satisfaction over the result of the euchre, a large sum being realized. All having tickets or money for tickets are requested to settle for them as soon as possible.

RAIN SPOILS PICNIC.

The local Saengerbund tried to hold their annual children's picnic yesterday at Interhaven Park, and had just gotten fairly started when the rain came up and put a stop to the festivities. The picnic will probably be held on at later date.

TROOPERS HOME, TIRED BUT HAPPY

Plainfield Citizen Cavalrymen Had Strenuous Week at Mt. Gretna.

ACTIVE IN SHAM BATTLE

Spent Friday Night in Tiny Shelter Tents—Received Highest Grade of All the 21 Troops in Camp for Care of Health of Men.

The Plainfield members of Troop D, First Squadron Cavalry, N. G. N. J., returned to this city late Saturday afternoon, from the cavalry camp at Mt. Gretna, Pa., eager for hot baths, clean clothes, home-cooked suppers and real beds, but enthusiastic over their experiences,—especially those in the battle of Friday.

Although in this sham engagement between eleven hundred Pennsylvanians and the troops of New Jersey and Maryland together with the regulars,—seven hundred in all—the members of Company D were so largely engaged in patrolling that only a small part of them actually reached the firing line. All were actively employed, and all, hearing the rattle of the rifles, felt something of the thrill of battle.

They also believed their side, commanded by Major Bryant, of the New Jersey First Squadron Cavalry, had won. No decision was actually rendered, but the Pennsylvanians certainly failed in the prime purpose of their strategy, to turn the enemy's flank and roll up his army.

The theory of the battle was this. The Reds, lying across the Susquehanna River, had just declared war on the Blues, and natives of the Blues at Mt. Gretna having collected large stores of supplies in that town became alarmed by rumors that the cavalry of the Reds at Rowena was about to raid them, and sent a warning to the Blues' commander at Lebanon, who rushed forward a force of cavalry to protect these supplies. It was a kind of race between these two

MUSICAL SERVICE GOT BIG RECEPTION

Temple Baptist Bible School Introduced a Novelty Yesterday Morning.

The Temple Baptist Bible school yesterday began its series of musical services which are to be continued for each Sunday during August. Believing that it would be a pleasant change for the school, as well as for the teachers, the officers of the school decided that the month of August should be devoted to special musical services, taking the place of the usual lesson period.

The success of this plan was evinced from the large attendance at the session yesterday. After the usual opening exercises, a program of instrumental music was given by the Kahn Trio, two sisters and a brother, piano, violin and cornet. These artists have established a most successful record for sacred music in various churches and Sunday-schools. The performance on these various instruments was truly wonderful and the selections rendered were much enjoyed by all present. The violin and cornet solos were especially pleasing, and the selections given by the Trio together, were marvels of successful musical ability.

In addition to the Kahn Trio, Whitney Frazee, cornet, and Miss Bessie Carson, piano, assisted with the music. Next Sunday, Emil Closs, with his famous gospel bells, will furnish a program of sacred music. Mr. Closs has attained a merited popularity for his sweet music with the bells. The service begins at 9:45.

CHIEF WEISS' VACATION.

Chief Marshal George Weiss, of the North Plainfield police department, will spend his vacation in his bungalow at Washington Rock. Mrs. Weiss and their son left for the bungalow today, and Marshal Weiss will follow Thursday, when his vacation commences.

EXPECT NEW UNIFORMS.

Members of Company H, Uniformed Rank, Jr. O. U. A. M., expect to receive their new uniforms at the regular August meeting tomorrow night. Captain William Hartpence desires a full attendance at that meeting for the drill.

BIRTH OF A DAUGHTER.

Mr. and Mrs. William Walsh are the parents of a girl born to them yesterday.

CITY DRENCHED BY CLOUDBURST

Worst Storm in Recent Years Visited This City Yesterday Afternoon.

NO RELIEF IS FELT

Heat and High Humidity Continues—Crops Washed Out in Washington Valley—Traffic Cut Off in Surrounding Suburbs.

Coming as a climax to a day of heat and continued high humidity, the storm that drenched Plainfield late yesterday afternoon brought no appreciable coolness, but did a vast amount of damage in surrounding suburbs and other parts of the State. The suddenness of the cloudburst and the vivid electrical display caught many Sunday afternoon pleasure-seekers unawares, and incoming trains, trolleys, automobiles and other vehicles carrying human freight coming into the city last night brought throngs to their homes drenched to the skin.

During the latter part of the afternoon and up to shortly after 9 o'clock last night torrents of rain fell, but the heat continued and was felt just as bad today. In nearby suburbs traffic was practically paralyzed for hours and farmers' crops were not spared by the storm-king. Hundreds of dollars worth of damage was done to truck in outlying districts, and it was stated that the rain which fell between 4 and 6 o'clock broke all records for local precipitation this year.

Numerous trees were stripped of limbs in various portions of the city, and lawns and roads were washed out, but the extent of the damage was not nearly as great here as in other places. Plainfield's usual "horseshoe luck that makes itself felt during rainstorms of this kind was plainly evident yesterday, and although the city got its share of rain water and electricity, the damage is set at a minimum figure.

The brook at Bound Brook overflowed and completely covered the trolley tracks within the immediate vicinity. All of the streets in that section were covered with three feet of water, and traffic was brought to a halt for over two hours.

Farmers coming to Plainfield on their usual Monday morning trips today had "hard luck" tales aplenty to relate to their local customers. The corn suffered greatly from the wind, and large green stalks were tossed about and crushed to the ground. Th country roads in the Washington Valley district will have to undergo some sort of repairing before they will again be passable. Several accidents occurred, but no serious injuries have been reported. On the Metuchen road, three autos were ditched, but no one was hurt.

Washington Valley suffered great damage. Farmers living in the valley sustained heavy losses through the rain. In some cases growing potatoes were washed out of the ground and carried away., being scattered by the water to the four quarters of the compass. Wheat and oats, cut and in the shock, were swept from the fields and carried away. John Bowers, of the valley, lost his entire oat crop,, which was carried down the small brook which has its rise near his place and empties into Bound Brook.

In many fields the corn crop was leveled to the ground. Newly plowed fields were swept bare of top soil, which was carried away. Culverts were blocked, and the roads this morning looked as if they had been swept. The storm was the worst that has visited that section for many years, and seemed to be confined entirely to Washington Valley.

COLLECTOR STILL ILL.

Tax Collector George F. Brown, of the borough, is still confined to his home by illness, and as a consequence the list of delinquent taxpayers for the year 1914 will not be advertised today. The day on which the advertisement will appear for the first has already been postponed several times, and the delay is giving property owners an opportunity to settle up without having to pay the added expense of advertising.

125 JOIN UNION.

Routine business relative to the agitation now being promoted by the machinists' union for shorter hours was transacted by the executive committee of the Building Trades' Council at a meeting Saturday night. As the result of Thursday night's mass meeting 125 machinists decided to affiliate with the union and submitted their applications Saturday night.

WEDDING IN OCTOBER.

Mrs. Bettie C. Valentine, of East Second street, this city, announces the engagement of her daughter, Miss Rebecca P. Williams, to William H Alston, of Newark. The wedding will take place in October.

NO AGREEMENT ON UNION DEMANDS

Vice-President J. J. Keppler and Others Representing Machniists Here Today.

TO ANSWER TOMORROW

Mr. Keppler Says Men Will Demand Increase in Pay at Printing Press Shops, in Addition to Eight Hours of Work.

Jacob J. Keppler, vice president of the International Machinists' Union, Hugh Riley, business agent of the New Jersey district, and Thomas E. Carroll, a representative of the International Machinists' Union, who has been making his headquarters in Plainfield, visited the nine local shops employing machinists this morning, in accordance with an agreement arrived at during a mass meeting here last Thursday night. They formally presented the workingmen's eight-hour day demands to the factory officials.

Although the committee reported a cordial reception in each shop none of the superintendents agreed to the demands and will probably make no definite decision until tomorrow afternoon. The action of the officials of the Saurer plant of the International Motor Company in announcing a forty-eight hour week, or eight hours a day, with war order bonuses for their employes, was at first taken as a good omen, but the wording of the agreement has since aroused considerable anxiety among the machinists who believe that it is not binding enough. They are afraid that the order will be short-lived and have announced that they will hold out for a more definite document. In an interview with a Daily Press reporter this afternoon, Mr. Keppler said:

"Since coming to Plainfield I have found conditions such as would warrant us demanding an increase in pay for our men in the three printing press shops in this city and so informed the superintendents. Hence,

PLAINFIELDERS IN PANIC ABOARD SHIP

Local Excursionists Included in Passenger List of the Grand Republic.

Capt. Edward Carmen and the crew of the Grand Republic, a sister of the General Slocum, which was burned with a loss of 950 lives in June, 1904, got credit yesterday for bringing 1,700 men, women and children safely out of the most serious steamboat panic of recent years in New York waters, which started as the steamer was nearing Coney Island. Included in the passenger list were Joseph J. Carty, M. J. McCarthy and numerous other Plainfielders.

Frightened men and women, their terror increased by the memory of the Eastland disaster fought each other on the Grand Republic to get life belts and small boats when the cry of fire swept through the vessel.

A barroom brawl had started the rush. A young woman heard the loud voices below and shouted "fire." The cry was passed swiftly along. The girl, in a faint, fell down a companionway. Other passengers took up the cry, and in the rush for safety women and children were trampled upon. The boat heavily listed to starboard.

OPENED CLUB'S COTTAGE.

Members of the Second Night Club of this city, have taken possession of their cottage at Keansburg for the remainder of the summer and a large party was entertained there over the weekend. Joseph Murray, Joseph Sullivan and Hyman Abrams remained at the resort to spend their annual vacations while an automobile party left here Saturday night and returned this morning with another group of members. The autoists were George Taylor, John Caulfield, M. T. Moynihan, Daniel MacAfee, John Duffy, Patrick Powers and John Coffey.

ANOTHER DELAY.

The sentencing of Donald Wallace, a Plainfield youth, who was found guilty of a serious crime by the county courts several weeks ago, has been again postponed by Judge James C. Connolly, at the request of his counsel, William R. Wilson. In all probibility he will come up for sentence again next Friday in Elizabeth. The reason given for the adjournment was the fact that his counsel wished to get together the accumulation of petitions being circulated in his behalf.

CHARLES YOUNG DIES SUDDENLY IN BOROUGH

Aged Resident Was in His Usual Good Health on Saturday.

Charles I. Young, of 50 Chatham street, the borough, died suddenly at his late home Saturday night. Mr. Young was in his usual good health Saturday, attended to business as usual, and returned home about 9:30 in the evening, suffered an attack of acute indigestion shortly after and passed away before a doctor could reach him.

He was in his sixty-first year and lived in this city for the past twenty-eight hours, coming here from Rahway. He was a metal worker by trade and was in business for himself. Surviving him are wife wife and four sisters.

Mr. Young was a member of Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M.; Queen City Lodge, Odd Fellows; Columbia Lodge, A. U. O. W., and the Men's Bible class of the First Baptist church.

The funeral will be held at the late home tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock and burial will be private in Hillside cemetery, Wednesday morning.

ANOTHER $4 IS ADDED TO DAY NURSERY FUND

"C. L." has forwarded $4 to the Daily Press to be turned over to the Day Nursery fund, which has been subscribed at various times through this newspaper. This makes $25.20 thus far contributed to this charity. The Kings' Daughters are in need of funds this summer more than ever, the organization being called upon for large quantities of milk. Besides milk, other provisions must be bought for the children.

The Daily Press will be glad to receive any further contributions, acknowledge the amount and send the money to the treasurer, Mrs. Anna Most. The contributions received to date follow:

"C. L."	$ 4.00
Mrs. W. H. Riley	10.00
Junior Dept., First Baptist Ch.	9.00
One little girl	1.00
Three little girls	1.20
Total	$25.20

SAYS HEAVY AUTO TRUCKS JARRED DOWN CEILING IN HOME

That heavy automobile trucks should use some other thoroughfare than Somerset street is the contention of a number of residents along that artery of travel, and it is possible that a petition will be drawn up, circulated for signatures, and presented to the Mayor and Common Council, asking that an ordinance forbidding the use of Somerset street by heavy trucks be passed.

Mayor Robert Clark, Jr., has been approached upon the subject and has notified the complaining property owners that the matter is one which must be regulated by ordinance. One woman informed the Mayor that the passage of the heavy trucks back and forth had jarred the ceilings in her home loose.

YOUTHFUL PRISONERS WILL BE ARRAIGNED TOMORROW

Samuel S. Swackhamer appeared in the city court this morning on behalf of the two youths arrested by Patrolman Dunlap, Saturday morning, on a serious charge, and asked for an adjournment until tomorrow, which was granted. In the meantime they were committed to the city jail in default of $500 bail.

The boys Cecil Harvey and Joseph Fatalli, are accused of attacking Harriet and Elizabeth Thompson, aged sixteen and fourteen, respectively, while the girls were returning to their home on Ann street at 10:30 o'clock Friday night. They were arrested after an all-night search on the part of the local police department.

SPECIAL JURY PANEL.

A special jury panel for the trial of three Union county murderers in September was chosen Friday by Judge Connolly and Sheriff Otto. The members from Plainfield are C. Berry Egan, Arthur D. Giles, Victor L. Houston, John F. Lindsley and Hamlet Lee Luckey.

GREAT DEFENSIVE BY RUSSIAN ARMY

Slaughter of Germans Great, While Czar's Losses Have Been Small.

KAISER MAY FREE POLES

Reported to Be Prepared to Do so When He Enters Warsaw—No Change in Fighting in Northern France—Clintonia Sunk.

Petrograd, Aug. 2.—The greatest defensive action, in connection with an organized retreat, that the war has seen is being worked out by the forces under the command of Grand Duke Nicholas. The slaughter of the Germans has been terrific in their advance along the Narew and west of Warsaw, while the Russian loss in killed and wounded has been comparatively small. Small forces of Russians are bearing the brunt of the fighting, while the main body of Russian troops continues its retirement to the east.

So effective is the Russian defense just outside the gates of the city that military men declared today that Warsaw could never have been won by direct assault. The great Austro-German siege guns and the massed forces of the enemy could not have battered their way into the capital, they held, and the capture of Warsaw is only made possible by the progress of the Austro-Germans along the Lublin-Chelm line.

The taking of Warsaw will only slightly relieve the German feeling of disappointment over their failure to entrap the grand duke's armies, according to advices to the War office. When it became evident that the Russians were about to escape the trap, Gen. Von Hindenburg sent out a hurry call for reinforcements from the western battle front. These forces arrived, and have been seen in operation in Poland, according to an official statement from the War office, which contained this significant clause:

STARVATION CONFRONTS RESIDENTS OF MEXICO CITY

Washington, Aug. 2.—Starvation conditions in Mexico City were detailed to the State Department through the Red Cross today. Charles O'Connor, the Red Cross agent in the Mexican capital, was authority for the report. Prices for food are absolutely prohibitive and there is at present no means of getting supplies into the city. The despatch from O'Connor urgently requested that the State Department take steps to alleviate conditions.

Consul General Arnold Shanklin, who left Mexico City for the United States following a clash of authority with the Brazilian minister there who is taking care of American diplomatic interests, will reach here tomorrow or Wednesday and immediately will confer with Secretary Lansing.

The State Department was informed today that General Gonzales will establish himself in Mexico City within a few days, and when this is accomplished officials here said no further excuse would be accepted from the Constitutionalists, if food conditions there are not immediately and permanently bettered.

Severe fighting between the Constitutionalists and Conventionalists at a point east of Guadaljoupe was reported today. The outcome of the battle was not stated.

TWO TEN DOLLAR FINES FOR BOROUGH OFFENDERS

"Ten dollars or fourteen days," was Recorder Hand's sentence in two North Plainfield police court cases this morning. The first offender was Frank Carroll, 31 years old, of Manning avenue, who was charged with being drunk. The second case was that of Harry Hansen, 23 years old, of 20 Lincoln place, who was charged by Special Officer Cooper with being drunk and driving his rig on Somerset street Saturday night without a light. The officer declared that the harness on the horse was dragging, one shoe was missing, and the animal looked as if it had been driven hard.

Hansen denied the charge of being drunk, but Recorder Hand sustained the officer and imposed the same penalty. Hansen was permitted to go out and get the money for his fine. Carroll will probably have to go to Somerville.

THE TEMPERATURE.

The temperature report from The State Trust Company today is as follows: 9 a. m. 78 degrees; 11 a. m., 80 degrees; 1 p. m., 85 degrees.

MRS. SNOWDEN DEAD IN SEVENTY-THIRD YEAR

Mother of North Plainfield Man Passed Away Saturday at New Market.

Mrs. Catherine B. Snowden, aged 73, died on Saturday at the home of Nelson B. Dunn, in New Market, where she had been living since last fall following an illness of only a week.

The deceased was the daughter of Peter and Mary Webster Boice and was born and raised on the Boice homestead near Cal Blue's Corner. The first Boice came to New Market from Holland in the eighteenth century.

The deceased was the widow of Henry B. Snowden, whose mother was a sister to ex-Governor Randolph. At the time of his marriage Mr. Snowden was engaged in business at New Brunswick, and he took his wife to that city. Later Mr. Snowden entered business in Newark, and they moved there. After the death of Mrs. Snowden's mother, Mr. Snowden retired from business and moved, with his wife and son, Albert B. Snowden, who survives his mother, to the Boice homestead. Mr. Snowden died in 1907.

Mrs. Snowden's son who had a home in North Plainfield, tried to induce her to break up her home upon her husband's death and come to live with him, but she declined. She spent the summers at the Boice Homestead with her grandchildren, and the winters were passed at Mr. Dunn's home.

The deceased was an active church worker of the First Baptist church, of New Market. She was also a member of the Ladies' Aid Society of the church. Mrs. Snowden will be greatly missed by the community, which has known her so long and so well. She had a fine Christian character, and was one of those rare women who could not seem to do enough for others.

Besides her son, Albert B. Snowden, the deceased is survived by two brothers, Richard Boice, of Newark, and John Boice, who is out West somewhere and cannot be located. She is also survived by four grandchildren, Hazel, Louise, Richard and Welsh Snowden, of North Plainfield.

The funeral was held this afternoon from the undertaking parlors of Walter C. Runyon, in Dunellen. Rev. T. E. Vassar, pastor of the First Baptist church, was in charge of the service. The interment was in the family plot at Middlesex Hillside.

AT SAN FRANCISCO.

On a postal received by Kasper Fuchs from C. L. Wahl, Jr., of Washington avenue, who with his sister, Miss May, left two weeks ago Friday for California to attend the Panama Exposition, Mr. Wahl stated that he and his sister arrived in San Francisco a week ago yesterday and are having the time of their lives there. On the trip to the coast the two stopped off at Cumberland, Md., where they have relatives, and also at Chicago and Kansas City. On their trip home Denver and Yellowstone Park will be visited.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Percy Vail and daughter, Virginia, will close their beautiful home, "Valmere," this week and leave for California, where they will remain until spring.

John Dickenson and family, of New Market road, have returned from their six weeks' visit at Atlantic City.

Charles Van Nuis has purchased an auto from F. Percy Vail.

Thirty-five or forty of the members of Friendship Council expect to attend the celebration of "Home Day" at South Amboy in a body on Friday, August 13. The council has already cast 510 votes for Miss Mildred Beats, one of South Amboy's candidates for the Queen of the Day. These votes cost a cent a piece.

STORM NOT SERIOUS.

No great damage was done about town by the terrific storm of yesterday afternoon. According to Nelson B Giles, the milkman, who traverses the town from end to end each morning, the damage done by the storm was confined to the ripping asunder of a large tree in front of the residence of John Kocsan, on Front street, and the knocking off a portion of the slate roof of the roundhouse of the Central Railroad.

NEW BUNGALOW FOR MR. LAW.

The Apgar Construction Company has been awarded the contract of erecting a bungalow of stone construction on Mountainview Terrace for George Law. The bungalow is to be erected on the second lot east of the property of Edward Pennock. This lot runs all the way back to Green Brook, a distance of fully 500 feet. R. Luccio, of Plainfield, will do the mason work. The bungalow will contain all improvements and will cost in the neighborhood of $3,500. According to the contract it must be completed by October 1, when Mr. and Mrs. Law plan to move in. The bungalow, which is on the same street as the present home, will be occupied by their son, Walter Law, who is to be married this fall.

Miss Edythe Strickland, of Second street, is now enjoying her anual two weeks' vacation from her duties in the office of the Woodhull & Martin Company. The two weeks are to be spent camping at Altamont, N. Y., with four other girls from Plainfield.

All but ten of the 115 laborers employed by the H. K. Corbin Company in constructing the borough's collecting sewerage system struck for a raise in wages from $1.75 to $2 this morning. This is the second time that they have struck since the work was started. The first strike was unsuccessful and the ringleaders were discharged.

Former Councilman an[illegible] John H. Schneidler enter[illegible] and Mrs. William Mille[illegible] head Bay, Saturday afternoon.

Miss Flossie Gangloff, of Fourth street, returned on Saturday from Camp Wopowog, in Connecticut, where she spent a week of her annual vacation.

Miss Ruth Taylor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Taylor, of Washington avenue, is spending two weeks at Trenton visiting her aunt, Mrs. Elizabeth Baldwin.

Miss Ella Lane, of Somerville, was entertained by Mr. and Mrs. George I Apgar, Jr., of Lincoln avenue, over the week-end.

Mrs. George I. Apgar, Jr., and Mrs. C T. Voorhees have returned from Lebanon, where they spent a week.

Russell Garretzen, of Front street, spent the week-end at Allentown, Pa., where he visitied friends.

Mr. and Mrs. George Voehl, of Washington avenue, entertained John Kulp and daughter, Miss Frances, of Bayonne; Lester Conklin, of Brooklyn; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Gnatz and child, of Plainfield, and John W. Voehl, of Bayonne, yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Doyle, of North avenue, are the parents of a bouncing boy, who arrived Friday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. George Meyers, of Prospect avenue, have returned from Bayonne, where they spent two days with relatives of Mrs. Meyers.

Chief Marshal Owen Mohan was a visitor in New York yesterday.

Russell Brakley, of Front street, has returned from Lake Hopatcong, where he spent his annual vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Smith, of Center street, visited Mr. Smith's mother, Mrs. Catherine Smith, at Raritan, yesterday.

Joseph Weiner, of Prospect avenue, has purchased a new bicycle.

FISHING TRIP.

Frank Smalley, of Prospect avenue, and Norman Vogt, of Walnut street, enjoyed a deep-sea fishing trip Saturday. Leaving for New York on the first train out, they arrived at Battery Park in time to catch the first boat for the fishing banks. The steamer didn't drop anchor until it was off Sea Girt, and the fish were so plentiful in that vicinity that it remained there all day. The fishermen didn't arrive home until after 7 o'clock. Their catch totaled 18.

Miss Lila Stites, of Dunellen avenue, has secured a position in the office of the Johns-Manville Company at Manville. She assumed her new duties last week.

Councilman and Mrs. Earle M. Jones have returned from Lebanon, where they spent their vacation.

VISITORS FROM THE WEST.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Schneiderwind, of Prospect avenue, entertained Mr. Schneiderwind's brother, James Schneiderwind and family, of Omaha, Neb., Saturday. Mr. Schneiderwind and family were accompanied to the borough by Mr. Schneiderwind's sister, Mrs. August Rupell, of Washington, D. C., with whom they have been spending most of their time since their arrival in the East. Mrs. Rupell's daughter, Miss Marguerite Rupell, of New York city, was also among the visitors.

Bartholomew Kelly, of Madison avenue, enjoyed a day off yesterday from his duties as Towerman at the Prospect avenue crossing of the Central Railroad, and visited his daughter, Mrs. Joseph Nee, of Brooklyn, who recently gave birth to a son.

JITNEY SERVICE POPULAR.

The jitney bus service between this place and Plainfield, which was put into effect at 11 o'clock Saturday morning by J. W. Moldezky, of the Queen City, is already proving very popular with the boroughites, and Mr. Moldezky says he is doing a fine business. Quite a number of Mr. Moldezky's passengers to date have been those who have merely gone to Plainfield and back for the ride.

The regular monthly session of the Mayor and Common Council will be held in the Borough Hall this evening.

Postal cards received from Rev. E. R. Brown, the pastor of the Presbyterian church, who with his family left by automobile Friday afternoon for Island Heights, on Toms River, where they will spend the month of August, state that the trip was made in safety, and in the splendid time of three hours.

COMING HOME FOR VISIT.

Abner S. Coriell, assistant secretary of the Standard Oil Company, of California, leaves San Francisco on the 15th of this month for the borough to visit his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Coriell, of Front street. Mr. Coriell, if not delayed, will arrive here on the 22d. He will remain here over Labor Day. On his trip home he will be accompanied by his wife and mother-in-law, who have been visiting in the East for the past month or so.

"You need not keep "on your hands," to your present disadvantage, any real estate that is "good enough to advertise."

A Galley o' Fun!

UNCLE HAWHEE'S PHILOSOPHY.

"Dis life am what we makes it. To de bull dog dis am a fightin' world De pusson wid red hair b'lieves dar's suppin' wrong uh-kaze everybody else ain't redheaded. De rat in de cellar draws up resolutions dat de sun has done gone out o' bizness. A drunk-man is 'stounded to see ladies and gen'lemen staggerin' along whilst he hisse'f walks straight. De cullud pusson prowlin' round chicken-houses at night gits de notion dat de world am full o' white men with guns. And so it goes, Brudder Waddkins, all down de line."

FULL SWING.

SLOTH AND DILIGENCE.

Sloth said to Diligence: "You work too hard. For two days now you have been busy plowing that field. I hear ingenuity has invented a plow driven by steam. Why not get one plow for you while you sit with me in the shade and enjoy life?"

Diligence bought the plow which would plow a field in a fraction of the time it had taken him to do it; but, instead of sitting in the shade, he put more land into cultivation, and it took all his time to attend to the plow and see that it worked properly.

When harvest time came he had more to do than ever on account of the new land he had cultivated.

Harvest over, Sloth went to pay Diligence a visit, saying to himself: "Now he will have a little more time to talk to me." But he found him conferring with Ingenuity in regard to a larger, more powerful plow, that he might next season put still more land in cultivation.

Moral: There is no cure for diligence.

A SPECIALIST.

"I've got a new place," said Gertie.

"Where?" asked Sadie.

"Isn't that nice?" said Sadie.

"Make me a pair of gloves some time, will you?"

"Yes, maybe, after a while. I like the work awfully well."

"But isn't there a lot to it?"

"No, not much. It's real simple. And we girls have lots of fun."

"But how do you ever get those little pieces sewed in between the fingers?"

"O, you mean the—the—well, I've forgotten what they call them; but I don't do that."

"O, you just do the rest of it?"

"N-no, not exactly. You see, the cloth is woven in one department—it's just like silk gloves, you know—and the gloves are cut out in another. Then they send them to another department where they put in those little pieces you spoke of. And then someone else puts on the tips of the fingers, and someone else does fancy stitches on the back, and someone else closes them—sews them up, you know, and someone else puts the buttons on, and—and—O, there's lots more to it! And it's so interesting. And then they all have to be looked over, and the mean old thing that inspects is always sending them back to the girls to be done over."

"And what part do you do?" Sadie asked.

"O, me? When you buy a pair of gloves they are always stitched together in pairs. Well, that's what I do."

INADEQUATE.

So fast was history made, and in forms and aspects so manifold and various, that Clio, the muse of the same, began to feel the disadvantage of being a woman.

"I can remember," quoth she, "what year big sleeves went out, but if anybody were to ask me who played third base with the Giants in 1897 I fear I should be at a loss."

The entire mythological system of the Greeks, in fact, while exquisitely beautiful, was nevertheless inadequate to the demands of the more exigent modern order.

LIMIT.

Willis.—Doesn't this stunt of chewing everything seventy-five times make you tired?

Gillis.—Not if they'd stop then, but my wife will keep chewing on a bit of scandal for weeks at a time.

THE REAL REASON.

When C. & B. went off ten points,
And started stocks to tumbling,
The wise ones said—and shook their heads—
'T was due to warlike rumbling.
The papers wrote at length upon
This explanation sable—
But in reality 't was done
To get a house for Mabel.

When F. & S. shot up one day
Until it hit the ceiling,
The wise ones cried, in unctuous pride,
'T was due to healthy feeling.
Reports on crops the papers then
Did print to prove the tally—
But it was done to foolish men
To get a yacht for Sally.

BOROUGH COUNCIL WILL MEET TO ADOPT BUDGET

At the meeting of the North Plainfield Common Council, Friday night, which will be the regular August meeting, an adjournment will probably be taken to a night later in the month when the annual budget will be fixed. The tentative budget, adopted the first of the year, will probably have to be changed. Several items of business having to do with the sewers will also come up for disposal.

GERMAN WEEK AT FAIR.

San Francisco, Aug. 2.—The biennial convention of the German-American National Alliance opened here today, with delegates present representing several millions of Germans in America. The greatest matter of interest at the big gathering is the attitude that will be taken on war munitions shipments. The Milwaukee delegation plans to spring a resolution which they will urge, disapproving of the President's policy on munitions. It will have vigorous opposition, and it is now expected that any such resolution will be voted down.

PLAINFIELD FIVE TO MEET.

The re-organized "Plainfield Five" will meet in the Plainfield High School gymnasium, Wednesday night, to discuss a number of plans for their winter schedule. A name will be selected for the organization at that time and several new members admitted. The meeting will be in charge of the president, Miss Clara Smith. All members are requested to be present.

TO PLAY AT DUNELLEN.

The Plainfield Juniors will play the Dunellen Boy Scouts on Maurer Oval, Dunellen, next Saturday.

AUGUST 2ND IN HISTORY.

1552—The Peace of Religion signed on the Danube, establishing the Protestant church in Germany.

1704—Battle of Blenheim, in Bavaria; English and Austrians defeated the French and Bavarians.

1776—The engrossed Declaration of Independence signed by 56 delegates at Philadelphia.

1793—Marie Antoinette, queen of France, placed in an underground cell.

1815—Convention between the representatives of Prussia, Great Britain, Austria and Russia, who declared Bonaparte to be th prisoner of the Allies, and entrusted his custody to Great Britain.

1849—Garibaldi, the Italian leader, escaped on some fishing vessels with 300 followers in the Adriatic; remainder of his band surrendered to the Austrians.

1862—Belle Boyd, the famous Confederate spy, arrested and sent to Washington.

1914—The War. Germany demands in ultimatum free passage of troops through Belgium; German forces enter the Duchy of Luxemberg; Germans cross the French frontier at Cirez; Belgium announces it will defend its neutrality; Russians cross German frontier at Schwidden, East Prussia.

Plainfield, N. J., August 2, 1915.

HAITI.

The United States seems destined to have plenty of trouble on its hands. Not content with great neutrality questions and those relating to Mexico and the Orient, we now are confronted with the pacification of the people of Haiti. It is quite evident that the Haitians need our help.

For the past two or three years the government of Haiti has been giving our navy much concern. It looks as if we would have to act there as we did in Cuba. During the past three years Haiti has had six Presidents, each of whom has been elected for a seven years term, but none of whom have been able to maintain himself in office for a longer period than six months. Assassination, revolution or crime of some kind has caused the end of each.

While no one here wishes it done, it is quite certain that we must take the matter up seriously and clear up and control conditions in the interests of peace and the happiness of that downtrodden people.

When James Monroe in 1823 enunciated the Monroe Doctrine it is very doubtful if he realized the trouble into which he was getting his country. But for almost a century we have assumed a sort of tutilage over South America and we are now past ceasing our efforts in this directions if we should wish to do so. In the interests of humanity we must face the awful conditions in Haiti and establish and maintain in that country a stable government that is not only republican in form but in fact. It is not a large task and yet it will require attention and much careful handling. And the country certainly needs all that we can do for it.

STRANGER THAN FICTION.

According to a Boston dispatch, a man and woman of Southwestport, Mass., quarreled after two years of marriage and for half a century never spoke to each other again, although they did not separate and continued to live on the same farm, the wife in the dwelling house and the husband in a neighboring shanty, communicating with each other only through a third person. This uninterrupted silence was temporarily broken at the end of fifty years when the farm house recently burned down.

Mary E. Wilkins has told many a strange tale of rural New England, but with true artistic restraint she has never dared to tell one as strange as this, naturally fearing that an episode tending to put such a strain upon credulity could not be given convincing literary treatment. Dickens ventured to put into one of his novels a resentful woman who punished her family and friends by remaining seated in an arm-chair for twenty years, but this was less hazardous than would be a literary employment of the Massachusetts incident. It is manifestly easier and more humanly possible for an angry woman to give up locomotion for twenty years than for both a woman and a man to give up vociferation for fifty. How could the couple at Southwestport have denied themselves the pleasure of criticising each other face to face for half a century? To this pertinent question the account before us does not even suggest a satisfactory answer.

THE PROGRESSIVES.

Representatives of the Progressive party met in conference at Asbury Park on Saturday. There is evidently a strong aggressive body of honest and earnest Progressives still left on the fighting line. Will they have a full ticket in the field this year?

It was left to each county to determine the question. There did not appear to be any intent to have the party as a body return to the Republican party. In fact there was a strong part who seemed to prefer going into the Democratic party if any change was made. What the Progressives shall do is a very serious question. It is not easy of solution. This year there are none but local officials to be elected, hence, no great national or state issues of vital importance.

If all the Assembly candidates in all the counties were such as the Republicans in Union will be the problem of duty would not be difficult, for the Union county Republican delegates in the Legislature last year were an honor to the State and to us.

Whether the Progressive party as such still continues to exist or not is of not so much concern as that its principle shall survive.

We are wondering just how delighted (?) the Republican party is over the return of Record, Blauvelt, Bailey, Osborn and company to it. The noise of brass bands does not seem to be heard anywhere. We shall see what may happen.

It is gratifying to know that the State Treasury is not empty and that a state tax is not troubling us for next year. By economy and honest management New Jersey can get on for many years to come with her present sources of revenue.

COPIED PASSPORT

The comparison disclosed that the German's passport was a forgery. It was apparent that a photographic copy of the Rowland passport had been made with Rowland's photograph and certain descriptive data omitted. The name Reginald Rowland was retained, as were the original number of the genuine passport and certain marks of record. The photograph of the German, in whose possession the forged passport was found had been substituted for that of Rowland and a false seal of the State Department had been used to stamp the document.

Since the beginning of the war this Government has required that a photograph of the person to whom the passport is issued shall be affixed to the passport and that the seal shall cover part of the photograph and part of the paper to which the photograph is pasted. This requirement had been complied with in the forged document. As the description of Rowland apparently did not fit that of the German, the Rowland description had been omitted and a description of the German's physical characteristics had been substituted in ink.

So recently had the forgery been committed that the fraudulent passport contained what purported to be the signature of Secretary Lansing, who has been at the head of the State Department only since June 9, the date of his designation as Secretary of State ad interim to succeed W. J. Bryan.

The evidence seems to be conclusive that the fraudulent document was issued by a German agent who had all the paraphernalia necessary for the work. The evidence may be used in supporting the complaint of the United States to the German Government over the use of fraudulent passports by German spies. The forged passport will be used in the trial of the German in whose possession it was found.

While Mr. Rowland has not been in Plainfield since the disclosures were made, it is understood by his friends here that he thinks that the passport was photographed shortly after he first arrived in Germany. At that time the passport was taken from him by the German authorities, who claimed they wanted to verify it, and they held it for twenty-four hours, which would have been ample time in which to make the photographic reproduction, from which the forged document was reproduced.

PROGRESSIVES DECIDE TO KEEP UP THE FIGHT

Former Mayor Moy One of Sixty Leaders at Asbury Park Meeting.

Although George L. Record, of Jersey City, formerly a leader in the Progressive party, had declared that party dead, and other members of the Progressive State committee had resigned expressing similar sentiments, a conference of the faithful was held at Asbury Park on Saturday, at which it was decided to keep the party alive till 1916 at least, and to conduct an active campaign. Former Mayor George W. V. Moy, of this city, was one of those present.

George W. Perkins, who met with the New Jersey Progressive leaders who had remained steadfast, said that the Republican party had not in any degree recognized the principles of the Progressive party, and that the Democrats had not taken cognizance of those principles to a sufficient degree to warrant a dissolution of the Progressive party.

"Business men will see the fallacy of the Democratic tariff program at the conclusion of the war," said Mr. Perkins. "Whatever business prosperity the country is now enjoying is due entirely to the war, but there will be a return to conditions such as immediately preceded the war when the great conflict ends. There can be no improvement of a lasting nature until the Progressive idea of non-partisan tariff commission is carried out."

There were sixty State committeemen and prominent Progressives at the conference. Former Governor John Franklin Fort was present, but declined an invitation to speak. Former Senator Everett Colby was there. It was announced that Victor Murdock was preparing a statement on the national situation, to be issued this week.

Committeemen besides George L. Record who resigned to go back to the Republican ranks were Herbert M Bailey, of Hackensack, and James G. Blauvelt, of Passaic. Edmund B. Osborne, of Essex county, has also announced that he is back in the Republican fold. In his letter of resignation Mr. Record said the Progressive party was dead, and added:

"The Progressive party, as a separate organization, could only hope for success by persuading the rank and file of the Republican party to join the Progressive ranks. Experience has shown that it is easier to get the Republicans voters, the majority of whom are unquestionably progressive, to support the regular Republican candidates committed to our principles than it is to induce them to leave the Republican party."

THE FORUM

Editor, Plainfield Daily Press:

Please allow me to say to your numerous readers, through your "Forum," a few words on the eight-hour labor question now before our city, and with which I have been familiar by active labor at my trade as blacksmith from the years 1857 to 1866 in Australia and other places where that system is in full swing, giving great satisfaction to all cocerned for the last fifty-seven years.

The first year the eight hours was adopted in Melbourne two of the large employers of labor, viz., Port Philip Foundry and William Williams, of the Government railway shops, were great opponents, and did much to hinder its adoption. At the end of the first year the eight hours had no better friends than those two firms became, and Mr. Williams himself introduced an eight-hour bill into the Legislature, which is up to this day on the statute book, and has spread its beneficial influence into almost all parts of the civilized world. The testimony of those two and all other firms was that their workmen did more more and better work under the eight hours than they did under the ten hours.

One of the strong arguments in favor of the eight hours as against the ten hours' labor was that under the new system men were not today using up tomorrow's strength as before.

It was proved that to the extent that men were tired out by excess labor, to that extent were they ignorant, and they produced only that class of work that ignorant men produce. On the other hand, under the new system men were found in the numerous libraries, not in the saloon, as had been predicted, and produced that class of work that can be produced only by intelligent workmen, and as a result the Encyclopedia Britannica, vol. 15, says that "Three out of every four of mechanics who have reached middle life, live in their own neat cottages."

The eight hours is not antagonistic to employers of labor; that it is their great friend, and if they will study it they cannot consistantly oppose it.

I question if you could get two of the Australian firms who would put pen to paper asking a return to the old system. Indeed, I do believe, that if the working men could be so foolish as to want to go back to the ten hours, the employers of labor would go on strike in favor of the eight hours against the silly men.

I hope employer and employed will meet tonightand adjust this matter in the words of Isaiah, chapter 1, verse 18, "Come now, and let us reason together, saith the Lord."

J. W. HARRISON.

TROOPERS HOME

forces of cavalry, one from Rowena, one from Lebanon, to Mt. Gretna and the railroad,—said to have been the largest purely cavalry manoeuvre in this county since actual battles in the Civil War.

Troop D marched out of camp at 7 Friday morning as a part of the Blue army. It was a blazing day, but the long, seemingly endless line of cavalry rode toward Lebanon at a rapid pace nevertheless. At the samt time the Pennsylvanians marched to Rowena. At 10 o'clock both armies began the advance on Mt. Gretna. For each these roads were open. Major Bryant, in command of the Blues, took the central and most direct with his main body, throwing out patrols on either side. But the commanders of the Reds took the circuitous road to the left, meaning by more rapid marching to strike the Blues on the flank short of their objective and to roll their forces off to onside.

Part of Company D of the Blues was a part of the Blue army's patroling force. Broken into squads of six men or so, its troopers rode about the country observing, questioning natives, doing all they could to find out the whereabouts of the enemy, and carrying what information they could gather to various commands as directed.

By means of this patroling, in which, of course, other companies, including those of the regulars, participated, the flanking attempt of the Pennsylvanians was ascertained by Major Bryant. He met it with a sufficient force to frustrate it and pressed on to his objective. The two armies came together in strength at Mt. Gretna, and the worst of the fighting took place on and about the parade grounds of the camp. The men, including the part of Company D not patroling, fought on foot, lying prone upon the ground behind any cover they could find, and advancing by rushes. The fighting was pretty hot for an hour and a half, and when the recall finally sounded it seemed to the New Jersey men that the advantage was with them. The members of Company D rode into camp, after a ride of eighteen miles, hot, tired and happy.

After mess they began breaking camp by striking the big pyramidal tents that had sheltered them from six nights; and that night they slept in the tiny shelter tents, one half of one of which each trooper carries on the cantle of his saddle. The regulars call these "pup tents." They just barely hold two men lying down, and their saddles, rifles and sabres. One can hardly sit upright in one of them.

Next morning camp was broken and the wagons packed, and the troop rode to the station and entrained for Plainfield. The Plainfield platoon was met here by those members of it whose health or business had prevented them from going into camp, and these were made envious by the stories of the others. They were full of enthusiasm over the whole affair. The troop had received the highest grade of all the twenty-one troops in camp for the care of the health of the men, and this honor was largely due to the hard and able work of Second Lieutenant Runkle, Quartermaster Sergeant Charles, First Sergeant Rolston, and Sergeant Ransome, of Plainfield.

NO AGREEMENT TO DEMANDS

the demand will not only be one for shorter hours in the machine shop but will also be for more money. The Plainfield printing press industry is not paying its men on the same scale as concerns in other towns and there is absolutely no reason for it.

"While it is too soon to say anything regarding conditions in Plainfield and the ultimate result, I feel that some of the concerns, at least will 'come across' without a fight and I know that the men will all 'stick together in their effort to make every shop in the town grant the eight-hour day.

"The statement issued by the Sauter Company is similar in form to that which caused all of the trouble at Bridgeport and it will have to be more definite before we accept it. The conferences have been satisfactory, but no definite decisions have as yet been made by the various superintendents. We will present a detailed report of our findings to the machinists at a meeting in the Plainfield Theatre, Thursday night, and whether or not the men will go out on a strike depends entirely on the reception on the contents of the reports received."

Mr. Riley and Mr. Carroll remained non-committal, saying that they would rather wait until matters had progressed further before they spoke for Plainfield's 1,500 machinists.

Mr. Keppler left here this afternoon to be present tonight at a meeting of die-sinkers and drop-forgers in Brooklyn. Tomorrow morning he will visit the plant of the Garvin Machine Company in New York and consult with the men. He branded as false the rumor that the men of the Garvin plant were ready to return to work and said that they were determined to hold out until their demands were met.

Tomorrow afternoon Mr. Keppler will return to Plainfield and conclude his conference work with the factory managers and probably solicit their decisions. Plans are now underway for Thursday night's mass meeting which is expected to be an enthusiastic affair.

Pawtucket, R. I., Aug. 2.—Demands for increased pay and shorter hours were made by machinists at the plant of Potter & Johnson today.

BURR'S SELF CONTROL.

An Incident That Proved His Perfect Command of His Feelings.

Aaron Burr was by nature and training a man of extraordinary self control. He allowed no circumstances to throw him off his balance.

An anecdote told by Rufus Choate to Richard H. Dana, recorded in Mr. Dana's "Diary," illustrates the callousness which aided Burr so greatly in controlling himself.

Several years after the death of Alexander Hamilton, killed by Burr in a duel, Burr visited Boston, and Mr. Devereux of Salem paid him some attentions. The visitor was taken to the Boston Atheneum, where, while the two men were walking through the gallery of sculpture, Mr. Devereux happened to catch sight of a bust of Hamilton.

The thought flashed across Mr. Devereaux's mind that Burr might not care to be confronted with the sight of the features of the man he had slain. But no. Burr was undisturbed. He also espied the bust, and, although Mr. Devereux had instinctively turned away, he walked up to it and said in a loud tone.

"Ah, here is Hamilton!"

Then, passing his fingers along certain lines of the face, he added, "There was the poetry!"

Hamilton's contemporaries gave him credit for possessing a poetic mind.

QUEER LEGAL FICTION.

It Makes Stepney, In London, the Parish of Every British Seaman.

Every sailor, from the admiral to the newest joined seaman, on board British warships is regarded as belonging to the parish of Stepney, in London. It doesn't matter in the slightest where the ship is, the sailors who man it all come from the same parish—Stepney.

This queer legal fiction dates back to the time of Charles II. In those days every workingman had to live in the parish where he was born, and he could not leave it without finding two responsible sureties to vouch for his honesty.

This, of course, became rather puzzling in the case of people born at sea, for they had no parish. To get over the difficulty the authorities stated that all born at sea would be regarded as being born in the parish of Stepney, though why they should choose that parish and no other is lost in the dust of official records.

To this day the bishop of Stepney is godfather of all children born at sea while all marriages solemnized on the ocean are recorded as though they had taken place in Stepney.—London Answers.

A Remarkable Dinner Service.

The remarkable dinner service made by Josiah Wedgwood for the Russian empress, Catherine II., in 1774 consists of 952 pieces, and on each piece is painted a different view. The body is of a pale brimstone color and the views are painted in a rich mulberry purple. As the service was intended to be used at the palace of La Grenouillere (meaning marshy place full of frogs), each piece also bears a green frog within a shield on the rim. The views represent British ruined castles, abbeys, parks, bridges, towers etc. Several pieces are decorated with views of Hampstead, and there are custard cups with views of Richmond and sauce boats with the scenery of Windsor park. In many cases the views are the only pictorial records left of the old buildings. Altogether there are 1,282 views painted on the 952 pieces.

How to Treat a Rifle Wound.

In the case of a wound from a rifle bullet don't go probing for the bullet, but remove from the surface of the wound all shreds of clothing and other matter which the bullet may have carried into the flesh. This must be removed very thoroughly, and a sterilized knife or scissors should be used freely to open the wound and get it clean. When this is done treat the wound with your iodine or bichloride solution. Then dress it with gauze and bandage.

In the case of wounds from small shot the wound should be washed with a solution of alum, and then pieces of gauze or clean cloth wrung out of hot water should be applied every couple of hours.—Outing.

Loaf Bread In England.

It is perhaps worth recalling that the art of baking loaves of bread was introduced into Europe quite late in history. Flat cakes were baked even in the earliest times, but as late as the beginning of the nineteenth century loaf bread was comparatively unknown in many parts of the continent. In 1812, for instance, when an English captain ordered loaves to the value of $5 in Gothenburg the baker stipulated for payment in advance on the ground that he would never be able to sell them in the city if they were left on his hands.—London Spectator.

WILLIAM WILLIAMS WEDS MISS PRUDENCE SEEVERS

Friends in this city received the information today of the marriage of Miss S. Prudence Seevers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Seevers, of Newark, to William Williams, son of Julius Williams, of West Front street, this city, yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock, in their own home at 157 Bergen avenue, Jersey City. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. Brown, of Newark, in the presence of a small gathering of relatives and friends. The couple were attended by Miss Lillian Tetter, of Clinton avenue, and William Banks, of Netherwood, as bridesmaid and best man. The bride was attired in a charming gown of white. The couple left for a trip to Atlantic City for several weeks after which they will be at home to their friends in Jersey City.

Both bride and groom are well known in this city and the borough, where they have a host of acquaintances, the former being a resident here until a short time ago. They were members of the First Baptist church and the bride a member of Mrs. Matlack's Bible class. Mr. Williams is connected with the Heine Company, of New York.

BOYS ABUSE PRIVILEGE AND AROUSE OWNER'S IRE

Owing to the annoyance that has been caused by thoughtless youngsters and some grown persons who have sought a cooling dip at Holl Pond on the upper end of Park avenue, Milton Mendel, owner of the piece of water, has been forced to put a ban on bathing at that place and in the future it will be open only to his friends. The pond is situated on private property and some miscreants have done considerably damage to friut trees and outbuildings on the estate.

The abuse of the privilege extended by Mr. Mendel sometime ago is the sole cause for his decision to limit the number who bathe there. It has become a popular center and as many as 200 persons have indulged in a swim there during one afternoon.

WILL EXPERIMENT WITH THE NEW "IRON TRAFFIC" COPS

Fifteen new traffic posts are expected to arrive here during the middle of the week, and the councilmanic street committee is at present preparing a list of street junctions at which they will be placed. The new "iron traffic cops" are similar to those in use at Westfield, being "box-like" in shape and bearing the words on all four sides, "Go slow, keep to the right."

It is the intention of the committee to place them at experimental spots for the time being, and the permanent locations will be decided upon later.

$50 LOSS IN FIRE.

Fire yesterday in the house at 1426 East Second street, owned and occupied by F. Neilson, did about fifty dollars' worth of damage. It was in a closet over the back stairs and quick work by the firement stopped what might have been a disastrous fire. As it was the flames were eating down as well as up into the attic when the firemen arrived. Mr. and Mrs. Neilson had planned to leave Plainfield yesterday for the seashore, but had remained at home on account of the heat. The origin of the fire is not known.

LOCAL MAN A DELEGATE.

F. O. Dunning, Sr., of Mountain avenue, the borough, left for San Francisco, Saturday, to attend the annual convention of the National Underwriters' Association. Mr. Dunning is a delegate from the New York Association. He is also one of the five delegates from the borough of Manhattan who will attend "Manhattan Day" at the Panama-Pacific Exposition. He will be gone five weeks, and when returning will visit various cities of interest.

WILL PROBATED.

When the will of the late Robert F. Bogardus, of Dunellen, was admitted to probate in New Brunswick Saturday morning it was found that he bequeathed his entire estate to his wife, Sarah Frances Bogardus, and his son, John Arthur Bogardus. The will was executed March 23, 1912 and witnessed by Robert F. Bogardus, Jr., and L. T. Churchill. John Arthur Bogardus is named as sole executor.

WEDS JERSEY CITY GIRL.

Miss Ella Gaumen, of Jersey City, became the wife of Irwin Hughes, of this city, at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson, pastor of the First M. E. church, in the parsonage.

"NIGHT IN TOKIO" PROVES PLEASING ENTERTAINMENT

Under the auspices of the Standard Bearers Circle of the Monroe Avenue Methodist church, "A Night in Tokio" was given on Saturday night, the grounds about the edifice being attractively decorated for the occasion. Japanese lanterns, flags and flowers made the picture a most attractive one. Ice cream and cake were sold, and there was an attractive program including a picturesque parasol drill by eleven young girls who had been prepared by Miss Louise McCormack. A fan drill by six girls, who also sang "I Want to Go to Tokio;" three tenor solos by Pasqual Carouso and one by Miss Jennie Roberson, entitled "Pinky, Panky, Poo," were pleasing.

A trio consisting of Helen Wotton, Olive Lindabury and Jennie Roberson gave "Tango Tokio" and a trio, consisting of the Misses Anna Lee, Alice Lude and Bessie Gunzelman, sang "Three Little Maids from School." Miss Lee also gave a Japanese reading. The whole closed with the chorus, "Good-by Friends, We're Through."

FRENCH MARINES ON GUARD AT HAYTIAN LEGATION

Washington, Aug. 2.—French marines are today guarding the French legation at Port-au-Prince, Haiti, from which building President Giullaume was taken by a mob lost week and killed.

They were landed from the cruiser Descartes at the earnest request of the French minister and with the consent of the United States government.

The request of the French minister for a guard of his own nationality was cabled to Washington by Rear-Admiral Capperton, in command of the American forces.

Secretary Daniels conferred with Secretary Lansing, who could see no objection to landing of a small detachment from the Descartes for the special purpose of guarding the French legation.

Latest advices from Port-au-Prince to the State department said that order was being maintained there.

PARK AVENUE WILL BE PUT IN BETTER SHAPE AT ONCE

As the result of conferences between the Middlesex county authorities and Street Commissioner Andrew J. Gavett, of this city, the proposed work on Park avenue, between the city line and Metuchen, will be started at this end and be continued southward, thus making it possible to have this thoroughfare put in better shape immediately. The street, between the Randolph Farm, on Park avenue, and Oak Tree, is in a deplorable state at the present time, an has been the subject of considerable complaint on the part of automobile drivers who have occasion to pass over it.

The avenue happens to be one of the main roads to the Park avenue entrance of the Plainfield Country Club, and is one of the most-frequented thoroughfares of autoists in this section. It was originally proposed to start the improvement at the Metuchen end and work this way, but until this arrangement the Plainfield end would probably have to be contented with it in its present condition for some time to come. A similar arrangement has been effected on Woodland avenue, in the immediate vicinity of Hillside cemetery, and this will also be improved in the near future.

PERSONAL.

Mrs. B. F. Conover and son, Ralph, of 94 Jackson avenue, the borough, will spend the next two weeks at Wilmington and other points of interest in Delaware.

Samuel Semer, of 904 West Third street, spent the week-end at Sewaren.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Haynes, of Craig place, who have been spending the summer at Lake Hopatcong, returned to their home last night for a visit of several days.

Assemblyman William N. Runyon of East Ninth street, is ill at his home. Mr. Runyon was taken sick in his office this morning.

Miss Edith Palmer, of Fanwood, who has been spending the summer with her parents at Centre Moriches L. I., is visiting Miss Hazel Williams of this city.

Edward C. Searing, superintendent of the mechanical department of the Daily Press, is enjoying his vacation this week at various points of interest.

Mrs. George F. Hulling, of Grove street, is confined to her home by illness.

BANK CLOSES.

Valdez, Alaska, Aug. 2.—The Valdez Bank and Trust Company did not open for business today. It had a capital of $25,000. The directors decided to close the bank largely because of losses from the recent fire here. Liabilities are said to be $16,000 and assets $50,000.

STOPPING AT ASBURY.

Mr. and Mrs. Jacob A. Fass and family and Mr. and Mrs. Morris Abrams are spending their annual vacation at Asbury Park.

WAR NEWS

"This fact creates favorable conditions for active operations on the part of our allies in the west."

Sunday, the anniversary of the outbreak of the war between Russia and Germany and the date on which the kaiser planned a triumphal entry into Warsaw, saw the Russians throwing German detachments back across the Narew and successfully withstanding all enemy assaults in the bend of the Vistula, extending west to southeast of the city.

Though it it admitted here that sufficient time has not elapsed to permit the withdrawal of the main body of Russian troops before Warsaw to the lines to the east, an air of confidence today replaced the feelings of doubt over the fate of these armies yesterday.

The newspapers today printed prominent words of Minister of War Polivanoff's speech to the Duma, in which he declared that Russia, as a consequence of good crops, is prepared to continue the war for several years.

"Germany must be beaten at all costs, else all Europe will fall under the Teuton yoke," declared Polivanoff. "Without losing an instant of time we must employ all the faculties of the country for the development of the national defense."

London, Aug. 2.—Prussian Polish papers received by the "Times" announce that the German emperor will make his entry into Warsaw the occasion for proclaiming a new independence of Poland. The announcements declare that Emperor William will include in the proposals for a new and independent state of Poland not only the Polish provinces of Russia but also the Galician domains of Austria and certain German territory including the duchy of Posen, and Danzig as a free port.

It is impossible to state exactly what is happening on the eastern front as obscurity is the most pressing need of the Russian army, says the Petrograd correspondent of the "Daily Mail," in regrouping and shifting its positions. This rearrangement of forces is in the hands of Gen. Yanuschevice, chief of Grand Duke Nicholas' staff.

"The Russians have not yet been defeated or anything like it," says the "Chronicle," which adds that the Russians are inflicting fearful losses on the attacking Germans.

The British steamship Clintonia has been sunk. Fifty-four of the persons aboard were saved.

Advices from Rotterdam say that German newspapers report that the government is taking over the entire control of the German cotton industry.

Paris, Aug. 2.—Today's French war statement says:

"The night of August first was marked by various infantry engagements. In the Artois, after having repulsed German attacks with grenades, we captured part of a trench in the cross-road from Ablain to Angres, to the north of the national highway from Bethune to Arras. Around Souchez the conflict was waged with Grenades without any change in the front on either side. In the Argonne the German attacks were repulsed."

Washington, Aug. 2.—All of the notes from Great Britain with the exception of the Neaches note are of unusual length, the State Department said today. Secretary Lansing refused to give any indication of their general tenor in advance of the date agreed upon for publication. It was admitted, however, that the notes are of such a character that further diplomatic exchanges will be necessary.

Ambassador Page notified the State Department today from London that he had received reports that four Americans were on board the steamship Iberian, which was torpedoed by a German submarine.

BAD FIRE AT CONSTANTINOPLE.

Athens, Greece, Aug. 2.—Arrivals here from Constantinople report that 3,000 buildings, including the German hospital, filled with wounded soldiers, were destroyed last week by fire. Greek ships along the Asia Minor coast, on which were a number of invalid Greek civilians returning to their native country, have been seized by the Turks, according to advices from Constantinople. The Turks put the sick Greeks ashore and substituted their own wounded, forcing Greek doctors to attend them.

BACK FROM CONFERENCE.

The following members of the Silver Bay Conference Club returned home Saturday: Misses Clara Smith, Mildred McAuliffe, Ethel Colton and Edith Wickett, Mrs. Jenie B. Tennyson and Miss Kathryn Aller, secretary of the local Y. W. C. A., stayed over, the former visiting friends and the latter spending the remainder of her vacation at other points of interests.

Hope at Baptist.
T. A. B. at Netherwood.

The standing of the two league leaders was not impaired by Saturday's games, as both were victorious in the matches played. The Hopes had quite some trouble in disposing of the Clintons, who really ought to have won the game, but who forfeited their right to the victory by their costly errors. The Tabs could do nothing with the shoots of "Russ" Stewart, the Netherwood flinger, and, consequently, did not succeeed in dethroning the league leaders. The Baptists sprung the surprise of the day, as they, with a catcher pitching, handed the Martin boys a terrible beating. The work of all three of the winning teams was of the aggressive sort, and the fielding exhibitions staged by the winners in each case outclassed that put forth by the losers.

Several new players made their debuts, three of the "recruits" performing unusually well. One new "ump," a substitute, made his bow to the public and got away with it. The condition of the Saurer team was pitious, several of the stars remaining at home on account of the excessive heat.

Should the Hopes win next Saturday, and they most likely will, as they play the Baptists, who can hardly digest more than one win at a time, they will be still in the van, as the Netherwoods get another smash at the Tabs, whom they handled roughly Saturday.

Russ Stewart and "Hub" Stine were the brilliant hurlers of the week-end's arguments, the latter of the two showing a decided improvement in this style of playing.

ROD AND REEL

We came up from the shore late Saturday afternoon on a trolley and at Sewaren a fisherman boarded the car with eleven weakfish, not one of which seemed to weigh less than two pounds. When asked about his luck, he opened his basket and everybody in the sar looked them over and congratulated the fisherman. He fished from an Ackor rowboat anchored on the cinder beds, a ground well known to many anglers hereabouts.

Charles Champion went over to New York, Thursday, to compete in a five ounce rod casting tournament that had been postponed since May and he brought back with him a beautiful cup. Champion had the high sign on his competitors, as he had just returned from a fishing trip during which he kept his hand in casting with light tackle.

William Burnett has returned from the Nepegon Lake region in Canada after spending some time there. He reports the fishing as exceptionally good. During his stay there the continual fall of rain caused the waters to rise four feet, making the angling both difficult and dangerous. Not withstanding this handicap Mr. Burnett registered several catches of fine trout, the fish running in weight from three to seven pounds, catches of three and four pounders being common. One angler was lucky enough to land a fourteen and a half pound trout on the fly. His catch establishes a record for genuine square-tail brook trout (Salvelinus Fontinalis). The Nepegon is under government control and the fishing is showing continual improvement.

A party of fourteen local fishermen spent yesterday on board the "Emma" out of Elizabethport and had a good day's sport. Henry Rummel, of Somerset street, caught eighteen flounders, some of them weighing as much as three pounds while Mr. Luthman, of the party, carried off the honors by hooking a five-pounder. Eighteen was the larges number any member of the party caught. Charles Meyer, a well-known angler, was much disappointed over his small catch.

PLAINFIELD A. A. FARED BADLY IN SHORT GAME

The Plainfield A. A. staged its scheduled match with the Meadowbrooks, at Newark, yesterday, and were defeated in a seven-inning engagement, the score of which was 8 to 4.

Mike McFadden shot them over for the locals and was knocked from the box, Johnny Dixon taking his place. Jack Carney, Jack Garretson and Joe Alberts were the stars of the local line-up, while Jack Creelin and Huntley performed brilliantly for the victors.

The locals contend that poor umpiring robbed them of a chance to win and that the game should have been called in the fifth inning, rather than in the seventh.

Joe Alberts stole four bases, pilfering home on one occasion.

A return game may be played at Newark in the near future.

FOR EASTLAND SUFFERERS.

Chicago, Aug. 2.—Ad Wolgast, former lightweight champion, and Steve Ketchel, of Chicago, boxed ten rounds at Forest Park, a suburb, Saturday night. According to critics, Wolgast had the better of the bout. Proceeds of the show, the first professional boxing here in years, went to Eastland sufferers.

STINE A STUMBLING BLOCK FOR SAURERS

First Baptist Catcher Aids Team in Registering First Victory.

The First Baptists registered their first win of the season Saturday at the expense of the Saurer outfit, the score being 12 to 4. What made the defeat more humiliating was the fact that "Hub" Stine, a catcher, adorned the dirt pile for the winners and was reached for only six bingles, one-third of which were made by Johnny Wilson.

Both outfits, especially the Saurers, were sorely in need of "regulars," the Baptists using two recruits, and the shopmen, two. "Babe" Gleason was no puzzle to the conquerors and was unusually free with his passes, issuing seven.

Gene Downs and "Hub" Stine were easily the fielding stars of the day, while Betzenberger played a bang-up game at third.

Hyman Abrams made his debut as a league umpire and handled the job in a manner satisfactory to all "Crabbing" on the part of certain spectators marred the day's labors to a limited extent.

STEWART'S PITCHING WON THIS CONTEST

Netherwoods Spring Surprise By Defeating Moynihan's Abstainers.

The Netherwoods made firmer their grasp on the first rung in the City League race Saturday by handing the T. A. B. S. a 6 to 2 defeat. "Russ" Stewart was invincible throughout the whole game and allowed the Abstainers only two hits, both of which were scratch singles. Each team made five errors, those made by the Tabs costing them the game. A shift was made in the losers' lineup but it produced no good effects.

Stewart and Eddie Coughlin registered the only extra base hits of the day, both getting two-base wallops.

FARMERS DEFEATED CHURCHBOY'S TEAM

Trinity Ball Tossers Sent Down to Defeat Saturday Afternoon.

The Farmers hung one on the Trinity A. C. Saturday, defeating them by the score of 7 to 2. Five of the winning team's runs were registered in the first frame.

They braced up after the poor start and allowed only two runs throughout the rest of the game. Dilts and Kachelieres, the opposing slabmen, performed well.

NINTH INNING RALLY WON FOR CHAPELITES

Clinton Avenues Yielded Two Winning Runs in Last Frame.

"Won in the ninth" certainly applied to the Hope-Clinton Avenue, Saturday melee, the Chapelites turning the trick by the score of 5 runs to 3. At the beginning of the ninth inning things were deadlocked and the prospects of a Clinton victory were unusually brought. However, errors and timely bingles gave the Hopes a two-run lead, which the Avenue boys could not overcome when given the opportunity. Tommy Heron clouted the pill timely and was easily the batting star of the day. Jimmy Montross, the "vet," was on the dirt pile for the winners and Benny Rosenson assumed a like responsibility for the Clintonians.

Lou Hefti, a new man, performed for the Hopes and did well.

ADAM BLAIR'S HORSE FIRST IN 2.30 CLASS

Plainfield Equine Shows Class in Its First Race for Local Man.

Fast time and spirited racing marked the sixth matinee harness horse meeting of the Roard Horse Association of New Jersey, Saturday afternoon at the Weequahic track. The meet was the largest of the season, thirty-one entries appearing on the program.

Five events were decided, and the winners were Duchess, in the 2.35 class; Kid Kelly, owned by Adam C. Blair, of this city, in the 2.30 class; Justo Belle, in the 2.20 class; Patchen Chimes in the 2.25 class, and Springting Blaise, in the free-for-all.

In the first race, the 2.30 trot and pace, only four faced the starter although five had been entered. Fancy Guy was unable to complete because of illness. The first heat went to Dr. P., after coming from behind, following a break at the three-quarter pole, beating out Janey B. by half a length. Kid Kelly and Mahlon Wilkes broke before the first turn was reached, and were far in the rear at the finish. Dr. P. led for the first five-eights mile of the second heat, but broke, and Kid Kelly took the lead, holding it until the end. The third heat was easy picking for Kid Kelly.

'CAP' SCHOOLEY'S TEAM WINS STATE CROWN

But the Little Blonde Had His State Individual Title Taken Away.

Paddling against the cream of the canoe racing talent of the State, the Tuscarora Canoe Club, city champions of Newark, captained by William Schooley, formerly of this city, Saturday won the New Jersey State trophy from the Asbury Park Canoe Club by an overwhelming score.

Perhaps the most remarkable individual performance Saturday in the State championships was the paddling and swimming of F. C. Bamman, a member of the Washington, D. C., Canoe Club and a resident of Princeton. Bamman, who swam two years ago on the Princeton varsity squad, won the State singles and the hurry-scurry titles formerly held by Captain Harold Dodge, of the Asbury Park Club, and Captain William Schooley of the Tuscaroras, respectively.

After the eliminating heats the finals of the singles was put on. Here was where Bamman showed his great strength. By long powerful sweeps he forced his boat ahead, and looked like an easy winner. Fred Stephans, of the Tuscaroras, was back in the ruck with a hundred yards to go, and his chances looked slim. Suddenly he displayed a fighting spirit, which has not been apparent in his recent starts, and by sheer grit he pulled out of a bad position, passed Walter Maier, of the Wyona Canoe Club, of Newark.

Wenonah was represented by the crack combination of Charles S. Edgecumbe and Milton Shopp. Edgecumbe, paddling with Louis Stevenson, Friday, beat Harrison and McNeary by half a length for the coast championship. The race, despite the entry of several other fast crews, was between the Wenonah shell and the three Tuscarora boats.

Schooley and Burtt jumped at the gun and gave battle to the Wenonahs, while McNeary and Harrison waged as hard a fight against the Passaic Valley. Wyona and Asbury Park entrants, Ennis and Olds, lent assistance by outsprinting the other crews, and after the three-eighth mile post the field was cleared of all shells except the Tuscarora trio and the Wenonahs.

Schooley and Burtt, pulling bow to bow with the "Frogs," were putting up a game struggle, and Olds and Ennis were straining to overtake McNeary and Harrison. The spectators were provided with a thrilling finish, the Wenonah boat beating Schooley and Burtt by three feet, with Harrison and McNeary half a length behind in third place, and Ennis and Olds still fighting a few yards behind. The time, 4 minutes 52 2-5 seconds, was remarkably fast.

Next came the hurry scurry, with Bamman, an undeniable victor. Charley Nunn, pulling for the Tuscaroras, was the first swimmer to negotiate the 100 yards and mount his boat. In the excitement he forgot to pull up his nine-pound anchor, and was not able to make much headway in the paddle. Schooley and Harrison, swimming stroke for stroke, reached their boats at the same instant, but Harrison dubbed his mount and Schooley gained several yards. Meanwhile Walter O'Donnell, of the Wyonas, and Harold Darrin, of the Asbury Parks, reached their boats and got under way, both passing Harrison, who had trouble getting started. Darring passed O'Donnell, but Harrison came up and fought it out with the Wyona man for the fourth place point, the latter winning.

HANDY KEEPS SWIMMING CUP.

South Barre, Mass., Aug. 2.—Leo Handy, of Brookline Gymnastic A. A., won the 220-yard swimming championship of New England Saturday at the swimming gala of the South Barre Athletic Association at South Barre. George McMellen, Mann's Camps, was second, and Lawrence Snow, of Brookline Swimming Club, third. Handy has won this championship three times and becomes permanent owner of the cup offered to the winner.

BURLESQUE ASSAULT ON NATIONAL PASTIME STAGED BY DUNELLEN BALL TOSSERS

The single men defeated the married men in a game of baseball or rather ping-pong played at Maurer Oval, Dunellen, Saturday afternoon, by the score of 21-9. Although the game was played for the benefit of the Boy Scouts and although it promised to be the comedy of comedies, the turnout, evidently on account of the intense heat, could only be considered fair.

Elwood E. Waller, Sr., proprietor of the Waller garage, occupied the box for the married men and he pitched good ball even if the single men did score seventeen runs during the three innings he was in the box. Balls which should have been caught either sifted through the fingers of the married men or were not touched.

Contractor Raymond Whitford played left field for the married men. He only played two innings, however. During these two innings Raymond had three chances and failed to accept any of them. Fromeyer took his place in the third inning.

Others to make errors were George K. Post, Councilman H. D. Williams, George Voehl and Egbert J. Gessner. Councilman Williams left two balls sift through his legs at critical stages of the game, and Mr. Post, who was playing third, after picking up a ground ball nicely, with two on and two down in the third inning, attempted to make the long throw across the diamond instead of touching third and of course the ball went over First Baseman Churchill's head. This error in judgment followed by the error in fact cost the married men five runs.

George W. Day, editor of the Weekly Call, played in right field as advertised. Editor Day didn't have any errors because no balls came as far as he was posted for him to make any errors on. Mr. Day stood so far from home plate that a number of the spectators wondered why he didn't go all the way to Plainfield while he was about it. It was rumored after the game that Mr. Day had a bet on with Al Randolph that he would make no errors during the game.

Those who were disappointed because John P. Fenner, Albert N. Randolph, Arthur J. Hamley and Borough Clerk William P. Deering failed to appear in the lineup of the married men as advertised were destined shortly to have their disappointment eclipsed by the performance of George W. Day at the bat and on the bases.

Mr. Day was the first to step to the plate for the married men. Mr. Day took a crouching position at the plate and let the first one go by and the umpire yelled strike one. In swinging his bat at the next one which was low and would have been called a ball if he had let it go by, Mr. Day went through the same motions in attempting to hit the ball as one would make in attempting to hoe a hill of corn. The next one was a mile over his head but Mr. Day struck he leaped across the plate on his sprint for first base he failed to lift at the ball and darted for first. As his left foot high enough and he floundered to the ground. Undaunted and red in the face he picked himself up and resumed his sprint. In the meantime Arthur Barto, who was catching for the single men, had scrambled back after the ball. Recovering it as Mr. Day, with the strides of one who has not done any running for over twenty years, was nearing first, Barto, confroned with the possibility of having such a disgraceful fact as George W. Day making first base occur, in his haste threw the ball high and far over First Baseman Starker's head and George W. Day not only made first but he also made second.

After recovering his wind at second Mr. Day essayed a steal of third. Pitcher Stewart and the other eight players of the single men's team stood frozen to the ground by the amazing audacity of the move. Destiny was to step in and spare the single men this disgrace, however. As Mr. Day neared third his handkerchief was worked out of his pistol pocket by the piston-like movement of his legs and in turning around and running back to pick it up he became mixed up and ran back to second instead of continuing to third, which was the nearer bag of the two. Mr. Day scored the first run of the game when he came home from second on George Voehl's single.

Mr. Day was a scream throughout the game and it was the price of admission alone to watch him play.

BILLY LUSH WANTS TO BRING GIANTS HERE

New York Scout After Britt Martin for a Game in the Near Future.

Billy Lush, ex-player and scout of the New York Giants, has written to Britt Margain, the Saurer manager, suggesting to him that a game between the Giantlets and the locals be arranged. The game would be played on Parker Field on a Saturday or a Thursday. The Giants, who would take part are those who perform every Sunday at Long Branch.

Martin thinks that an attraction of this kind if staged on a Thursday when all the clerks are free would be a paying venture. However, until he investigates the matter more thoroughly, he will not complete arrangements.

TABS HAVE A BIG LEAGUER IN THEIR BASEBALL MIDST

The Tabs-Elizabeth Eagles conflict on Avon Oval yesterday lasted only three innings, the score being 3 to 0 in favor of the locals when old "Jup" Pluvius butted in. Soney, a new man, hurled for the locals. He twirled for the Chicago White Sox and the Minneapolis American Association teams during the past few years, and was then, as now, invincible.

He is idle at present, being under contract to the Pittsburgh Federals. He does not wish to leave Organized Baseball but as he made the mistake of signing up with the Feds for a year there is nothing for him to do but keep out of the game for a year. Next Sunday he will hurl for Mike Donlin's All Stars.

PLAYED THREE ROUNDS.

In a three-inning encounter the Bound Brook Bees defeated the local Saurers, 3 to 0. Warry McLaughlin was slammed for five hits, while Speely allowed only one. Five hundred people were on hand to witness the contest.

PROCTOR'S THEATRE

Tonight is the last chance you will have to register your guess in the great Victrola contest, while the musical instrument will be awarded at the evening entertainment tomorrow. Those attending the event tomorrow night should take their cards with them.

Martha Hedman and Thompson Buchanan appear this evening in "The Cub," interpreted by a stellar cast. This is a combined love and newspaper story, with the Kentucky mountains as a background and the old neighborhood feuds as the cause of the whole trouble. Enough said.

Tomorrow, both afternoon and evening, the feature photo-play as announced is "Her Own Way," a production with five acts of love, romance and sacrifice. In this offering, Florence Reed plays the leading role. Coupled with this play in the afternoon, the usual bob-o-link bracelets will, as usual, be presented to the young women in attendance. The program of tomorrow will be supplemented with another episode of "The Diamond From the Skies."

Bear in mind the 100 votes in the Shetland pony contest given with each ticket. This contest is the one in which three ponies are to be given instead of one.

Y. W. C. A. NOTES

Recreation night will be observed at the association tomorrow night. All members are invited to come and enjoy two hours of sociability.

Thursday night's Bible class will be conducted as usual in Mrs. Mead's garden on East Front street, if the weather permits. If rainy the class will meet at the association parlors. Miss Corinne Tennyson will lead the class this week.

The regular Saturday night supper will be served at 6:30 for the working girls of the city.

NOTED ATHLETES KILLED IN THE WAR.

War has claimed many of Europe's most noted athletes among its victims. Thousands of the most famous performers in England, France, Germany, Austria, Russia, Belgium, Australia, Scotland, Ireland and Canada went to the front in answer to their country's call.

Here is a list of the most prominent athletes who have been reported as among the killed. Many more may have given up their lives up to this writing, but their names have not found their way into the news channel:

Anthony F. Wilding of Australia, who played on the championship 1914 Davis cup team.

Dr. Otto Nirnheim, German tennis star and secretary of the German Lawn Tennis association.

Chelli, Bousquet, Decurgis and De Joanis, French tennis stars.

Lord Annesley, W. A. Henderson, Julian Martin-Smith and Miss Nelll Fraser, British golfers. Miss Fraser died while acting as nurse.

Lieutenant W. W. Haswell of England, Olympic champion in 1908.

Anderson of Oxford university, England, who competed in the 1912 Olympics.

Kenneth Powell, champion hurdler of England.

James Duffy, Canadian distance runner.

J. Bouin, French distance runner.

R. Rau, German sprinter.

Hans Braun, German middle distance runner.

McCraggen and Fletcher, members of the Cambridge university varsity crews.

Kenneth Powell, English tennis player.

Captain E. Noel Edwards, polo player.

Otto Froitzheim and Oscar Krewzer, who made up the 1914 German Davis cup team, are prisoners in the hands of the English.

INTERNATIONAL TENNIS.

Maurice McLoughlin Plans Indoor Tourney For Oakland.

Maurice McLoughlin, the tennis player, is planning for next winter an international indoor tennis tournament, to be played in the new $1,000,000 municipal auditorium in Oakland, Cal.

McLoughlin, who lives in Oakland, keeps in practice all the year round.

The auditorium is, according to McLoughlin, an ideal place for winter tennis. The floor is of maple, and with a canvas covering would make a swift court. The floor in the arena is 214 by 90 feet, giving plenty of room for laying out the court.

"An international indoor tournament would be a big success, and I hope to see one in Oakland next winter," says McLoughlin. "I have been in correspondence with a number of the best men in the game, and a majority of them agree with me that such an event would be not only a novelty, but a successful venture. The court would be faster than an outdoor court, and tennis records would be made that would set a standard for a long time to come. Oakland's warm winter weather would make the conditions practically ideal."

Athletics Boehling allowed but two of this once hard hitting aggregation to reach third base.

With Boehling going well to help out Shaw and Johnson Manager Clark Griffith has a good chance to finish one two in the race. When right Joe is one of the best pitchers in the American league.

Player Limit Doesn't Worry These.

In spite of the twenty-one player limit it will be noticed that Byrne, Becker, Cravath and Bancroft still hold their jobs with the Quakers.

Pratt Dangerous Hitter.

Many critics agree that Derrill Pratt of the Browns is a most dangerous hitter in a pinch in the American league.

MANY DECEPTIVE TENNIS ANGLES

Matches Not Always Close When They Look So.

SOME OF THE EXAMPLES.

Beals Wright's Match With Wilding and Ward's With Doherty Two Cases Cited—Big Margin of Victory Does Not Tell Tenseness of Play.

When Holcombe Ward had H. L. Doherty two sets to love in their Davis cup tennis match in 1905 he should have been a decided favorite, yet he never had a serious chance to win it. Ward had played himself out in winning those two sets, while Doherty, who had planned a waiting game, came on with a rush in the third set, winning it and the next two easily.

And that's the way of the game. The archives of lawn tennis disclose the fact that the tide of victory or defeat can ebb and flow more quickly in the great lawn game than in any other in the catalogue of sports. Furthermore, that stereotyped expression so often used in describing matches—"the match was much closer than the score would seem to indicate"—does not merit all the scorn that frequently is bestowed upon it.

Countless examples of the uncertainty of tennis could be pointed out. Of the notable cases that come readily to mind Beals Wright's match against Wilding in the final round of the English championship in 1910 is conspicuous. Like Ward, the American led at two sets to love—and never got very close to winning another.

In the same year T. C. Bundy, as the challenger, played Larned a five set match for the championship. The Californian actually won the first game of the fifth set, and yet Larned had the upper hand at virtually every stage, being in perfect condition physically, while Bundy was so weak from stomach trouble that he fagged himself out in winning the second and third sets.

Wallace Johnson's five set match with McLoughlin in 1912 for the championship was just the other way—a touch and go affair for four sets, with the Philadelphian having all the better of it. He made two shots in the the fourth set, the winning of either of which probably would have made him champion.

In the fourth set, while leading at 2 sets to 1, Johnson (serving) had two chances to win the ninth game and make the score 5—4. The first time his shot caught the tape of the net and fell back over on his side. Had the ball carried overspin, instead of underspin, it almost certainly would have gone over. The next point was McLoughlin's on a net cord stroke, which, to quote American Lawn Tennis at the time, "danced a jig on the canvas and finally dropped over."

COLLINS BRACES UP SOX.

Addition of Former Philadelphian Has Put Chicago Team In Running.

That the acquisition of Eddie Collins has made a wonderful difference in the strength of the Chicago American league team goes without saying. One does not hear much about Collins, but there is no doubt that he has been responsible for more of the White Sox victories this season than any other individual on the team.

Good judges of baseball who have seen the team in action do not hesitate to give Collins credit for the victories. Of course Manager Rowland, too, is praised for the team's showing, but Callahan or any of his predecessors would have been able to duplicate the team's record had he been blessed with a Collins.

One man of the ability of the former Philadelphia player is sure to make a lot of difference in a ball team. Give Collins to any club and it would be good odds that it would jump in a hurry.

A ROMANCE OF THE BEAR TOOTH RANGE

CHAPTER XVII.

A Matter of Dress.

"WELL, now," Wayland went on as they stepped off at the hotel, "I am in command of this expedition. From this on I lead this outfit. When it comes to hotels, railways and the like o' that I'm head ranger."

Mrs. McFarlane, tired, hungry and a little dismayed, accepted his control gladly, but Berrie could not at once slip aside her responsibility. "Tell the hostler"—

"Not a word!" commanded Norcross, and the girl, with a smile, submitted to his guidance, and thereafter his efficiency, his self possession, his tact delighted her. He persuaded the sullen landlady to get them supper. He secured the best rooms in the house and arranged for the care of the team.

Berrie was correspondingly less masculine. In drawing off her buckskin driving gloves she had put away the cowgirl and was silent, a little sad even in the midst of her enjoyment of his dictatorship. And when he said, "If my father reaches Denver in time I want you to meet him," she looked the dismay she felt.

"I'll do it, but I'm scared of him."

"You needn't be. I'll see him first and draw his fire."

Mrs. McFarlane interposed. "We must do a little shopping first. We can't meet your father as we are."

"Very well. It is arranged. We get in, I find, about noon. We'll go straight to the biggest shop in town. If we work with speed we'll be able to lunch with my father. He'll be at the Palmer House at 1."

Berrie said nothing, either in acceptance or rejection of his plan. Her mind was concerned with new conceptions, new relationships, and when in the hall he took her face between his hands and said, "Cheer up! All is not lost!" she put her arms about his neck and laid her cheek against his breast to hide her tears. "Oh, Wayland, I'm such an idiot in the city! I'm afraid your father will despise me."

She woke to a new life next morning—a life of compliance, of following, of dependence upon the judgment of another. She stood in silence while her lover paid the bills, bought the tickets and telegraphed their coming to his father. She acquiesced when he prevented her mother from telephoning to the ranch. She complied when he countermanded her order to have the team sent back at once. His judgment ruled, and she enjoyed her sudden freedom from responsibility. It was novel, and it was very sweet to think that she was being cared for as she had cared for and shielded him in the world of the trail.

In the railway coach Wayland tactfully withdrew, leaving mother and daughter to discuss clothes undisturbed by his presence.

"We must look our best, honey," said Mrs. McFarlane. "We will go right to Mme. Crosby at Battle's, and she'll fit us out. I wish we had more time, but we haven't, so we must do the best we can."

"I want Wayland to choose my hat and traveling suit," replied Berrie.

"Of course. But you've got to have a lot of other things besides." And they bent to the joyous work of making out a list of goods to be purchased as soon as they reached Chicago.

Wayland came back with a Denver paper in his hand and a look of disgust on his face. "It's all in here—at least, the outlines of it."

Berrie took the journal and there read the details of Settle's assault upon the foreman. "The fight arose from a remark concerning the forest supervisor's daughter. Ranger Settle resented the gossip and fell upon the other man, beating him with the butt of his revolver. Friends of the foreman claim that the ranger is a drunken bully and should have been discharged long ago. The supervisor for some mysterious reason retains this man, although he is an incompetent. It is also claimed that McFarlane put a man on the roll without examination." The supervisor was the protagonist of the play, which was plainly political. The attack upon him was bitter and unjust, and Mrs. McFarlane again declared her intention of returning to help him in his fight. However, Wayland again proved to her that her presence would only embarrass the supervisor. "You would not aid him in the slightest degree. Nash and Landon are with him and will refute all these charges."

This newspaper story took the light out of their day and the smile from Berrie's lips, and the women entered the city silent and distressed in spite of the efforts of their young guide. The nearer the girl came to the ordeal of facing the elder Norcross the more she feared the outcome, but Wayland kept his air of easy confidence and drove them directly to the shopping center, believing that under the influence of hats and gloves they would regain their customary cheer.

In this he was largely justified. They had a delightful hour trying on millinery and coats and gloves.

Silent, blushing, tousled by the hands of her decorators, Berrie permitted hats to be perched on her head and jackets buttoned and unbuttoned about her shoulders till she felt like a worn clothes horse. Wayland beamed with delight, but she was far less satisfied than he, and when at last selection was made she still had her doubts, not of the clothes, but of her ability to wear them. They seemed so alien to her, so restrictive and enslaving.

"You're an easy fitter," said the saleswoman. "But"—here she lowered her voice—"you need a new corset. This old one is out of date. Nobody is wearing hips now."

Thereupon Berrie meekly permitted herself to be led away to a torture room. Wayland waited patiently, and when she reappeared all traces of Bear Tooth forest had vanished. In a neat tailored suit and a very chic hat, with shoes, gloves and stockings to match, she was so transformed, so charmingly girlish in her self conscious glory, that he was tempted to embrace her in the presence of the saleswoman. But he didn't. He merely said: "I see the governor's finish. Let's go to lunch. You are stunning!"

"I don't know myself," responded Berrie. "The only thing that feels natural is my hand. They cinched me so tight I can't eat a thing, and my shoes hurt." She laughed as she said this, for her use of the vernacular was conscious. "I'm a fraud. Your father will spot my brand first shot. Look at my face—red as a saddle!"

"Don't let that trouble you. This is the time of year when tan is fashionable. Don't you be afraid of the governor. Just smile at him, give him your grip, and he'll melt."

"I'm the one to melt. I'm beginning now."

Notwithstanding his confident advice Wayland led the two silent and inwardly dismayed women into the showy cafe of the hotel with some degree of personal apprehension concerning the approaching interview with his father. Of course he did not permit this to appear in the slightest degree.

It pleased him to observe the admiring glances which were turned upon Berrie, whose hat became her mightily, and, leaning over, he said in a low voice to Mrs. McFarlane: "Who is the lovely young lady opposite? Won't you introduce me?"

This little play being over, he said, "Now, while our order is coming I'll run out to the desk and see if the governor has come in or not."

Wayland returned with an increase of tension in his face.

"He's here! I've sent word saying 'I am lunching in the cafe with ladies.' I think he'll come round. But don't be afraid of him. He's a good deal rougher on the outside than he is at heart. Of course he's a bluff old business man and not at all pretty, and he'll transfix you with a kind of estimating glare as if you were a tree, but he's actually very easy to manage if you know how to handle him. Now, I'm not going to try to explain everything to him at the beginning. I'm going to introduce him to you in a casual kind of way and give him time to take to you both. He forms his likes and dislikes very quickly."

"What if he doesn't like us?" inquired Berrie, with troubled brow.

"He can't help it." His tone was so positive that her eyes misted with happiness. "But here comes our food. I hope you aren't too nervous to eat. Here is where I shine as provider. This is the kind of camp fare I can recommend."

Berrie's healthy appetite rose above her apprehension, and she ate with the keen enjoyment of a child, and her mother said, "It surely is a treat to get a chance at somebody else's cooking."

"Don't you slander your home fare," warned Wayland. "It's as good as this, only different."

He sat where he could watch the door, and despite his jocund pose his eyes expressed growing impatience and some anxiety. They were all well into their dessert before he called out, "Here he is!"

Mrs. McFarlane could not see the newcomer from where she sat, but Berrie rose in great excitement as a heavy set, full faced man with short, gray mustache and high, smooth brow entered the room. He did not smile as he greeted his son, and his penetrating glance questioned even before he spoke. He seemed to silently ask: "Well, what's all this? How do you happen to be here? Who are these women?"

Wayland said: "Mrs. McFarlane, this is my father. Father, this is Miss Berea McFarlane of Bear Tooth Springs."

The elder Norcross shook hands with Mrs. McFarlane politely, coldly, but he betrayed surprise as Berea, took his fingers in her grip. At his son's solicitation he accepted a seat opposite Berea, but refused dessert.

Wayland explained: "Mrs. McFarlane and her daughter quite saved my life over in the valley. Their ranch is the best health resort in Colorado."

"Your complexion indicates that," his father responded dryly. "You look something the way a man of your age ought to look. I needn't ask how you are feeling."

"You needn't, but you may. I'm feeling like a new fiddle, barring a bruise at the back of my head, which makes a 'hard hat' a burden. I may as well tell you first off that Mrs. McFarlane is the wife of the forest supervisor at

She Was So Transformed That He Was Tempted to Embrace Her.

Bear Tooth, and Miss Berea is the able assistant of her father. We are all rank conservationists."

Norcross senior examined Berrie precisely as if his eyes were a couple of X ray tubes, and as she flushed under his slow scrutiny he said, "I was not expecting to find the forest service in such hands."

Wayland laughed.

"I hope you didn't mash his fingers, Berrie."

She smiled guiltily. "I'm afraid I did. I hope I didn't hurt you—sometimes I forget."

Norcross senior was waking up. "You have a most extraordinary grip. What did it—piano practice?"

Wayland grinned. "Piano! No—the cinch."

"The what?"

Wayland explained. "Miss McFarlane was brought up on a ranch. She can rope and tie a steer, saddle her own horse, pack an outfit and all the rest of it."

"Oh! Kind of cowgirl, eh?"

Mrs. McFarlane, eager to put Berrie's better part forward, explained: "She's our only child, Mr. Norcross, and as such has been a constant companion to her father. She's not all cowhand. She's been to school, and she can cook and sew as well."

"Mrs. McFarlane comes from an old Kentucky family, father. Her grandfather helped to found a college down there."

Wayland's anxious desire to create a favorable impression of the women did not escape the lumberman, but his face remained quite expressionless as he replied:

"If the life of a cowhand would give you the vigor this young lady appears to possess I'm not sure but you'd better stick to it."

Wayland and the two women exchanged glances of relief.

"Why not tell him now?" they seemed to ask. But he said: "There's a long story to tell before we decide on my career. Let's finish our lunch. How is mother, and how are the girls?"

WASHING FLUID, ETC.

One can potash, 5 cents' worth of dry ammonia, 5 cents' worth of salts of tartar, one gallon of water. Use teacupful to a boiler of water.

Easy method of washing: Place the soiled clothes in boiler of cold water, to which has been added a little kerosene and shaved soap; place boiler on back of stove, and when water becomes hot (not boiling) remove clothes to tub. Very little rubbing is needed. In case of very fine materials this method of putting on in cold water may be repeated until the article is perfectly clean, and no rubbing is necessary.

When vegetables or other foods burn place the vessel in which they are cooking in another vessel of cold water. This keeps the burned flavor from going through the food.

Daddy's Bedtime Story — The Wise Old Owl That Lived In the Wood.

Mr. Owl Looked So Very Impressive.

"THERE is a story, or there will be as soon as I have made it up," said daddy, "about the wise old owl that lived in the wood, and how he wasn't so wise, after all, and how the other birds found out that he wasn't.

"And just how they came to find it out I will tell you in a moment. But I don't want to get ahead of my story.

"So I will begin my story by telling you how the wise old owl impressed the other birds with the belief that he was so very wise. And he did it in just the way that a great many men, not to mention some boys and girls, do it. And how was that, do you ask? Why, just by his looks. You see, he looked so wise that all the other birds came to believe at first that he really was the wisest bird that ever lived.

"This wise old owl was pretty quiet in the daytime, for, you see, he couldn't see anything then, for he was as blind as a bat, as the saying is. This was because of a peculiarity in his eyes. When an owl stares at you in the daytime he can't really see you at all. He blinks and blinks with his stary eyes, that are yellow and give you the 'creeps,' and he just stares and stares, and I suppose he wishes he could see in the daytime as well as in the night.

"But in the night time it is far different, and Mr. Owl can see then just as well as you kiddies can see in the daytime. It is then that he flies around, getting his meals, which are apt to be composed of some little field mice who are not careful and so are caught by Mr. Owl. And Mr. Owl hoots and stares and can see in the dark as if it were sunlight.

"You see, children, Mr. Owl looked so very impressive with his big eyes and his tufted horns and his curved beak and his feathery face that the other birds took him just as seriously as he took himself. But it remained for the magpie to find him out and make the other birds laugh at him.

"You know, children, the magpie is a very inquisitive bird, always prying into the affairs of the other birds and then running and telling about it. And one day he chattered to the other birds about the old owl who looked so wise.

"'He isn't wise at all,' said the magpie, 'and I can prove it to you.'

"'How can you prove it?' asked the other birds.

"'Well,' replied the magpie, 'he's all the time hooting: "Who? Who?" But he never finds out. If he was so very wise he'd know who, wouldn't he?'

"And then the other birds had a fine laugh at the old owl's expense, and they didn't think he was so wise after that."

EMPIRE GOWNS HOLD THEIR OWN.

Empire dresses of very simple cut are extremely fashionable and will be welcomed by the woman who does her own dressmaking, because they are so easy to make. A pattern that has the smartest of the Empire features is Ladies' Home Journal Pattern No. 8989. This has a simple waist, with removable chemisette, with high neck or square outline. The collar is circular and the sewed-in sleeves can be made full-length or shorter as preferred. The four-gore skirt finishes at the top with an unstanding frill. The pattern cuts in sizes 32 to 44 inches bust measure, requiring in size 36, 7¾ yards, 27-inch, 6⅞ yards 36-inch or 5 5-8 yards 42-inch material, with quarter yard 12-inch net for chemisette and one yard ribbon for belt.

Patterns may be obtained at the store of A. E. Force & Co.

Simple Home Remedies.

A salt bath is very beneficial and restful. Purchase of the druggist a box of sea salt; dissolve about a fourth of it in hot water. Saturate a bath towel in the salt water, then let it dry. After the regular bath rub the body with the salted towel or use it morning after the cold bath.

If you want to keep from sneezing press the finger on the upper part of the nose or rub the forehead just above the nose.

To Clean Furniture.

To take white spots from varnished furniture hold a hot stove lid or plate over them, and they will soon disappear. Spirits of camphor or ammonia may also be used.

To remove finger marks use sweet oil on varnished surface and kerosene on oiled furniture.

Unvarnished black walnut will look like new if cleaned with milk (sweet or sour), well rubbed in with an old soft flannel.

To clean willow ware wash with salt water, using a brush.

New Recipes.

A cooling dessert is Lalla Rookh, which is nothing more than a sherbet glass filled with any kind of water ice that has a large spoonful scooped from the center, which is filled just before serving with creme de menthe cordial, brandy or rum. Pineapple or orange ice is especially good with this combination.

THE GUEST ROOM.

What to Provide For It to Make It Comfortable and Charming.

With regard to the furnishing and arrangements of the spare room there is real pleasure in making it as charming and as homelike as possible.

A writing table prettily arranged with inkstand, blotting book and note paper is a great addition to the spare room and one that should always be managed if possible. The chances are that all the desks downstairs are used by members of the family, and a newcomer has no place where she can scribble in comfort unless she can find a haven in her own room. Besides, how could she ever get a moment to herself if she had not the recognized excuse of "a few important letters to write?"

It is rather the fashion now for hostesses to provide many little extra comforts for their guests. When the water is hard some sweet scented softener is often to be found in the bathroom, and occasionally we are treated to a bottle of eau de cologne or of sal volatile. A little plate of crackers almost invariably has a place on the bedside table, and, of course, a shelf of readable books is placed somewhere in the room.

The modern craze for old fashioned furniture should not be allowed to interfere with the comfort of our visitors. Probably some of us have experienced the awkwardness of having to do our hair before an ancient mirror which distorts our features and makes us feel as if we were looking into a spoon. One kind bachelor host always insists on every guest room in his house having its own comfortable sofa, whatever period the furnishing may be, and a very good idea it is, too. But most people would be content with one really cozy armchair to supplement the cane seated ones we invariably find.

The question of lighting the spare room is the next consideration. In New York and other large towns electricity has its own way and is a boon that can hardly be overestimated. In the country, however, gas, lamps and sometimes even candles have to take its place—and, oh, how dark a country spare room can be! Very often two feeble candles only are provided for us, and is quite impossible to dress in the evening with any satisfaction in the dim half light they give. It is kinder to one's visitors to let them have a good lamp hanging against the wall. This makes a room as bright as need be, and candles can always be added on the dressing table if it is thought necessary. Gas is an excellent illuminant when it can be procured.

The last suggestion in the way of making a spare room attractive is one that is sometimes overlooked. When the weather is cold do not feel that a fire is an unnecessary extravagance for your visitor if you are lucky enough to have an open grate in the guest room. It happens not unfrequently that a house may be thoroughly well warmed downstairs and yet the story above may be freezing. Nothing makes a bedroom look more inviting than a bright fire burning on the hearth, and the little extra trouble and cost are amply repaid in the coziness that is gained. After all, it is a great pleasure to most of us to entertain our friends in our own homes, and, while we try to live up to the old motto "Where there is room in the heart there is room in the house," let us do all in our power to insure the comfort and happiness of our guests.

Shortcake.

Mix with one pint of flour a lump of butter the size of an egg; rub up well with baking powder or use two teaspoonfuls of cream of tartar in flour; powder fine one teaspoonful of saleratus, add one cupful of cold water. Make a stiff batter. Add flour if needed. Bake on tin for supper or tea.

Glimpses of Married Life

BY MRS. EVA LEONARD

"Have you seen Jo Parsons this morning?" asked Dick as he came in at noon.

"No. Why?" Nell stopped with the dessert spoons in her hands to look at her husband.

"It seems there were burglars in this end of town last night."

"Burglars!" echoed Mrs. Morton, coming down the stairs.

"Yes. Dr. Ellson took the entire Parsons family for an auto ride last evening, as it was so spring-like. They were careless about locking up the house; it seems most everybody is hereabouts. When they returned, Parsons rode on to the garage with the doctor, and Mrs. Parsons and the children went into the house. As soon as the gas was lighted she noticed that someone had been there. The soiled linen had all been taken from the clothes hamper and strewn around the room," related Dick.

"Did they lose anything?" asked Nell.

"I should say; they took the coat of Parsons' black suit and the trousers of his brown one, thus ruining the usefulness of both."

"What made them do that?" queried Nell. "They could be traced more easily because of it."

"It was dark in the house and they were afraid to attract attention with a light. Parsons said he would gladly give whoever it was a suit if he could only keep one that he could use."

"It's a shame. No professional did that job; an expert would have had a flashlight," said Nell.

"What else was taken?" asked Dick's mother.

"The boy's bank with nearly ten dollars in it. His heart's broken about that. He's been saving for three years."

"Why hadn't they deposited the money in the bank?" asked Mrs Morton, coming in from the kitchen.

"Everything is ready to serve," she continued.

"All right; we'll hear the rest of the story when we get down to the table." Nell hurried out of the room.

"Do you have much thieving here?" asked Dick's mother as they arranged the chairs at the table.

"No; this is the first instance of the sort that I have heard of since we came here. Half the time our doors are unlocked at night."

"What else did the Parsons lose?" asked Nell when they were seated at the dinner table.

"Quite a little solid silver, spoons and forks, and a few trinkets of jewelry."

"Have they any clew as to who did it?" Mrs. Morton was pouring the water.

"Not the least in the world. Of course the matter was reported to the marshal."

"The marshal? Why not the police?" asked Nell.

"Because, my dear, Fairport does not boast of a policeman. The marshal is our only officer of the law," replied Dick.

"That good natured, fat old marshal," scoffed Nell; "who would be afraid of him?"

"Well, we have been free from harm so far," asserted Dick easily.

"It was not because of fear of the strong arm of the law, you may be sure. I hope he will sleep a little less soundly at night until the thief is caught." Nell passed her plate for more meat.

"Be sure and put the baby under lock and key. It would be sorry news to be told your jewel had been stolen," chuckled the grandmother.

"That's so; if we keep him safe we have little else to worry about," said Dick with an answering smile. "If a coat of one suit and trousers of another were taken from my wardrobe, I would be forced to appear in variegated garments or else in my pristine simplicity," laughed Dick.

"Let us hope the thief is satisfied with the present state of his wardrobe," said Nell.

Household Hints

CAMPING RECIPES

Hoecake—Take two cups of cornmeal and pour over it enough boiling mater to wet it all and swell the grain. Then mix to the consistency of a thin batter with more hot water, adding salt to taste. Heat the griddle quite hot over the gypsy camp-fire, grease it with a bit of salt pork, and then pour on the corn batter in a thin cake. When the cake is parched on one side turn on the other and serve hot with butter. It takes about five minutes to cook each cake, but if it is made the size of a large griddle it will do for three persons.

Fried Fish—If a supply of fresh finny creatures is handy, whether these are caught by the party or not, a dish of hot fried fish will prove a delicious event at an open air meal. After the fish have been scaled and cleaned wash them in several cold waters and then dry thoroughly on a clean cloth. Use the small ones whole, leaving on the heads, and cut the other in fair-sized pieces. Salt and pepper and dip lightly in cornmeal. Then try out a little salt pork in the frying pan, and when there is enough fat fry the fish a nice brown on both sides. Serve them on little wooden plates, covering each with a big, clean oak leaf.

Steamed Mussels—Visitors to the seashore are well acquainted with these little bivalves, which, despite some belief in their being unfit for the human stomach, make the most delicious eating. The safest supply is gathered from the big rocks submerged by the tides, with the gathering, of course, done at low tide. Take only the mussels with shells fast closed, for when the shell is open and comes apart easily this denotes that the fish has died a natural death. Wash the mussels off first in sea water, freeing them of weeds and mud with an old kitchen knife. Then give them several baths in fresh water. Put half a peck in a big pot, pour over half a cup of water, cover the vessel and set it over the fire for steaming. In ten or fifteen minutes every mussel shell will be open and there will be a delectable supply of juice in the pot. Have some drawn butter ready and eat the mussels hot and directly from the shell, digging them out with toothpicks or oyster forks and dipping each in butter. They can be served in bowls, just as they are in the shell, with a liberal supply of the hot liquor over them. Delicious flavorings for mussels cooked in this manner are a glass of whi wine and a squeeze of lemon juice, both of which are dumped into the bowl served each person. As soon as the mussels get cold they lose much of their delicacy, but fine fritters can always be made of the ones left over.

Chops or Steak—Either of these meats can be admirably cooked on a griddle without the use of any grease, thus imitating a broil very successfully. Get the griddle quite hot before the meat is put on it, and as soon as one side if seared turn it and sear the other. Pepper and salt and butter after the cooking, and let the meat draw juices for a moment in a tin plate put near the fire.

TO CLEAN YOUR STRAW HAT

There are several ways of cleaning straw hats.

One way is to scrub them with an old nail brush dipped in one cup of warm water and one tablespoonful of oxalic acid.

Another way is to use sulphurous acid, which is safter than fumes of sulphur.

If the hat is panama, scrubbing it quickly, small portions at a time (and wiping the soiled solution as it forms), with a half-and-half mixture of peroxide of hydrogen and water, is most effective. Do not have the brush too wet, and go quickly from one portion to the next.

SCOOP, THE CUB REPORTER — NOW THE BOSS IS MAKING A NOISE LIKE AN OSTRICH — BY "HOP"

BOY SCOUTS RETURN FROM CAMP CONDICT

After a Week of "Roughing" It Hope Chapelites Are Enthusiastic.

Troop 12, of the Boys Scouts, connected with Hope chapel, returned Saturday afternoon from a week's outing at "Camp Condict," on the Raritan River, near Finderne. James Penny acted as camp chief in conjunction with Alexander D. Doig, the assistant scoutmaster of the troop. About twenty boys and their leaders were in camp all or part of the time, including two boys from the lower East Side of New York, who, as camp guests of the troop, were well looked after, and had the time of their lives.

Shortly after camp was pitched, the place was raided, in an unguarded moment, by some boys from the neighborhood, and as further trouble threatened, the scouts took turns in keeping watch for several nights until a treaty of amity had been negotiated with the enemy.

A heavy rain storm one night gave the boys a taste of camping under adverse conditions. A number of friends from Plainfield visited the camp one afternoon, and on another day there were athletic contests. Camp fires with songs and stories enlivened the evenings, and a minstrel show on Friday evening ended the festivities, with a number of children from the neighborhood as audience.

Boys from Bound Brook, who were constant visitors at the camp, are anxious for the formation of another scout troop there so that they may join it.

The prize winners of the different athletic and aquatic events follow:

Firemen's race—First, G. Peterson and J. Anderson; second, W. Terry and A. Mikalon.

Three-legged race—First, W. Terry and J. Peterson; second, W. Snyder and J. Anderson.

BY

The Commission for Relief In Belgium

Sole Clearing House for all Belguim Relief

We, as Americans, are enlisted for the war to save seven million men, women and children. It is the greatest commissary undertaking in the history of the world, and in the lexicon of America there is no such word as fail.

We Need Food Supplies as Well as Cash

Railroads, express companies, postoffices, governors and state committees are aiding. Our Flotilla of Mercy, comprising thirty-five chartered ships, is constantly carrying food. But—Our Supplies Are Far too Short!

Are You Helping? If Not, Send in Your Name Now!

Make out your check or money order, or send cash either to your state committee co-operating with this Commission or to the New York Headquarters:

WANTS THE CITY TO REFUND TAXES

A. C. David, of East Sixth Street, Says Property Does Not Exist.

ROUTINE IN COUNCIL

Minor Matters Occupy Attention at August Meeting—$6,000 for New School Property—City Bills Ordered Paid.

In a petition presented to the Common Council at its August session, last night, A. C. David, of 339 East Sixth street, asked the city to pay back to him taxes for the years 1908 to 1914, inclusive, which he says he has paid on a barn that has not been on his premises since 1909. The structure is valued at $400. It was referred to the finance committee for investigation. The sum of $6,000 was authorized for the purchase of land on which to build a new school in the East End. As told in this paper following the introduction of this resolution at a previous meeting, the $6,000 will be provided merely for the purpose of buying a suitable tract of land but the school itself will probably not be erected for another year, at least.

The raising of $20,500 by taxation for the contingent fund was authorized and the 1915 tax budget was adopted on third reading. The street committee presented a resolution calling for the laying of sidewalks along Sumner avenue and other thoroughfares of the city where property owners have failed to comply with the law.

Upon the petition of the fire and buildings committee the Council authorized the purchase of 500 feet of two and one-half inch hose at a cost not to exceed $450. Bills credited to the Joint Sewerage Commission amounting to $15,236.17 were presented and Plainfield's share ordered paid. Street Commissioner Andrew Gavett in his July report stated that eight sewer permits had been granted and Clerk Horace Adams, of the District Court, reported that $259 had been taken in during July and $54.29 paid out. Building Inspector T. O. Doane reported that twenty-one building permits had been granted during July and the Council also affirmed the appointment of Edward Mosher as a regular firemen at this session. Mosher has just completed his probationary term of six months at the headquarters' house on East Second street. Overseer of the Poor Garret T. Dunham reported that $934.44 had been spent during July.

ANOTHER BIG EXCURSION FOR LOCAL SUNDAY SCHOOLS

Hundreds of Plainfielders have signified their intention of going to the "Town Without a Frown" on Thursday, when the annual excursion of the Sunday-schools of the First Presbyterian, Congregational and Park Avenue Baptist churches is run to Asbury Park and Ocean Grove. Those who have been fortunate enough to visit the popular summer resort this year are loud in their praise of the place, everything being in full swing, no one having to go away without having had their share of a good time. Various pleasures are provided for old and young, and although the surf and indoor pools are the main attractions for the younger folks, their elders will find plenty to keep them busy during the day.

The excursion will be run in two sections, the first leaving Dunellen at 8:04, stopping at Clinton Avenue and Grant Avenue. The train will leave Plainfield 8:15. Returning the train will leave Asbury Park at 6:40 p. m.

A UNIQUE DEFENSE.

Arraigned before Judge DeMeza in the city police court this morning on a charge of drunkenness preferred against him by Patrolman Roy E. Martin, John Metro, a Polish man, placed on exhibition a miniature drug store which he was carrying upon his person to prove that his condition yesterday afternoon did not come from excessive indulgence in whisky, as was alleged. Although he professed to have little acquaintance with the English language the foreigner explained at length the contents of the dozen or more bottles and use to which he had put them. He drew a suspended sentence.

NEW POSITION.

Joseph Sants, formerly of 112 West Second street, has taken a position as manager of Frank Caruso's barber shop at 22 8West Front street.

POLICE SUBJECTED TO SCARLET FEVER

Fritts and Henderschott Took Victim to Hospital in Ambulance Last Night.

With a view to determining who was responsible for having a scarlet fever patient removed to Muhlenberg Hospital last night in the ambulance by two Plainfield policemen, the local Board of Health will conduct an exhaustive investigation tonight. According to the data that has been collected by Health Officer Randolph Chandler a call came to police headquarters shortly after 6 o'clock requesting that the ambulance be dispatched to 440 West Fifth street to remove the young son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Baker to the hospital. The man on the desk at headquarters, believing that the call had come from the hospital authorities and that it was an ordinary call sanctioned by the physician in charge, assigned Patrolmen John Henderschott and John R. Fritts to ambulance duty and they took the patient to the institution.

Upon arriving at the hospital Fritts and Henderschott were acquainted with the fact that they had been in charge of a boy afflicted with scarlet fever and had been exposed to the disease germs.

A probe was started immediately but thus far Health Office Chandler has been unable to find out where the call came from. According to the Health Officer, who has exhausted every means of obtaining information, the hospital authorities say they did not order the ambulance; the family claim that Dr. George D. Herring, the osteopath in charge, sent for it, and Dr. Herring claims that the Bakers telephoned to police headquarters for the vehicle.

As soon as he was informed that the policemen had been exposed to the disease Chandler prescribed remedies and took other steps to prevent the spread of the disease. The ambulance was also disinfected, and while it is not thought that any new developments will make their appearance the Board is desirous of getting at the bottom of the matter and rendering impossible a reoccurrence of the incident.

COMMITTEE APPOINTED TO DRAW PLUMBING ORDINANCE

At the regular meeting of the North Plainfield Board of Health, last evening, a committee consisting of James L. Love, Cormick McDonough and Inspector James L. Oliff was appointed to prepare a plumbing ordinance for use in the borough, when the sewer system is in working order. The committee will report at the September meeting. The inspector's monthly report was rendered, bills were ordered paid and other routine business was transacted.

The Board of Health as a whole has been working on the new plumbing ordinance, getting suggestions from plumbers and authorities on plumbing work and consulting plumbing ordinances in force in other municipalities. To get the work more compactly in hand, however, the entire matter was last night left to the committee. As sewer connections to houses in the borough cannot be made for at least a year, the committee will have plenty of time to prepare an ordinance which will be complete in every detail.

MRS. EVERETT COLBY INJURED IN SURF AT SPRING LAKE

Mrs. Everett Colby, formerly Miss Edith Hyde, of Plainfield, was severely injured yesterday afternoon while bathing in the surf at Spring Lake. Mrs. Colby arrived at the resort on Saturday to stay with friends at the Essex and Sussex Hotel.

A high southeast breeze had made the surf run high and a huge sea caught Mrs. Colby unawares. Before she could reach the bathing ropes she had been hurled against an iron stanchion and rendered unconscious. She was carried ashore by life guards and a physician called. She was taken in the afternoon to her home near Orange in a special car.

BIG INCREASE IN SHIPMENTS.

Washington, Aug. 3.—The United States furnished to the world approximately $225,000,000 worth more of domestic products and breadstuffs in the fiscal year ended June last than it did in the twelve months ending with June, 1914. This increase is attributed to the war, according to figures given out by the Department of Commerce today.

—Beginning this week, the store of Neumann Brothers Company, Watchung avenue and Fifth street, will close on Saturday evenings during August at 5 o'clock. Open all day Thursday.—Adv. 3 3 3 ***

PLAN INCREASED MEMBERSHIP

Business Men's Association to Have Harry B. Salter Conduct Campaign.

W. S. BULLOCK TALKS

Gives Sound Advice for Strengthening Organization's Influence — Morris Abrams Heads Committee to Interest New Plants to Locate Here.

Fully determined to increase the membership to at least one hundred, the Plainfield Business Men's Association at a meeting held last night at Coward's Hall decided to have Harry B. Salter, secretary of the Trenton Chamber of Commerce, spend two weeks in September putting into operation the methods which have so successfully increased the merchants' division of his organization. Mr. Salter was present at last night's meeting, and gave an interesting talk about the work that he has been able to do in the State capital. William Starr Bullock also made a business talk to the gathering, and a lot of routine business was transacted. There were several rather acrimonious debates as to just when would be the best time for the membership campaign, but before the meeting broke up it was the unanimous opinion of those present that the campaign was going to be a success if they can make it so.

The plan is not only to increase the membership, but to re-adjust the fees, so that the smaller merchants will not have to pay so much as the larger ones. The minimum fee may be raised from $10 to $15 a year, although nothing definite was done about that matter last night, and the present plan is to have the maximum fee $75 for the larger stores in the city.

PLAINFIELDERS REGISTER AT FRISCO EXPOSITION

San Francisco, Cal., July 30.—A valuable and unique exhibit arrived at the New Jersey building at the Exposition today. It is a table with a leather cover containing the autographs of the President and every Governor of the United States, each in an allotted space containing the seal of the State stamped in gold. The table was planned and made by Sidney H. Doggett, a sixteen-year-old High School student of East Orange. The leather cover was mailed by parcel post to each Executive to secure the signatures and traveled a distance of 40,000 miles before being complete. The table is attracting a great deal of attention.

Supreme Court Clerk and Mrs. William C. Gebhardt, Assemblyman Frank A. Dolan and Rynier J. Wortendyke, of Jersey City, were some of the prominent guests at the Exposition this week. Among the Jersey people were the following from Plainfield and vicinity: Mrs. W. E. Sadler, Miss Ruth D. Sadler, Miss Dorothea E. Bull, Miss Lillian Jackson, Miss Linda G. Case, of Plainfield; Mrs. W. C. Walling, Metuchen; Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Delatour, Helen Jackson, Miss Edna Brown, Miss Marguerite E. Deckley, Miss Rachel Jackson, Robert A. Fairbairn, H. E. D. Jackson, Richard C. Brown, Mrs. A. J. Beckley, and Miss Helen T. Beckley, all of Westfield.

GOING TO CALIFORNIA.

Harry Shirley, of Manson place, better known to his friends as "Bunt," will leave Saturday morning on the Steamship Antilles for a three-year stay at Los Angeles, Cal. He will visit his uncle at the latter place. Mr. Shirley has been employed by the J. D. Loizeaux Lumber Company, of this city, and has a host of acquaintances and friends throughout the city and borough, who extend him the best of wishes.

WEISS FINDS AUTO CHAIN.

The owner of a non-skid chain for an auto which was lost on Somerset street, this morning, may have same by applying to police headquarters in North Plainfield. Chief Marshal Weiss stood in front of the station house this morning when the car passed, and just as it was opposite him it shook a chain off its rear wheel almost at Marshal Weiss' feet. The owner did not discover his loss and kept right on his way.

BIG DROP IN IMMIGRATION.

Washington, Aug. 3.—A bulletin issued today by the Bureau of Immigration shows that there were admitted into the United States in June 22,598 immigrant aliens, against 20,069 in May. For the year ended June 30 there were admitted 326,700 immigrant aliens, against 1,218,772 in preceding year.

BLACKBIRDS ARE USEFUL, BUT—

Jackson Avenue Residents Think They Would Be More Useful Elsewhere.

APPEAL TO THE WARDEN

Endeavoring to Find Some Means of Getting Rid of Pests—Sunflower Band No More Popular Than the Blackbirds.

The North Plainfield blackbird pest found its way into the Board of Health meeting last night, when complaints about the presence of the birds in the vicinity of Watchung and Jackson avenues were received. The Board announced that it had no jurisdiction in the matter, however, and other means will have to be resorted to to drive the birds away.

The Board stated last night that the only power it had in the matter was to compel the owners of property where the birds congregate to keep sidewalks and grounds clean and free from littel, but as the blackbird is an insectivorous bird and protected by the State laws, no way was open for the Board to destroy them.

Mayor Robert Clark, Jr., has communicated with Game Warden Welch, of East Millstone, asking what can be done to rid the neighborhood of the birds, and the sufferers from the nuisance are patiently awaiting word from the game warden.

Many suggestions as to how to drive them away are being brought to the attention of Mayor Clark every day. Some one has suggested shooting sky rockets at night when the birds are roosting into the evergreen trees dividing Mayor Clark's home from the property of Mrs. Robert M. Fountain, 73 Jackson avenue. The "Sun Flower Band," an aggregation of North Plainfield musicians, has volunteered to put in a whole evening playing at the foot of the trees providing a collection is taken up for their benefit, but some people have been unkind enough to say that they would rather listen to the birds than to the band's music.

These are not red-winged blackbirds, which are eatable, but the "crow" variety, which, while protected by the game laws because they destroy insect life, are worthless for food.

MISS EMILY MARCH LED GRACE M. E. SERVICES

Notwithstanding the intense heat of the day the Sunday-school and morning service at the Grace M. E. church, Sunday, were well attended. Miss Emily March preached in the morning and again in the evening. There was a large number of devoted ones who braved the weather to attend the latter service at which Miss March spoke in her effective way of the "Power of Song in the Christian Life and Work," giving a number of instances out of her own experience. The portraying of these vivid word pictures was very impressive.

The Wednesday evening prayer meeting this week will be in charge of Irving Dodge. It is expected that the interest maintained in the prayer meetings during the last few months will in a large measure be continued while Rev. C. S. Gillespie, the pastor, is away.

FORGOT FIRE BOX RAN WITH ALARM

A small chimney fire at the home of Samuel Hill, 345 Cottage place, at 7:50 last evening did little damage. The department was notified verbally by a messenger who evidently forgot all about a fire alarm box and ran excitedly into the fire house, shouting the alarm. The fire was put out with two extinguishers.

TO ATTEND WEDDING.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Evans, of Lenox avenue, will attend the wedding of Dr. C. W. LeFever, of Philadelphia, in Dummerston, Vt., this week. The wedding party will motor to Vermont and will consist of Dr. LeFever, Howard Chandler Christy, the artist, of New York; Mr. and Mrs. Evans, of this city, and a number of physicians and surgeons of the Jefferson Medical College, of Philadelphia. Dr. LeFever was for several years a professor at the latter college.

SHARP TILTS ON COUNCIL ISSUES

City Fathers Split on Two Ordinances Brought up Last Night.

BOTH ARE LAID OVER

Proposition to Increase Hacking Zone Meets With Strenuous Opposition—Itinerant Merchants' Bill Also Causes Discussion.

Apparently affected by the high humidity of the evening which made itself particularly prominent in the Common Council chambers at the August meeting of the body, last night, several of the councilmen engaged in heated debates over the expediency of enlarging the present hack zone and the need of a tax for itinerant merchants. When opposition to the two measures developed as they were introduced considerable hidden ambition came to the fore, and forgetful of the fact that the mercury was flirting with the century mark, Councilmen Hylan, Graves, Blatz and Hamilton engaged in some "hot and heavy" tussles with the English vocabulary.

Councilman Hylan's resolution to extend the present westerly hacking line from Grant avenue to Monroe avenue was the signal for the initial outburst of enthusiasm, President George S. Clay opening the road to collar softening and irritableness by asking for a full explanation of its proposed changes and probable effects. Councilman Hylan obliged with a lengthy speech in favor of the proposition, stating that in his opinion, as well as in the opinion of some of his well-known West End constituents, that a ride to Monroe avenue for a quarter was not too much to expect for the said twenty-five cents in these hard times. The inference giv-

PLAN BIG MASS MEETING IN PLAINFIELD THEATRE

Plans for the mass meeting of machinists were completed at a committee meeting in the Building Trades' hall last night, it being decided to engage the Plainfield theatre for Thursday night. At that time it is expected that Jacob J. Keppler, vice-president of the International Machinists' Union, will be on hand to make a report of the conferences held yesterday with local factory superintendents relative to the eight-hour day demand.

Hugh Riley, business agent of District No. 47, and Thomas E. Carroll, another representative of the International Union, will also be present at that time and will probably speak to the machinists. Whether or not the men will strike depends largely on the reception the report receives Thursday night.

New York, Aug. 3.—Conferences are being held today between manufacturers and representatives of the International Association of Machinists in an effort to avert a strike in this and neighboring cities threatened by leaders of the machinists' organization. It was intimated today by union officials that the ranks of the machinists already on strike in this city will be augmented by the 2,000 employes of the E. W. Bliss Co., of Brooklyn, unless the demands of the men for an eight hour day and increased wages are met immediately.

PLAN BIG OUTING.

The eighth annual excursion of the Watchung Council, No. 552, Knights of Columbus, to Asbury Park and Ocean Grove will take place on Tuesday, August 10. The committee in charge of the affair is headed by A. A. Cannon, chairman, and M. P. Griffen, secretary and treasurer. They are assisted by a large corps of Knights, who will act as ticket sellers and guides for excursionists. The trip will be in three sections and promises to be the largest ever run from this city, embracing the Sunday-schools of the Catholic churches of this city, North Plainfield, South Plainfield, Dunellen, Scotch Plains, Stony Hill and Netherwood. Fifteen hundred Sunday-school children in this city and the borough alone were given tickets Sunday afternoon.

EUCHRE COMMITTEES.

Reports from the committees in charge of the euchre held last Thursday night in the Columbus Club were returned at a meeting last night, the result proving a gratifying one in every way. Mrs. William H. Schaffer was chairman of the general committee, Mrs. John J. Varley was chairman of the donation committee, and Mrs. Den. J. Galbraith headed the refreshment committee. Mrs. Andrew A. Kenney was treasurer of the general committee, and Miss Margaret Kenney acted as secretary.

COURT HOLDS BOYS FOR COUNTY COURT

Cases Against Cecil Harvey and Joseph Fatalli go to the Grand Jury.

In accordance with a demand for a hearing in the local police court this morning, Cecil Harvey, aged 17, and Joseph Fatalli, aged 14, the two boys who are accused of atacking Elizabeth and Harriet Thompson, on West Front street, last Friday night, were placed on trial and Judge De Meza determined that there was sufficient evidence against them to warrant holding the prisoners for the Grand Jury. Bail was fixed at $300 in each case, and unless this amount is raised by this afternoon they will be committed to the county jail.

The Harvey boy was represented by Samuel S. Swackhamer, and both of the defendants pleaded not guilty to the charge. The two girls, Chief Kiely and Captain Flynn gave testimony to show that the youths had followed the girls from Grant avenue to Compton avenue and had committed the attack in a dark spot which had evidently been previously agreed upon. The girls said that they had never seen the two boys before the night in question, but readily identified them in court this morning.

On behalf of his client, Mr. Swackhamer endeavored to show that the boys were going for apples when the incident occurred, and that Harvey's hand motion in turning his collar up had frightened the older girl so that she screamed. The boys claimed they had not run away, and that they had proceeded on their way to get their apples, later passing through the business section of the city.

Both girls gave clear and convincing statements to the court, and Elizabeth Thompson, who was seriously affected by the shock, appeared to have recovered completely since Friday night, when she remained unconscious for a period of three hours.

During the trial in the city court Marshal John Herrmann, of the North Plainfield force, reained in an ante-room ready to seize Harvey and Fatalli for the borough authorities should they be released from custody on this side of the brook. When it was announced that both would be held for the Grand Jury, however, Chief Kiely refused to give them up until after the Union county authorities had finished with them.

Together with Vincent Mullin and Michael Cantor, the two boys are wanted by the North Plainfield police for a similar attack alleged to have been committed on two girls on Harrison avenue, the night of July 12. Mullin and Cantor were arrested here yesterday and turned over to Marshal Herrmann this morning. He took them to the borough, where they will be arraigned after the proper complaints are drawn.

According to the North Plainfield police numerous complaints have been received on that side of the brook relative to the practice a gang of rowdies have made of attacking women on the street, and the four now under arrest are believed to be the "ring-leaders."

NAME NEW BOYS' SECRETARY FOR PLAINFIELD Y. M. C. A.

Frederick S. Lynn, who has been connected with the Newark Y. M. C. A. for three years, has been appointed boys' secretary of the Plainfield Y. M. C. A. to take the place of Edwin Glaentzer, who resigned July 1. Mr. Lynn will begin his new duties September 1.

As assistant boys' secretary and also as employed boys' secretary Mr. Lynn was affiliated with the Newark branch. He has been particularly successfuly in his work among the boys who are classed as "employed." For several months past Mr. Lynn has had charge of the Essex Federation of Sunday-school Boys' Clubs and the City Council for Boys' Work, composed of older boys from the churches of Newark and vicinity. Mr. Lynn is an active worker among the young people of the Roseville Baptist church, Newark. He will attend the Boys' Work Institute at Silver Bay on Lake George, and come to Plainfield in time to start the work here in the fall.

CZAR'S TROOPS HOLD WARSAW

Germans Unable to Get Through Strong Defensive to Polish Capital.

GAIN AT DARDANELLES

Right Wing of Allied Force Makes Progress—Vigorous Fighting Renewed on Western Front—Germans Not Weakening Lines.

London, Aug. 3.—While the Austro-Germans continue to tighten the wings of their great eastern battle front, with success at both extremities, including the occupation of Mitau in the north and further progress beyond Chelm in South ast Poland, the situation before Warsaw proper remains unchanged and obscure.

Few additional details have reached London concerning the plans for the abandonment of the city, but apparently the time has not arrived for the Russians to relinquish their increasing precarious hold on the capital, or, at least, no word of its evacuation has come to London.

Ivangorod, southeast of Warsaw, heretofore erroneously reported invested, is now nearing that state in fact, according to the Berlin announcement, but from Ivangorod eastward to Chelm, and beyond, the Russians who had to abandon the railway are fighting most desperately in an endeavor to hold up Field Marshal von Mackensen's advance northward into Poland, a movement which seriously threatens the Russian centre retiring from Warsaw.

Several forty-two-centimetre guns to be used in the bombardment of Russian forts passed through Berlin last week on the way to the eastern front, according to a Central News despatch from Amsterdam.

Amsterdam, Aug. 3.—Heavy fighting is again raging on the British front in the region of Ypres, according to the correspondent of the Telegraaf at Courtrai. The sound of heavy artillery and of mine explosions is continuous. A large number of wounded are passing through Courtrai from Hooghe. Most of the casualties are from shrapnel wounds.

Contrary to reports that the Germans have weakened their lines on the western front in order to reinforce the armies in the east, the Luxemberg correspondent of the Tyd telegraphs that 140,000 German soldiers have passed through there on their way to France within the past ten days.

London, Aug. 3.—The Australian and New Zealand troops, constituting the right wing of the Allied forces on the Gallipoli Peninsula, yesterday successfully attacked the network of Turkish positions and succeeded in making an advance, says a statement given out by the official news bureau this afternoon.

The British steamer Ranza has been torpedoed and sunk. Her crew consisting of the captain and eleven men have been landed safely.

Paris, Aug. 3.—Today's French war statement says:

"In Artois in the vicinity of Souchez there have been vigorous engagements with grenades and petards during a part of the night. On the plateau of Quennevieres and in the valley of the Aisne there have been artillery conflicts of considerable intensity. Soissons has been bombarded.

"In the Argonne in the sector of St. Hubert, Marie Therese, Fontaine Aux Charmes and hill No. 24 conflicts continued throughout the night. The Germans attempted attacks at several points but we prevented them from debouching from their positions.

"In the Vosges the enemy launched an attack on the evening of August 2 against our positions at Lingekopf and three attacks against those at Barren Kopf. These were repulsed."

Seven persons who were seriously injured as a result of the sinking of the British steamer Clintonia Sunday morning have been taken to the naval hospital at Brest. A whale boat containing ten persons was dragged under as the vessel sank.

Washington, Aug. 3.—Consideration of a reply to the three British notes now in the hands of the Secretary of State will not be made until after copies of the communications are in the hands of the President and both officials have thoroughly digested the import of the communications. This was stated by Mr. Lansing today.

—Beginning this week, the store of Neumann Brothers Company, Watchung avenue and Fifth street, will close on Saturday evenings during August at 5 o'clock. Open all day Thursday.—Adv. 3 3 3 ***

JOIN MAYORS LEAGUE; SEWER COMPLAINTS

Dunellen Council Had Busy Session Last Night—Some Extensions to Sewer.

"The next matter of importance for the borough to take care of," said Mayor E. B. Latham at last evening's regular monthly session of the Council, "is the improving of North avenue." The Mayor made this statement in connection with a letter received from the secretary of the New Jersey League of Municipalities, which league is composed of the prominent mayors of the State, stating that Dunellen would only have to pay an annual fee of $5 to be represented in the league by its Mayor. The theory of the league is that two heads are better than one in solving municipal problems. The league being composed of the mayors of the State is also bound to make its influence felt, the Mayor stated, and he thought the league could undoubtedly assist the borough in getting $5,000 or $10,000 from the State for the improvement of North avenue after the sewers have been laid. Bound Brook is going to take up the matter of taking care of its main thoroughfare with this league, the Mayor stated.

In further recommending that the borough be represented the Mayor said that corporations were essential in politics as well as in business. He said that the annual dues were so small that even if the joining of this league proved to be of no value to the borough there was only a small sum to lose. The Mayor had the names of the officers of the league read and among them were Mayor Donnolly, of Trenton, who was president, and Mayor Calkins, of Plainfield, who was one of the vice presidents. A motion made by Councilman Castner and seconded by Councilman Neighbour that Dunellen be represented in this league by its Mayor and that the annual fee of $5 be paid was duly carried.

A petition was received from Frank Mohan and G. Huebmacher complaining of two public dumps on Third street, between Jackson and Jefferson avenues, the odor of which is unbearable. The petition was referred to the Board of Health.

A letter was received from Dr. Curry in which he complained again about the condition in which Fourth street had been left by the sewer contractors and stated as an illustration that at the time the letter was being written his automobile was lying almost on its side in the backfill of the sewer trench opposite his home. He said that the sewer contractors should be made to put the streets back into the condition in which they were found. Discussion arose here as to whether the borough was receiving a good job on the sewer work. Street Commissioner Isaac V. Smalley said that they were not as far as tamping went. Borough Engineer Churchill said that the specifications for the backfill were being lived up to. Mr. Wheeler, of the engineering firm of George W. Fuller, who was present, substantiated Engineer Churchill, explaining that there was a lot of clay in Dunellen soil and that the cave-ins were caused by the filled-back clay becoming soupy. Mr. Wheeler said this condition would remedy itself in time.

A letter was received from the Board of Trade applauding the action of the Council for the removal of weeds between property line and the curbs where that condition existed about town.

The collecting sewerage committee reported against the extension of the sanitary sewer along Centre street from the manhole 400 feet west of Fairview avenue to in front of the residence of Mrs. Aneret. Chairman Williams said that the Aneret place would be the only house benefitted by the extension, which would be a very expensive one owing to the presence of shale rock.

The committee recommended that the pipe of the system be extended along Orange street from Washington Avenue to New Market road, and that the sewer pipe along South avenue be not extended east of the Sutphen property.

The recommendations of the committee were adopted.

Firman H. Gise was awarded the contract of laying concrete crosswalks for the borough at the price of 34½ cents a square foot for 12 inch walk and 23½ cents a foot for 8 inch walk. Other bidders were Goldson W. Smalley and J. S. Hawkyard.

The sewer engineers reported that 3,300 feet of 8 inch sewer, 250 feet of 15 inch sewer and 200 feet of 10 inch sewer had been laid during the month, and that the total estimated cost of the work to date was $40,886.41.

The earth left over from sewer excavation, Chairman Castner reported, was being used to fill in low streets. "This means a saving to the borough in cases where the hole isn't too low," the Mayor said, "and now is the time to go carefully over our streets and see just where this earth is needed."

Current bills ordered paid aggregated $728.88. The Council adjourned to meet again on August 17.

UNDER AUTO WITH LAMP, GARAGE MEN PUT HIM OUT

An automobile stalled at the corner of North and Washington avennues, last evening, was set on fire through alleged carelessness of the owner, J. F. McCracken, of Middlebush.

McCracken, when his machine stopped, crawled under it with a lantern to investigate. The trouble was with a gas pipe which had become disconnected, and the fire was caused by the gasoline fumes which were ignited by the lantern. Not only did the car catch fire, but McCracken's clothes also caught fire and excitement was great for a time.

Employes of the nearby Barfus garage prevented the fire from spreading. As a result neither man or car were burned badly.

LIGHTNING AT DUNELLEN.

The home of William A. Craig on Second street was struck by lightning during the terrific storm Sunday afternoon. The lightning tore off part of the roof and knocked down the chimney. Some of the bricks and mortar landed with a terrific crash in the fire-place in the dining room of the Craig home and other brick was scattered about the yard and several were hurled over on the porch of Henry Behren's home, which adjoins Craig's.

Ralph Parker, who resides next to the Craigs, discovered that the roof was on fire and ran to help with other neighbors. The flames were fought with pails of water and were put out after ten minutes' hard work. William Behrens climbed through the hole made in the roof by the bolt of lightning and fought the flames from the roof. The estimated total damage is set at $200.

The resident of Wilhelm Lockenvitz at Equator Park was another place struck by the lightning. A part of the chimney was knocked to the ground and singles were torn off of the roof.

Charles Patrick McCarthy, of Plainfield, was arrested by Marshal Mohan last Thursday evening for being drunk, and was released under a suspended sentence when arraigned before Judge David S. Campbell, Friday morning. He was arrested again Saturday evening, when found hanging around the Central Railroad depot, and was sent to New Brunswick for thirty days by Judge Campbell yesterday morning.

Andrew McClosky, arrested by Marshal Shugars on Lincoln avenue, Saturday evening, while under the influence of alcohol, was released under a suspended sentence by Judge David S. Campbell, yesterday morning. McClosky in pleading before the court for mercy said that he had no friends, no money and no work.

SOME SPOONERS.

Walter Lewis, who is deaf and dumb, was assaulted and knocked down in the vicinity of the Lincoln School, Saturday evening. A couple were spooning on the steps of the school during the evening and it is believed that Lewis, who quite frequently deputizes himself as a special policeman, approached the spot to investigate and was subsequently attacked.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Hauser, of Brooklyn, are visiting Mr. Hauser's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Basil Hauser, of Walnut street.

A. R. Brakeley, of New York city, city editor of the New York Sun, visited his mother, Mrs. Helen Brakeley, of Front street, over the week-end.

Mrs. Ethel Fay, who has been stopping for the past two weeks with Mr. and Mrs. Edward Krinic, of Front street, has gone to Bernardsville to visit friends.

The regular monthly meeting of the Board of Education will be held in the Lincoln School, this evening.

Miss Etta Brown, of New York, is visiting Mrs. Robert F. Bogardus, of New Market road.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Dayton, of New Market road, entertained Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Avery, of Plainfield, Sunday.

NOON-DAY MEETING.

The men's noon-day gospel meeting will be held tomorrow in the Rescue Mission Hall, 10 Madison avenue, from 12:30 to 1 o'clock. Harry Drake will lead the meeting. All men are cordially invited to attend and there will be good music.

'Plains & Fanwood.

The monthly meeting of the Borough Council will be held in the Fanwood firehouse tomorrow night. The advisibility of placing additional street light on lower Martine avenue is due to come up for discussion, as well as the boundary line matter involving the three roads that separate the borough and township.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the All Saints' Episcopal church has completed arrangements for the annual summer sale, which will be held in the Fanwood firehouse tomorrow afternoon. The majority of the articles that will be on the various booths have been made by the members of the society during the past winter and spring. Tea will be served.

Bradley Barrett, of Westfield road, is spending the week at Keansburg, commuting to and from his position in New York.

Mrs. Alfred D. Beeken, of North avenue, has returned from spending the past ten days with relatives in Maryland.

John Kyte, the only local member of the Westfield Golf Club in the men's tennis doubles tournaments now in progress on the club courts, went through the first two rounds of play on Saturday safely, paired up with Donald Pearsalls, a Westfield youth.

If strikes by the various labor unions represented in the constructing of School No. 3, in the Graceland section of the township continue, the building will not be completed by September 1. That was the agreement when Charles Dennick, of Plainfield, was awarded the contract, but differences with the labor unions makes it look as if the structure will not be ready for use by the opening of the local schools for the fall term. The hod carriers were the last ones to go out.

A meeting of the Borough Board of Health has been caled by Dr. F. W. Wescott for tomorrow night for the purpose of trying to find a remedy for the sewer overflow. The members of the Mosquito Commission have been complaining a great deal lately regarding the overflow, it being their claim that it is the cause of the local insect pest.

Rain again held down the number present at the meeting of the various committees for the "community picnic" held in the Baptist church last night. During the past week the committees have arranged the majority of the details for the day, and now about all that remains is for August 11 to roll around. S. B. MacCauley will lay a water pipe to the grounds in Front street during the coming week, it being his donation toward the picnic, and the Fanwood Lumber and Supply Company will build tables. The Fanwood Stone Crushing Company has donated a silver cup for the point winner in the girls' athletic meet, making three cups to be awarded in the two meets, boys' and girls' besides the numerous medals and ribbons.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Van Riper, of Westeld road, are stopping at Atlantic City for the week.

The 'Plains Boy Scouts meet in the lecture-room of the Baptist church tonight, and the Willow Grove Boy Scouts will meet on the Herbst farm tomorrow night.

Clarence Slocum has returned from a two weeks' outing spent at Old Point Comfort.

Edison B. Samis, of North avenue, had quite a few experiences in his automobile on Sunday while on a trip through New Brunswick and other places in that section of the State. He left here early in the morning and had no trouble until caught in the storm on the return home. The car was dug from the mud on two occasions, and in going through the "hole in the wall," near New Brunswick, the water put out his lights. He had to be towed into Bound Brook, and, after making repairs, arrived home at midnight.

Only routine business was transacted at the August meeting of Bucket and Engine Fire Company, held in the firehouse in the 'Plains last night.

Mr. and Mrs. George Keuhn, of Westfield avenue, have been spending the past week at Asbury Park.

Harry Goodwin has returned to his position in Jersey City after enjoying two weeks' vacation.

The old busines will be continued at the same place by Leo and Max Schwed and Larry O'Donnell, the latter two having been connected with it for many years.

TWENTY-EIGHT YOUNGSTERS TAKEN TO CAMP ENDEAVOR

Twenty-eight Plainfield youngsters and two mothers were sent to Camp Endeavor yesterday for a ten days' vacation. The camp is conducted under the auspices of the Union County Christian Endeavor Societies, and is situated on the Watchung Mountains, just below Scotch Plains.

After being opened during the first week of July each year, it is visited by a new delegation of Endeavorers every two weeks until Labor Day. Miss Jennie Stoddard, of the Central Baptist Christian Endeavor Society, of Elizabeth, is in charge of the camp, proving a very able matron.

U. S. ASTOR THEATRE

Even the most ardent lovers of the gripping political drama could not complain of a dearth of tense moments in "The District Attorney," produced by the Lubin Company, released on the Paramount program and shown for the first time in Union county at the U. S. Astor Theatre, yesterday. The story is by no means unfamiliar, one of political grafters and the stool pigeon. The many strong dramatic situations have been admirably handled in the picturization. There are plenty of unexpected developments and some good comedy which has been introduced. Altogether, "The District Attorney" is a gripping story, good photography and excellent characterizations combine to make this feature an unusually good one.

Rita Jolivet, the noted French actress who stood on the main deck of the Lusitania while the ship was sinking after having been torpedoed by a German submarine and chatted with Charles Frohman who died in the disaster, will appear tomorrow at the Astor Theatre in "The Unafraid," in which she makes her debut in motion pictures.

A Galley o' Fun!

AROUND THE VICIOUS CIRCLE.

According to reliable newspapers from our large cities Vice has been suppressed.

It is true that thousands of men and women are still being worked at a starvation wage, and that thousands of others are so broken in mind and body that even if there were jobs for them they could not work one steady week.

It is true also that honest hard work still brings to the worker nothing but disease, accident, and premature old age, and that the only always-open road to wealth still lies through the exploitation of some form of Vice.

Yet it seems an admitted fact that Vice has been suppressed.

It is true, moreover, that wealth for some men is still piling up so fast that Vice becomes insensibly a necessary part of their lives. And it is true that other men are still so hard driven and underpaid that Vice for them supplies the only color in their black lives.

However, Vice has been suppressed.

But would it be impertinent to point out a second time that, notwithstanding the Suppression, those who must needs work for Vice for a livelihood and those who itch to send their money through the channels of Vice are still with us?

And might one remark that our present civilization is so wrapped about Vice and riveted to Vice that every dollar passing through our hands has at some time been stamped and fouled by Vice? That honorable men, refined women, exquisite children, venerable green-grocers, elegant upholsterers, and a myriad of others depend for their very livelihood on the continuance of Vice?

Nevertheless, Vice has been suppressed. Wonder just how we did it?

HORATIO WINSLOW.

For Ladies of Royal Families.

THE ART OF LETTER-WRITING.

"I've got to answer Jennie's letter, and I haven't the slightest idea what to say!" exclaimed Bessie Norris, as she leaned her elbows on the lid of her secretary and tried to think whether she had any thoughts to collect.

"Oh, nonsense!" said Kitty Winslow, briskly; "it's awfully easy to answer a letter. Give me her latest effusion and I'll show you how it's done. Let me see what she says;—um—yes—all right. I'll write this out for you and you can copy it."

Dear Jennie:

Of course, you must be happy! Seated on the sweet Moorish balcony, overlooking such a lovely stretch of country, with Edith lying in the hammock swung in front of your rocker, and two of the men lounging against the railing and smoking. How can you deceive those poor fellows so? Naturally they would be furious if they thought you were writing to a man.

You must have been greatly surprised to find Fred Travis and Will Meadowbrooke and Clifford Noyes there, when you didn't think there was going to be a man in the house. But that is just your luck. If you went to the North Pole, my dear, the inevitable man would turn up as soon as you had unpacked your trunk and shaken the wrinkles out of your best gowns.

So you went out for a moonlight drive with Will? No wonder you got in awfully late! I guess the horse was the only one of the trio that really wanted to go home. I had to smile at the idea of Mrs. Wyckoff refusing to be shocked because she knew you were safe with Will; he is such a good young man!

So he is; but "Not too good for human nature's daily food." As you probably found out!

I quite envy you the Van Nostrands' dance. It will surely be a swell affair; especially as so many nice people are coming up from New York for it. You must write and tell me all about it.

It is very stupid here now; but I am going to Lenox next week. Give my love to Edith and the rest of the girls, and tell them I wish I were there too. Yours devotedly, Bessie.

"There!" said Kitty. "You see how easy it is. I have filled nearly two sheets of paper."

"How funny!" exclaimed Bessie. "It reads all right, and yet you have only repeated her own letter right back to her, and I don't have to tell her a blessed new thing!"

"Yes," replied Kitty, "that's the proper way to answer a letter, and save your brains for more important purposes. And really, you know, I believe people are flattered to receive that kind of an answer."

HIS INTERPRETATION.

Mrs. Hornbeak (in the midst of her reading)—My goodness! What's this country coming to? Here is an article headed: "A Bartender to Every Two School-teachers."

AERIAL DEFENCES ARE BEING ORGANIZED

Aeroplane and Wireless Arms of Service Being Put in Shape on Coast.

Philadelphia, Aug. 3.—The first steps in the organization of efficient aerial defense of the Atlantic Coast have been taken here. Before many months have passed it is predicted that a network of wireless and telephone will have been organized into an intelligence system that will extend the full length of the Atlantic Coast.

In event of any attacks along the seaboard this great system will be of prime importance to the army and navy. Trained observers will know how to distinguish enemy air craft; the movement of strange airships will be tabbed at central headquarters by wireless and telephone reports; huge fleets of aeroplanes, under the National Guards of each State, will be ready for immediate action; in fact, it is aimed to prevent any surprise along the coast, and to thwart the designs of any enemy scouts who may be sent from fleets off shore.

Philadelphians have begun the working out of the plan with system and great care. There is no hurry or alarm, no eleventh hour shout of danger. But that any system of national defense must include an aerial information system is the opinion of military and naval experts, and it has seemed to the Aero Club of Pennsylvania that now is the time to organize. The system they are putting into effect is a duplication of the French and German network of intelligence. The best points of the aerial tactics of France and Germany are adopted here entirely, and those include the thoroughness and reliability of patriotic aids to the general system of national defense. Much of the work will be done by patriotic volunteers, and, in fact, the aerial defense will be brought to a success by patriotic Americans, rather than by the organized army, navy or National Guard.

The plan begun here is as follows:

With the Pennsylvania aeroplane station at the Philadelphia Navy Yard as its center, a huge aeronautical zone will encircle Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Delaware, also the Atlantic seaboard to the Delaware Capes. Ultimately this territory will be policed by aeronauts who will report passing aircraft. In time of war this policing of the air will be strict and regular. The section will also be covered by a network of wireless stations, by which all information of movements of aircraft will be communicated to the center. Amateur wireless stations will be used, and these are plentiful along the coast.

The Pennsylvania aeroplane station will be equipped with a fleet of aeroplanes and hydroplanes, which will comprise the first line of aerial defense in time of war, and in time of peace will afford opportunity for instruction for militiamen, navy yard forces and civilians.

Other States along the seaboard are greatly interested in the working out of the plan here. A fund of $50,000 is being raised, and the first contribution came from Governor Brumbaugh. Five flying craft have been offered to the outfit, and wireless stations have volunteered to cooperate. Great interest is manifested by the business men and bankers, and the system will be pushed to complete operation this month.

AUTOMOBILISTS LITTER DUKE'S PARK GROUNDS

A party of automobilists touring through this section of New Jersey, who visited Duke's Park, at Raritan, the other day, made such a nuisance of themselves as to give rise to the report that the park was to be closed to the general public hereafter. There were probably three hundred persons in the party, which came from the vicinity of Easton, Pa. The members took a run through the place as a part of their sight-seeing trip, and while inside the grounds threw papers, bottles and such things to the four winds without any regard for the appearance of the park. Their thoughtlessness or their baseness gave the park care-takers considerablue extra work, and it is said that Mr. Duke expressed himself as greatly displeased over the visitors' actions.

Duke's Park is thrown open to the public every Tuesday and Friday, and thousands of people make it a point to visit the place on these days. They usually regard the kindness of the park's owner and refrain from anything that would tend to give trouble or extra work to the employes.

BIRTHDAY SOCIAL.

The monthly birthday social given by St. Mary's Social Club will be repeated tonight in T. A. B. Hall on West Fourth street, all the members whose birthdays occur during this month being the guests of the club. The committee having charge of the former events will also conduct the affair tonight, and reports from that quarter say that several hours of enjoyment have been planned. Music will be furnished by an orchestra for those who wish to dance. Refreshments will be served.

ONE YEAR OF WAR.

Europe completes tomorrow one full year of war. The anniversary will be one of mourning throughout the world. King George, of England, it is said, in the cable dispatches, will attend St. Paul's Cathedral, with the other leaders of Great Britain, to invoke God's help. Other rulers and leaders will hold similar ceremonies, and August fourth will bring no joy to these solemn gatherings.

The day is likely to force a retrospect in the minds of the European rulers. The nefarious work of a year has wrought many changes. There is no country in Europe that has benefitted. The victories of warfare that assuage much of the human grief are lacking. Brilliant achievement and valiant sacrifice have marked the conduct of the war from all quarters.

The war thus far has been a draw, in the eyes of disillusioned observers. All of the terror, the suffering, the toll of death and the impoverishment of great nations has gone for nought. The map of Europe remains practically unchanged.

But Europe is in economic ruins. Germany's great industries are broken, her trade wiped out. Her industries were the very foundation of her greatness. France and Russia are heavy sufferers economically, in their agriculture and budding industries. England, though less affected, owing to her geographical situation and the calmness of her people, has had a growing problem to face.

The cost of war is untold. Suffering, either mental or physical, cannot be figured. This, the greatest curse of war, is spread far and wide through Europe and the possessions of European empires. Allied with it is the drain on the manhood of Europe, the constant elimination of the fittest of the human species. Next to the horror, the awful suffering of the present, must be figured that great loss to future humanity, when offspring must come from the least fitted of the species.

The coming of peace is but a hope. The people of Europe have no say in such matters. War-sick are the people of Europe, as shown in reports reaching America from many sources in many countries. The only prospect of peace, so far as the best authorities can foresee, lies in an economic breakdown that would force peace. The financial situation is growing more acute from month to month. The credit of nations, as of men, is limited. A possible repudiation of war debts has led to serious checking of loans. With no immediate prospect of peace, and no signal advantage on either side in the big war, the lenders on both sides are bringing pressure to bear toward decisive manoeuvres that may end the war.

England is expending over ten million of dollars a day to prosecute her share of the war. Most of the other nations allied with her are daily expending a similar sum, while Germany's daily expenses are figured at twenty millions. An authoritative estimate of the cost of the war during the year which closes tomorrow gives the following figures:

Germany	$ 9,480,000,000
England	5,000,000,000
France	6,500,000,000
Austria-Hungary	6,000,000,000
Russia	6,000,000,000
Belgium	2,500,000,000
Total Estimate	$35,480,000,000

The question as to whether the war will last another year, or even through the winter, is considered by American financiers wholly a question of credits. Not one of the nations involved will let money stand in the way of prosecution of the war. Yet the pinch must inevitably come; the quicker it comes, the quicker will Europe arise from its lapse into barbarism.

"NEAR-SIDE" STOPS.

During the heavy rains which have deluged this section recently, there have been frequent complaints registered with the Daily Press against the practice adopted a few weeks ago by the Public Service Corporation of stopping the trolley cars on the "near side" of the streets. The practice frequently brings the rear platforms of the cars opposite greater or smaller seas of mud, and many a pair of white shoes has been ruined because of it. The cars are stopped in this position because of the following provision of the traffic law passed by the last Legislature:

When such established stops are at road intersections or street crossings the near-side of said intersection or crossing shall be designated as the established stop except at special intersections or crossings or under special conditions where in the judgment of the street railway company, the Public Utility Commissioners or the police authorities, the convenience or safety of the public will be better served, the far-side may be designated as the established stop.

With such a clear statement in the law, there is no relief in sight until the next Legislature meets, and it can be repealed or modified. There may be a real necessary reason for making the cars stop in this way, but it does not appear necessary to the ordinary citizen.

TILTS ON COUNCIL ISSUES

en was that certain residents of the city living over the present Grant avenue boundary line did not feel that they were getting their fifty cents' worth in a ride from the North Avenue station. It developed that the cabbies and taxi men were taking round trips in that direction at the present time of about three and one-eighth miles for a quarter and President Clay and Councilmen Cose and Martin expressed themselves as being of the opinion that a ride to the other side of Grant avenue was worth an additional fare. As a result a public hearing will be held on the question at the first meeting in September, the ordinance becoming official when it was passed on one reading last night.

Councilman Blatz next assumed the spotlight space vacated by Mr. Hylan and proceeded as a trouble-maker by offering a resolution providing for a monthly license fee of $200 for itinerant merchants. The "fly-by-night" nuisance is one that has long been considered by the city fathers and there has been considerable agitation locally for a license fee. When the matter came up last night, however, opposition developed in the form of its legality and probable effect. Corporation Counsel Charles A. Reed stated that difficulty would be encountered in enforcing the measure but added that it was framed merely for the purpose of keeping out those merchants who declare their business to be of the "fly-by-night" variety. This matter was also laid over for a public discussion.

WILL LEAD MEETING.

John LeMatty, of the Rescue Mission, assisted by his workers, will have charge of the service in the Salvation Army Hall, 157 East Second street, tomorrow night. The service will start at 8 o'clock. All interested are cordially invited to attend.

HIGH SCHOOL POOL POPULAR WITH FAIR SEX SWIMMERS

The regular Wednesday night swimming classes will meet in the Plainfield High School pool tomorrow night. Since the summer schedule has opened the class has been unusually popular, many girls from the Plainfield and North Plainfield High Schools attending. Miss Marion Wean, a graduate of the Plainfield High School, class of 1913, is the instructor in charge, and many young women who knew absolutely nothing of the aquatic art have rapidly become acquainted with the various strokes used.

Because of some question as to admittance to the pool, many young girls have been backward in applying for entrance. The privilege of using the pool is open to any young woman of this city or borough who complies with the rules of the recreation committee. Girls, as individuals, may enter the public class, which meets every Wednesday, or may form private classes. Parents of the girls are invited at all times to view the classes, seating room being provided at the side of the pool.

When Mr. Salter was called upon he explained that the adoption of a distinctive emblem was the whole basis of the campaign, for the people of the city would be urged to buy only at stores which displayed that emblem, which is to become well focused on the mind of the public by liberal advertising. A committee has been named to secure such an emblem for this city, and it will soon start a campaign for the purpose.

During the discussion over the time when the membership campaign is to be held, Daniel Hulick, Fred H. Firstbrook, M. C. VanArsdale and J. J. Varley, as well as President Herman Schwed discussed the advisability of doing the work now or later, and September was finally decided upon.

Mr. Bullock gave the gathering a heart-to-heart talk on some things he had noticed and not noticed, from the viewpoint of a commuter who is interested in the local business man. He said that there are entirely too many civic bodies here, all working at cross purposes, and that there was apparently no concerted effort to do one thing at a time. He believes that the reason more has not been accomplished is because they have not tried to do the right things. He decried the waste of money which is annually charged to advertising by merchants, and which really should go to a "yellow dog" fund, so far as any real benefit is derived from it. He said that the rule of the Business Men's Association to refuse to take advertising in programs, or contribute to all sorts of balls and so-called charity affairs was a splendid one.

When he declared that the business men are the backbone of the town, and can collectively wield an effective influence, he was greeted with vigorous applause. He said that in mentioning the failure of the men to "get together" as has been the case in the past, he did not mean it as criticism, but to demonstrate how much more effective the organization can be made. The speaker scored foolish competition, which he said was now seldom seen, and urged the hearers to strive to make their store service the best possible. He asked the men present, as taxpayers, to take a more active interest in local affairs and to occasionally attend Council meetings.

Morris Abrams urged upon the members the necessity of getting more industries to locate in Plainfield. He said that he thought a committee should be named to raise a fund to buy a lot and offer it to some big manufacturing plant which might be thinking of changing its location. This caused another discussion, some of the members believing that the organization should complete the membership campaign before doing anything more, and during it there were some spirited remarks from Mr. Abrams, M. C. VanArsdale, Samuel Rothberg and Henry Rosenbaum. A motion to appoint a committee to look into the matter, without power, was carried, and Mr. Schwed named Mr. Abrams, DeWitt Hubbell and Clifford D. Manning.

MOOSE LODGE MEMBERS ENJOY INDOOR CLAM BAKE

Plainfield Lodge, No. 310, Loyal Order of Moose, held an indoor clambake last night in the club rooms. After the regular meeting the welfare committee tendered the bake to about forty ebers of the order. A short entertainment, which consisted of the rendition of the latest song hits by the lodge quartet, composed of James Ennis, Dominic Muldowney, C. E. Pagliucca and Victor Lorton, followed. An Italian duet was also sung by Frank Caruso and A. Sasso. G. Beggs presided at the piano.

Directly after the conclusion of the entertainment short speeches were made by several members. Mention was made of the fact that Dictator G. J. Egel, Jr., is atending the Grand about forty members of the order. A and that Michael Whalen is acting dictator. Communications received from Mr. Egel state that he has visited Los Angeles and Santa Catalina Island, and that he is now in San Francisco.

A committee of two, G. Ball and C. E. Pagliucca, was appointed to inaugurate a pinochle, euchre and pool tournament. The names of those who wish to enter the competition must be registered with the committee in charge. Two solid gold moose head buttons were offered to the winners. The members enjoyed themselves in various way until midnight.

The committee last night was as follows: James Ennis, G. Ball, J. T. McCarty, Victor Lorton, Louis Felring, M. Whelan, Dominic Muldowney, A. Sasso, A. B. Stites, J. Kirkpatrick, Frank Caruso, G. Beggs, T. Parson and Charles E. Pagliucca.

Hereafter the Moose men will enjoy an entertainment every Monday night.

WEATHER REPORTS SHOW EXCESSES DURING JULY

Weather reports for the month of July made public this morning by John Nagle, the local forecaster, indicate that there has been an excess of temperature above the normal of 2.8 degrees and that a 1.55 inch excess has been recorded in precipitation. During seventeen of the thirty-one days in July .01 inches or more of precipitation was noted and but eight days were clear, fourteen partly clear and nine cloudy. The average temperature for the month was 72.1 degrees and the normal was 69.3. The average precipitation was 6.95 inches and the normal was 5.40 inches.

The mercury soared highest on July 31 when it reached the 98 mark, and the lowest recorded for the month was established on July 10 and 25 when the mercury reached 53 degrees. The greatest daily range was also recorded on these two days, 28 degrees being entailed. The least daily range, of 8 degrees, occurred on July 2. The highest record for the month in twenty-nine years was set in 1904 when the thermometer reached 104 and the lowest for same length of time is 43, established in 1890.

The accumulated excess in rainfall since January 1 now amounts to 3.78 inches. The greatest amount of rainfall during twenty-four hours, 1.80 inches, fell on July 5.

The prevailing wind for the month was southwest. The heaviest rainfalls for July occurred as follows: 1887, 9.31 inches; 1889, 15.52 inches; 1897, 13.92 inches; 1904, 8.06 inches; 1905, 8.19 inches; 1914, 7.59 inches.

WORRY IS A PERIL

It Often Causes Ills Greater by Far Than Itself.

LIABLE TO LEAD TO DEATH.

In Many Cases It Is an Important Agent in the Production of Diabetes, Gout, Goiter, Chronic Heart Disease and Other Physical Troubles.

With the possible exception of those in the period of happy childhood, every one is at times a victim of worry. In fact, the average individual thinks of and accepts worry much as he thinks of and accepts disagreeable weather conditions—as one of the bitter things of life which must be taken with the sweet. In other words, he regards it as a fact, but does not attempt to analyze it.

The wisest thinkers of all times have recognized the condition, and many well known writers have expressed their views of its psychology. What has not been sufficiently recognized, however, until very recently, is the importance of worry, not merely in itself, as implying the absence of happiness, but as the cause of ills far greater than itself, the cause predisposing to secondary manifestations which would otherwise have been escaped altogether.

Having fully comprehended this fact, the next logical step in scientific progression is to determine the exact mechanism by which these disturbances are brought about. Through the combined efforts of psychologists and physiologists we are just beginning to reach the true physical basis of this important subject.

The keynote of worry is beyond doubt a disturbance of the mind, says Dr Erle D. Forrest in the Medical Record. It may be defined as the restless consciousness of all incumbrances which we accept under protest.

To elaborate this definition, it is the mind's unrest about anything which concerns us, whether it relates to our future our dear ones, a cause we have espoused, our happiness, our salvation our means of support, our position in life, our health, our fate or our success in general. It does not concern solely in our interest in all these things; it is rather a disquietude arising from a feeling of helplessness before the various chances and claims of life.

The popular opinion seems to be that the mental condition is one of depression, possibly because the physical manifestations are chiefly depressive in nature. The fact cannot be too strongly emphasized, however, that the primary mental condition is one of overactivity and, moreover, overactivity along lines of fixed ideas.

Without taking up individually the phases of worry brought about by the various specific causes the physical manifestations of worry in general may be said to be depression of respiration, sighing, disturbances in rate and force of heart beat, vasomotor changes, disturbances in secretion, pallor, cold extremities, relaxation and decreased motility of the alimentary tract, dilatation of the pupil, loss of weight, insomnia and general physical exhaustion.

These disturbances may vary in their prominence and may appear as groups of symptoms characterizing well known diseases. Thus worry is sometimes an important agent in the production of diabetes, gout, exophthalmic goiter and chronic heart disease.

Inasmuch as worry is primarily a disease of the mind, and since every portion of the body is intimately connected with every other part by a network of nervous tissue of great complexity, we naturally seek for the causes of these manifestations, first of all, in the nervous system.

In every individual at a given time there is a limited amount of potential energy stored up in the cells of the brain. This function seems to rest in the chromatin granules of the nerve cells, and it has been shown repeatedly that a liberation of nervous energy, whether in response to a psychic or sensory stimulus, results in a physiological degeneration of the chromatin granules, and consequently of the cells themselves. Obviously a prolonged discharge of nervous energy diminishes by so much the amount left in the brain cells. Furthermore, stimuli of sufficient number, intensity or duration may cause exhaustion and death.

Origin of the Sun Flag.

The origin of the emblem of the sun as the Japanese national symbol dates back to time immemorial. The first record of its use on land is that of a famous war lord of the eleventh century; again in the fifteenth century the emblem was adopted by the feudal lords and warriors. The connection of the emblem with the navy is also deep rooted, having had local usage as early as 71 A. D., and a more extended field in 110 A. D. The official adoption of the sun flag to represent the nation took place in 1810.—Bulletin of the Japan Society.

STORMS PLAYED HAVOC IN SOMERSET COUNTY

Somerville, Aug. 3.—The rain Sunday night and yesterday afternoon amounted almost to a cloudburst in the Raritan River valley. No less than twenty-three automobiles had to be abandoned on the road near Bound Brook. The hotels here were filled with motorists from New York and north Jersey stranded because they could not run their cars through the water. After the rain stopped and the waters began to recede the roads were impassable. No less than three county bridges were washed out.

Yesterday by making detours most of the parties were able to get away, but it was noon before traffic was anything like normal.

Out on the Somerset Country Club golf links the rain and brooks crossing it created new hazards and tore out turf that had taken years to nurse into perfection. Two bridges on the course were carried away. The tennis and other lawns and courts were buried deep in mud.

Troop 8, Boy Scouts, of Somerville, was in camp at William Bradley's place, but were driven out with their mothers and sisters, who were visiting them for the afternoon, when a canal bank gave way and inundated the ground. Scout Master Edward Tenner and the larger boys had a hard task getting the smaller boys and the women and girls to high ground. Supt. Smith, of Bradley estate, came to their aid and furnished blankets and hot coffee and also shelter in various buildings upon the place.

Four hundred chickens belonging to Gus Vanderveck at Lottery Field were in the coop when it left its foundations. Mr. Vanderveck had moored the coop to a tree when he saw the danger, but after a while the rope broke and the coop went down the stream, broke up and drowned the fowls. Peter Reich's big outbuildings floated off and brought up against trees a mile or so below where they belonged.

During the storm a bolt of lightning hit a house on Fairview avenue, but did not set it on fire.

MAY FORCE ACTION IN MEXICO AT ONCE

Food Conditions in Capital so Bad That U. S. Must Intervene.

Washington, Aug. 3.—Food conditions in Mexico are steadily growing worse, and will result in speedier action by the United States than had been planned, officials admitted today. Secretary Lansing admitted that he is in constant communication with President Wilson on the subject, and it was strongly intimated that the expected new step by the administration may be looked for at any time now, in spite of the fact that the German and British situtions are engrossing much of the attention of officials.

General Hernandez, who has cooperated with the Villista forces in Northern Mexico, and has been in command of Coahuila, has surrendered to General Carranza, and is only awaiting terms on which to disarm his force, according to a dispatch to the Carranza agency here today. The disaffection is pointed by the Carranzistas as indicative that the Villa cause is disintegrating.

Announcement that the United States had asked the co-operatioon of South and Central America in an effort to settle the Mexican difficulty caused widespread interest today in official and diplomatic circles. A conference on the subject will be held Thursday afternoon between Secretary Lansing and the diplomatic representatives of six of the leading Latin-American nations.

While there had been no expectation of any action by this government on the Mexican situation pending President Wilson's return from Cornish, N. H., recent almost kaleideoscopic developments in Mexico, particularly in Mexico City, are believed to have prompted the administration to immediate steps. Just what those steps will be and how far the joint action, of whatever sort it may be, between the United States and the Pan-American group will extend were subject of considerable speculation here today.

The conference is the direct result of the failure of the Mexican factional leaders to heed President Wilson's recent statement urging them to compose their differences and restore peace in the southern republic.

The conference will be of an informal and confidential nature. It was believed here by those who have been most closely following the Mexican situation, however, that there would be some sort of joint Pan-American action, even to joint military action if necessary. Attention was directed to the utterances by the President, in which he had spoken of "mutual helpfulness" between the United States and the other American republics, and his gave rise to the belief that he and been thinking for some time past of joint Pan-American action in Mexico. It is not believed, however, that military operations are being contemplated as a next step.

It was recalled also that President Wilson a year ago accepted very gladly the "good offices" extended by the representatives here of Brazil, Argentina and Chili, which led to the Mexican mediation conference at Niagara Falls. These representatives of the A. B. C. powers, with the ministers from Bolivia, Uruguay, and Guatemala, are the Pan-American representatives invited to Thursday's conference.

PERMIT IS ISSUED FOR SAURER PLANT EXTENSION

The permit for the addition to the Saurer plant of the International Motor Company, on West Front street, was issued today. The estimated cost of the work was placed on the permit at $22,000. The plans and application were filed with Building Inspector T. O. Doane last week, but the permit could not be issued at the time because of the omission of the statement relative to the estimated cost. John Brown, of Philadelphia who drew the plans, will have general charge of the work. The building will be two stories high, 120x12[illegible] feet in dimensions, and the work will be pushed through to rapid completion.

MASSENA STRIKE BROKEN.

Syracuse, New York, Aug. 3.—With the ring leaders of the strike at the plant of the Aluminum Company of America at Massena, New York, in jail at Canton and large numbers of the men returning to their work today, it is probable that the three companies of the National Guard called out Saturday will be returned to their homes Thursday. Fourteen of the strike leaders were taken to Canton under guard by troops and have been held for action by the Grand Jury under $500 bail each.

BLACK RUST SERIOUS.

New York, Aug. 3.—S. B. Chapin & Co. received the following this morning frob O. K. Lyle: "Fargo, N. D., Aug. 3.—Black rust in this vicinity is developing fast. The situation is now very serious. The earliest cutting will be a week from now. A large area appears to have it, and it is probably spreading."

PEACE COMMISSION IN HAYTI IS HARD AT WORK

Washington, Aug. 3.—Officials of the United States government today awaited the outcome of the new peace move in Haiti. A commission composed of Haitians and an American naval officer has been charged with the task of restoring the government of Haiti by Rear Admiral Caperton, head of the American expeditionary forces at Port-au-Prince, in co-operation with prominent natives.

In advising the United States government of the action, Rear Admiral Caperton said he had sent the commissioners to Cape Haitien, where the Bobo revolution originated, to disarm the natives and bring the rival political leaders to Port-au-Prince to join in a general peace conference.

HAVE ALL MONEY NEEDED FOR EASTLAND RELIEF WORK

Chicago, Aug. 3.—The raising of funds for sufferers from the steamship Eastland disaster practically ceased today following an announcement by Mayor Thompson and the chairman of the relief committee that the amount already collected was sufficient to care for the relatives of the victims. The subscriptions, it was announced, are now in excess of $330,000. Benefits scheduled in the next few days are expected to greatly increase the amount.

TRANSFER MONEY BY MAIL.

Washington, Aug. 3.—Under an order issued today by Secretary McAdoo all public moneys and securities will be transported by mail instead of express. The order will become effective August 15, and it is expected that it will result in a saving to the government and to the banks of many thousands of dollars a year. The moneys and securities will move by registered mail and will be insured.

STORM WARNING ISSUED.

New York, Aug. 3.—The following storm warning was sent out by wireless this morning: "Hoist northeast storm warning, Boston to Delaware Breakwater. Storm over South Carolina, moving north, and another over Indiana moving northeast. Strong northeast winds this afternoon and tonight."

WANT OKUMA TO STAY.

Tokio, Aug. 3.—The elder statesmen have recommended to Emperor Yoshihito that the Cabinet, headed by Count Okuma, as Premier, be requested to remain in office unconditionally. Count Okuma said he would take up with his colleagues the question of withdrawing their resignation.

NO TRACE OF CORNELIUS.

Englewood, Aug. 3.—Officials of the Citizens' National Bank, of this city, were without any clue today to the whereabouts of Abraham Cornelius, Jr., cashier of the institution who mysteriously disappeared last Wednesday, taking with him $11,000 of the bank's funds.

SNOW IN NORTHWEST.

Sioux, Ia., Aug. 3.—Snow fell early today north of Sioux City. A report from Aberdeen, S. D., stated that heavy snow had fallen there during the night.

ACCIDENT IN ARSENAL.

Philadelphia, Aug. 3.—An accident in the ordinance department at Frankfort Arsenal this morning caused the death of an employe and the injurying of three men.

THE WHITE HOUSE AND WOMAN SUFFRAGE.

Among the recent occupants of the White House, the younger generation has shown strong interest in woman suffrage.

Miss Margaret Wilson, who, as is well known, takes a keen interest in social questions, is a suffragist, as is her sister, Mrs. Francis B. Sayre.

Miss Helen Taft, who has just graduated at Bryn Mawr, is an advocate of equal suffrage, as were the daughters of ex-President Theodore Roosevelt.

The Misses Cleveland, unlike their mother, Mrs. Thomas F. Preston, are suffragists and have been taking an active part in suffrage work in Princeton, where they were associated with Miss Hibben, the daughter of the president of the university.

Engineering Triumph.

"Why are you studying that dachshund so intently?"

"I consider him an architectural triumph of Mother Nature's," explained the bridge builder. "See how nicely the stress is calculated to the span."—Judge.

WILL NOT WIDEN SOMERSET STREET

Common Council Decided to Drop Much-discussed Proposition.

Owing to the failure of certain property owners to live up to their agreement to sign a petition making them responsible for $15,000 worth of the expense entailed in the proposed widening of Somerset street between Front street and the bridge, the councilmanic street committee at its meeting last night decided to drop the matter. This means that Somerset street will not be widened, either now or in the future, inasmuch as the erection of the brick building at the juncture of Front and Somerset streets will practically render impossible any widening at this point.

When the matter came before the Council at its last meeting all of the property owners, with the exception of those on the two corners, were said to be in favor of the proposition and that they had pledged $15,000 to promote the improvement. When Chairman Francis J. Blatz, of the street committee, attempted to make the individuals affix their signatures to such an agreement, however, they balked.

GET ALLEGED MURDERER.

New York, Aug. 3.—Among those in the line-up at police headquarters today was Giuseppi Fosolo, a laborer, living at Little Falls, N. J., who is charged with the murder of Frank Cossono, a merchant, of Tompkinsville, Staten Island, four years ago. Fosolo was arrested at the instance of the murdered man's brother.

JACK THONNEY, BIG LEAGUE PITCHING STAR, ADDED TO THE RANKS OF T. A. B. S. OUTFIT

At the weekly City League meeting held in the Daily Press office last night several matters of importance came up for discussion. Despite the inclement weather each of the teams had a good representation and enthusiasm was exhibited by all of those present. In the absence of President Walter Dobbins, who is on his vacation, the vice president, Britt Martin, occupied the chair. The secretary announced that before any action regarding the giving of watch fobs would be taken by the Spaulding Company they must receive a schedule of the games played and to be played. This matter was ordered attended to. Action was taken also on the matter of marking fields. The managers of the various teams promised to attend to this. There was some discussion regarding the playing of one man with one of the league teams after having been used by one of the other teams and dropped by that team. The question is still open.

Announcement was made that Henry Hansen would not act as umpire during the rest of this season owing to the fact that his mother died during the past week. Hymie Abrams, the next man in line, will draw Hansen's assignment. There were a few changes made in the lineups of the teams and those made met with the approval of all present. Frank Walls, a cousin of Frank Bruggy, replaces Billy O'Loughlin, Tommy Mullin takes the place of Russ Day and the name of Jack Thoney, the big league star, was added to the Tab roster. The changes in the Saurer roster were as follows: Pasch replacing Huffmeister, Haberman replacing T. Mullin. The name of Eddie Conshay was also added.

The game scheduled to be played between the Baptists and the Hopes this Saturday will be staged on the Hope field and not, as arranged at first, on the Baptist grounds. Owing to this change Dan Randolph, the Baptist manager, placed his field at the disposal of the Saurer and Clinton Avenue teams. Both the parties concerned accepted the offer and the conflict will be staged on the independent diamond.

Some of the managers expressed themselves as feeling hurt over the fact that some of their men have deserted the ranks on certain occasions without informing them of their intention of so doing. As all the business transacted met with the approbation of the persons present and as there were no other questions to be settled the meeting adjourned.

SPORT BRIEFS

Vice President Barnard, of the Cleveland Americans, yesterday denied the report that Joe Jackson, outfielder, was to be sold to the Chicago White Sox for $20,000 and several players.

Harry Stone and Johnny Marto fought a ten-round draw at the Olympic Athletic Club, New York, last night.

S. J. Griffin, of San Francisco, was defeated by Norris Williams, 2nd, in the fifth round of the Longwood challenge tennis tournament yesterday at Boston.

Jack Hemple and Gunboat Smith have been matched to box ten rounds at the St. Nicholas Athletic Club, New York, August 11.

Charles Meara, left fielder of the Troy club, of the New York State League, has been hold to the Boston National League. Meara joined the Braves yesterday at Pittsburgh.

George Maisel, brother of Fritz Maisel, the Yankee third baseman, according to a dispatch from Scranton, Pa., will be sold to the Detroit Americans.

AMATEUR BALL JINGLES

"Bus" Dunham, the midget outfielder of the Baptists, performed splendidly both in the field and at the bat for the "unfortunates" when they registered their initial win Saturday. His ability to earn a base on balls marks him as a heady player.

Compton, another Baptist outfielder, got two hits Saturday and walked three times out of six trips to the plate. The fact that he was hit on the head by a pitched ball prevented his nailing another safety.

Gene Downs proved that he is a valuable player. Three hits out of four tries is some record.

Gawler, the youth who "filled in" for the Saurers, Saturday, is a good fielder but a poor sticker.

Russ Stewart certainly had the Indian sign on the "Anti-Liquor" youths Saturday. Two hits were all he allowed them and they were lucky to get them.

"Dipper" Jones and his clan were treated roughly in Newark, Sunday. However, the locals are going to schedule a return game with their conquerors and they are out for "real revenge."

Those Giants may appear here if enough enthusiasm can be aroused. Let the shops and stores close some Thursday afternoon and let the big boys come forward to meet Herr Martin and his Saurers.

Art Grisley and Eddie Coughlin failed to get their weekly hits Saturday. We all contend that something unusual happened. However, Tommy Heron made up for the deficit.

When a catcher pitches a winless combination to victory it's time for the victims to wake up. "Hub" Stine accomplished this feat and the "Sauerkraut" fell down before him.

Thoney and Kyle—some battery. One a star and the other a comer, is the way we view it. Jack pitched with discretion to the younger lad Sunday.

RANDOLPH BEATEN.

The Perth Amboy Pacers lost a six-inning argument to the Elizabeth T. A. B. S. Sunday, the score being 3 to 0. Cliff Randolph twirled for the losers and allowed only three hits, while Matty Sheridan slipped them over for the victors and gave only two hits.

ANOTHER BASEBALL LEAGUE IS FORMED

Parker Field Circuit Branches Out Into a New Body.

George W. Wriston, supervisor of Parker Field, has organized a new league at that popular playground. The new circuit will be known as the "Major League," and the name of the Junior League will be changed to that of "Minor League." There are at present three teams is the major circuit and two in the smaller league. Any boy in the city can try for a berth on one of the teams, the only requirement being that he present his name to Mr. Wriston before the rosters of the various teams are completed. The lists of the players on the various teams are as follows:

Major League.

Team Three—"Kid" Brennan, George Kennedy, Mundy, George Gary, "Duke" Poling, Bobby Lee, Garthwaite, Frank Mullin, Tony Sabino, Jimmy McNee, Bob Morely, Elliott, Oscar Dilts and Sam Semer.

Team Two—"Sid" Butler, Joe Newell, H. Wilson, Burke, Martenis, Clark, Culhane, Keating, Jno. Newell, Jack Rimmer, Walt McCarty, V. Mullin and Tony Esaldo.

Team One—Perrine, Boos, Clarkson, Meakin, Golison, L. Wilson, Trotter, R. Vail, Muir, Simmons, Coleman, Phil Mills and Doane.

Minor League.

Team One—Newell, Culhane, Rimmer, Gerlock, Greenwood, Lee, McDonough, Hendricks, P. Vail, Sachar, Epstein, P. Maguire.

Team Two—D. Randolph F. Hunt, E. Greenwood, R. Allen, Richards, R. Clarkson, K. Vail, Hickins, E. Vail, E. Grader, H. Beffar and J. Strapp.

As yet no names have been given the outfits, but the following schedule for the Major League has been mapped out by the supervisor:

August 2, teams 1 vs. 2.
August 3, teams 1 vs. 3.
August 4, teams 2 vs. 3.
August 5, teams 2 vs. 1.
August 6, teams 3 vs. 1.
August 9, teams 3 vs. 2.
August 10, teams 1 vs. 2.
August 11, teams 1 vs. 3.
August 12, teams 2 vs. 3.
August 13, teams 2 vs. 1.
August 16, teams 3 vs. 1.
August 17, teams 3 vs. 2.
August 18, teams 1 vs. 2.
August 19, teams 1 vs. 3.
August 20, teams 2 vs. 3.
August 23, teams 2 vs. 1.
August 24, teams 3 vs. 1.
August 25, teams 3 vs. 2.
August 26, teams 1 vs. 2.
August 27, teams 1 vs. 2.
August 30, teams 2 vs. 3.

All postponed games will be played in September. This schedule is subject to change, as other teams may enter the league.

FAST BALL PROMISED BY THESE JUNIOR CONTENDERS

The Plainfield Juniors will meet the Dunellen Scouts on Maurer Oval, Dunellen, Saturday. The last time these two clans met, the affair ended in an argument, the score being 10 to 10. Sidney Butler, the young "Dick Redding," and Max Marsh, the second "Ivy Wingo," will compose the local batery, while Maskell and Eder will be in the points for the villagers. As the Juniors are some of the fastest ball players in this city and as the Scouts are the representative ballists of Dunellen, a fast go is anticipated.

The lineup of the local team is as follows: Sid Butler, p; Max Marsh, c; Megonegal, 1b; Sam Semer, 2b; Haberman, 3b; Vincent Mullin, ss; Randolph, cf; Brandt, lf, and Trotter, rf.

Robert Bogardus, Dunellen's premier umpire, will probably handle the indicator on this occasion.

Hymen Abrams—Umpire. Hereafter Hymie's calling cards will read thusly.

CENTRAL RAILROD A. A. PLANS LABOR DAY GAMES

The Central Railroad athletic games will be held this year on Labor Day, Monday, September 6, under the auspices of the athletic association of the railroad. The games will be run off at their athletic field in Communipaw, and the following events will make up the program:

100 yard dash, sack race, 220 yard dash, shoe race, 440 yard dash, running broad jump, scramble for children, 12 years of age or under; running high jump, ladies' race, relay race, exhibition tennis game, baseball game between Central Railroad of New Jersey and some other trunk line team.

Silver and bronze medals will be awarded to the successful contestants in the athletic events and handsome prizes will be presented to those who are winners in the other events.

Applications for admission to the various contests should be made not later than August 15. The races in which women and children may enter are the sack race, shoe race and scramble. The chairman would like to hear from any of the women and children who may wish to enter.

It is expected that a large delegation of local railroad men will take in the meet.

COVALESKIE REAL COMEBACK.

Is One of the Best Pitchers in the American League.

One of the most remarkable comebacks in baseball is Harry Covaleskie, the left handed pitcher of the Detroit club. Covaleskie was considered out of major league baseball when five or six years ago he was sent to the Southern league. For a time his work there was only mediocre, and those who were responsible for his going there felt satisfied that no mistake had been made.

But Covaleskie continued to improve and finally became a star in that company, and Detroit drafted him. He now is one of the best pitchers in the league and is very likely to make a better record this year than he did last season.

team he created a big stir by his effective pitching.

In the early part of this season he slumped off a bit, but now it is believed that he has hit his last year's stride and that he will win many a game for the Brooklyns before the season ends. He is a brother of the famous Frank, who helped the great Chicago Cubs win several pennants and two world's championships.

COBB TAKES TWO ON A BUNT

Nearly Always Goes From First to Third.

Ty Cobb takes a long lead off first when the next man bunts. When the pitcher fields the bunt and shoots to second Cobb is well past the keystone sack, dashing for third. He takes a chance on confusion to reach the bag safely. His teammates keep right on to second. It is a daring play and one worthy of Cobb.

Cobb is on first base when the ball is bunted. The throw is made to second, but Cobb beats it and, without stopping, keeps on to third. The batter meantime turns first. Cobb reaches third by a narrow squeak, and the batter lands safely on second.

MADE HOLE IN ONE.

In a match with A. G. Elphick, of Shawnee, played recently at Pocono Manor links, Edward W. Loos, the Pocono professional, who was runner-up to "Tom" Aderson, of Montclair, in the Pennsylvania State open championship at Shawnee recently, made the 225-yard eighth hole in one stroke. This is the second "hole in one" that has fallen to Loos this year. The other was made at Baltusrol during practice for the national open championship, when, playing with W. L. Robinson, of Atlantic City, Loos holed his tee shot for the 148-yard eighth.

JERSEY ATHLETES LEAVE.

Platt Adams and Kenneth ("Chick") Curtis, the two athletes Newark has contributed to the representative squad from the East in the national track and field championships, which will be held at San Francisco, starting Saturday, are by this time well on their way toward the coast. Platt left Newark Sunday, while "Chick" started from Syracuse a day ahead. Both, unlike the many Eastern representatives, will make the trip without stopping to compete in meets on the way.

JOE JACKSON SOLD.

Chicago, Aug. 3.—There was a conference between the White Sox and the Cleveland officials here yesterday which promises to result in the purchase by the Sox of Joe Jackson, the slugging Cleveland outfielder. It is understood that the consideration will be $20,000 in money and the transfer of several players. Eddie Murphy, recently purchased by the Sox from Philadelphia, is said to be one of the players to figure in the deal.

TAB'S PITCHING STAR HAS A RECORD ON O. B. CIRCUIT

Jack Thoney, who hurled three innings for the local Tabs Sunday, is a well-known major league artist. He began his career in 1904 with the Manhattans, a semi-pro combination of the metropolis. In 1906 he graduated in the Georgia State League, in which Tommy Mullin played. Here he took a job both as twirler and coach, helping Jimmy Lavender, the present star of the Cub pitching staff, to the position he holds. His work with the Southerners soon proved that he was too fast for them, and he received and accepted an offer from the Davenport club of the Three-Eye League. He performed so well for this team that he was purchased by the White Sox for $3,000. Of course he needed farming, and after playing in eight games with the Sox, he was shipped to Mineapolis, in the American Association. On that team there were Jack McGill, the first sacker; Alteiser, the keystone keeper; Ferris, shortstop, and Williams, third baseman. In the outfield were "Gabby" Cravath, Eddie Delehanty and Claude Rossman, the first named being now with the Phillies and the last two ex-Detroit stars. Mike Owens, the Brookfed catcher, was Thoney's favorite backstop. When the Feds made their wholesale raid on organized baseball, Thoney signed for one year with Rebel Oakes, of the Pittfeds. He relented his action later and will remain idle for this year, and will go with the Yankees next spring. Next Sunday Mike Donlin has him booked to pitch, and he will probably have as his box rival Dick Redding or "Cyclone Joe" Williams.

Thoney is a native of Albany, N. Y., but is residing here at present.

DOUBLE "DOUBLE HEADER" SUNDAY AT NETHERWOOD

The Queen City B. B. C. will cross bats with the speedy Highlanders of Netherwood on the Sumner avenue grounds at 1:45 Sunday afternoon. This encounter will be the first section of a big two-ply attraction, the Highlanders meeting the Farmer A. C. in the second part of the bill. A. Stebor will decorate the mound for the Highlanders and Velard will hurl them over for the Queens. Kacheleneris or Sims will do box duty for the "Seeds."

Immediately after their engagement with the Highlanders, the Queens will trot out to Terrill road and try conclusions with the Chelsea Parks, of that section of the city. The line-up of the visitors in this engagement will be: Butler, p; Megonegal, c; L. Marsh, 1b; V. Mullin, 2b; Houston, ss; J. Paritz, 3b; Randolph, lf; Velard, cf, and Cohen, rf.

MULLIN A HERO.

Amidst a flood of cheers Tommy Mullin rapped out a double and scored the only run of the game in the Rahway-Richmond Hill contest, Saturday, the former team winning, 1 to 0. Tommy handled five putouts and two assists, slipping only once. He stole a base also.

ROD AND REEL

Government inspectors have been busy in the lower bays and the Shrewsbury River recently, and the unfortunate power boat owners who didn't have the requisite outfit will hear from the inspectors, so they had better get to wire pulling or else pay a fine. Some of those stopped by the inspectors didn't even have copies of the pilot rules on board, while other didn't know what class their boats were in, and have subsequently requested of the writer that a synopsis of the law be given here. Power boats are in three classes. Class 1 takes in all power boats less than twenty-six feet in length; class 2, twenty-six feet or over and less than forty feet in length; class 3, forty feet and over and not more than sixty-five feet in length. Boats over forty feet when driven by steam, are subject to inspection. All boats propelled by machinery under sixty-five feet are called motorboats, excepting tug and tow boats propelled by steam. All motorboats must carry lights between sunset and sunrise. Motorboats under twenty-six feet must use a combined red and green light at the bow and a white light aft. Motorboats from twenty-six to sixty-five feet must use a red and green side light, with while light fore and aft. All motorboats must carry a whistle, and classes two and three must have in addition a foghorn and bell. All motorboats must carry a life preserver for each person on board, and boats carrying passengers for hire must be in charge of a licensed operator. Fire extinguishers are also required. Two copies of the pilot rules must be on every motorboat.

Amos Andrews, Captain William C. Smith, John N. Schenck, of this city, and Gustave Andrews, of Norwich, Conn., motored from Plainfield to Waretown last week where they stopped at the Bay View Hotel, and on Tuesday went out fishing on Barnegat Bay with Captain Jedd Penn. They fished the Jerusalem ground, catching one hundred and four weakfish. Wednesday morning they went out again and caught twenty-six weakfish, after which they enjoyed a ride home.

Good catches of sea bass and blackfish are being made at the Klondyke Banks by anglers aboard the Taurus. Catches are running from six to sixteen fish to the man on recent trips. A ten-pound blackfish was among the big fish taken.

Most of the Newark and Jersey City boats anchored off Sandy Hook and tried for fluke yesterday. Good catches were made all along the line. Several of the New York boats were also over on the Jersey side, and their patrons fared well.

Catches of channel bass of remarkable size are being registered daily at Corson's Inlet.

Weakfish, bluefish and fluke are being landed in large numbers daily off the Perth Amboy shore.

At Corson's Inlet kingfish, croakers and weakfish art biting well, and local anglers will, no doubt, take notice of this fact.

HOW TO HANDLE A BASEBALL TEAM

Clark Griffith Tells of Best Method to Get Results.

MUST STUDY HUMAN NATURE

The Successful Pilot of a Big League Club Has to Be a Good Judge of Men, Otherwise He Will Be a Failure—Says Johnson Is Greatest Pitcher.

By CLARK GRIFFITH.

To my mind the successful big league manager must, first of all, be a student of human nature. No man can hope to direct a squad of other men and get the maximum results unless he understands the fellows he is working with—unless he knows their dispositions, their characteristics, their virtues and their weaknesses. Different men have to be handled different ways or there are bound to be friction and wasted effort.

Of course it's necessary for a manager to know baseball from every angle, but that is a simple matter. I dare say there are half a dozen men on my team who know as much baseball as I do—and perhaps there are some who know more. But a manager might be equipped with the most profound knowledge of baseball in the world, might be the most popular man among his players in the game and might have the greatest players in the country on his team, and he would be in the second division all the time unless he understood something about human nature.

Suppose an outfielder apparently has lead in his shoes and lets a few bounds pass him. The manager knows he is capable of better ball. Perhaps that outfielder is the sort of a man that can't stand the gaff, and if the manager jumps into him when he comes to the bench—calls him a bonehead and a quitter—he may impair that man's efficiency for weeks, or even ruin him for all time. On the other hand, if he pats him on the shoulder and encourages him a bit the slump may be brought to an end in a hurry.

But it may be that the offender is the type of man who needs a good riding to straighten him out. Harsh words are the spur which will start him right again, and he ought to have them. Pet him and he gets so nervous he can't do a thing, but arouse his fighting blood and he acts like a new man. The manager must know his men to avoid mistakes. Apply the wrong treatment in either case and irreparable damage is done. No two can be handled alike—some must be jollied, some let alone; some kidded and some must feel the mailed fist. Incidentally it has been my experience that the last named are very much in the minority.

Why, the ability to read human nature and understand men is necessary to a manager a thousand times every day.

Take, for instance, the pitcher. It may be that John Southpaw is a good fighter—the more you go after him the madder he gets. So much for that. But this same John Southpaw may be the type who gets so mad he loses the ability to think clearly when the other team rides him, and pitches bad ball. On the other hand, he may be one of those whose mind clears and whose arm becomes stronger the madder he gets. The more the opposing players go for him the better he gets.

If John Southpaw is of the former type he isn't going to be much good against a scrappy, talkative team. If he is of the latter type he is the man to work when the sarcastic talk is coming from the coaching lines.

Philadelphia had an example of the two types of pitchers mentioned in the National league team in 1913. Tom Seaton, now with the Brooklyn Federals, is a fighter all the way through, but when a team goes after Tom and heaps abuse on him he gets so mad it hurts his box work. On the other hand, it is disastrous for a team to abuse Alexander. It only makes him mad, and the madder he gets the better his brain and arm work. If my team had Alexander to face I would tell them to let him absolutely alone.

Yes, and I am just as well satisfied that they don't have to face that chap too.

Well, that's about all there is to this big league manager proposition. The man who understands human nature thoroughly, knows baseball from stem to stern, uses good common horse sense at all times and is lucky is going to have some degree of success as a boss in the big leagues.

I don't see how a manager can have a set system of play as long as it takes nine men to make up a team.

There is a lot of discussion among baseball men as to which is the greater pitcher, Alexander or Johnson. I think Johnson is the greatest pitcher on earth. But they are both in a class by themselves.

I will say, however, I am convinced that Johnson has more speed than Alexander and that he has more stuff on his fast one. On the other hand, there is little doubt that Alexander's slow one is wonderful. They say Walter has no slow one. Well, I am not willing to admit that. But, tell me, what does he need a slow one for, anyhow?

I would just like to see the pair matched in a world's series. It would be a grand battle, an epic in baseball history.

LEARN HOW TO SWIM

In a Series of Ten Articles, Famous Expert Louis De B. Handley of the N. Y. A. C., Gives Advice to Beginners and Veterans.

Article No. 8.—Graceful and Fancy Diving.

By LOUIS DE B. HANDLEY.

[Copyright, 1915, by American Press Association.]

THE art of life saving may be divided into two parts—first, the rescue of those in danger of drowning; second, resuscitation. They are really distinct branches of the subject, for, while the rescue work requires courage, good watermanship and practical experience, resuscitation is chiefly a matter of technical knowledge intelligently applied. It will best serve the purpose, therefore, to treat each part separately.

The first question to be considered in going to the assistance of those threatened by a watery grave is self protection. Indeed, if the rescuer is not able to guard against the attacks of the one he is trying to save his own life as well as the other's is placed in jeopardy.

For this reason the education of every swimmer, man or woman, should include a course of water wrestling, the breaks taught enabling one to escape the clutches of a drowning person, the holds to gain absolute control in carrying a struggler to safety.

Without going too deeply into the subject it will be well to touch upon those particular breaks and holds which through occasional practice will fit any one for the humanitarian work he may be called upon at any moment to perform.

The life saver should bear in mind, of course, that prevention is better than cure and make it his aim to approach any one in danger from the back, thus avoiding all chance of being seized. But this is not always possible, and the wise plan is to be fully prepared for anything.

A simple and most effective way has been devised for eluding the grasp of fear stricken drowners. It should be learned by all, because it has the double advantage of furnishing an effortless means of escape and also of giving mastery of the situation at the same time. Here is what to do: As soon as the struggler raises an arm to take hold of you thrust out quickly your own hand and place it squarely under the uncovered armpit; then use this secured purchase to push yourself under water, turn sideways, pass under the uplifted arm and come up. You will find yourself behind your man, able to apply any one of several practically unbreakable grips.

Should it happen, however, either through carelessness or unexpected circumstances, that you are caught and imprisoned it is an excellent plan not to start fighting at once for freedom, but to relax completely and remain absolutely motionless for a few seconds. Not only does the cessation of all movement cause an instinctive loosening of muscular tension on the part of the attacker, but it permits the concentration of energy for a supreme effort.

The holds one is most likely to encounter are dealt with as follows: When seized by the wrists raise the hands swiftly, then jerk them down and out with a violent, rotary motion. If encircled by the other's arms around the shoulders throw up your own arms suddenly, wide at the sides, or rest your hands wherever possible and force yourself downward. Either method will enable you to slip under the tackle and work behind your opponent before coming to the surface. If the same embrace is applied below the elbows or you run into a leg lock, extricate one arm, then place the hand on the other's face, palm over his mouth, fingers on either side of his nostrils, and while thus closing the respiratory channels press hard. When caught from the rear, relax immediately, as suggested above, then twist around with an abrupt, vigorous effort of every part of the body. Once facing your assailant, the described breaks can be resorted to.

We come now to the supporting of the victim to safety. There are many carries advocated, and their use must be determined by circumstances.

A tired swimmer who knows what he is about may be told to place his hand on your shoulder and stretch out flat, so as to offer as little resistance as possible to towing, then be helped ashore without difficulty. An unconscious person should be turned face up, given a slight shove in the small of the back to bring the body into horizontal position and held up by the clothing at the back of the neck or, lacking this, by passing the arm over the chest and using the free arm and the feet for propulsion.

A conscious individual likely to give trouble, however, must be handled with extreme caution, and it is advisable to swim entirely on the back, as this is the only position in which control can be retained. Either lay one hand on each side of the jaw, fingers pressing into the neck, or take firm hold of both upper arms, or slip the hands under the armpits and clasp them on the chest. All three of these grips insure against the struggler's turning and employing aggressive tactics.

The student of life saving will find it excellent training to practice swimming on the back without using the arms, to engage in occasional bouts of water wrestling with friends, to attempt to carry the latter in the various ways explained and to do a little underwater work, dropping an object in a depth of eight or ten feet and trying to dive for it from a treadwater start. These experiments can be made while pleasure bathing and furnish interesting and most valuable entertainment.

A mistake often made even by skilled life savers is to try to perform a rescue at top speed. This is very poor policy. The few seconds gained in reaching the one in danger never improve the latter's chances, for the rescuer is out of breath and tired before the real work—the fight for control and the trip home—has to be shouldered. Far more sensible is it to lose those few seconds and be able to undertake the arduous part of the task in good condition, ready for emergencies.

RESCUE OF THE DROWNING.

The simplest and most effective way of eluding the grasp of a drowning person: Wait until the struggler raises an arm to seize you, then plant your hand firmly under the lifted arm pit, push yourself under water from the secured purchase, pass beneath the arm and come to the surface. You will find yourself behind the victim, in position to take one of several practically unbreakable holds.

WOLGAST PAYS BIG TRIBUTE TO GIBBONS' SPEED.

Ad Wolgast states that Mike Gibbons is the fastest man with a pair of boxing gloves that he ever saw.

Mike plays with his opponents as a cat does with a mouse and is never lost for a second, no matter how fast it is coming his way, says Wolgast.

In a ten round bout Wolgast said that Jack Dillon couldn't lay a glove on Mike and would wear himself out swinging at him. He says that so far as weight is concerned Gibbons can trim any boxer within twenty pounds of his own poundage and do it easily.

He has a way of moving his head from side to side and letting a blow pass by sometimes by a fraction of an inch, while in other ways he is a regular sel in a contest.

Mike shows his mastery of the game in every move he makes, and there is not a man in sight who has a ghost of a chance with him on points, in Wolgast's opinion.

COBB MAY STEAL 100 BASES.

Detroit Star Has Fine Chance to Beat Clyde Milan's Record.

Clyde Milan of Washington holds the modern base stealing record, with eighty-eight thefts, acquired back in 1912.

But this record is almost sure to fade unless Ty Cobb drops a leg sometime between now and October. Cobb collected steals in eighty-eight games. At this same impetus he will lay in a supply of pilfered bases well over 100.

The two fastest people in the American league are Bert Shotten and Fritz Maisel. Both are batting around the much admired .300, which shows how often they are getting on. Yet Cobb has stolen nearly as many bases as Shotten and Maisel together.

Among others endowed with speed and the batting eye, Cobb has stolen almost as many bases as Collins, Speaker, Jackson, Milan and Strunk all put together and only a few less than the combined steals of the three leading base runners in the National.

WOULD SHORTEN TWIN BILLS.

Frank Isbell Suggests Seven Inning Double Header Games.

Frank Isbell, boss of the Des Moines Boosters, has evolved what he considers is a capital idea for helping out the pitchers when the time comes for playing off those numerous postponed games. Isbell thinks it will be an excellent plan to play seven inning games in double headers, so as not to work the hurlers to death in July and August, when two games a day come thick and fast.

The Southern association plays only seven innings in twin bills. Whenever there is a tie at the end of the seventh inning of the first game in the Southern loop they call quits and start the next battle. Isbell says he will take the matter up with President O'Neill and the owners of the clubs. Jack Holland thinks, though, that the way they will play off the numerous postponements will be to extend the season.

CLEVELAND SOME ATHLETE.

Son of Late President Will Be Heard From at Princeton This Fall.

Dick Cleveland, son of the late president, a strapping young chap of eighteen who is close to six feet and weighs 185 pounds, is finishing a four year course at Exeter academy and is one of those fellows who can blend athletics and study and take honors in both branches. He is president of the Interscholastic Track Association of New England and is best known as a shot putter.

In this particular specialty he has achieved considerable success indoors and outdoors. At the recent Harvard interscholastic meet in the stadium Dick hung up a new Harvard schoolboy record with the shot, putting the twelve pound iron ball 47 feet 6 inches.

He is to report for the Princeton freshman team in October, for the son of the former president enters the college this fall.

LONG JUMP BY GIRL.

Miss Chancellor's 15 Feet 1 Inch May Be Record.

It is believed that the women's collegiate broad jump record was broken at Columbia, Mo., recently by Miss Irene Chancellor, who cleared 15 feet 1 inch during the dual track meet between Howard Payne college of Mexico, Mo., and Stephens college of Columbia. The former record is said to have been 14 feet 6½ inches, made by a Vassar college athlete.

Miss Chancellor is a member of the Howard Payne team, which won the meet from Stephens college by a score of 66 to 26.

Here's a Hard Luck Pitcher.

The hardest luck pitcher in the world has been found. He is Pitcher Adams, a Chicago university prep boy, who pitched and lost a no hit game to Morton High in Chicago recently. A walk, two errors and an infield out gave his opponents two runs.

Some Yachting Hemisphere!

There are nearly 3,600 yachts owned in the United States, Canada and the West Indies.

Rent one of your rooms and reduce your own rent materially. It's a simple and sensible plan—and it works.

FOURNIER TELLS A SECRET.

Chicago White Sox's First Baseman States Why He Is Successful Batter.

The batter who tries to outguess a pitcher never lands in the .300 class. Such a player has his mind concentrated on what the pitcher is going to throw more than he has on the natural object of his visit to the plate—to hit the ball.

Jacques Fournier of the Chicago White Sox, the 1915 batting sensation of the American league, furnishes an excellent example of what happens to a batter who tries to outguess the pitcher and one who doesn't. Cobb, Jackson, Wagner, Collins, Lajoie, Speaker and the other famous hitters of the present era of baseball don't try to outguess a pitcher. They swing at every good ball that comes along, not worrying about how it is going to break. But they've always followed that course. Fournier's case is different.

JACQUES FOURNIER, CHICAGO AMERICANS' STAR FIRST SACKER.

In 1913 Fournier hit for .234. Up to midseason in 1914 he didn't hit much better than .250.

"And then I took a tumble to myself," said Fournier. "All along I had been working on the theory that a successful batter was the one who outguessed the pitcher. Every time I'd step to the plate I'd try to figure out in advance what the pitcher was going to throw, and then I'd set myself for such a delivery.

"Sometimes I did outguess the pitcher. Oftener I didn't. But I always was worried over the uncertainty of the guessing game. Had I guessed wrong or was I right? The continual worry took my mind off the fact that I was there to bat—not to play a guessing game.

"Well, one day last summer we stacked up against Walter Johnson. I figured it wasn't any use trying to outguess him, so I just walked up to the plate and banged away at what he served up to me. I made two home runs that day. Ever since I have not been trying to do any outguessing. I keep in mind only one thing when I go to the plate—that I must hit the ball. I think that system has been a success."

It surely has. Fournier began to hit like a fiend from that time on and ended the 1914 season with a mark of .311.

This season Fournier started off at a whirlwind pace, and he has been maintaining it.

JENNINGS NOT SATISFIED.

Detroit Leader Is Hotfoot After New Talent to Strengthen Team.

Manager Jennings is not satisfied with his ball team. He wants a hard hitting third baseman and another catcher of ability. But he admits that the chance of his getting such material is rather slim, though his scouts are scouring the country in all directions in the hope of finding some youngsters who will help the Tigers.

The weakness of the Tigers at third has been demonstrated many times this season. The White Sox, too, are a bit off in that position and would have a better chance for the flag if they had a strong player there.

The FORESTER'S DAUGHTER

A ROMANCE OF THE BEAR TOOTH RANGE

By HAMLIN GARLAND

Copyright, 1914, by Hamlin Garland

CHAPTER XVIII.

The Private Car.

ONCE, in the midst of a lame pursuit of other topics, the elder Norcross again fixed his eyes on Berea, saying, "I wish my girls had your weight and color." He paused a moment, then resumed with weary inflection: "Mrs. Norcross has always been delicate, and all her children—even her son—take after her. I've maintained a private and very expensive hospital for nearly thirty years."

This regretful note in his father's voice gave Wayland confidence. His spirits rose.

"Come, let's adjourn to the parlor and talk things over at our ease."

They all followed him, and after showing the mother and daughter to their seats near a window, he drew his father into a corner, and in rapid undertone related the story of his first meeting with Berrie, of his trouble with young Belden, of his camping trip, minutely describing the encounter on the mountainside and ended by saying, with manly directness: "I would be up there in the mountains in a box if Berrie had not intervened. She's a noble girl, father, and is foolish enough to like me, and I'm going to marry her and try to make her happy."

The old lumberman, who had listened intently all through this impassioned story, displayed no sign of surprise at its closing declaration, but his eyes explored his son's soul with calm abstraction. "Send her over to me," he said at last. "Marriage is a serious matter. I want to talk with her—alone."

Wayland went back to the women with an air of victory. "He wants to see you, Berrie. He's mellowing. Don't be afraid of him."

She might have resented the father's lack of gallantry, but she did not. On the contrary, she rose and walked resolutely over to where he sat, quite ready to defend herself. He did not rise to meet her, but she did not count that against him, for there was nothing essentially rude in his manner. He was merely her elder and inert.

"Sit down," he said, not unkindly. "I want to have you tell me about my son. He has been telling me all about you. Now, let's have your side of the story."

She took a seat and faced him with eyes as steady as his own. "Where shall I begin?" she bluntly challenged.

"He wants to marry you. Now, it seems to me that seven weeks is very short acquaintance for a decision like that. Are you sure you want him?"

"Yes, sir; I am." Her answer was most decided.

His voice was slightly cynical as he went on. "But you were tolerably sure about that other fellow—that rancher with the fancy name—weren't you?" She flushed at this, but waited for him to go on. "Don't you think it possible that your fancy for Wayland is also temporary?"

"No, sir!" she bravely declared. "I never felt toward any one the way I do toward Wayland. He's different. I shall never change toward him."

Her tone, her expression of eyes stopped this line of inquiry. He took up another. "Now, my dear young lady, I am a business man as well as a father, and the marriage of my son is a weighty matter. He is my main dependence. I am hoping to have him take up and carry on my business. To be quite candid, I didn't expect him to select his wife from a Colorado ranch. I considered him out of the danger zone. I have always understood that women were scarce in the mountains. Now don't misunderstand me. I'm not one of those fools who are always trying to marry their sons and daughters into the ranks of the idle rich. I don't care a hang about social position, and I've got money enough for my son and my son's wife. But he's all the boy I have, and I don't want him to make a mistake."

"Neither do I," she answered simply, her eyes suffused with tears. "If I thought he would be sorry"—

He interrupted again. "Oh, you can't tell that now! Any marriage is a risk. I don't say he's making a mistake in selecting you. You may be just the woman he needs. Only I want to be consulted. I want to know more about you. He tells me you have taken an active part in the management of the ranch and the forest. Is that true?"

"I've always worked with my father—yes, sir."

"You like that kind of life?"

"I don't know much about any other kind. Yes, I like it. But I've had enough of it. I'm willing to change."

"Well, how about city life—housekeeping and all that?"

"So long as I am with Wayland I shan't mind what I do or where I live."

"At the same time you figure he's going to have a large income, I suppose? He's told you of his rich father, hasn't he?"

Berrie's tone was a shade resentful of his insinuation. "He has never said much about his family one way or another. He only said you wanted him to go into business in Chicago and that he wanted to do something else. Of course I could see by his ways and the clothes he wore that he'd been brought up in what we'd call luxury but we never inquired into his affairs."

"And you didn't care?"

"Well, not that exactly. But money don't count for as much with us in the valley as it does in the east. Wayland seemed so kind of sick and lonesome, and I felt sorry for him the first time I saw him. I felt like mothering him. And then his way of talking, of looking at things, was so new and beautiful to me I couldn't help caring for him. I had never met any one like him. I thought he was a 'lunger'"—

"A what?"

"A consumptive. That is, I did at first. And it bothered me. It seemed terrible that any one so fine should be condemned like that, and so I did all I could to help him, to make him happy. I thought he hadn't long to live. Everything he said and did was wonderful to me, like poetry and music. And then when he began to grow stronger and I saw that he was going to get well, and Cliff went on the rampage and showed the yellow streak and I gave him back his ring—I didn't know even then how much Wayland meant to me. But on our trip over the range I understood. He meant everything to me. He made Cliff seem like a savage, and I wanted him to know it. I'm not ashamed of loving him. I want to make him happy, and if he wishes me to be his wife I'll go anywhere he says—only I think he should stay out here till he gets entirely well."

The old man's eyes softened during her plea, and at its close a slight smile moved the corners of his mouth. "You've thought it all out, I see. Your mind is clear and your conscience easy. Well, I like your spirit. I guess he's right. The decision is up to you. But if he takes you and stays in Colorado he can't expect me to share the profits of my business with him, can he? He'll have to make his own way." He rose and held out his hand. "However, I'm persuaded he's in good hands."

She took his hand, not knowing just what to reply. He examined her fingers with intent gaze.

"I didn't know any woman could have such a grip." He thoughtfully took her biceps in his left hand. "You are magnificent." Then in ironical protest he added: "Good God, no! I can't have you come into my family. You'd make caricatures of my wife and daughters. Are all the girls out in the valley like you?"

She laughed. "No. Most of them pride themselves on not being horsewomen. Mighty few of 'em ever ride a horse. I'm a kind of a tomboy to them."

"I'm sorry to hear that. It's the same old story. I suppose they'd all like to live in the city and wear low necked gowns and high heeled shoes. No, I can't consent to your marriage with my son. I must save you from corruption. Go back to the ranch. I can see already signs of your deterioration. Except for your color and that grip you look like upper Broadway."

She flushed redly, conscious of her new corset, her silk stockings and her pinching shoes. "It's all on the outside," she declared. "Under this toggery I'm the same old trailer. It don't take long to get rid of these things. I'm just playing a part today—for you."

He smiled and dropped her hand. "No, no. You've said goodby to the cinch. I can see that. You're on the road to opera bopes and limousines. What is your plan? What would you advise Wayland to do if you knew I was hard against his marrying you? Come, now, I can see you're a clear sighted individual. What can he do to earn a living? How will you live without my aid? Have you figured on these things?"

"Yes. I'm going to ask my father to buy a ranch near here, where mother can have more of the comforts of life, and where we can all live together till Wayland is able to stand city life again. Then, if you want him to go east, I will go with him."

They had moved slowly back toward the others, and as Wayland came to meet them Norcross said, with dry humor: "I admire your lady of the cinch hand. She seems to be a person of singular good nature and most uncommon shrewd"—

Wayland, interrupting, caught at his father's hand and wrung it frenziedly. "I'm glad"—

"Here! Here!" A look of pain covered the father's face. "That's the fist she put in the press."

They all laughed, and then he gravely resumed: "I say I admire her, but it's a shame to ask such a girl to marry an invalid like you. Furthermore, I won't have her taken east. She'd bleach out and lose that grip in a year. I won't have her contaminated by the city." He mused deeply while looking at his son. "Would life on a wheat ranch, accessible to this hotel by motorcar, be endurable to you?"

"You mean with Berea?"

"If she'll go. Mind you, I don't advise her to do it," he added, interrupting his son's outcry. "I think she's taking all the chances." He turned to Mrs. McFarlane. "I'm old fashioned in my notions of marriage, Mrs. McFarlane. I grew up when women were helpmates, such as, I judge, you've been. Of course it's all guesswork to me at the moment, but I have an impression that my son has fallen into an unusual run of luck. As I understand it, you're all out for a pleasure trip. Now, my private car is over in the yards, and I suggest you all come along with me to California"—

"Governor, you're a wonder!" exclaimed Wayland.

"That'll give us time to get better acquainted, and if we all like one another just as well when we get back—well, we'll buy the best farm in the North Platte, and"—

"It's a cinch we get that ranch!" interrupted Wayland, with a triumphant glance at Berea.

"Don't be so sure of it," replied the lumberman. "A private car, like a yacht, is a terrible test of friendship." But his warning held no terrors for the young lovers. They had entered upon certainties.

Of Interest to Women and the Home

HINTS WORTH REMEMBERING.

Wire baskets nailed up on the wall of a pantry make a nice receptacle for vegetables, especially when a pantry is small and has little floor space.

Try washing your teeth with lemon water. Squeeze half a lemon in a glass of water and wash your teeth with it.

If you have an accident with the belt of your sewing machine you can repair it yourself. Make fresh holes in the belt and put through, allowing for tying, a piece of millinery wire out of an old hat brim. Tie the two ends firmly and smoothly together. You will find this a success, and it will last.

When ready to boil white clothes cut a lemon in half and drop it into the boiler.

Do not iron garments made of outing flannel. Brush them with a stiff brush, and it will renew the softness.

To make ferns, geraniums and nearly all house plants grow put a teaspoonful of ammonia in one quart of lukewarm water and water the plants. Do not use more than twice a week.

A very coarse scrubbing brush will be found the best thing for removing the threads, hairs, etc., which are so hard to get out of the brushes of a carpet sweeper.

Add two tablespoonfuls of turpentine to one pailful of water and soak colored cotton goods overnight. This will usually set the daintiest colors, even in low priced lawns, and will not injure the fabric.

QUAKER DRESSES POPULAR.

It seems rather a travesty that in these warlike days Quaker styles should be popular. Perhaps they are making a mute appeal for peace. Very charming, indeed, is the misses' Quaker dress shown above. This Ladies' Home Journal Pattern No. 8990 opens at the side front. The waist has a Quaker or Medici collar, and may be made with full length or shorter sleeves. The slightly gathered skirt has three gores. Sizes, 14, 16, 18 and 20 years, requiring in size 18, 5⅝ yards 36-inch material.

Patterns may be obtained at the store of A. E. Force & Co.

The Red Faced Sun Climbed Higher.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—The Little Shadow That Kept Moving.

"ONCE there was a little shadow that kept moving," daddy told his two eager kiddies. "And that is a very funny little story, by which I mean to say that it is a strange little story.

"This little shadow came from—well, I declare, I don't know where it came from. I only know where it finally went.

"I think the first place that little shadow found itself was before the face of the sun, a little before the glorious dawn. The red sun had just got out of bed in the east, with its coverlets of rosy clouds, and he looked down out of the sky at the little shadow, and he was annoyed.

"'Why are you hanging around down there?' asked the red faced sun, frowning most crossly down upon the shivering little shadow. No wonder that shadow would shiver when it saw the sun looking down at it so fiercely. 'I want you to be gone at once,' commanded the sun.

"So the shadow had to go away, but he said: 'I've got a right to go somewhere. Now, where shall I go? Oh, I see! There's a nice place to go.'

"And away joyously crept the shadow to the foot of a nice little bit of a tree in the pasture. And the shadow said: 'Now, this is all right. I think I will stay here all day.'

"But the sun crept higher and higher, laughing at the little shadow, and he began to crinkle it all up.

"'Oh, my,' cried the shadow, 'can't I get anywhere that this mean old sun will not find me and send me scooting away?'

"So the shadow looked around, and it found a place over a still pool in a pretty little stream that was fringed with bushes and some lovely wild flowers. There the shadow settled down to enjoy itself.

"But the red faced sun climbed higher, and he laughed at the shadow, saying: 'Did you think you could get away from me? Those bushes are too low. You must hasten somewhere else.'

"So the poor shadow had to keep going. And where do you think it found the next place to alight? Why, on the brow of a little child.

"The little child frowned when the shadow came. But the sun was too bright and the world too beautiful, and the little child banished the shadow himself.

"The shadow was discouraged then, you may be sure. The evening was coming, and where do you think the shadow went? Why, it waited awhile and then crept away into the horizon and was tucked in and went to sleep."

HER BEDROOM.

The Bride to Be Will Like Old Fashioned Furniture.

IT CAN BE BOUGHT FOR A SONG

Also Attractive Dressing Tables Can Be Made Very Cheaply by Covering With Chintz—Other Uses For That Charming Material.

It is possible for the bride to be to use quite old and cheap furniture with splendid effect in these days when painted furniture is so much in vogue.

Such a bedstead is shown in the illustration. It was one which had been banished in disgrace many years before from the bedroom of the mother of a girl who was about to be married. The man she was to marry was poor, and the girl was ambitious to furnish her future home herself. How she furnished her bedroom is a story like an Arabian Night's tale. She furnished it entirely from her mother's attic.

She resurrected the bed shown here and gave it three coats of paint—black paint—then she rubbed it until there was no suspicion of a shine, just a dull polish. Then she striped it with gold. The bolster cover and spread were made of English chintz, with tiny roses clambering over a black plaid arbor.

Then the dressing table was made of a kitchen table and an old discarded mirror.

The mirror frame she scraped to the bone. She had the glass resilvered and had the frame toned a dull gold. The headpiece had "nobby" little roses reposing in a basket. She painted the background black, the rim gold, the basket black and gold and the roses rose color, to match the color of the roses in her counterpane and the hangings for her dressing table.

She gave the table three coats of paint, the same as she did the bed. She lined the big drawer with chintz, made a chintz cover for the top and then put a frill of the chintz around the table just below the drawer.

Upon each side of her mirror she placed two discarded candle sconces done in black and gold. A little bedside table was done in the same way. Several old chairs were upholstered with the chintz, and by the expenditure of about $10 this girl had as pretty a bedroom as you would wish to see.

PROCTOR'S THEATRE

The great Victrola contest has closed, and nothing now remains but the awarding of the beautiful musical instrument which was placed on exhibition some time ago. The presentation will take place this evening, and all who made guesses should attend and have their cards with them.

The feature film for this evening is "Her Own Way," in which Miss Florence Reed plays the leading role. The captivating sentiment of the story combined with the charming dramatic actress makes this picture one of the most beautiful of its kind. Miss Reed is ably supported by such players as Miss Blanche Davenport and Robert H. Barret.

For tomorrow, both afternoon and evening, Marguerite Clark will appear in "The Goose Girl," a Paramount production which has won its way into the hearts of people wherever it has been seen. This story of dramatic romance should not be missed by those who desire to see the pictures intended for even the most critical.

Pony votes, and 100 of them with each ticket, are still being given out at the Proctor Theatre. The silver souvenir spoons will be distributed to the housewives who attend the Thursday matinee.

CHILD MAY FREE CONVICT.

Milledgeville, Ga., Aug. 3.—The pitiful plea of a six-year-old, Bessie Stripling, made ten days ago to Governor Nat Harris, may bring the early pardon of Edgar Stripling, Georgia's Jean Valjean. The pathetic story of a man who had killed another in a fit of anger, had escaped from jail and became a leading citizen in another State, is revived by the Governor's promise to Stripling's little daughter that he would be freed. "Governor, please let my father out," was the child's simple request. "We have nobody to work for us and mamma is sick."

Stripling was convicted of killing J. B. Corbett in Harris county fourteen years ago. Stripling's defense was that the man had insulted his sister. He was sent to jail, but in 1909 escaped from the State prison. Later, under the name of R. E. Morris, he settled in Danville, Va., and sent for his family. He became one of the leading citizens of the town and was chosen chief of police. It was [illegible] a visitor to Danville recognized him as Stripling, the prisoner who had escaped. With shattered hopes for his little family, he was brought back to jail two years ago. His wife and children came to live near the prison, and the agony of the confined man was unbearable when he saw his loved ones in want. Broken in health himself, he says that unless the pardon comes soon, it will be too late.

Glimpses of Married Life

BY MRS. EVA LEONARD

"This end of town is having an epidemic of burglars." Dick slowly sipped his tea. "Last night when the doctor's sister came downstairs at about eleven o'clock she found the back door standing wide open and the silver drawer in the pantry was pulled out. Nothing was gone, but she had evidently disturbed the intruder in the act."

"Had she heard anything?" asked Nell.

"No, she went down for a drink of water before going to bed. The doctor was out, so the kitchen door had been left unlocked as usual. The thief seems to be going the rounds. I wonder what we have that could attract anybody," he continued.

"We have quite a little solid silver; our friends were very liberal when we were married." Nell sat looking into the bowl of her spoon.

"We must lock up very carefully and I will load my revolver and be ready," said Dick with a business-like air.

"You wouldn't shoot anyone?" said Nell, horrified.

"I should try not to hit anyone in a vital part, but I surely would shoot to scare or even hit if I found anyone trying to enter. Something has got to be done to frighten the thief away, and it's up to the citizens to do it. The marshal is an old fusser. I really believe he would run up the alley if he saw a suspicious person skulking about."

"Dick!" Nell's tone was incredulous. "Well, he certainly does not give me a great feeling of security," she confessed, as Dick remained silent.

Nell was uneasy all day and when it grew dark she was increasingly nervous. After putting the baby to bed she turned out the light and stood by the window looking down the long garden, lit by a slender crescent of a moon. It was a soft April evening and the fragrant smell of budding grape vines stole in at the open window.

Suddenly she became alert. A man was crouching by an old tool box; she could see a gleam of light on his face as he peered over the top of the box.

"Dick!" she called excitedly. "Come here."

The tense voice brought her husband to her side.

"Isn't that a man crouching there?" she asked in an excited whisper. "He has been looking toward the house ever since I called; he is evidently hiding there waiting for the lights to go out that he may begin operations."

"I'll get my revolver and shoot into the air; a good fright will rid the neighborhood of him perhaps." Dick started for the dresser drawer.

"Shoot high, Dick," urged Nell; "I don't want any tragedy here. Queer he stays in one position so long. I suppose he thinks he is hidden and moving around would be more apt to lead to discovery."

Dick knelt down by the window, and a sharp report rang through the air, followed by a frightened scream from the baby. Nell flew to the crib to quiet the child so suddenly and violently wakened. Dick slowly rose to his feet.

"Well," he exclaimed, "he's there yet; never budged."

Nell carried the crying baby over to the window.

"It can't be a man; he certainly would have ducked when you fired."

"I'm going to find out what it is." Dick stalked out of the room.

Nell watched with beating heart while Dick went down the walk to the grape arbor and saw him take down a sprinkling can and garden coat and wave them in the air.

Household Hints

SALADS

Tuna Fish Salad—Into one can of tuna fish cut onions and celery in fine pieces. Mix with enough mayonnaise dressing to hold together.

Grapefruit Salad—Cut grapefruit in halves, take out seeds, loosen pulp with knife and sprinkle to sweeten with pulverized sugar. For the filling: Cut up marshmallows in small pieces, chop nut meats; put this into each half of grapefruit, pile whipped cream on top and over all place maraschino cherries.

Apples and Raisins—Chop apples and raisins together with a little celery if desired, mix with mayonnaise and heap in center of a slice of pineapple on crisp lettuce leaf.

Pimento—Chop together apples, celery, walnuts and pimentos. Mix with mayonnaise and serve on lettuce leaf.

Fruit—Dice orange, banana and pineapple. Mix with mayonnaise. Serve on lettuce.

New Potato—Dice potatoes (cold boiled). Mix with onion, celery, pimento and shredded lettuce; mayonnaise.

Shrimp—Chop together one can shrimp, two stalks celery, two radishes, one green onion and lettuce. Mix with mayonnaise.

CANNING AND PRESERVING

Sulphured Green Beans—Take tender beans; string and break them ready for cooking. Put them over the fire in clear water, cook until about half done, drain, put in basket and hang in a tight barrel or box, in the bottom of which have an iron vessel containing live coals. To each gallon of beans allow a tablespoon of sulphur sprinkled over coals. Cover barrel closely at once and leave for an hour. Have the jar in which you intend to pack the beans in the barrel also, so that it will be sterilized. Pack beans in the jar and keep in a cool place. More beans may be added at any time until the jar is full. Do not let freeze in winter. When wanted for winter, wash in warm water, put over the fire in clear water and let come to a boil; drain this water off, then cook as you would fresh beans. You will appreciate them in the winter when fresh vegetables are not to be had.

THE TABLE

Cabbage Fingers—Take one pound hamburger steak, one-fourth cup rice, one-half chopped onion, one-fourth cup milk or cream, enough salt and pepper to season. Mix all together well with the hands. Then take a small head of cabbage which has been put in hot water for ten minutes to soften the leaves. Pull off one leaf and wrap the meat in the cabbage leaf; make about the size of a man's middle finger. Place in a kettle with a turned-over plate on the bottom of the kettle. Place fingers around until all in, then cover with water. Cut up about two tomatoes and add, with a little salt. Let boil about one hour. Put a plate on top to keep them down. Very good and wholesome.

Luncheon Dish—Boil two or three eggs very hard and set aside to get cold. When cold separate the whites from yolks and cut whites into very small pieces. In a separate dish mash yolks with fork. Eggs must be decidedly cold or the yolks will stick to fork. Make a cream sauce in the following way: Melt two tablespoons butter without browning, add two tablespoons flour and mix with butter; add pinch salt and one pint cream or rich milk. Stir on stove until thick. Stir whites of eggs into sauce and put over slices of buttered toast. Last of all, sprinkle toast with yolks of eggs.

Potato Croquettes—One quart finely chopped cold boiled potatoes, one cup hamburg, one well-beaten egg, one-half teaspoon sage, salt and pepper to taste; make into patties and fry in hot grease until delicate brown.

Russian Aviators Attack Constantinople—Turks Claim Advantages on Border of Armenia—Another Belgian Boat Torpedoed.

New York, Aug. 4.—Wireless messages by way of Sayville from Berlin assert that the Russian Legation at The Hague has announced the evacuation of Warsaw.

Petrograd, Aug. 4.—Today's war office statement says:

"During the last three days the enemy made enormous efforts to dislodge us from the sector of the Narew, stretching from Ostralenka to Lomza. In the district of Jodvabno, between the Bohr and Skroda Rivers, the enemy has conducted trench warfare, but through the successful exploding of mines we held the upper hand. On the Pissa-Szkwa front the enemy attacked in force, using western reinforcements. We defeated him and after the enemy rallied it took him a whole week to drive back from the village of Servataka, a single Russian regiment. The fight for possession of the passages of the Narew near Novogrod has not yet really begun."

Berlin, Aug. 4 (Via Amsterdam).—The German military authorities are requisitioning the entire chemical supply of the country for use in ammunition making.

Major General Nicholas Von Below, commander of an infantry brigade in the German army, has been killed in action, it was announced today.

Sofia, Aug. 4.—Russian aviators have attacked Constantinople, dropping a number of bombs on the harbor works.

Constantinople, Aug. 4.—The Turkish war office gave out the following today:

"Our movements have developed successfully in the Tutach region on the border of Armenia and Trans-Caucasia. On Sunday we occupied Russian positions ten miles north of Tutach and also drove the Russians from their positions upon the mountain range 6,900 feet high. On the Dardanelles front there is nothing to report but intermittent artillery duels."

Sultan Mehmed V, who was quite ill a month ago, has quite recovered. An official statement says that he was able to attend a religious ceremony yesterday.

London, Aug. 4.—The Belgian steamship Koothandel has been sunk by a German submarine. A Lloyds despatch reports nine men landed.

Paris, Aug. 4.—Today's French statement says:

"Nothing of importance was reported from Artois during the night, except a combat with grenades north of Chateau De Carleul. In the Argonne the Germans made two attacks, one between hill No. 213, and Fontaine Aux Charmes, and the other in region of Marie Theresa. Everywhere the attacks were repulsed and we threw the enemy into his trenches. In the Vosges hand grenade and petard fighting continued to our advantage on the Linge Kopf Schratzmanelle during the night. We repulsed German counter attacks at Barren Kopf."

DIED IN HOSPITAL.

Following an illness with heart trouble which necessitated his removal to Muhlenberg Hospital, William Watkins, of 663 South Second street, died at that institution last night. He is survived by a wife, who was visiting in Bradley Beach at the time of his death, and funeral arrangements will be made upon her arrival here late today.

DIVORCE DECREE.

A decree nisi of divorce has been entered in the Chancery Court at Trenton in favor of Florence E. Snell, of Westfield, against her husband, Clarence Snell, of North Plainfield. The decree gives Mrs. Snell the right to resume her maiden name. DeMeza & Crane represented the petitioner.

RETURN FROM COAST.

Dr. and Mrs. P. B. Cregar, of Grant avenue, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Smith, of Madison avenue, have returned home after an extended trip to the coast.

500 STRIKERS RETURN.

Syracuse, N. Y., Aug. 4.—Practically 500 of the 900 strikers at the Massena plant of the Aluminum Company of America returned to work today.

50 LIVES; $3,000,000 PROPERTY LOSS AT ERIE

Death List May Be Higher—City Without Gas or Electricity.

Erie, Pa., Aug. 4.—The death list resulting from the storm and flood which swept Erie last night was estimated at between 50 and 60 by Coroner Hanley this morning. The deaths may run to nearly 100, he stated.

The property damage will run between $3,000,000 and $5,000,000. Several big plants got the full force of the onrush of water that came down the valley of Mill Creek last night. The flood was caused by the bursting of Glenwood Dam, and the overflowing of Mill Creek.

No gas or electricity was available today and newspapers were set with hand type.

The flood was worst in the Mill Creek Valley. The stream runs through the centre of the city. Four Mile Creek also ran wild. At the mouth of Four Mile Creek is the summer park of that name. All buildings there, theatre, refreshment hall and several amusement places, were swept over the high bluff into the lake. A company of twelve vaudeville artists lost everything and narrowly escaped with their lives. Communication with the surrounding country is cut off, but it is believed that the loss is confined to the city of Erie and near vicinity.

On East Tenth street, one and a half blocks from State street, debris was piled twenty feet high today. It consisted of parts of broken frame dwellings. On East Eleventh street a house was deposited squarely on the street railway tracks. Almost the same conditions prevailed on the cross streets for a distance of two miles.

The first fireman to lose his life in the rescue work of the flood early today, was John Donovan, pipe man of Engine Company No. 1, who went down in saving Fire Chief John J. McMahon, when a house in which they were working collapsed. His body was recovered.

The Jarecki iron plant, near the heart of the flooded district, has been turned into a temporary morgue.

Whole families are missing in the flood zone, which is 200 yards wide through the residence and business district.

BOYS FREE ON BAIL HERE ARE FINED IN BOROUGH

After being released on bail yesterday afternoon, Joseph Vitelli and Cecil Harvey, the two boys who were held for the grand jury on a charge of attacking two girls Friday night, were arrested at the Plainfield police station by Marshal John Herrmann, of the North Plainfield police force, and in company with Vincent Mullen and Michael Cantor were taken across the brook to answer to a similar charge preferred by three girls. Cantor and Mullen secured bail and were released, but Vitelli and Harvey had to spend the night in jail.

In court this morning all four pleaded guilty to the charge, and the case was quickly disposed of. Vitelli and Harvey were fined ten dollars each, while Cantor and Mullen were allowed to go on suspended sentence. The charge against them was indecent conduct.

The complainants in the case are not known outside police circles. While the girls signified a willingness to appear in court and testify if they were needed, the boys pleaded guilty and saved them the publicity.

EXCURSION TOMORROW.

The fourth summer excursion from this city to Asbury Park and Ocean Grove will be run under the auspices of the Sunday-schools of the First Presbyterian, Congregational and Park Avenue Baptist churches. A large number of tickets have been sold for the annual outing, and indications point to a great crowd. The trains will leave in two sections, leaving Dunellen at 8:04 and Plainfield at 8:15 a. m. Stops at Clinton and Grant avenues will be made to accommodate residents of the West End section of the city. The Plainfielders will leave the shore at 6:40 o'clock.

SON FOR MR. & MRS. BUTTFIELD.

Mr. and Mrs. Marson Buttfield, of Rockview avenue, are receiving congratulations upon the arrival of a son at their home, last night. Both mother and baby are reported as doing well. Mrs. Buttfield is the daughter of former Mayor William L. Saunders, and the baby is his first grandson, although he has two granddaughters, their mother being Mrs. Maxwell E. Perkins.

Mrs. Emily Wilkinson, of Truell Court, has returned from a week's visit with her sister in Philadelphia.

POND OFFICIALS GRANT DEMANDS

Machinists at That Shop Get Satisfactory Settlement. With Eight-hour Day.

SAURER'S ADJUSTMENT

New Statement Issued by This Concern—Optimistic Outlook — Big Mass Meeting Called for Tomorrow Night to Receive Reports.

Giving further emphasis to the belief that the demands of 1,800 Plainfield machinists for an eight-hour day will be met by all local factory superintendents before the week, is out, the Niles-Bement-Pond Company announced last night that the request for a shorter day would not only be met, but that a ten per cent. wage increase would also be granted. The 800 employes of the concern received official notice of the agreement before they quit work yesterday, and a wave of optimism overspread the machinist element in this city last night. The concern has also agreed to pay for overtime work on a time and one-half basis and to pay double time for Sunday and Saturday afternoon work.

When J. J. Keppler, vice-president of the International Machinists' Union; Thomas E. Carroll, a representative of the same organization, who has been stationed in Plainfield, and Hugh Riley, business agent of District 47, called at the Pond shop for a conference with the officials last Monday they were given to understand that the demand would be taken under consideration and that a decision would be forthcoming before the meeting of machinists tomorrow night. In speaking of the agreement this morning Carroll classed it as being entirely satisfactory and praised the management for its generous treatment of its employes and the courtesy it extended to the machinists' committee Monday.

JESS WILLARD COMING TO PLAINFIELD ON AUGUST 20

Plainfielders will have an opportunity to give "Jess" Willard, the world's champion heavyweight prizefighter, the "once over" on Friday, August 20, for on that date he will be here with the 101 Ranch Wild West Show. The license and lot for the show were procured yesterday afternoon by A. C. Robinson, the local representative of the Newark Poster Advertising Company, who was requested to do so by the company. Willard has been drawing enormous crowds all over the country, and it is said that the show is making more money than any other on the road this year. He boxes three rounds each day in the concert following the main show, and also appears for a brief time during the regular wild west performance. The show, which is the largest wild west in the country, will give two performances on the "Count" VanNess property, in the East End, where the Ringling show was given in May.

TRAINED NURSE WINS IN PROCTOR VICTROLA CONTEST

Miss Lena J. Watt, a trained nurse, residing at 675 West Seventh street, was the winner of the victrola, which was given jointly by Proctor's Theatre and Manager Willard, of the Mathushek Piano Company, in the guessing contest completed last night at Proctor's Theatre. The number of the machine was taken off some weeks ago and deposited in a sealed envelope in the vault of the City National Bank. Then the patrons of Proctor's were requested to register their guess as to the number. The contest closed on Monday night, some 5,000 people having tried for the prize. When the envelope was opened last night it was announced that the number was 115,626. Manager Sanderson called for any person in the audience who might have that number, and there was no response. He then called for numbers near to that, and Miss Watt's claim was put in with 115,628. William Feiring, Jr., of 19 Craig place, had the next nearest guess, 115,621 and Manager Willard decided to give him a smaller machine as a consolation prize.

HEALTH BOARD HAS ORDERED INQUIRY

Indignation Awakened Over Transfer of Contagious Disease Victim.

Indignation over the action of some individual, the identity of whom at the present time is mere theory, caused the members of the Board of Health at the monthly meeting last night to order Health Officer Randolph Chandler and his corps of assistants to take drastic steps to place the responsibility for sending a contagious disease victim to Muhlenberg Hospital in a public ambulance. The Board is greatly concerned over the danger Patrolmen John Henderschott and John Fritts, and in fact, the entire police force, was put to Monday night when Albert Baker, young son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Baker, of 440 West Fifth street, was removed to the institution in the ambulance while a sufferer from scarlet fever.

It is evident from information thus far secured by Health Officer Chandler that every attempt is being made by the guilty party to shift the blame to someone else and it is also believed by the Health Department that certain individuals have not been truthful when questioned. The possibility of a re-occurrence of the incident has inspired the Board to work as a unit to fathom out the guilty party and it is expected that prosecution will follow.

After the happening was reported to him Health Officer Chandler took immediate steps to prevent the spread of the disease and to his work is attributed the fact that thus far neither of the policemen exposed to the disease have become infected. The ambulance was also thoroughly fumigated and no further developments in the spread of the disease are anticipated.

ST. MARY'S CLUB HOLDS A BIRTHDAY

Many Members Observe Their Natal Day Anniversaries in T. A. B. Hall.

The third birthday social given by St. Mary's Social Club in honor of the members of the club whose natal days occur during this month was enjoyed by a large number of young people at T. A. B. Hall, last night. Games, refreshments and dancing were the main features of the evening. The young women guests were each awarded a birthday token from their sister members. The following were honored: The Misses Catherine Powers, Emma Sullivan, Alice McAfee, Helen McCauley, Catherine McCauley, Minnie Smith, Agnes Griffen, Julia Leahy, Mrs. Michael O'Keefe and Mrs. Harry Forristel.

The committee in charge of the arrangements consisted of the Misses Jennie Higgins, Marion Harrington, Tessie Mara, Agnes Mahoney and May Murray.

Announcement was made at the gathering that the play which proved such a success here several weeks ago, entitled "Popping the Question," will be repeated at the Stony Hill church hall, on Wednesday evening, July 18. A large delegation of local young people have signified their intention of accompanying the thespians.

WELL KNOWN WEST END WOMAN DIES SUDDENLY

Mrs. Nora Edmundson, a well-known West End resident, died suddenly at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Michael Nevins, 830 West Third street, at 10 o'clock 1st night. Although she had been ill for about a year, her death was entirely unexpected, and came as a severe shock to her relatives and many friends.

She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Nevins and Mrs. Frank Terry, of Somerset street; also, one son, William Edmundson, of this city. The funeral will be held at the daughter's home Friday morning at 8:30 o'clock, and in St. Mary's church at 9 o'clock. Interment will be made in St. Mary's cemetery.

MAYOR CALKINS AWAY.

Mayor Leighton Calkins has left for Gloucester, Mass., for his annual outing. He will be away about three weeks and during this time, President George Clay, of the Common Council, will be the acting chief executive for the city.

—Beginning this week, the store of Neumann Brothers Company, Watchung avenue and Fifth street, will close on Saturday evenings during August at 5 o'clock. Open all day Thursday.—Adv.

MANY STORES TO CLOSE TOMORROW

Leading Merchants, Except Those Closing Saturday Afternoons, to Give Holiday.

EXCURSION TO ASBURY

First Presbyterian, Congregational and Park Avenue Baptist Sunday Schools Go to Shore—List of Business Men Who Will Close.

Tomorrow will be merchants' holiday in Plainfield and the city will present a deserted appearance with the sixty or seventy business places closed. Of course, those who are to be benefitted by the closing plan hope for nice weather and an opportunity to enjoy their holiday.

Thursday closing in Plainfield has been adopted this year to an extent never known here before. Not only are the dry goods, shoe, men's furnishing and stationery stores to close all day Thursday during this month, but several butcher and grocery stores joined in the combination and will grant their clerks every Thursday this month as a holiday. Thursday was selected in preference to any other day of the week because most of the one-day excursions out of Plainfield this year go on Thursday. That day was therefore selected instead of Tuesday or Wednesday.

Altogether forty merchants, exclusive of butchers and grocers, and many of the latter, have joined in the Thursday closing plan, making about sixty places of business which will be closed all day tomorrow. For that reason the excursion of the First Presbyterian, Congregational and Park Avenue Baptist Sunday-schools to Asbury Park and Ocean Grove tomorrow will no doubt be patronized by a large number of clerks and other employes who will enjoy the first Thursday holiday of the four they will be given this summer.

DEDOOD AND WOMAN HELD FOR THE GRAND JURY

Arraigned before Judge DeMeza in the city police court this morning, Ysbrand DeDood, proprietor of the Keller Cleaning Company, and Grace Gables were held in $200 bail each to await the action of the Grand Jury. They were both charged with a serious offense, being represented in court by Martin Stutsman. William Newcorn, attorney for Mrs. DeDood, appeared to represent her interests in the case.

During the court proceding this morning Judge DeMeza became greatly incensed over the attitude assumed by the Gables woman and ordered her to leave the courtroom. The defendant assumed a defiant attitude, and persisted in snickering throughout the session.

On behalf of his clients, Mr. Stutsman waived examination and asked that bail be fixed to insure appearanec before the Grand Jury. The arrrest of the pair was engineered by Constable George York several weeks ago at the request of Mrs. DeDood.

PLAN COUNTRY STORE BY ST. JOSEPH WOMEN'S LEAGUE

The annual "Country Store" given under the auspices of the Women's League of St. Joseph's church, will be given about the middle of September, the committee in charge of the affair promising many novel features for this year's event. A large number of prizes have been contributed, and those attendants getting the lucky door tickets will receive the awards. Members of the league feel highly enthusiastic over the progress made in the plans, which were discussed at the monthly meeting of the league held in the new hall last Monday.

The president of the league urged each member to co-operate with the committee in charge to make the affair a success. Funds from the event will be used for the philanthropic work conducted by the society throughout the year, for which large sums of money are needed.

THOUGHT THERE WAS FIRE.

The North Plainfield fire gong, sounding at irregular intervals this morning during the wind storm which followed the rain, drew a crowd to the firehouse on Somerset street. The frequent sounding of the gong was caused by the wire striking limbs of trees.

HEAVIEST RAINFALL IN YEARS FLOODS CITY AND SUBURBS; WHOLE BLOCKS UNDER WATER

CELLARS FILLED, BRIDGES WASHED AWAY, TROLLEY SERVICE AT A STANDSTILL AND MANY STREETS IMPASSABLE.

NO ESTIMATE OF PROPERTY LOSS YET AVAILABLE

Feltville Dam Reported to Have Gone Out—Railroad Trains Pass Through Three Feet of Water at Fanwood—Small Boys Make Merry in Improvised Lakes—Scott Press Works Put Out of Business by Flooded Boiler Room—Total Rainfall Nearly Four Inches and August Normal Has Already Been Exceeded.

Damage and devastation to an inestimable amount was wrought throughout this section of New Jersey during the early hours of this morning by the worst wind and rainstorm that has visited the State in years. Setting a rainfall record that will probably remain untouched for some time to come, the deluge left destruction in its wake which when all returns are received will amount to thousands of dollars. From 8 o'clock last night up to the time the storm abated this morning the record reached 3.90 inches, bringing the total rainfall mark for the four days of August up to 6.47 inches, which exceeds by 1.60 inches the normal mark for the month. The cloudburst of today brought the total rainfall for 1945 up to 19.32 inches, which is within 10.20 inches of the normal for the entire year, 48.32 inches, with the better part of five months yet to be included.

Plainfield's oldest residents declared this morning that the water had risen to a higher level than it had reached before in a quarter of a century and up to noon-time traffic had not resumed its normal schedule. It is the opinion of experts that days will be required to restore passable conditions on country roads, and even on some of the outlying thoroughfares within Plainfield's borders.

Much of the eastern section of the city is still under water, as are also parts of the city's surrounding suburbs. Bridges have been inundated, trees uprooted and limbs torn from trunks, telegraph poles and wires are down, and cellars flooded. Residents of Plainfield who have lived here for twenty-five years stated this morning that in many cases they have today experienced their first cases of being visited by cellar floods. For several hours prior to the welcome let-up this morning a gale of great velocity drove the rain through the city in sheets, walking was rendered practically impossible, horse-drawn and motor-propelled vehicles navigated through the flooded streams with the utmost difficulty, using the greatest precaution, trolley schedules are an unheard-of thing today, and communication coming from the outskirts carries with it tales of distress from all quarters.

GREENBROOK CHOKED.

The overflow from Greenbrook surged down through the eastern section of the city and persons living between Watchung avenue and the city limits were forced in many cases to keep within doors. Those who ventured out waded through miniature lakes of water with the aid of ingenious devices and in many instances were unable to get back to their starting places. The rise of the brook has made its course practically indefinable and it runs through yards and streets at random. The territory south of Fifth street and east of Park avenue, and east of Watchung avenue is impassable in spots. The streets are covered by four feet of water in some instances.

FACTORY FLOODED.

The engine room at the Scott Printing Press Company was flooded and the entire force was compelled to abandon work this morning. In various other factories, business houses and private dwellings similar conditions are making themselves keenly felt. In speaking to a Daily Press reporter this morning, V. W. Nash, Sr., of Prospect avenue, declared that

HARVEY ROTHBERG IS FULL FLEDGED LAWYER

Local Young Man, by Own Efforts, Has Secured Coveted Degree.

I. Haryev Rothberg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kalmen Rothberg, of Madison avenue, has received notification that he has passed the bar entrance examinations in New York State. Mr. Rothberg took his examinations June 22 and 23, and received his formal notification on Monday.

Mr. Rothberg is well known in Plainfield, where his career has been watched with considerable satisfaction by his many friends. He is a graduate of the Plainfield High School, class of '08; of Amherst College with the degree of A. B. in '12; Columbia University (A. M.) in February, 15, and the Columbia Law School as an L. L. B. in June, '15.

Since entering the law school at Columbia, Mr. Rothberg has been living in New York. He is president of the New Jersey Club of Columbia University, a member of the White Mast Court, of the Menorah Society, of Alpna Chapter, Phi Sigma Delta fraternity, Amherst Alumni Association, Columbia Law School Association, Independent Order B'nai Brith and the Sally Beeber Educational League.

While honors came to Mr. Rothbegr in such large numbers, he worked his way through school and college and his friends are proud of his achievement. While attending the Plainfield High School he was a newsboy in the employ of Laing & Stout. He received his early training in the law in the office of former Judge William Newcorn, of this city, and while attending the Columbia Law School still clerked in Judge Newcorn's office and commuted to and from New York.

Mr. Rothberg's twin sister is Mrs. Alexander Kramer. She also graduater from the Plainfield High School in the class of '08 and took a course in the Trenton Normal School, teaching in Newark until she married.

MISS M'CLYMONT LEAVES FOR THE PACIFIC COAST

Miss Dorothy MacClymont, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. MacClymont, of 17 Woodbine avenue, leaves this city tomorrow for an indefinite stay in the West, as the companion of Mrs. P. G. Case, of Los Angeles. Mrs. Case is at present visiting in New York city and the two will leave that place tomorrow. After visiting all the principal cities of the west, the Panama-Pacific Exposition, and the San Diego Exposition, the two will make their permanent home in Seattle, Washington, where Miss MacClymont's father is located at present.

Miss MacClymont, who was a graduate of the Plainfield Seminary, this year, has a host of friends in the younger set of the city and borough, who extend her the best of wishes.

POLICE VACATIONS.

Lieutenant Maurice Higgins, the local police officer, who claims to have a record for change in titles that closely rivals the women's fashion shifting, started today on his annual vacation. He will spend the time in Atlantic City. Patrol Driver Thomas O'Gorman left yesterday for Bermuda to spend his vacation.

THE TEMPERATURE.

The temperature report from The State Trust Company today is as follows: 9 a. m., 71 degrees; 11 a. m., 72 degrees; 1 p. m., 75 degrees.

DUNELLEN

All the Happenings of the Day In Plainfield's Hustling Suburb.

John F. Dineen returned to Brooklyn last evening, after a visit since Monday evening at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dineen, on Washington avenue.

The home of William Hinkey on Dunellen avenue has been newly painted

Miss Margaret Moynihan has resumed her duties as bookkeeper in the office of M. T. Moynihan, Inc., after an illness of several weeks.

NOMINATED OFFICERS.

At the first open meeting of the Auxiliary Camp of the P. O. S. of A., the following officers were nominated: Mrs. Anna Wyckoff, of Plainfield, past president; James Teeling, assistant past president; Mrs. James Teeling, president; William Shively, assistant president; Mrs. Goldson W. Smalley, vice president; Mrs. Samuel M. Titus, assistant vice president; Mrs. Edward Shively, recording secretary; Miss Blanche Teeling, assistant recording secretary; Peter Benson, financial secretary; Mrs. Elizabeth Updyke and Francis Teeling, treasurer; Mrs. William Smalley, conductor; Mrs. Elizabeth Updyke, assistant conductor; Frederick T. Gary and Emil A. Vogel, guardians; Edward Shively, sentinel; Mrs. William Smalley, Mrs. James Teeling and Samuel M. Titus, trustees.

The meeting at which the camp will be instituted in general will be held in W. G. Holton Hall on Friday evening, August 13. The meeting will be addressed by George W. Smith, of Phillipsburg, who is the national secretary, and a full degree team will be present from Jersey City to perform the ceremonies.

The charter members of the camp number about thirty-five. The second and fourth Fridays of each month have been designated as regular meeting nights.

Mrs. Michael Higgins, of New York, was entertained by Mrs. Daniel P. Sullivan, of Dunellen avenue, over the week-end.

Leslie Apps spent the week-end at Boynton Beach.

Mrs. Mary McVey and daughter, of Brooklyn, who have been spending the last three weeks with Mr. and Mrs. George M. Miller, of Plainfield, spent the week-end in the borough visiting Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Frescoln, of New Market road. Other visitors at the Frescoln home over Sunday were Mrs. McVey's mother and brother, Mrs. William Bucklin and Thomas Bucklin, respectively, also of Brooklyn.

Miss Lauretta Thornton, of South Plainfield, has been visiting her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Nagel, of Prospect avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Henry, of Washington avenue, returned yesterday from Blairstown, where they had been visiting Mrs. Henry's brother, John Conklin, since Sunday.

H. Clifford Smith and family and Mrs. S. Purkiss and sons, George and Alfred, are camping at Boynton Beach for the remainder of the summer. Mr. Smith and George Purkiss make the trip each evening to Boynton Beach in Purkiss' car.

Mrs. Elizabeth Burns, of Brooklyn, is spending two weeks in the borough as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dineen, of Washington avenue.

William Victorson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Victorson, of First street, is getting along very nicely following an operation in the German Hospital, New York city, Saturday. The operation was a delicate one and the numerous friends of the young man will be glad to know that it appears to have been very successful. If all continues to go well he should be able to leave the hospital in two weeks.

Thomas Walker, of North avenue, has resigned his position in the office of the Pathe Freres Motion Picture factory at Bound Brook

Contractor and Mrs. Otis M. Webber entertained Mrs. Thomas Eiseman and William Walker, of Plainfield, Sunday.

Contractors Kirchner and Vogt have completed their contract of repairing the steeple of the Presbyterian church.

Miss Nora Bird, of Washington avenue, is spending the month with her sister, Mrs. Harry Read, at Blairstown.

Contractor John Kinney is redecorating the walls of the parsonage of the Presbyterian church during the absence of the pastor and his family, who are spending the month at Island Heights. Other improvements will be the laying of hardwood floors in several of the rooms. The firm of Kirchner & Vogt has the latter contract.

Mr. and Mrs. George Heaume and child, of Front street, spent Sunday at Brighton Beach.

WANT COUNTRY CLUB.

The idea of a country club for Dunellen is again being agitated. The present plan provides for the purchase of a piece of property of sufficient size to accommodate a small clubhouse and tennis courts. The house to be built in such a manner as to permit of ready enlargement as the growth of the town and the demand for a club warrant.

Those back of the project have made numerous inquiries among other New Jersey towns and have found flourishing clubs in communities of much smaller population and of no greater wealth than Dunellen.

This borough is growing rapidly and the need of a social centre of this character is becoming more urgent from year to year. Aside from the advantage to the individual, the borough itself, in order to secure its share of home-seekers, must keep abreast of the times, especially in a matter which is of such interest to the average suburbanite.

The plan is feasible, the need is urgent and other towns can so easily support such a project there is nothing to prevent Dunellen from doing so. Be a booster.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dineen, of Washington avenue, entertained their daughters, Sister Mary Claudia, of Burlington, and Sister Mary Charles, of South Amboy, Monday.

Miss Charlotte Anderson has returned to her home in Newark, after spending two weeks in the borough as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Hartpence, of New Market road.

A bouncing son arrived to gladden the home of Mr. and Mrs. John G. Woodring, on Front street, Monday evening. According to last reports both mother and son are doing nicely.

TIERNY—DINEEN.

Miss Kathryn Rose Dineen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dineen, of Washington avenue, was united in marriage to Hugh Tierny, son of Dominic Tierny, of Brooklyn, by Rev. E. J. Dunphy at a nuptial mass at 6 o'clock yesterday morning at St. John's church. Only the immediate relatives of the bride and bridegroom were present at the wedding.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a gown of white crepe meteor and a hat to match. She carried a prayer book, with cover of solid ivory, and was attended by her sister, Miss Margaret, who wore white georgetta crepe over white satin and carried a pearl rosary. Dominic Tierny, Jr., brother of the bridegroom, acted as best man.

The bride's gift to the bridesmaid was a solid gold bracelet and the groom presented the best man with gold cuff links.

After a short honeymoon Mr. and Mrs. Tierny will reside in Brooklyn. The groom holds a responsible position in New York city.

Miss Lillian Garretson, the local assistant postmistress, has been detained from her duties by malaria.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Bowman and family, of Front street, accompanied by Mr. Bowman's sister, Miss Louise Bowman, of Plainfield, leave on Saturday for Manasquan, where they will remain over Labor Day.

Rev. D. W. C. Ramsay, pastor of the local M. E. church, who is enjoying his annual vacation, will occupy the pulpit of the Methodist church at Somerville this Sunday.

Miss Edith Ruple, of Flemington, drove to the borough yesterday to spend several days with Mrs. William A. Craig, of Second street.

Dr. James Calhoun, of Atlanta, Georgia, an eye and ear specialist, is spending a week in the borough visiting his cousins, William A. Craig, of Second street, and Councilman Robert S. Craig, of Lincoln avenue.

Leo Logan, Benjamin Cole and George Martin have returned from their canoe trip to Princeton, at which place they camped for several days.

L. T. Churchill, who is engineer of Garwood as well as this place, attended the meeting of the Garwood Common Council at Garwood last evening.

Mr. and Mrs. William Yeomans, of North avenue, spent yesterday in New York.

Walter S. Craig, of New Market road, has been confined to his bed since Tuesday, suffering with lumbago.

The Ladies' Aid Society, of the Presbyterian church, will hold a picnic at Washington Rock all day tomorrow. An auto truck will leave Washington Park for the foot of the mountains at 9 o'clock.

PAINFUL ACCIDENT.

James Teeling, of Dunellen avenue, who is a member of the carpentry force of the Central Railroad, was the victim of a painful accident Monday morning, while working on the Lehigh and Wilkesbarre Coal trestle near Ferry street, Newark. Mr. Teeling slipped and his right limb went through the sleepers of the trestle, scraping his shin from a little above his ankle almost to the knee.

This occurred about 8:30 and Mr. Teeling, not feeling the bad effects of his injury at first, resumed his duties after resting several minutes. At 10:30, however, he was obliged to quit work by the pain his injury caused him. While waiting for the train to bring him home he examined his limb and found that it had swollen to an enormous size. The trip home was a very trying one and it was all he could do to manage to make it.

Dr. Cooley is treating Mr Teeling and the prospects are that he will not be able to return to work before the expiration of two weeks at least.

IT'S SURPRISING.

That So Many Plainfield People Fail to Recognize Kidney Weakness.

Are you a bad back victim?

Suffer twinges; headaches, dizzy spells?

Go to bed tired—get up tired?

It's surprising how few suspect the kidneys.

It's surprising how few know what to do.

Kidney trouble needs kidney treatment.

Doan's Kidney Pills are for the kidneys only.

Have convinced Plainfield people of their merit.

Here's a Plainfield case; Plainfield testimony.

Kidney sufferers hereabouts should read it.

Thomas Haskard, 927 South Second street, Plainfield, says: "Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at Randolph's Drug Store, have relieved me time and time again when I have been suffering from kidney trouble and I owe a great deal to them. I never hesitate to endorse Doan's Kidney Pills, for I well know of their merit.

Price 50 cents, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Haskard had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.—Adv.

COMING!

Ten Famous Writers And A Great Cartoonist

IN THE

Plainfield Daily Press

INSPIRATION | BUSINESS SENSE

STRICKLAND GILLILAN

Known to millions throughout the United States for humorous writings and lectures. The Gillilan daily funny column, "Off Agin, On Agin," which appears herein, gets its name from one of his famous poems. Probably a majority of our readers know Strickland Gillilan as a humorist, writer and lecturer and will welcome enthusiastically his appearance in their own home newspaper.

GEORGE FITCH

Contributes uproariously funny "Vest Pocket Essays"—daily. The Saturday Evening Post featured his famous Siwash College Stories for two years. His weekly writings in Collier's have been followed by thousands. Has the rare gift of natural humor—another Mark Twain. You will look forward every day to the "Vest Pocket Essays"—one hundred per cent brilliant humor.

Their Brilliant Contributions to Appear Daily On Our New Editorial Page

Beginning next week, with Monday's issue, we will offer our readers a New Editorial Page representing the efforts of ten of the brainiest newspaper writers and one of the cleverest cartoonists in America.

The first feast is ready and prepared to serve! You don't want to miss it or any of the succeeding daily insertions. Make sure of getting your daily copy of this newspaper by ordering it ahead NOW. All issues of next week and thereafter are going to be sold out quickly!

DR. WILLIAM BRADY

"Health Talks," his department on our New Editorial page, will evidence Dr. Brady's intensive knowledge of medical science and splendid ability as a writer. His professional skill is highly endorsed by The Medical Review, New York Medical Journal, American Medicine. Member American Medical Association. Dr. Brady and his assistants will prepare Answers to Questions on all health matters. Immensely instructive, beneficial, popular.

JAY E. HOUSE

The Dean of American newspaper paragraphers. His "Snap Shots" appears daily, beginning Monday in ten terse, laconic paragraphs bristling with wit, humor and brilliant satire. They hold volumes of thought reflecting contemporary opinion on politics, life, customs, traditions, habits. They stimulate mental alertness. You'll find yourself slapping your knee and reading "Snap Shots" to everybody within hearing.

Greatest Funny Features! Greatest Authorities on Law and Medicine! Greatest Writers on Current Events, Daily Problems, Success in Life!

Beginning next Monday, you'll want to curl up some place every day and spend a big, happy, beneficial half hour with these widely varied, carefully arranged contributions to our New Editorial Page.

Laugh with Gillilan, House, Fitch. Improve your condition and opportunities with Brady and Branson. Get daily inspiration from Maxwell, Kirkman and Adams. Let Ryder, Westerman and Cook fill out the big, overflowing measure of enjoyment and mental stimulation.

These are writers and feature creators who have been paid big sums for their contributions by newspapers of New York, Philadelphia, Chicago and other big cities. This is one of the greatest staffs of famous paragraphers and idea originators ever gathered together.

Now you can enjoy them in your favorite home newspaper at no increase in price.

Features For All the Family

Everybody will be vitally interested in our New Editorial Page because its splendid features will strike home to the immediate hobbies and needs of the individual members of every family.

Read down the sides and at the bottom of this advertisement who these contributors are and what they will contribute to our columns.

A Fund of Rare Humor and Comment: You'll richly enjoy the "Off Agin, On Agin" Column of Strickland Gillilan, and you'll want to send a contribution of your own to it. You'll find a delightful diversion in the "Vest Pocket Essays" of George Fitch and the "Snap Shots" of Jay House.

Keeping the Family Healthy: Fathers and mothers will safeguard more closely the family health with the daily "Health Talks" of Dr. William Brady, the well known medical authority. Write Dr. Brady for special advice in his column regarding diet, habits and prevention and relief of any sickness. Dr. Brady's Department will prove of great value to everyone from the new baby to the white haired grandfather.

A Department of Real Money Value: "The People's Legal Friend" will be edited by Mr. E. R. Branson. See the tribute to his standing as a legal authority under his photograph at the left.

Many of our readers are going to save money and make money by sending their Legal Questions to Mr. Branson and getting his Answers on all legal matters pertaining to personal property, contracts, leases, bills of sale, wills, mortgages, stocks and bonds, rights of stock holders, and rights of individuals in all kinds of controversies.

Everybody at times, is without the knowledge as to how to proceed in business or other transactions calling for legal attention and yet will not undertake the expense of engaging a lawyer. Here is where Mr. Branson supplies the need and saves a costly legal mistake, possibly the loss of hundreds, even thousands of dollars.

Mental Stimulation: Often you read something that starts you thinking, which gives you a real inspiration and actually helps you in your daily work. In George Matthew Adams' "Pepper Talks" and Laura Kirkman's "Life Line" and W. Kee Maxwell's "Sermonettes" you find that quality—the kind that cultivates the mind of the reader, that awakens new thoughts and makes one alert to the secrets of success and happiness. From an entirely different angle, in a quaintly original strain, "The Young Lady Across the Way" Ryder and Westerman's clever, unusual concoction give sidelights on life of an enlivening nature.

Extra Features: In addition to the above regular features will be "Cartoons of the Day", a daily cartoon selected from the best appearing in this country; also "Views of the Press," giving a current editorial from some leading newspaper, selected because of its timely interest and strength. Still other features are ready and will be added to this big, original, sparkling New Editorial Page.

E. R. BRANSON

Will conduct "The People's Legal Friend" Department. Has won national fame as lawyer. Member faculty Lincoln College of Law. Author "Branson's Instructions to Juries," "Branson's Legal Forms," etc. He and his assistants will prepare authoritative answers to questions from our readers—provide you with expert legal advice without cost.

LAURA KIRKMAN

Author of "The Life Line," a unique New Editorial Page Feature which our readers will follow closely, is a brilliant metropolitan newspaper woman who, for a number of years has been a regular contributor to leading newspapers of New York and Philadelphia and the larger national magazines. "The Life Line" is original, different—will appeal to you.

W. KEE MAXWELL

"Sermonettes" by this powerful writer, is a feature of exceptional quality—gives highly inspirational philosophy expressed in a way that produces a deep impression. Mr. Maxwell is Editor of a leading Middle Western Newspaper and his humorous and philosophical writings appear frequently in the magazines. "Sermonettes" will engage the enthusiastic attention of this entire community.

CATHERINE COOK

Bookloovers will richly enjoy her clever literary criticisms in "The Best New Books" department, special on Saturdays in our New Editorial Page. Well known as head of a publishing company and versatile writer and authority on literary subjects. Penned over 200 book-reviews in one season. War Correspondent in Spanish American War.

HARRY J. WESTERMAN

Draws "The Young Lady Across the Way" for our New Editorial Page. One of the leading American cartoonists. His work is given prominent positions in the cartoon magazines, such as the Literary Digest, Cartoons, etc. Mr. Westerman is staff cartoonist for a prominent American daily. Westerman's pictures for "The Lady Across the Way" are diverting, entrancing.

ROBERT O. RYDER

Collaborates with Mr. Westerman by writing the quaint paragraphs of "The Young Lady Across the Way." The cleverness of this feature is a result of the teamwork of these two in producing famous newspaper features. You'll probably look for their "Young Lady" among your friends and maybe you'll find her.

GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

In "Pepper Talks" he puts down his experiences on paper so that his readers live them over again with him. The kind of paragraphs you clip out and paste over your desk or near your work. Written out of struggles and temptations writer himself has faced—observations, lessons, conclusions of absorbing interest. Watch for Adams!!

THE SHORT BALLOT.

The New York State Constitutional convention in having a tug of war between the radical and conservative members over the short ballot question. If they would just look across the Hudson to New Jersey they would see it in operation. In our State government we have it and no one would suggest a change. In New York they now elect practically all their State officers. With us we elect only the Governor and he appoints all the rest, and it is simple and works well. Our fathers adopted this system in 1844 when they gave us our present Constitution and no one has ever suggested an amendment to it to change the system. It is the right way. It should also be applied locally. The Mayor should also appoint in every city all local officers. The true system of Republican government is to elect, in the State the Governor and a senator in a district or county and one Assemblyman in each Assembly district; in the city a mayor and a councilman in each ward or city district, and in the county we should find some system by which one officer—say a supervisor—should be elected and all county officials be appointed by him. If we voted for but few officers and good ones, and they would be good ones if they were so few that every voter could study them and their fitness—what an ideal method of filling public offices we should have and what a nice little ticket we would vote on election day.

New York may well follow New Jersey in her State government and elect only her Governor and Lieutenant Governor (an office which we do not have) and if she shall do this it is possible that other States will follow her lead.

FARMING BY MACHINERY.

Henry Ford is now turning his attention to machinery for farming. In a statement he says:

I am building this machine for the purpose of keeping young men on the farm. It will reduce the cost of tilling the soil by one-half or one-third, and it will produce food in abundance for an increased population. It will make work—lots of work. That is what I like to do and what I think is the acme of all social service—to give men the opportunity to work.

If Mr. Ford can succeed in keeping the farmer's sons on the farm by making farming easier and more profitable he will accomplish wonders—why not? The farmer's life is the most independent of any and living next to nature is always delightful. If comforts and conveniences were found on the farm what a relief it would bring to the congestion of the cities and hence to the health of humanity.

The Philadelphia North American says that in the United States alone there are nearly 900,000,000 acres in farms and that more than 400,000,000 acres remain uncultivated. What a future in the agricultural field if this vast area can only be developed and worked comfortably and effectively? A machine never gets tired. It never needs rest. The heat does not prevent work nor the hills delay it. It does not have to be fed nor groomed. Mr. Ford has already done much for the comfort of humanity and for better financial results for the labor of men. If his "tractor" shall bring the aid and relief he expects to the farmer his is indeed to be a name to live in the affection of his fellow citizens.

POLITICAL HINDRANCES.

Some men never seem to learn anything. William Barnes, of New York, seems to be one of this class. His friends are now putting out suggestions that he is soon to make a great speech in the Constitutional Convention, now sitting at Albany, New York, in which he is "going to come back." The verdict of the jury in the Roosevelt libel suit cannot be washed out by Mr. Barnes. The public have no use for his kind in public office. He is of the class than can only do harm. Why cannot he and political hacks of his class see that they only harm a party to which they belong? What a blessing it would be to the Republican party if Barnes would only migrate to Hayti. It looks to us as if they needed him down there just at this writing. That such men as he must stand in the way of the rehabilitation of the Republican party seems almost to amount to a crime.

It is announced that another Egyptian temple of very large dimensions has been unearthed at Memphis in Egypt. It is said to show that it has been covered for at least three thousand years and to establish the early history of the world for many centuries prior to that period. We made up our mind to try to study it all out and figure just how old it proved the world to be, at least how long it is since the earth was first populated, but we gave it up as the weather was not conducive to exhaustive research. We will leave the matter over for a cooler season. One thing, however, is evident, that the archaeologist is doing splendid work in our day in his discoveries.

HEAVIEST RAINFALL IN YEARS

the high water mark for the past twenty-five years had been reached in that section, the street being under two to five feet of water for a block near the brook.

COMMISSIONER ACTIVE.

Street Commissioner Andrew J. Gavett was busily engaged all morning investigating conditions and providing what aid he could to the stricken property owners and business men. One man well versed on conditions of this kind told a Daily Press reporter that the present conditions vividly set forth the need of reconstructing the bed of Greenbrook and deplored the present conditions.

GREENHOUSE FLOODED.

The greenhouses of Charles L. Stanley, the florist, on South avenue, were flooded by three feet of water. This spot is a particularly low one and many other people living in the vicinity had their cellars choked with rain water. In the Netherwood section boys are taking advantage of the temporary lakes to indulge in swimming and some off the more ingenious have devised means of carrying individuals from curb to curb, and in some cases, for distances of several blocks by means of rafts and rudely constructed boats.

FANWOOD SUFFERS.

At Feltville, just in back of Scotch Plains, a big dam broke, and the water rushed down the hillside and into the town portion of the Plains. This river flowed into Fanwood and the Central Railroad tracks are covered by three feet of water. The trains passing through that place this morning threw water over the top of the Fanwood depot. Commuters at that depot piled waiting room benches and ties on top of each other and the men folks waded through with their trousers rolled up to their knees, carrying the feminine adventurers.

CHICKENS KILLED.

Large numbers of chickens were entrapped in coops and drowned like rats in traps. Other small live stock was also killed and cows and horses waded about in water up to their backs.

LAKES IN YARDS.

The premises of Mayor E. B. Latham and Dr. Whitford in Dunellen resembled miniature lakes. Trolley communication to that place was entirely cut off, the Main Line cars running no further than Clinton avenue in a westerly direction and no nearer than Bound Brook in an easterly direction. Boy swimmers are numerous in Dunellen and boating has suddenly become a profitable pastime in that suburb.

CROPS DESTROYED.

Communication from the farming districts indicates that much loss has been done to crops. Green cornstalks have been laid low and potatoes and other products have been washed from the ground. Where big truck farms thrived yesterday only vast fields of mud and water are to be seen this afternoon.

DAMAGE IN BOROUGH.

North Plainfield sustained its share of flood damage. Water ran knee-deep in the streets. Green brook and Stony brook overflowed their banks, bridges were washed away, chicken coops and outbuildings were carried down the streams, trees were uprooted and other damage done.

UNREST AT WATCHUNG.

At Watchung the early hours were anxious ones to many of the residents. The ice pond of the Plainfield Ice and Supply Company threatened to give way until William Pitus, connected with the company, waded out waist-deep into the water and opened the flood gates. This saved the dam, but released almost as great a volume of water as would have been released had the dam burst. Residents along the line of Stony brook thought that the dam had gone and many telephone inquiries were sent in to North Plainfield police headquarters. Back yards were flooded and along the course of the stream in the Rockview avenue section numerous chicken coops and other small building standing in exposed positions were carried away, some of them containing live stock.

A. G. Hooley, of 17 Rockview terrace, who owns some very fancy chickens and dogs, was fortunate in sustaining no loss whatever from the storm, although his neighbors suffered. Mr. Hooley's chicken houses and kennels were on high ground and the water did not reach them. In one kennel, near the brook, were a few birds, but these were rescued by an employe and taken to the barn for safety. The dog kennels were near the house on high ground.

CHICKENS DROWNED.

Quite a loss was sustained by W. H. Williams, of 30 Rockview avenue, who owns some prize chickens. The extent of the loss could not be ascertained this morning as the chicken houses and outbuilding were isolated from the house by the water and could not be reached. That many of the chickens were carried down the brook to their death is known, but the condition of those that were in the coops could not be found out. Mr. Williams' cows were reported safe.

A. E. Faber, of 38 Rockview avenue, another chicken fancier was also a heavy loser through the high water.

Hippolyte Texier and family, of Watchung, were driven out of their home at an early hour this morning by the high water, which covered the ground floor of his residence. Other houses in the neighborhood were flooded and for a time it looked as if great damage would be done. Only about $75 worth of damage was done to the Texier property, however.

The rain was falling in torrents at just about the time most of the New York commuters living near Watchung and further back in the mountains drive to the Plainfield railroad station, and there were many of them on the road. At the height of the storm, about 7:30 o'clock, a dozen or more were held up at Watchung by high water and had to be towed through by the automobile apparatus of the Watchung Fire Department.

Stony brook had risen so high that the road was two feet deep with water in places. The firemen hitched a rope to car after car and drew it through the narrow section of the road where the water was confined to a narrow space. Further down, the wider part of the "notch" permitted the water to spread out over a larger surface. The bus line cars all got through. Wetumpka Falls was said to have been a grand sight with the volume of water rushing over it and many hurried to the spot to obtain photographs.

On Summit avenue limbs were torn from trees. North Plainfield commuters had to wade knee-deep through water in places to get to the railway station, and the hackmen had more business than they could attend to. Trolley cars were crowded during the early morning rush hours.

LUMBER AFLOAT.

D. E. Flammer, of 315 Somerset street, had a pile of lumber stacked near his blacksmith shop along Stony brook, which gave him an exciting hour about breakfast time. The water reached the lumber and started it going down stream, and Flammer and his assistants were compelled to do some rapid work to prevent its going down stream. Such efficient work was done, however, that none of the lumber was lost.

The foot bridge at Dr. J. H. Cooley's property was washed away and the larger bridge, further up, was reached by the water, but not injured.

Chief Marshal Weiss, of the North Plainfield police department, came down from his bungalow at Washington Rock, in the height of the storm this morning. He droved in a closed carriage, but it rained so hard that he had scarcely a dry piece of clothing on him when he reached headquarters. On Wilson avenue, he said, the horse waded through water up to its stomach.

Contractor Arthur E. Smith, who is constructing the new bridge over Green brook at Grove street, sustained a loss through the storm. The temporary bridge which had been built to accommodate foot passengers was washed away by the high water and large quantities of earth were washed out of the bank on the North Plainfield side. Some anxiety was felt by the residents of the brick row on Grove street, just over the line, for their safety, but while a large amount of dirt was washed down the stream, the houses were not reached. Mr. Smith's machinery was all out on high ground and was not injured. Neither was the mason work for the bridge foundation on the North Plainfield side injured.

VESSEL FOUNDERS OFF SCOTLAND LIGHTSHIP

New York, Aug. 4.—Caught in a gale which lashed the Atlantic Coast, the schooner M. V. B. Chase, bound from Cheverie, Nova Scotia, for Norfolk, Va., with a cargo of plaster, foundered off Scotland Lightship this morning, with a loss of two men. Captain Tuttle and a seaman were drowned when a lifeboat upset. The other members of the crew were saved by Sandy Hook lifesavers.

POLISH FALCONS' PICNIC.

The Polish Falcons second picnic of the season will be given Sunday afternoon at the grounds on Rock avenue, near the Watchung Mountains. The gathering will be featured by games, refreshments, music and speaking. Many prominent speakers from nearby cities will be present at the picnic. The committee in charge, headed by B. Duksta, is pleased with their co-operation, and promise all attendants a pleasant afternoon.

FUNERAL OF C. I. YOUNG.

The funeral of Charles I. Young, whose death occurred suddenly Saturday night, was held at the late home at 50 Chatham street, last night at 8 o'clock. Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson, pastor of the First M. E. church, conducted the service. Burial was made this morning in Hillside cemetery and was private. The floral offerings were numerous and beautiful, many handsome set pieces being included in the number.

TIE UP IN SUBWAY.

New York, Aug. 4.—Shortly after 11 o'clock this morning a fire alarm was sent in from the subway station at 137th street and Broadway. The firemen descended into the subway and found that water had caused some trouble with the signal at that point. The power on the northbound line was shut off, causing a tie-up of traffic on that track from Ninety-sixth street to 144th street. No serious damage was done.

Y. W. C. A.

Tomorrow night the Thursday night Bible class will meet at 6:30 in the association parlors, from where they will proceed in a body to the home of Mrs. F. G. Mead, on East Front street. Miss Corinne Tennyson will have charge of the class.

U. S. ASTOR THEATRE

While the giant Cunarder Lusitania was sinking with a gapping hole torn in her forward starboard side by a torpedo from a German submarine, Charles Frohman, the noted theatrical manager, stood on the main deck with some friends, among them Miss Rita Jolivet. To Miss Jolivet, who was bound for her home in England, Mr. Frohman, who lost his life in the disaster, said, just as the ship was going down by the head:

"Death is the most beautiful adventure a man can take."

Miss Jolivet, who is one of the leading French actresses, is best recalled for her excellent performance in "A Thousand Years Ago," which captivated New York audiences last season. "The Unafraid" is the first motion picture in which the little star has appeared in this country, and it is safe to say that she will take her place among the leading stars of the screen if she can be persuaded to take part in other pictures. It will be shown today at the U. S. Astor Theatre.

"The Unafraid" is a tense drama throughout, and Miss Jolivet fits the leading role down to the ground. The story is full of what the newspaper men call heart interest and makes a corking entertainment for a summer evening.

Other selected photoplays supplied by the leading studios of the world will be exhibited in addition to this splendid feature this afternoon and tonight. There will be special music by the Astor's orchestra.

THIRTY CONTAGIOUS CASES DURING JULY

Health Board Reports for the Past Month Read at Last Night's Session.

Routine business was transacted at the monthly meeting of the City Board of Health held last night in the office of the Board. Reports of the sanitary condition of the city were read. Thirty-one cases of communicable disease in all were received during the month. In addition to the above one case of typhoid fever was brought to the Muhlenberg Hospital from Westfield, and one case of tuberculosis from the borough. Eleven rooms were disinfected in three buildings during the month. Fifteen communicable disease speciments were examined during the month.

The survey of the stable premises within the city has been completed, and a circular of instruction has been posted in each stable. From time to time follow-up work wil be carried on, and all violations of the code abated. Inspections of chicken yards have also been made, and in several cases it was found that no permits had been obtained. It is the intention of the Board to enforce this ordinance and inspections will be continued. Inspections were further made of all stores where ice cream and soda are sold, and special note was taken of the facilities for washing glasses, dishes and other utensils.

New score cards for bakeries, stores and meat markets have been prepared, and examination of these places will be made during the month of August and September.

Ninety-three returns in all from births, still-births, marriages and deaths were received during the month. The total number of inspections made during the month was 653.

The following applications for permits were made during the month and granted: Kalman Rothberg, to sell milk from store; James Miner, to sell ice; Angelo Sorco and Joseph Reina, to conduct barber shops.

CITY DEMOCRATS MEET TO DISCUSS CANDIDATES

The meeting of the Plainfield Democratic Club last night was well attended despite the rain, and a general discussion of matters pertaining to the interests of the party took place. Candidates were talked over and some names suggested for county and city office. Until matters are in a more tangible shape, however, no publicity will be given the names.

It was the expressed opinion at the meeting that this section of Union county should be represented on the county and State ticket this fall. It was also decided that in view of the good showing made by the party in Plainfield last fall that a place should be given the party on the city ticket this year. The meeting adjourned to meet on the evening of August 23, the day before the county committee outing, when a slate will probably be made up.

HAYTIAN REBELS ATTACK CITY; GARRISON LEAVES

Cape Haitien, Haiti, Aug. 4.—The revolutionary army of Dr. Rosalvo Bobo entered Cape Haitien today. The garrison fled at the approach of the rebel troops, and the officials took refuge on the Haitien gunboat Pacifique. Additional United States marines have been landed from the gunboat Nashville.

RECREATION NOTES

The Zeplers met last evening in the High School gym and spent a delightful evening. Mr. Imes, a newcomer to Plainfield, led the glee club and has some wonderful plans for the future of the club.

This evening the gymnasium will be open to the members of the Girls Athletic Class. Many questions will be settled in regard to the meet which is to be held Labor Day afternoon. It is hoped that a large crowd will gather this evening.

On Friday night the Washington Dramatic Club will meet at Washington School. This club is planning to give "Brown of Harvard" in the near future. There are still a number of good speaking parts for any young men who wish to join the club and take part in this splendid drama.

APPOINTMENT EXPECTED.

Official announcement is expected today of the appointment of Rev. Charles A. Smith, chancellor of the diocese of Newark, to the irremovable rectorship of St. Joseph's church, in Newark, to succeed the late Rev. George Corrigan. Father Smith is well known in this city, coming here at various times when the local churches have been identified in any celebration. He was at one time rector of the Church of the Holy Trinity, Westfield.

GUNPOWDER IN WAR.

For Centuries Its Use Was Opposed in the Name of Humanity.

There was a period when any kind of "explosive" fighting in war was considered barbarous. The discovery of gunpowder put a stop to the old fashioned method of attack, in which duly missiles and sharp edged weapons were considered ethical, but gunpowder did not come into approval without a struggle. In fact, it was under the "humanity" ban for almost three centuries.

This remarkable compound of saltpeter, sulphur and charcoal, which was given its first tryout at the siege of Constantinople in 1453, had been known to both the chemist and the soldier for a hundred years or more. It is said to have been discovered by Roger Bacon in England about the year 1250 and by a German monk named Schwarz twenty years later. Another independent discoverer of the same dangerous mixture was an unknown and uncelebrated Moor, whose secret was ultimately carried into Europe in the fourteenth century. Even he was not the first to make an explosive compound. The Chinese "beat him to it," having used this same kind of mixture for rocket signals before the Christian era.

The fall of Constantinople was brought about by the use, the wholly unethical and altogether barbarous use, of cannon balls, and it was not until about a century later that the world gave its full sanction to the killing of men by means of gunpowder.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

WHISPERING GALLERIES.

Old World Churches With Remarkable Acoustic Properties.

The most celebrated whispering gallery is that which surrounds the base of the interior of the dome of St. Paul's cathedral, London. A person speaking near its surface can be heard distinctly by one listening near the smooth wall at the other extremity of the diameter, but not elsewhere.

In the cathedral of Gloucester a whispering passage leads from one aisle to the opposite behind the east window of the choir. It is seventy-five feet long, six and a half feet high and three feet wide in the form of half an irregular octagon. The walls and ceilings are of freestone, and the slightest whisper travels from end to end.

The cathedral of the Taj Mahal in Agra, India, has most marvelous echoes and reverberating qualities, but is scarcely a whispering gallery. The whole cathedral of Girgenti, in Sicily, has this character owing to the peculiar structure of its walls. These remarkable properties also belonged to the "Ear of Dionysius," cut in the rock at Syracuse in the shape of a parabolic curve, ending in an elliptical arch. It is said that the tyrant seated in a small chamber over a hundred feet from the spot occupied by his captives by this means could hear every word spoken by his prisoners.—London Answers.

If Animals Could Speak.

It is a startling fact that if some animals could tell their life history they would be able to recall events which happened hundreds of years ago. A Russian eagle, for instance, would be able to remember watching with greedy eyes as one by one the French soldiers under Napoleon fell exhausted out of the ranks in their awful retreat from Moscow in 1812. There are crocodiles alive in India today which saw the first English traveler set foot there, while there are whales in the sea which may have skirted the coast of France when it was invaded in 1415. A great many elephants could recall historical events of a hundred years ago, while there are ravens still living whose memory could go back twice that period.—London Answers.

Plenty of Room.

The young man who writes verses was standing out in the night gazing at the sky when a friend ran across him.

"What are you doing—studying astronomy?"

"Go away and don't disturb me. I am gazing into infinite distance."

"I don't see what satisfaction you find in that."

"That's because you never had any experience with editors. You don't know what a comfort it is to find some place where nothing is crowded out for lack of space."—London Tit-Bits.

The Amathyst.

A good example of one of the ways in which magical properties became attributed to natural objects is the stone known as amethyst. The ancient Indian name of this stone had the sound represented by its present name. In Greek this sound happens to mean "anti-wine;" hence, without more ado, the ancients declared that the amethyst was a preventive of and a cure for drunkenness!—London Mail.

Idle Dream.

"Poor dad! Sister told him that the girls of her class are going to graduate in dollar gowns."

"Well, what about poor dad?"

"He thinks a dollar is all he will be called upon to give up."—Kansas City Journal.

Two Sides.

Willis—Why don't you go to church? Gillis—Too far. Why don't you go? Willis—We live next door to one, and I hate to get all dressed up just to go that little way.—Boston Journal.

There Are Exceptions.

"We are all born equal," quoted the wise guy.

"Don't try to tell that to the mother of a first baby," cautioned the simple mug.—Philadelphia Record.

A STUDY IN ECONOMY.

Scene I. (Club cafe. Tauker and Lisson at a table. Tauker expounds.) Yes, as I was saying, my wife doesn't know the meaning of the word save. She's always spending money for something she doesn't need. Have another cigar, old man. I put all the ready money I had into a car—a man needs a little recreation after business hours—and what does she do but up and buy a piano! She doesn't know one note from another, and naturally that means a course of lessons. Guess we'd better have just another little bottle of that wine, hadn't we? I've just been moving into larger and better offices. I got tired of that dingy little hole I was in. Help business? Well, I don't know about that part of it. Business was all right in the old place. Still, I though I'd like a change even if the rent is a whole lot higher. Well, the point is, no sooner do I move than she begins to worry the life out of me about moving out of our flat into a bigger, more expensive one further downtown. And she had no earthly reason except that she didn't like the neighborhood we were in. Then, as soon as we got moved, she began to buy all sorts of high-priced furniture. And she knew as well as I did that I had just put a small fortune into new office fixtures. She said our old stuff wasn't good enough for the new location. That's the way it goes. I do all the economizing. No, no, old chap, this one's on me.

The whole thing is enough to discourage a man. A woman ought to be willing to do some of the saving, but no, just as soon as I think I'm beginning to get on my feet, she runs me 'way into debt again for some kind of nonsense. She spends an enormous amount on clothes. I like to see a woman dress well, but there's a limit. O yes, I like to dress well myself, but I'll bet I don't spend half as much as she does on clothes. Well, say two-thirds or three-quarters. And the candy bills she runs up! You'd naturally suppose a full-grown woman could exist without candy every minute. My turn again, old man. And try another of these cigars. Yes, they sell for a quarter, but I get them by the box.

I'll tell you what made me more disgusted than anything else, and that's a brand-new proposition she sprang on me last night. She already has a cook and a housemaid, and now what does she want but a butler! Think of it, on my income! Why, we'll simply go to smash if a halt isn't called pretty soon. I told her we couldn't afford it, and she asked me why I didn't discharge the chauffeur. Said I'd learned how to run the car, and didn't need him any more. I suppose there is something in that, but who wants to be grimed up all the time from monkeying with a lot of greasy machinery? Sorry you're going. Let's have a little drink first. Good-by. If you hear of my going bankrupt, remember I prophesied it. So-long.

Scene II. (A grocery-store. Tauker still expounding.)—Good Lord! Fifty cents for butter? When I saw it on the bill, I told my wife it must be a mistake. And forty-eight for eggs! No wonder a man can't get along these days. Somebody's in wait to rob him from the time he gets up till he goes to bed. You aren't to blame for the prices? Maybe not, but who is? They all say the same thing—someone else is at the bottom of it. All I can say is, it's about time something was done. People of moderate incomes are all going down and out unless somebody gets busy before long and straightens things out a little. It's a case of pinch and scrimp and save all the time.

Well, I won't be able to pay the whole bill this time. Some of it will have to go over till next month. The Lord knows how I'm going to make both ends meet if you keep on lifting prices. I no sooner see a chance of getting on to my feet than up goes everything another notch. It's getting so a man has to be a millionaire in order to keep the game going. (Exit, still talking.)—Walter G. Doty.

You need not keep "on your hands," to your present disadvantage, any real estate that is "good enough to advertise."

FIRE DOES $500 DAMAGE AT HOTEL NETHERWOOD

Responding to an alarm of fire telephoned into headquarters from the Hotel Netherwood at 9:21 this morning, the firemen found a blaze in a store-room on the top floor of the building among a quantity of rubbish and papers. Before it could be extinguished the fire did damage amounting to about $500.

The origin of the fire could not be ascertained. The room was one that was not used for any purpose, but which contained scraps of paper and rubbish to a depth of a foot on the floor, the firemen said. It is the belief of the hotel proprietor and the firemen that someone was surreptitiously smoking in the room and thus caused the fire. Two tanks of chemicals and an extinguisher were used in putting out the blaze, which ate into the ceiling and the roof rafters before it was extinguished.

OFFICIALS GRANT DEMANDS

Agitation developing over the statement made public by the management of the Saurer plant of the International Motor Company Saturday afternoon led the concern to supply the newspapers with the following announcement this morning:

"The Saurer Motor Company of Plainfield find that some of their loyal men would rather have the advance recently made as twenty per cent. war bonus changed to a twenty per cent. rate advance. The company is making this change and announces in place of the twenty per cent. war bonus, that beginning August 2, each shop employe now working on an hourly or piece work basis will be paid as follows: First, he will receive a flat advance of twenty per cent. over his hourly rate (schedule to prevail on August 13) on regular pay days; second, all piece work prices will also be advanced twenty per cent."

Rumors among the machinists last night indicated that the Ransome Concrete and Engineering Company has granted the eight-hour day were branded as false by an official of the Dunellen concern this morning. In an interview with a Daily Press reporter he stated that the facts set forth by the machinists' committee were being taken under advisement, but that no change in the hour schedule had been made up to the present time.

Jacob J. Keppler will come to Plainfield tomorrow afternoon and will speak at the mass meeting of the machinists in the Plainfield theatre tomorrow night. At that time full reports will be made and what action will be taken by the machinists working in shops where the demands have not been favorably considered will be decided upon at that time. A mistaken impression concerning the nature of this meeting has been sent broadcast and for fear that some machinists would be kept away tomorrow night Thomas E. Carroll made an onnouncement this morning stating that the session would be open to the public in general and would not be for union men exclusively, as has been rumored.

MANY STORES TO CLOSE

There are several business places which have made it a practice to close Saturday afternoons through the months of July and August, and it is understood that these business houses will continue that program even though they have joined the Thursday all-day closing combination.

Those who will close all day Thursdays during August are as follows:

Schwed Brothers, Morris C. Van-Arsdale, A. H. Osmun, Tepper Brothers, DeMeza & Blimm, Hyman Adelberg, S. S. Kresge Company, J. R. Blair, Charles Kurtzman, Woodhull & Martin Company, Weiss Brothers, L. B. VanCamp, Mrs. S. M. Fiedler, S. H. Whitney, A. E. Force & Co., Leo Zeisel, G. W. Woolworth Company, Shirley & Johnston, J. A. Laurie & Co., Harry Dreier, Samuel Rothberg, Jacob A. Fass, Rosenbaum Brothers, J. J. Varley, Waglow & Varley, Jacob Sklarew, M. D. Rosenthal, Harry Werner, George W. Pope Company, H. P. Greenwood, John J. Kenney, Stuart's Shoe Shop, Morris Abrams, George J. Finger, A. K. Willett, H. A. Bonn Company, D. Trobiksy, O. M. Dunham, R. M. Daly & Co., Marcus Hoyt Company and Will Williams.

The butchers and grocers who have adopted either a part or full time Thursday schedule are as follows:

E. & W. Schloss, Fred H. Firstbrook, J. L. Bennett, Jacob C. Blimm, Alfred A. Keenan, R. H. Keenan, William J. Firstbrook, Sylvester Sharkey, James T. McCarty, George A. Scheelen, S. J. Carhart, M. R. Giles, H. L. Viebrock, Queen City Market, Roth & Co., H. J. Pasch, W. L. Smalley, David C. Coon, Frank Neidig, James K. Arnold, W. E. Lane, F. M. Lunger, Clifford L. Applegate, F. B. Pierson, Frank L. Scherier, Thomas Callahan & Son.

DEATH OF CHILD.

Luella Runyan, the six-year-old daughter of Ralph Runyan, of 62 Manning avenue, the borough, died early this morning in Muhlenberg Hospital of a complication of diseases. Beside her parents, she is survived by a brother and two sisters. Notice of funeral will be given later.

"RAJAH" IN FAVOR OF FIRING COACHES

Chicago Cub Manager Takes a New View of the Situation.

Roger Bresnahan, manager of the Chicago Cubs, takes an unusual view of the coaching at first and third base which may occasion considerable gossip among baseball men and critics. He favors the abolition of the coachers and would approve of a rule to keep the players off the side lines while the game is in progress. He gives his reasons why he believes that coachers are unnecessary and that the game can be played as interestingly if they were not on the field.

There are many managers who do not agree with Bresnahan in his idea. Hugh Jennings, of the Detroit Tigers, does not think a contest complete unless he is allowed to place himself in the boxes at first and third, tear up the grass and give his famous "E-yah" yell. John McGraw is another who would not favor the rule eliminating the coachers, as it would stop him from signaling to his men at the plate and on the bases. Mack would prevent his running up to argue with the umpires and stop him from joshing the third baseman. These are his favorite tactics.

Manager Bresnahan contends that if the coachers were abolished the players would learn to be better base runners. They would acquire the habit of doing things on their own initiative, instead of relying wholly upon the coachers to tell them to come on or stop.

"Base runners do not have to be coached," said Bresnahan. "They ought to be taught to use their own judgment. The impression seems to prevail that a runner cannot run around the bases and keep his eye on the ball. This is all nonsense. A man can travel with all his speed and at the same time know what has become of the ball. He does not have to follow the ball all the time.

"When the runner is making a turn or going from one base to another he can take one look and if his judgment is good he will know what to do. If going from first to third on a hit he does not have to turn his head completely if the ball is batted to right centre or to centre field. He needs only to turn his head a little, and if the ball is going or fumbled he can determine instantly what he should do.

"Coachers have been in the game so long that most of the baserunners depend on them. When a man turns second base the first thing he does is look at the coachers. They say that a man cannot go at his full speed and turn. That may be true, but, as I said before, a runner does not have to turn completely. All he has to do is to take a little peek. There are some runners who can run at their full speed with their heads turned clear around. Heinie Zimmerman is one, and I imagine he acquired it from practice.

"Coachers are not of any account when a runner is on first or second base. It is entirely up to the runner to watch the pitcher. If he allows the twirler to get the jump on him it is his own fault. The man on the sidelines cannot help him at first, for the runner has to be on his way to the bag as soon as the twirler makes a move to pitch over.

"At second base a runner might be helped a little, but if he takes his permitted lead off the bag and turns his head now and then to watch the infielders he will never get caught off the base.

"Some think that it would slow a runner starting from second when a hit goes to left or centre field. I contend that it will not if a player is taught to watch the ball and use his own judgment. If a man is flatfooted at second base when a hit is made, undoubtedly a coacher could assist him some, but he should not be standing still when a hit rings off the bat. He should be going at full speed, and as soon as he turns third he can see where the ball is and at the moment know what to do."

SOME SHIFTING IN CITY LEAGUE CLUBS

Managers Promise to Inject New Life Into Their Teams.

Several important additions to the rosters of the various teams were made at Monday night's City League meeting. Britt Martin, leader of the Saurer forces, intimated that he has not been treated justly by a few of his players. He, however, has decided not to release those who have been the cause of the little hard feeling, resolving to give them another chance. In order to do this and to add the names of three other players, it was necessary for him to release Tommy Mullin, who was immediately signed up by Jimmy Monahan. Fred Huffmeister, the Highland star, was released by Martin, while Eddie Conshay, Haberman and Pasch were added to the list. The addition of Conshay brings the number of hurlers in the Saurer stable up to five.

Jimmy Monanan signed Frank Wall, the Bound Brook cousin of Frank Bruggy. Wall was signed early in the season by the Clinton Avenue team, but was recently released by them. The name of Jack Thoney, the Fed hold-out, was entered by Monahan, also. However, it is not likely that the big fellow will perform very often for the Abstainers, as he hurls weekly for New York semi-professional teams.

Billy O'Loughlin and Russ Day were dropped by the Tabs in order that room could be made for the new men.

Owing to the changes made, a general shift in the T. A. B. line-up is promised. Some one of the infielders will have to go, but who it is must be decided by friend fan himself. The caliber of work displayed by each and every man during the next few games will have a good deal to do with the proposition.

SPORTING NOTES

Topsy Hartsel, hero of more than one team in the big leagues, has retired from baseball. He was a great hitter and outfielder not many years ago.

The Christie-Farmer bout at Marinette, Wis., which was set for July 30, will be pulled off tonight.

The Minneapolis speedway is receiving its finishing touches and will be in fast shape for the 500-mile motor race on September 4.

Danny Maher is back in England from South Africa. If he cannot ride he will turn his hand to training.

Duluth will open up its boxing season on Friday night, with some clever talent and a great deal of enthusiasm.

The opening date of the big international regatta at San Francisco is August 14. Each Saturday and Sunday the races will be pulled off until September 5.

The annual Canadian Henley is set for Friday and Saturday, where the course is one mile and 550 yards.

Most of the entries in the amateur field championships at San Francisco next Friday and Saturday are college men. The athletes from all sections are well matched. The East has the best performers in seven events, the West in five, and the Coast in six.

The Eleventh American Field Futurity, for thoroughbred and highly trained dogs, will be held November 4, at Sparta, Ill.

The five-mile championship will be the big running event of the 'Frisco meet next Saturday. The fifteen-mile marathon will be run on the 10th and the marathon on August 28.

W. H. Cowell, formerly prominent in athletics and football at the University of Kansas, Unversity of Illinois and at Pittsburg, has been appointed physical instructor at New Hampshire State College.

CUBAN HAS BIG IDEA OF HIS OWN WORTH.

Angelo Aragon, the Cuban infielder with Richmond, who was asked to name his own terms to play with the Brooklyn Feds, sent in his opinion of his value the other day. "Give me $5,000 down and a contract for $4,000 a year," he said in his letter. Manager Lee Magee replied: "Sorry I can't give you a steam yacht and the Woolworth building too. Knowing you couldn't be happy without them, I guess we'd better call it off."

ROD AND REEL

A very useful table to determine the weight of brook trout without the use of a scale which is practically correct, is as follows:

Length.	Weight.
14 inches	1¼ pounds
13 inches	1 pound
15 inches	1½ pounds
16 inches	1¾ pounds
17 inches	2¼ pounds
17 inches	2½ pounds
19 inches	3 pounds
20 inches	3½ pounds
21 inches	4 pounds
22 inches	4¾ pounds
23 inches	5½ pounds

Fishing off the Coney Island Iron Pier has been very good during the past few weeks. Weakfish have been caught in large numbers, those ranging in weight from 3½ to 5 pounds being common.

Fluke and weakfish are biting well at Canarsie and in Jamaica Bay.

Fluke have been landed in great quantities off Ambrose Channel Lightship.

Members of the Ocean and Stream Fishing Club, of Newark, under whose auspices the big world's championship surf casting tourney probably will be held at Newark next year in conjunction with the 250th anniversary celebration, have already gotten busy in preparing its plans. A special committee will attend the casting tourney of the Asbury Park Club, which is to be held next Saturday, and it is safe to say that not a competitor will fail to hear of the big things that are planned for next year's affair. There has been great activity in casting circles within the last year, and the men who really fish are taking up tourney casting in earnest. After standing for nearly seven years, the world's record was broken last year at the Asbury Park tournament, and it was bettered several times thereafter during last season and this. Just to show what improvement was made may be cited the fact that Moran's old mark of 316 feet 10 inches was raised to 348 feet, 349½ feet, and then to 352 feet. Reports of casts better than 370 feet, made in practice, have come in, and the prediction has been freely made that 400 feet will surely be made within the next year. Lighter and better reels and lighter linen lines, with consistent casting practice have shown the results. In is likely that a number of local anglers will enter in these events. John Doughty, one of the best surf casters in the East, is a resident of this city, and may compete in the Newark event.

An angler recently struck a freak of nature in the shape of a double-tailed bloodworm. The worm was about six inches long, and had two tails, each about three-quarters of an inch long from the crotch of the fork. The angler said this was the first freak he has seen of thousands of worms handled each season.

So much fresh water pouring into the rivers and bays isn't good for fishing. Weakfish are not partial to fresh water after they get through spawning and this might account for their being so far away from land. Sunday's storm turned millions of gallons of water into the bays and it may prevent good catches being made.

Catches of great quantities of blackfish, sea porgies, sea bass and trigger fish were registered by anglers off Long Beach, the Oil Wreck and Buoy 4, during the past week.

ALL STARS HURL DEFY AT ABSTAINERS' HEAD

Conrad Shofer's All-Stars come forth with a challenge to Jimmy Monahan, manager of the Tabs. Shofer wants to stage a tilt with the Abstainers on Avon Oval this Sunday. He has signed up Loerner, the York Tri-State Leaguer, to hurl for him for the next three weeks. Loerner is spending his vacation here, having voluntarily left the league. Harry Moulton attends to the backstop work for the Stars, and the rest of the line-up is the same as that used by the Park Avenue Baptist baseball outfit. As the Parks defeated the Tabs, 3 to 0, earlier in the season, Shofer can see no reason why the feat cannot be duplicated. If Jack Thoney can be secured to twirl for the Abstainers, and if Loerner opposes him, a real pitching duel is sure to result. A game between the Tabs and the All-Stars would attract a large crowd, as both teams have an enthusiastic following.

The All Stars are going to operate for the rest of the season under Con's management, games being played both on Saturdays and Sundays. Several Newark teams have written for games but it is not likely that their offers will be accepted as the manner in which the Meadowbrooks treated Jones' Plainfield A. A. does not speak well for the sportsmanship of the Essex county seat.

RABBITS PLENTIFUL.

With the opening of the gunning season not many weeks away, the nimrods will be glad to learn that rabbits are plentiful in the northern part of the State. Automobile parties report hundreds of young bunnies along the roads each evening about dusk. They are particularly thick in the Schooley's Mountain section.

AMATEUR BALL JINGLES

Tommy Mullin, it seems, is in great demand by City League managers, and yet it is not likely that Tommy will perform with any of the local teams for some time to come. He holds down quite a remunerative diamond job out of town, and as the city circuit is strictly an amateur affair, it is only reasonable to believe that he will stick where the dough is.

No, gentle reader, the T. A. B. S. didn't spring any great surprise Monday night when they signed Jack Thoney. One fan was heard to remark that "Herr Thoney was no pitcher and was looking for a home." From the look of things several league players will be in doubt as to where home is when they face the Federal Leaguer.

That umpiring job is not in great demand. There are at present only two aspirants to the position left vacant by the resignation of Harry Hansen. Hyman Abrams and George Gage are the boys who are looking for the "plum," and as Abrams is first in line for the labor, he will attend to the indicator work until he sees fit to quit or is slaughtered by the opposition.

Someone said Mickey McFadden would show the Meadowbrooks how to fan out. Perhaps he did, staging the fanning part himself, because, rest assured, they didn't.

We ask what happened to Warry McLaughlin Sunday. Five hits in three innings were garnered off Warry's shoots. Something unusual, brother, something unusual.

Some high-toned names have been bestowed on the Parker Field boys' leagues. We shall soon hear this sound running the rounds: "Aw, back to the minors for Jimmy." However, ambition to get up in the big show and stay there has already seized the minds of the youths, and this fact is proof in itself of the good that is being accomplished by those promoting the diamond work at the popular playground.

Haberman, who, after performing in one contest for the Saurers, was injured on a trolley car, has been resigned by the shopmen, and will shine with them for the rest of the season.

Another cripple has been restored to activity. "Kats" Miller, who broke his ankle early in the season, donned a uniform Saturday and hurled an inning for the shopmen.

The married and single men of this city and vicinity have been exceedly active along baseball lines of late. One of the "joke" games was recently staged on Avon Oval and one was uncorked at Maurer Oval last Saturday. "Hasbeens" and "Neverhad-'ems" get together when affairs of this caliber are pulled off.

SPORT BRIEFS

In the semi-final match of the Longwood challenge tennis tournament held at Boston yesterday, R. Norris Williams, national lawn tennis champion, defeated W. F. Johnson. Williams meets N. W. Niles today. The winner of today's match will play Maurice H. McLaughlin, of San Francisco, the present holder of the cup on Thursday.

Harry Stone, substituting for Danny Ridge in the star ten-round bout at the Wallace A. C. last night, was decisively beaten by Fighting Fitzpatrick.

William Hart, a member of the National League staff of umpires, has sent a letter of resignation to President Tener, of the National League.

Pitcher Burk, of the Pittsburg Federals, was temporarily restrained from playing with the Pittsburg Feds by an injunction granted by Judge Ambrose E. Reed in Common Pleas Court to the Indianapolis American Association Club at Pittsburg yesterday.

N. Y. A. C. athletes with Coach Bernie Wefers in charge, arrived at San Francisco yesterday with all hands fit and ready to bid for honors in the National A. A. U. championships on Friday.

GOLFER SHOULD INSTRUCT HIS CADDIE IN HIS PREFERRED STYLE OF BEING SERVED

You may find caddies on all golf links; but to find the right kind is the problem. Caddies need teaching, says The Washington Post.

"Most of the boys are self-taught, and few players will explain to the boys what the golfer expects. If you want good caddies you must teach them. If you will not tell the boys what to do and what not to avoid, you should not blame the caddies when they make mistakes.

"Honesty and good nature are the first requirements of a good caddie. He should know the following clubs and their uses: Driver, brassie, cleek, mid-iron, mashie, niblick, putter. He should prove his ability to do these things: How to locate the ball, how to carry the bag, how and where to stand while holding the bag, what to do and what not to do when a stroke is being made.

"How to carry the bag—Put the strap over the shoulder and rest the hand of the same side on the heads of the clubs. This prevents clubs knocking together. When on the teeing ground rest bag on ground

"Where to stand—When a player is getting ready to play, or when he is practicing a stroke, stand, at a position where you can see his face, and at least 10 feet from him. Never stand behind him. This applies to all strokes from tee to putting green.

"How to spot the ball—Look at the ball while the player is making his swing, keeping your eye on the ball until it drops. Mark the spot by a tuft of grass, a tree, or a building. Walk straight to the spot where you last saw the ball; if you don't find it at once, lay the bag down to mark the spot where it disappeared, then hunt for it.

"How to hold the flag—Stand at the flag staff with your hand on it. When the player has approached near enough to see the hole take out the flag and step aside. After he has holed out replace the flag with great care, so as not to break the edges of the hole.

"Do not take the club out of the bag while any one is addressing the ball or holing out. Do not move, talk, or whisper when a player is getting ready to play. Never walk across a player's line of putt. Wait until the players have holed out before walking to the next tee. Never hand a player a club, unless you know exactly what he wants. Let him take it out of the bag. Never swing a player's clubs. In laying the bag down, do it carefully, because the iron heads chip the varnish off the wooden clubs.

"Walk at the right of the player. Keep up to him. If the player is making a stroke cuts the sod replace it and press it down with your foot. Never walk through the sand in a bunker. Always go around it.

"Balls must not be sold to any member or employé. All balls found should be turned in to the club. Be respectful and polite at all times—it pays. Help the smaller boys—it is the best way to help yourself along.

"Attend to business while on duty—do not swing clubs, talk or play with the other caddies. Show your interest in the game by keeping up with your player. Do not lag behind. Walk beside your player and not with the other caddies.

"A poor caddie is worse than none at all. Furthermore, a player who is ignorant of and indifferent to observing the ordinary rules of play is worse than a poor caddie."

McFARLAND—GIBBONS.

Racine, Wis., Aug. 4.—"Packey" McFarland, of Chicago, and "Mike" Gibbons, of St. Paul, signed articles late yesterday for a fight that is to take place September 11 at the Brighton Beach Motordrome, New York. The contest will be for ten rounds and the weights will be 14 pounds. The promoters offered a purse of $32,500, of which McFarland will receive $17,500 and Gibbons $15,000. Each boxer put up $2,500 as guarantee of appearance on the day of the fight at the stipulated weight.

TROT PASSED UP FOR CANTER.

Berkeley, Calif., Aug. 4.—The perfection of the canter as the latest thing in dancing is occupying the attention of the American Association of Masters of Dancing, which met here today. That the trots are altogether passe, impossible and entirely outclassed, is the general view of these authorities. In fact, the canter has already shelved the trot. The dancing masters will try out the varieties of canter and decree which will be adopted as the real thing.

CHAPPELLE FLIRTS WITH FEDS.

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 4.—Larry Chappelle, Comiskey's "lemon," recently returned to the Brewers by the White Sox, yesterday notified the club management that he had turned down an offer from the Pittsburgh Federals.

HITTING HEAVERS ARE BIG HELP

Pitcher Should Be Able to Aid In Winning His Game.

WAS HOBBY OF ANSON'S.

Old Chicago Leader Insisted on Getting Flingers Who Could Take Regular Turn at Bat Without Weakening the Club.

Nothing is half so useful, after all, as a pitcher who can hit—a pitcher who can bat 'em out and even win his own games by stepping into that old ball when hits are badly needed. Such a pitcher gives the team employing him advantage over a team with a hitless hurler—it amounts to matching nine men against eight and, in addition, handicapping the eight with a drag on their machinery—a ninth member who not only cannot smite, but will insert a strikeout or a double play into whatever rallies the eight are trying to spring.

Long ago it was one of Uncle Anson's hobbies to have pitchers who could hit. He maintained that the game was played by nine men on a side and that the whole nine should be able to crack that pellet when required. Many a time uncle turned away some clever pitcher simply because he could do nothing but pitch.

Nowadays that's all most managers ask of a pitcher—that he shall be a fancy specialist in his own particular

RAY CALDWELL, NEW YORK AMERICANS' HEAVY HITTING PITCHER.

Ray Caldwell, the New York Americans' star pitcher, is the best batting twirler in any league today. Many times Ray is sent in as a pinch hitter and generally makes good. When his arm begins to weaken Caldwell expects to be given a regular place in the outfield. Pop Anson states that Caldwell is his ideal of a real star hitting pitcher and that other twirlers should try to follow in his footsteps.

line, leaving the batting to the other fellows. Not so with Anson. He never in all his long career could see things that way and to the very last insisted that his pitchers must do their share of the whacking. And uncle seemed somehow or other to get pitchers who could do it, too, and not fall away in their own department either.

When Luby won the twenty straight in 1890 the fact that Luby also led the league in batting helped materially along the road. Ad Gumbert, another of Anson's pitchers, was a terrific hitter. John K. Tener, now president of the National league, could bat with royal vigor. Seldom did uncle have a pitcher who fell below .220, and a pitcher who can hit .220, comparatively light as that may seem, is going to help win a lot of games that would be lost by some fellow hitting only .120.

Australia Has New "Hope."

"Snowy" Baker, the Australian boxing promoter, announces the professional debut of Harold Hardwick, a versatile antipodean athlete, who won the amateur championship of the British empire at the empire games in London. His record is such as to cause him to be regarded in England, Australia and elsewhere as a most promising candidate for the heavyweight boxing championship of the world.

English Shell For Yale.

Coach Guy Nickalls of the Yale university oarsmen has a new English eight oared shell and English made oars for his varsity crew. The boats are equipped with the thole pig rig. The seats, however, are rigged in a straight line instead of being adjusted in zigzag fashion along the keep, which is the English style of rowing.

Turning the Tables.

Larry Cheney of the Chicago Cubs, known last year as a relief pitcher, has this year had to call for help more than any other pitcher in the National league. He has been yanked something like a dozen times in the twenty games he has started.

LEARN HOW TO SWIM

In a Series of Ten Articles, Famous Expert Louis De B. Handley of the N. Y. A. C., Gives Advice to Beginners and Veterans.

Article No. 10.—Life Saving.

By LOUIS DE B. HANDLEY.

[Copyright, 1915, by American Press Association.]

IGNORANCE of the methods of caring for the apparently drowned nowadays is quite inexcusable. As pointed out in a previous article, the rescue of those in danger requires considerable personal skill and practice, but any one can learn all that is needed for handling the unconscious victim of a water accident by merely reading attentively and retentively the prescribed rules, so that neglect to do so cannot be condoned.

Indeed, the attitude taken by some that it is useless for them to study resuscitation because they could save a drowning person in the first place is totally unwarranted. It happens frequently that absolutely inexperienced swimmers are able to reach one in danger by boat and perform a rescue without so much as exposing themselves to a wetting. If they can then administer the proper treatment all is well. On the other hand, failure to operate artificial respiration promptly and correctly or to apply the given remedies later may have fatal results even after the victim has been taken from the water.

Consideration of these facts should urge upon every man and woman the necessity of fitting themselves for eventualities irrespective of their ability as swimmers, particularly since it can be done so easily.

Needless to say, medical advice is always to be sought at once, if circumstances permit, when a drowning accident occurs. As, however, one is at times called upon to act alone, far from all assistance, we will speak of the best course to follow single handed.

Various methods of resuscitation are now in use—the Howard, Sylvester, Schaefer and others—and many maintain that there is very little choice between them. This is a mistake. It has been proved beyond question—by numerous and convincing experiments—that the Schaefer method forces considerably more air into the lungs than the others. In addition, the position of the body not only facilitates the outflow of swallowed water, but prevents the tongue from falling back and obstructing the respiratory channel, so that its superiority must be obvious to any one giving the matter a moment's thought. It is, in fact, the only system known which can be operated by one person effectively and without loss of time.

In using the Schaefer, or prone pressure method, the first thing to be done upon getting the unconscious victim ashore or on board is to lay him gently face down on an even surface, possibly with the head slightly lower than the feet. Then one kneels across the body, passes the hands around the waist until they meet over the abdomen and lift, at the same time working the palms inward and upward to get rid of any water which may have been taken in.

This accomplished, the patient's arm is raised above his shoulder and bent at the elbow, his head rested upon it, his face turned to any stirring breeze, the mouth and nostrils wiped clean of phlegm and mucus and the tongue drawn out. Then one is ready for artificial respiration.

Again straddling the patient, facing his head, one rests both hands on the small of his back, thumbs near the spine, fingers open and curving over the lower ribs, and bends forward, pressing firmly downward and upward for about four seconds, thus forcing out the poisonous gases formed in the lungs; then suddenly straighten up and release pressure, so that the constricted ribs return to normal position with a spring, causing a good intake of pure oxygenated air.

The aim of artificial respiration should be to imitate natural breathing, so that any one may estimate approximately the time of pressures and releases by noting his or her own inhaling and exhaling under ordinary conditions. The larger the subject, however, the slower should be the movements, the greater the force applied. One is generally instructed to make twelve to fifteen full (double) movements a minute, but few people can count the seconds accurately, and it is much easier to calculate on one's own breathing.

Operation on the patient should be continued until his lungs resume their functions and the chest begins to expand and contract unaided. At times a few minutes of work will bring results; at others it is necessary to persist assiduously for a long period before being rewarded.

Indeed, cases are on record of men and women having been revived after half an hour and more under water and as much as four hours of uninterrupted treatment—in other words, after nearly five hours of deathlike unconsciousness.

This should be borne in mind when a patient is slow to recover and one is inclined to become discouraged and cease trying. Don't lose hope; a human life is at stake.

Once natural respiration is restored it is all important to activate the blood circulation, always sluggish at first, and then bring the lowered temperature of the body to normal.

An excellent means of attaining this object is to resort to massage, stroking and kneading the muscles rapidly, but without force. Start at the thighs and gradually work down to the feet as the treated parts warm; then pass to the arms and body. But always stroke and rub toward the heart.

After being massaged the patient should be put to bed if possible, otherwise wrapped up snugly in blankets or any available clothing and made to take a long rest. There is serious danger of congestion of the lungs and other troubles for some time after the ordeal of drowning, and precautions should be taken.

In fact, if chills are noticed after the patient has been wrapped up every effort should promptly be devoted to inducing warmth. Hot water bottles and hot cloths applied to the feet, stomach and armpits usually give immediate results, and if better conveniences are lacking it is generally possible to heat bricks or stones over an impromptu beach fire to serve the same purpose.

Stimulants in very small doses are also beneficial. For instance, tablespoonfuls of brandy or whisky, preferably diluted in double the quantity of hot water, may be administered at intervals of ten or fifteen minutes with good result.

Throughout the period of resuscitation plenty of fresh air is essential to the patient. If a crowd forms, as it always will at a bathing resort, while you are operating respiration ask the aid of a few bystanders in clearing a wide space around you. And later in seeking a place for the revived person to rest in choose a well ventilated room or shack, and leave the windows open to provide free circulation.

As it is at times necessary, or advisable, to carry the unconscious victim of a drowning accident some distance on shore, it may be well to tell how it can be done readily, by the lifesaver's land carry, which enables one to lift and support a person twice one's own size and weight. It is best to use it upon reaching shallow water, but one may also raise the body from the ground, after turning it face up.

Seize the victim's right wrist with your left hand and lift; pass your right arm through his crotch; bend down so that you can lower your head under his right arm, until the armpit rests on your neck; then straighten up slowly and the body will be draped over your right shoulder. Now shift the hold on the wrist from your left to your right hand, without removing the right arms from its through crotch position, and the patient can be carried without effort, leaving your left hand and arm free to balance your advance and be used if necessary.

This carry is valuable in all kinds of accidents, but especially so in assisting the apparently drowned, because the pressure applied upon the stomach at every step you take first forces out all the water, then acts in the guise of artificial respiration.

LIFE SAVING.

Schaefer (or prone pressure) method of operating artificial respiration. Lay patient face down, head resting sideways on bent arm; kneel across him, facing the head; rest both hands on small of back with hands near the spine and fingers enarching the lower ribs. Press down and forward for about four seconds; then release pressure suddenly for one second and continue process until patient begins to breathe naturally.

TRY A PRESS WANT AD

DAHLEN HARDEST MAN TO TOUCH, SAYS EVERS.

"In all my years of ball playing," said Johnny Evers recently, "the man I found it hardest to touch with the ball as he came down to second base from first was Bill Dahlen.

"Dahlen always came straight down the base line, directly at the base, but in the last ten feet of the distance there was no telling what he would do.

"He had a great way of anticipating where the throw from the catcher was coming, and he played his slide to a nicety.

"Coming straight along, he suddenly would fall down on his hips, to one side or the other, spread his legs and then use the greatest cleverness in pulling out of reach and twisting himself to hook the base with either foot.

"There are other men whom I have found it difficult to tag at second, and among them are Lobert, Herzog, Bescher, Byrne, Magee, Miller, Huggins and Wagner."

WAGNER'S GREAT RECORD.

Veteran Pittsburgh Player's Batting Career Is Remarkable.

Hans Wagner made the hundredth home run of his career recently, thereby making an unequaled record. The grand old man of baseball has never gone through a campaign without one or more home runs, and there have been seasons when he made as many as ten or eleven circuit drives.

It is questionable if the player will ever live who can duplicate Wagner's remarkable batting record. In 2,486 championship games that he has played to date he has made, besides his 100 homers, 2,220 singles, 575 doubles and 236 triples, or a grand total of 4,478 bases.

Wagner may not last much longer. Within a few years he probably will retire, but it is decidedly doubtful if his equal will ever be seen in baseball. Cobb is a great player, but he is not the versatile athlete that Wagner is, who has played every position in the infield and outfield and starred in them all.

JOHNSON COMES UP FOR AIR.

Big Negro Anxious For Another Chance With Willard.

H. H. Frazee, one of the backers of the Johnson-Willard title fight in Havana, received a cablegram from Jack Johnson recently challenging Willard for another battle for the championship.

"I will fight Willard anywhere in the world and will post $20,000 that I will knock him out in a finish fight," cabled the former title holder.

There appears to be little chance of Willard ever fighting Johnson again, inasmuch as the new champion has drawn the color line.

RALPH RUNYON TO BE BUSY IN AUGUST

Local Pole Vaulter in Fine Trim for Coming Events.

Ralph Runyon, the local vaulter, has a busy program before him. On August 31 he will take a trip to Keansburg to compete in the annual A. A. U. events. He is entered in the high and running broad jumps. As there is no pole vault event scheduled to be run-off at this meet, Runyon will be deprived of his best dish. However, on Labor Day he will compete in the Michelin A. A. meet, and as there is a pole vaulting event scheduled to be run-off there, he will have a chance to show his wares. The Michelin meet is to take place in Milltown, a few miles northeast of New Brunswick, and has the sanction of the A. A. U. Two other local athletes are considering entering this meet. They are Bill Daniels, the crack P. H. S. half-miler, and Jim Greene, the 100-yard phenom. Packey and Francis McDonough, of the borough, may enter both meets, competing under the colors of Notre Dame College.

All local athletes who are contemplating filing their entries for the Milltown meet should make application to the secretary of the Michelin Athletic Association.

NEWARK ATMOSPHERE DID NOT AGREE WITH STARS

It is not likely that "Dipper" Jones will stage a return game with the Newark Meadowbrooks this season. Last Sunday, Jones led his tribe over to the Essex county city, expecting either to win or put up a good fight. They did neither. If the word of all the local players can be taken as true, they were not given the chance. Bell, a centre-fielder, who never even thought he was a pitcher, hurled against the locals and surprised himself.

McFadden essayed to shoot them over for Jones and his crew and was knocked from the mound with little trouble. Jones says the umpire was "rotten," but admits that Mickey was at his worst. Two-bagger after two-bagger was registered off his delivery and at length, Jones, unable to bear the strain longer, put Johnny Dixon in the box and the little fellow's slow ball was a puzzle to the Meadows. Lou Dixon's work as catcher was not as good as it should have been, the Newarkers taking great pleasure in pilfering bases. Joe Alberts, the grand old man of Scotch Plains, took a hand in this sort of business, too.

Rain prevented the completion of the contest and the crowd, which was large, refused to part with their coin. At least that's what one would infer from the amount Jones received, and his share amounted to forty per cent.

After the game Jimmy Creelin approached the local manager and asked him for a return match. Jones flatly refused even to consider such a thing unless a decent guarantee was posted by the Newarker. The result was that the local manager left for home undecided as to the advisability of staging the return game.

WATCHUNGS AND ORIOLES WILL CLASH SATURDAY

The Watchungs and the Orioles intend clashing on Parker Field this Saturday. These two teams have never met before, and a lively go is anticipated. The Birds have secured a Westfield battery to work for them, while the Hillmen place their confidence in purely local material. Crist and Barnes, both Westfielders, are the ones scheduled to tackle the battery duty for the Orioles, while Demeter and Vail will act in that capacity for the Watchungs. June Dunning and Baker are the rival first sackers, June performing for the songsters and Baker for the Watchungs. The infield of both outfits is very fast and evenly matched. Those composing the Oriole infield are Dunning, Ernie Stahl, Max Marsh and Bert Trotter. Baker, the Fetherston brothers and Bodine make up the Watchung infield. The outfield of the Oriole clan will be made up of Cliff Marsh, Lynn Marsh and Loschen, the ex-Saurer player. Bob Young, Herman and Eaton will attend to the garden work for the opposition.

PROCTOR'S THEATRE

Marguerite Clark, one of the best known, as well as best liked favorites of the screen world, will appear at Proctor's theatre tonight, in a story of love under the title "The Goose Girl." Here love and adventure mingles in realms of romance, lending enchantment to this wonderful Paramount production. Miss Clark is ably supported by such stars of the photoplay world as Monroe Salisbury, Sidney Dean, E. N. Dunbar and others.

Another of the Paramount features is scheduled for tomorrow, both afternoon and evening, when Edward Abeles appears in "After Five," a picturization of the modern comedy hit. This picture is a hilarious comedy of amazing plots and misadventure, and is a sure cure for the worst type of blues. Along with Mr. Abeles in the cast are Betty Shade, Jane Darwell, Theodore Roberts and Monroe Salisbury.

Local housewives who are patrons of the Proctor house should remember that tomorrow afternoon is the time for the weekly distribution of souvenir spoons. Weber and Fields are also booked for tomorrow in that screaming comedy, "Mike and Meyer Elope."

The features for Friday include "The Closing Chapter," a three part Universal drama featuring Mendock McQuarrie and Miss Lehr; "Behind the Screen," a two part Universal comedy with Eddie Lyons, Lee Moran and Victoria Forde playing the prominent parts, and the sixth episode of the great serial, "The Romance of Elaine."

"The Prize Story," a Universal drama in three parts, is the feature for Saturday, with Harry Meyers and Rosemary Thelby taking the stellar roles.

HOUSE IN ORANGE, N. J., WHERE LUCY STONE LIVED WHEN SHE MADE HER FAMOUS PROTEST AGAINST TAXATION WITHOUT REPRESENTATION. DATE OF PROTEST 1857.

LEADERS OF THE SUFFRAGE CAMPAIGNS GATHER IN JERSEY

Lucy Stone Honored.

The "Boston Bay" of American women is the name given to the home of Lucy Stone, 16 Hurlbut street, Orange, where the famous "taxation without representation" protest was made in 1857. Upon the house in which she lived will be placed a tablet Aug. 13 which will be so worded that if the house is torn down the tablet still will commemorate the spot.

Aug. 13 has been selected for a celebration and for unveiling the tablet because it is the ninety-seventh birthday of Lucy Stone, founde. of the New Jersey Woman Suffrage Association in 1868. Orange will be the meeting place of suffrage leaders from the states of New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania and Massachusetts, the leaders of the thousands of American women struggling for their political independence.

The celebration will be inaugurated with a banquet. Present as guests of honor will be Miss Alice Stone Blackwell, daughter of Lucy Stone, president of the Massachusetts Woman Suffrage Association; Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, president of the National Suffrage Association; Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, president of the International Suffrage Alliance and chairman of the Empire State Campaign Committee; Mrs. Frank J. Roessing, president of the Pennsylvania Woman Suffrage Association; Mrs. Raymond Brown, president of the New York Woman Suffrage Association, and, it is hoped, Mrs. Antoinette Blackwell of Elizabeth, N. J., who was a sister-in-law, college mate and close friend of Lucy Stone, and who is now eighty-nine years old.

Mrs. E. F. Feickert, the president of the New Jersey Woman Suffrage Association, will be the toastmistress at the banquet, which will be held at the Casino on Eagle Rock on the evening of the 12th.

Miss Alice Stone Blackwell will be the speaker at the unveiling of the tablet Aug. 13 at 2 p. m.

The house upon which the tablet will be placed is in the Italian district of Orange, and its present occupant is Matthew Masi, a druggist. He is emphatically in favor of suffrage because his national heroes, Garibaldi and Mazzini, believed freedom good for women. Mr. Masi is very proud of the garden in front of his home, and his only fear in connection with the pilgrimage ceremony was that his flowers might be hurt. Dr. Mary G. Hussey, a suffragist and fine gardener, immediately sent Mr. Masi a barrow load of healthy young plants.

Women will have an equal voice with men in casting at least ninety-one of the electoral votes that are to decide who is to be our next president. The ninety-one votes in question will come from the twelve states of the west and middle west where women now vote. This number may be enlarged considerably, however, between now and 1916, as the suffrage question goes to a vote of the people this November in Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey and Massachusetts.

In all countries, even those where the equal rights movement is least advanced, the more thoughtful women now realize that the restrictions laid upon them are due to human blindness, not to the laws of nature or to the will of God.—A. S. B.

In "the Game of Life" generally, as well as in want advertising, persistence wins in nine cases out of ten.

WOMEN BRING LIBERTY'S TORCH TO JERSEY

Suffragists Meet on Hudson.

On Saturday, Aug. 7, midstream the Hudson, the torch of liberty which New York women have carried the length and breadth of their state is to be handed over to New Jersey.

Arrangements have been made for bringing the torch to New Jersey by MRS. RICHARD T. NEWTON OF NUTLEY VICE PRESIDENT WOMEN'S POLITICAL UNION OF NEW JERSEY.

Mrs. Richard T. Newton, chairman of a special committee of the Women's Political Union.

The torch, unlighted till the women in the east vote, will be brought from New York on a tug bearing the suffrage colors by Mrs. Harriot Stanton Blatch, president of the Women's Political Union of New York, and given halfway between Jersey City and New York, to Mrs. A. Van Winkle, president of the Women's Political Union of New Jersey, who will meet her in a decorated tug putting off from Jersey City.

The first torch meeting on New Jersey soil will be held on Pier B, Jersey City, which has been lent for the purpose by the Pennsylvania Railroad company. It will then be taken to the steps of the city hall, where Mayor Fagan will speak.

The torch, which is of a handsome Roman design, has been carried through the state of New York by Mrs. Henry O. Havemeyer and Mrs. Stanton Blatch.

The trip through New Jersey by automobile will begin with outdoor meetings on the first day in Newark, Rahway, Perth Amboy, Keyport, Keansburg and Atlantic Highlands. At Atlantic Highlands it will be placed in the hands of Miss Eleanor Brannan, who will carry it over Monmouth county, in which she and a corps of workers are campaigning.

In Jersey City Mayor Fagan will welcome the torch bearers and be one of the speakers at the meeting there. Other speakers on the first day's trip include State Senator Frank H. Pierce, Rev. Charles S. Kemble, Fillmore Condit, Nicholas O. Perry, J. P. Furber, Winston Paul, Hon. Everett Colby, Thomas F. Meaney, W. J. Morgan and Commissioner Harry A. Moore of Jersey City.

Woman's Place Is In the Home, BUT—

Look at New Jersey, where the question of woman suffrage comes before the voters on Oct. 19:

In New Jersey the number of women of voting age is..... 736,659
In New Jersey the number of wage earning women is..... 239,565

This means that one-third of all the women in New Jersey have to work outside of the home for a living.

The Hon. Everett Colby thinks that suffrage may be made unanimous in this state through the very nervous activity of its chief opponent, the only Jim Nugent. Even those who were not interested will begin to think there is a very good reason why they should become interested in the propaganda.—Elizabeth Journal.

A PRETTY ROOM.

How to Handle a Scheme of Decoration For a Dining Room.

GRAY AND BLUE AND ROSE.

Satisfactorily Furnished Chamber Combines and Contrasts Warm and Cold Colors—Neutral One Toned Wall Paper Creates Excellent Setting For Pictures.

Nothing expresses character or temperament more openly or ingenuously than the choice of color, for each color in the spectrum represents a different idea, from the high light of yellow down through the cool greens and blues on one side and the warm orange and reds on the other to the shadowy, mysterious hues of violet. People choose as their favorite color either that which best expresses them or, in some mysterious way, its exact opposite or complement.

Color has been named the "voice of art," and, like the voice, it differs in each individual. No two people ever express themselves exactly in the same way through color, as no two people ever have precisely the same voice intonation.

Color is personal and individual, and by its thoughtful use many things may be expressed.

A well furnished room combines and contrasts the warm and cold colors, the cold generally serving as a background against which the warmer tones are displayed. A background must not be stronger either in color or decoration than the object to be shown. This accounts for the well deserved popularity of the neutral one toned wall paper which creates such an excellent setting for pictures, besides displaying the furnishings of the room to the best advantage. Do not forget, however, that the entire room is itself only a background for the social life which it contains, and the scheme of decoration must be subordinated to that idea. The occupants of a room are more important, or should be, than the furnishings.

To create a harmonious setting the tones must be closely keyed, with no large areas of intense color to distract the eye. Indeed, the color scheme of a room may be said to be successful when no one tone springs out to strike the eye before the rest of the room is perceived. A perfect balance of color is restful, while spots which distract the mind are not.

If intense color is to be used it must be confined to very small areas, balanced by larger areas of much less intensity, and as color emphasizes form the objects thus perceived must be beautiful in line and interestingly placed.

DINING ROOM FURNITURE.

The interest of a room centers in the lower part, about the level of the eye, which renders absurd any attention drawn to the upper portion of the walls.

Complementary or opposing colors should never be used together in their full intensity. A pure blue and a pure orange have no relationship as they stand, but if they are neutralized, which means that a portion of the orange dye is mixed into the blue and some of the blue into the orange, there result two softly beautiful tones which are entirely harmonious.

Attention has often been called to the vivid coloring and strong contrasts of nature, where against the bluest of skies the intense red, yellow and green of the autumn trees blend so beautifully. It is true that the atmosphere, bathing all these colors in its light, seems to create, especially where the magic of distance is added, a harmony of colors which within doors would never be tolerated.

In the dining room shown in the illustration the neutral tones, the cold tones, are used for the background, blue and gray paper hangs upon the walls, the rug is blue and gray, and the furniture is painted a pale gray. The color is in the lamp shade, which is of rose, the cushions in the chairs and the pictures upon the walls, which are gay splashes of color, sunsets and sunrises—color enough in this room to make it glow even before the rose colored shade is illumined for the night.

To Clean Sweaters.

White sweaters or chinchilla coats may be easily and inexpensively cleaned by placing them in a pillowslip and sprinkling them with 10 cents' worth of plaster of paris. Shake well until the garments look white, then remove, hang out of doors and beat the remainder of the powder out.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

The Monkey and The Boy Who Make Limericks.

The Little Boy Felt Queer.

"YOU know, kiddies," said daddy as Jack and Evelyn came to him for the evening story, "some wise men believe that mankind descended from monkeys.

"Some of them some time ago went into the forests of Africa and got monkey talk. I mean that they took along a phonograph and had the funny chatterings of monkeys recorded.

"One day a little boy heard his daddy reading to his mamma about this, and it appealed powerfully to the little boy's imagination. And after the boy had gone to bed he lay and looked out of the window for a long time at the summer night. And he thought of those monkeys that talk.

"And all of a sudden what should come hopping in through the window but a little gray monkey who looked very, very old. And he sat on the window sill, looking at the little boy so funny, till the little boy felt queer. So he addressed the little gray old monkey after this fashion:

"'How did you escape from your cage?
And tell me, sir, what is your age?
If you looked any older
I fear you would molder.
Now, please don't fly into a rage.'

"But the little gray old monkey, instead of getting angry, grinned at the little boy in his monkey way and answered him after his own fashion:

"'A cage I have never been in.
In the days ere real folks did begin
By my tail I swung free
From the limb of a tree,
And I scolded and chattered like sin.'

"'Why,' exclaimed the little boy, 'you must be very old!'

"'Oh, yes,' complacently answered the little old gray monkey, 'I should say I am! Why, do you know who I am? I'm your great-great-great-great-greatest grandfather.'

"'Oh, you are not!' exclaimed the little boy. But his heart sank, for he remembered what his father had read.

"'Oh, yes, I am!' replied the little old gray monkey, with a leer. 'I'm the ghost of that very same old fellow.'

"And then the little boy cried. And he woke up crying, too, children, for, you see, it was only a dream."

VOTES FOR WOMEN

Conducted by the Equal Suffrage League of Plainfield and North Plainfield.

Women Forced Out of the Home.

The Empire State Campaign Committee has compiled some interesting figures showing how many women have to be breadwinners.

Woman's Place Is In the Home—But—

The number of women in New York State of voting age is 2,757,521
The number of wage-earning women in New York State is 933,686

This means that over one-third of all the women in New York State have no home except as they work outside of the home to make one.

The number of women in New Jersey of voting age is 736,659
The number of wage-earning women in New Jersey is 239,565

This means that one-third of all the women in New Jersey have to work outside of the home for a living.

The number of women in Massachusetts of voting age is 1,074,485
The number of wage-earning women in Massachusetts is 444,301

This means that forty out of every 100 women in Massachusetts work for a living.

The number of women in Pennsylvania of voting age is 2,014,008
The number of wage-earning women in Pennsylvania is 605,436

This means that nearly 30 per cent. of the women in Pennsylvania work for a living.

The total number of women of voting age in the four States where women are working for suffrage is 6,682,673
The total number of wage-earning women in these four States is 2,272,928

This means that approximately 35 per cent., three and a half in every ten of all the women in these four States, have to work for a home before they can have one.

Let us hope for the time when every woman can have a home. But in the meanwhile let us remember the many thousands of women who toil for a living, and ho ought in all fairness to have a voice in the legislation that controls the conditions under which they must earn their bread.

A. S. B.

Men Wage-Earners Endorse Woman Suffrage.

The men who toil appreciate the needs of the women toilers. Endorsements from working men's organizations are constantly coming to the support of woman suffrage. Last week the semi-anual convention of the Massachusetts Association of Journeymen Plumbers and Fitters, in session at Northampton, went on record unanimously in favor of equal suffrage.

The "Not Yetters."

Mrs. Alice Barrows Fernandez, director of the Vocational Education Survey, in reply to Charlotte Rudyard, expresses herself as follows:

"'Not yet' is such a futile thing to say. There are always the 'Not Yetters'; the history of every radical movement shows this group of those who are afraid of the new thing, afraid of change. Professor Robinson, at Columbia, in one of his books, says that even during the Inquisition there must have been those who said, 'Oh, let's not abolish the Inquisition entirely quite yet; just let the horrors be not quite so horrible.' The 'Not Yetters' don't accomplish anything except hindrance."

SMART BODICE DRESS.

Misses' bodice dresses are very new and smart in appearance and young girls are welcoming them gladly. These dresses not only are an evidence of excellent taste and up-to-dateness, but they are very easy to make, indeed. Ladies' Home Journal Pattern, No. 9019, shown above, is a good model, consisting of a foundation waist with full-length sleeves or short sleeves, a seven-section corded skirt and a sleeveless overblouse, with round neck. Sizes, 14, 16, 18 and 20 years. Size 16 requires 5 ¼ yards 42-inch net and ¾ yard 36-inch silk.

Patterns may be obtained at the store of A. E. Force & Co.

Glimpses of Married Life

BY MRS. EVA LEONARD

"Have a doughnut, Dick." Nell held the plate temptingly in front of him.

"No, thank you," he replied absent mindedly.

"Don't you like them? I think they are extra fine this time," urged Nell.

"They are all right, but I feel nutty enough as it is."

"Perhaps he'll like them better with his coffee for breakfast," she thought; so the table was graced with a plate of doughnuts, but Dick did not eat any.

"I'm not going to waste good food," resolved Nell, so the doughnuts appeared regularly, but they were coldly received.

Dick got tired of seeing them hardening reproachfully before his eyes, while Nell ostentatiously ate one or two at every sitting. It occurred to him that it would be kind to Nell's digestion to hide the things until their usefulness as food had unquestionably passed, but though he put them behind tinware in the cupboard they smilingly greeted him at the next meal. Dick looked at Nell, but she was innocently eating doughnuts and talking of the weather.

"I'll bet you can't find them the next time," he thought, his lips a firm line.

This time he took them to the cellar and hid them in the bottom of a basket of apples. They did not appear at breakfast, and Dick was visibly delighted.

"Never mind, I'll find them before supper tonight, my dear," thought Nell; and she did. Like Banquo's ghost they appeared at the feast.

Nothing was said, but that made the game all the more exciting. Nell took the doughnuts to the pantry and hid them in an empty pickle jar. So closely did she guard the entrance to her citadel that Dick had to pretend he wanted some peppermint after he went to bed in order to get a chance to hunt them up.

"I'm afraid you've been eating too many doughnuts, dear," said Nell with deep sympathy in her tones. He found them after a little hunt, Nell meanwhile calling helpfully to tell him where the peppermint was and offering in sugared tones to help him find it.

"No, thank you, dear; I would not have you inconvenienced on account of my overeating," he replied as he wrapped the offending cakes in a cloth and, returning to the bedroom, stuffed them in a corner of the closet. Nell knew they must be either in the pantry or bedroom, as Dick had been nowhere else and the odor betrayed their presence. She promptly put them on the breakfast table. When Dick came in Nell said with perfect composure:

"Have a doughnut with your coffee."

"No, thank you. Jenks brings our coal today; he might need them to block his wagon wheel."

When Nell left the room to replenish the muffin plate he softly opened the window and dropped them out. He was absorbed in the morning paper when she returned.

Nell wasted a good hour, going through everything in the dining room before she happened to see the objects of her search scattered on the muddy ground under the window.

"You don't win this game as easily as this, Mr. Dick," she said aloud, and tiptoeing over the soft sod she gathered the adamantine cakes, washed them and they again stared at Dick at dinner.

He leaned against the wall in token of weak surrender when he came in, and Nell laughed in triumph. But after he had finished his dessert he took the plate and going through the kitchen to the shed reappeared carrying a spade. He dug a hole in the garden, dumped in the doughnuts and covered them up. On returning to the kitchen he said solemnly to Nell:

"We are now called to mourn the departed doughnuts."

"I guess they are really gone this time," she laughed.

Household Hints

SIMPLE AND REFRESHING HOME SUMMER DRINKS

A few cooling and invigorating drinks for the hot summer afternoon, quickly and economically prepared.

Amber Lemonade—Break an egg into a cup, add the juice of one lemon, the juice of half an orange and two teaspoonfuls of sugar. Beat or shake thoroughly and fill the glass with water and a little shaved ice. This is an excellent before breakfast drink.

Ching-Ching—Fill a glass two-thirds full of shaved ice, add three or four lumps of sugar, the juice of a large orange and a few drops of essence of cloves or peppermint. Fill with water.

Turkish Delight—Into two pints of grape juice, put on-half pint of sweet spiced vinegar. The syrup left from sweet pickled peaches or pears is delicious. Chill thoroughly before serving.

Quince Ice—Pare three large ripe quinces and cut in very thin slices, add four cupfuls of water and one cupful of sugar. Cook fifteen minutes and when cold pour over crushed ice.

Mint Lemonade—One bunch of mint, one cup sugar, juice of two lemons, one cup of water; let stand couple of hours. Put in sugar bag, squeeze into large pitcher, add one bottle of ginger ale and one pint chopped ice. More sugar and water can be added to suit the taste. This is delicious, as you get the flavor of the ginger ale without the biting quality.

Grape Sherbet—Mash two pounds concord grapes, add water to make one quart, the juice of one lemon and sugar to sweeten to taste. Dissolve one tablespoon gelatine in a little cold water, add to mixture and freeze.

Strawberry Mousse—One quart of strawberries mashed, add one cup sugar, let stand one hour. Whip one pint of cream with one-half cup powdered sugar. Strain the berries, add to the cream, put in mold, pack in ice and salt four hours.

Iced Coffee—Make good strong coffee, using more milk than water, sweeten to taste. When ready to serve, stir in whipped cream and pour in high glasses containing chopped ice.

THE TABLE

Gooseberry Tart—Preserve a pint of gooseberries. Line a pie plate with a rich crust, then add a border of the paste about one inch wide. Press down lightly with a fork, add gooseberries and cross the tart with three narrowtwisted strips of paste. Moisten strips with a drop of water at each end to make them adhere to border of the tart. Cook about twenty minutes in hot oven. This should be served very cold and is delicious with the addition of whipped cream.

—Swiss Eggs—One coffee cupful of grated cheese, one-third cupful of cream, two teaspoonfuls of butter, one teaspoonful made mustard, one-half teaspoonful of salt, dash of cayenne. Butter a pie plate or shallow dish, spread the cheese on it, add the butter in small pieces, mix the salt, mustard and cayenne with the cream and pour half of the mixture over the cheese; break the eggs into this, pour over them the remaining liquid and bake ten minutes.

Cherry Pudding—Mix two cups flour, one cup sugar, one teaspoon baking powder. Break an egg into a cup, add lump of butter size of walnut, fill cup with sweet milk, add to dry ingredients and beat thoroughly. Pour batter in buttered tin (reserving some for top). Put a pint of cherries (which have been previously stoned and sugared) on batter, spread remaining batter on top and bake. Serve with cream and sugar.

All-Round One-Egg Cake—One cup sugar creamed with nearly one-half cup butter, one well-beaten egg, one cup sweet milk, two cups flour sifted with two heaping teaspoons baking powder, vanilla or what you prefer. This recipe can be used either as layer or loaf cake. Add spices for spice cake; fruit for white fruit cake. Make a marble cake by adding spices and grated chocolate to one-half of it. Make good cookies by adding a little flour.

ADDITIONAL FORCES FIGHT MOSQUITOES

Usual Active August Campaign Against Pests Now in Progress.

Although the August brood of salt marsh mosquitoes is not expected to be as large as that of July, extra precautions are being taken by the Union County Mosquito Extermination Commission to reduce the nuisance to a minimum for the remainder of the summer.

According to Chief Inspector Russel C. Gies the frequent rains have greatly hindered the constructive work of the Commission and have been instrumental in greatly augmenting the broods. To meet these conditions the Commission has employed Walter F. Kummelbein an additional inspector. Kummelbein is well fitted for the work, as he passed the civil service test with a high average and stood first among the eligibles. Extra oil wagons have also been placed in service to take care of portions of meadow land and swamps which have not yet been ditched. One of these is a swamp covering an area of 150 acres in Union township, while additional forces are combating the little pests in Hillside township, Springfield, Fanwood, Westfield and a portion of Plainfield. During last Saturday and all of Sunday the inspectors were in charge of work on the meadows north of Elizabeth and at Linden, looking toward the temporary elimination of the mosquito until that portion of the county can be ditched.

Another hindrance to the work of the Commission, according to the chief inspector, has been the dairymen of Elizabeth and the nearby country, who allow their cattle to stand in the ditches prepared by the Commission for the drainage of the water. The cattle, he says, cause the ditches to become in a state of disrepair. This allows stagnant pools to form and makes an ideal place for the hatching of the insects. These men in the near future will be requested to meet the Commission for a conference. They will be asked either to keep their cattle off the ground or to furnish the expense of the damage done by them. In case they refuse to comply with either request, the cattle, according to Mr. Gies, will be captured and placed in a pound, where it will cost the owner $2 a head before they will be released.

The tide gate at Great Ditch, a short distance north of the Elizabethport railroad station, the construction of which had been delayed, thus causing the lower section of that place to be pestered with a brood of salt marsh mosquitoes, was completed yesterday, and no further trouble is anticipated from that source.

Already the Commission has constructed during the summer approximately 75,000 feet of ditching, ten inches wide and thirty inches deep. This work has been done in all sections where the salt marsh mosquito was likely to breed, and is still going on in various ports of the county. One of these ditches will connect the tide gate at Great Ditch and a point near the end of Schiller street.

FINED $10 FOR DRIVING THROUGH CLOSED STREET

Because he neglected warnings given him by the street commissioner to keep off the newly reconstructed portion of West Third street, between Plainfield avenue and Liberty street, Morris Levine was sentenced to pay a fine of $10 when arraigned before Judge DeMeza in the city police court this morning. It was shown that Levine had driven a wagon across the thoroughfare, damaging the wet cement.

Thomas Burton, colored, who was arrested on a similar charge, drew a suspended sentence, it being shown that this was his first offense.

PLAINFIELD HAS 24,575 PEOPLE

Census Shows Increase of 4,025 Over Government Figures in 1910.

COUNTY GAINS 25,000

Plainfield Gain is Over Nineteen Per Cent.—In Five Municipalities Enumerators Have Failed to File Bills With Freeholders.

Plainfield's population is 24,575, and that of Union county is about 165,000, with a few towns estimated, according to the figures made available by the filing of most of the bills of the enumerators with the Board of Freeholders at Elizabeth. The official figures will not be given out until they have been released by the Secretary of State at Trenton, but as the enumerators are paid for each name, the unofficial figures may be taken as accurate.

The gain in this city is 4,025 over the national census of 1910, when the population was 20,550, a net increase of over nineteen per cent., which is much larger proportionately than the increase in many other cities of New Jersey, including Newark, Jersey City and practically every community north of Trenton. In the county the increase is approximately 25,000, as the figures in 1910 were 140,197.

The figures by wards in this city are not as yet available, so that the increase sectionally cannot be given now. In Elizabeth it has been found that about one-third of the population is foreign born, but these are the only statistics of that character that were known at the county seat today.

The population by municipalities in 1910 and this year follows, those omitted in this year's figures not having yet filed the enumerators' bills with the Board of Freeholders:

	1915	1910
Clark Township ...	541	469
Cranford Township.	x5,000	3,641

xUnofficial.

*In 1910, Hillside borough was not taken from Union township. The figures for the borough this year are not available.

It is not thought at Elizabeth that Linden township, Springfield and Hillside will add more than 5,000 at the outside to the figures, so that the county population can be estimated at about 165,000, an increase of not over 25,000 since 1910.

DEPLORE AMBULANCE CHASING.

St. Cloud, Minn., Aug. 5.—Unprofessional practices by attorneys, more particularly along the line of "ambulance chasing," so-called, have developed to such an extent as to involve abuses which the Minesota State Bar Association will endeavor to correct at the annual meeting which opened here today. The question of ethics will occupy much of the discussion during the three-day meeting. Forty-three judges of the District Courts and several hundred prominent attorneys from all over the State are attending. At the annual banquet to be served tomorrow night C. C. Brown, of Winona, will be toastmaster. Governor Winfield S. Hammond will be one of the principal speakers.

A. E. ESTES TO RETURN.

Word has been received from A. E. Estes, general secretary of the Y. M. C. A., who is away on his vacation, that he is to leave Friends' Lake, N. Y., tomorrow for Kingston, N. Y., where he will visit his son for a few days. Mr. Estes expects to return to Plainfield to take up his duties again early next week. Physical Director Meermans will begin his vacation on Tuesday.

ASSESSORS LATE IN TURNING IN REPORT

One Plainfield Ward to Be Heard From Although Time Limit Is Up.

Up to 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon but fifteen tax duplicates out of the forty assessors' districts in Union county had been filed in the Elizabeth office of the County Board of Taxation, the Second, Third and Fourth wards of Plainfield just escaping mention by reporting at the Tuesday morning session of the Board. Word was received that the First ward of this city will be completed and filed before Saturday.

The record this year is the poorest one known, and it is believed to be due to the extra care placed upon the duplicates because of the warning letter recently circulated by the State Board of Taxes and Assessments. The Westfield record was reported to have been completed, but was held there for the remainder of the week at the consent of the Board in order to give property owners an opportunity to inspect it. Elizabeth, Rahway, Fanwood township, Summit, Fanwood borough, Union township and New Providence township are yet to be heard from.

While the law prescribes that the Tax Board shall receive the duplicates on the first Tuesday in August, it seldom occurs that all are filed before the second week of that month. The county tax rate will be fixed from the budget, which is scheduled to be adopted by the Board of Freeholders at its meeting this afternoon. The appropriation committee has been wrestling with the problem, together with County Collector Leavitt, for more than a month, but so far has not made public the results of its deliberations.

BOROUGH COLLECTOR BROWN IS IMPROVING SLOWLY

Tax Collector George F. Brown, of North Plainfield, is still confined to his home by illness. Mr. Brown's condition has given his family much uneasiness, and early in the week he was considered seriously ill. Yesterday he was reported as a little better, however, and was able to take nourishment for the first time in several days. Owing to Mr. Brown's illness, the list of delinquent taxpayers for 1914 has not been published yet, and will not be until Mr. Brown is able to take up his duties again.

TWICE POSTPONED FETE FOR SATURDAY NIGHT

Postponed twice on account of rain, the consistory of Trinity Reformed church will make another effort to hold its ice cream, cake and home-made candy festival Saturday night. It will take place on the vacant lot at East Front and Church streets, where the tables have been piled since the last date set for the affair, when rain caused a hasty postponement. If it should rain Saturday night, the festival will be held on a date to be decided upon then, for the consistory members are determined not to be twarted by Dame Nature, and expect to hold the festival some time, if they have to postpone it several times more.

WILL ATTEND FUNERAL.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Caffrey, of Orchard place; Eugene Caffrey, of West Sixth street, and Mrs. Thomas Dorgan, of Spooner avenue, left yesterday morning for Sugar Notch, Pa., to attend the funeral services of their mother, Mrs. Mary Caffrey, which were held this morning at the latter place. Mrs. Caffrey died Monday, following many years of invalidism and her death was not an unexpected thing. The Plainfielders will probably return to this city the latter part of the week.

ALLIANCE SERVICES.

The regular services of the Christian and Missionary Alliance at the German Reformed church, Duer street and Craig place, will be held tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 and in the evening at 7:30 o'clock. Sunday at 4 p. m. The public is invited to attend the services.

POOR DIAGNOSIS CAUSES TROUBLE

Small Pox Patient Put in Public Ward at Muhlenberg Hospital.

FOUND AT OAK TREE

Local Authorities Say That Raritan Township Officials Did Not do Their Duty Properly—Police All Vaccinated.

As a precaution against an epidemic of smallpox in this city, following a scare which had its origin with the death of a Slav in Muhlenberg Hospital last night, it is estimated by the local Board of Health that 500 individuals will be vaccinated before the day is over. Health Officer Randolph Chandler, together with Inspector John Casey and a corps of physicians and nurses, have been active since 2:30 o'clock this morning, and will leave no stone unturned in taking precautionary measures against an outbreak of the dreaded disease.

The victim who succumbed to the ravages of the ailment in the local institution was this morning identified as Joe Petrowitch, said to be homeless, and will be buried under the direction of the Raritan Township Board of Health within the time limit of twenty-four hours. Alleged failure to diagnose the man's trouble on the part of Dr. Howard Gross, Health Officer of Metuchen, is attributed as the cause for the local stir today by Health Officer Chandler, and a rigid investigation will be conducted to determine the responsibility for the whole matter.

Late yesterday afternoon a telephone call was received at police headquarters requesting that the ambulance be dispatched to Oak Tree to remove to the local hospital a man suffering from exposure. John Rinehart, clerk in the local police station, and John Van Nest, the patrol driver, were put in charge of the ambulance, and went to Oak Tree. They were informed that the man had been found on a pile of old bags about 500 feet from the Oak Tree railroad station, and it was the opinin of Dr. Gross that he was suffering from exposure to weather conditions, such as prevailed yesterday morning. Rinehart and Van Nest removed the man

BRAVE CANOISTS STIR NEW MARKET FOLKS

Three Young Men Went Over Dam Following Yesterday's Flood.

Rene Von Minden, Jr., Emile Nelson and Archie LaRue treated about 100 spectators to a lot of excitement at New Market yesterday afternoon, following an announcement that they intended to go over the mill dam in a canoe. Von Minden and Nelson started the excitement by getting into the craft and paddling a little way up stream, and then turning it toward the dam. As they neared the fall they stopped and turned back for a minute, but soon recovered their nerve, and turned the sigh of relief which the spectators had drawn into one of apprehension. The second time they started for the dam someone yelled "Get Constable Pierce," and this was supplemented by "Get an undertaker."

The canoe sped towards the dam, and shortly it reached its edge and went over. At the foot the waters were being churned into a whirlpool, and the canoe passed through this in safety.

The exhibition was so successful that the young men decided to try it again. LaRue took Nelson's place, but the duplication of the feat was a failure. The canoe filled with water and sank in the whirlpool. LaRue, who was in front, leaped clear of the whirlpool, but Von Minden was unable to do so. He yelled for help. Young Nelson hurried to the assistance of Von Minden with a plank, and those of the throng who were not frozen where they stood, also helped. With the assistance afforded Von Minden managed to extricate himself from the perils of the churning waters. He recovered so quickly from the effects of his experience that he announced that he was going over the dam again. "No, you wont, young man," said Constable Pierce, who had in the meantime joined the throng.

THOUSANDS WILL GO TO SHORE NEXT WEEK

Excursions on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday Will Provide Opportunity.

Plainfielders have no complaint about not being given plenty of opportunity to visit the "Town Without a Frown" next week. Excursions will be run from this city to Asbury Park and Ocean Grove on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday of next week, thus making it possible for thousands to take a trip to the shore resort and enjoy a dip in the surf.

The eighth annual excursion, and without a doubt the largest that goes from this city, will be the one on Tuesday, which is run under the auspices of Watchung Council, No. 552, Knights of Columbus, includes Sunday-schools from the Catholic churches of Plainfield, North Plainfield, South Plainfield, Dunellen Stony Hill, Scotch Plains and Netherwood. The outing will be in three sections, a total of forty-five cars being used to accommodate the excursionists. Baggage cars will be attached to each section for such luggage as attendant wish to take with them. Trains will leave the Grant avenue station at 7:45 and North avenue, Plainfield, at 8 o'clock. The return trip from Asbury will start at 6:30 p. m. Fifteen hundred children from this city and the borough alone have received tickets, while hundreds of parents have signified their intention of accompanying the youngsters. A large committee of Knights has been appointed to look after the comfort of each passenger, so that no one need be inconvenienced.

Thursday the Sunday-schools of Trinity Reformed church, Netherwood Reformed church, Marconnier chapel and the Mount Pleasant chapel will be run. Trains will leave Plainfield at 8:15, and in returning will leave the Asbury Park station at 7:10.

On Saturday the annual excursion of Hope chapel will be held, and Plainfielders who wish to stay in Asbury Park the longest possible time are planning to accompany the West Fourth street church, as the return trip will not be made until late in the evening.

FREEHOLDERS INSPECTING BRIDGES IN SOMERSET

Work on the new bridge over Green brook at Grove street is at a stand-still today while Contractor Arthur E. Smith is making a tour of Somerset county with members of the Board of Freeholders who are inspecting bridges. It is feared that some of the bridges were weakened by the flood yesterday, and an inspection of all those which were in any danger is being made.

Conditions at Grove street, where the new bridge is to be built, are about the same as they were yesterday after the water had subsided. The temporary foot bridge spanning the stream has not been rebuilt and pedestrians have to cross at Madison or Washington avenues. No great damage was done to the work, but many tons of dirt were washed out of the North Plainfield bank. This excavation will have to be filled in.

BOROUGH POLICE ARRANGE THEIR VACATION SCHEDULE

Chief Marshal George Weiss, of the North Plainfield police force, began his two weeks' vacation today. He will spend most of the time with his family in his bungalow at Washington Rock. During Chief Weiss' absence, Roundsman Charles Keller will be acting chief.

Marshal Lemuel W. Pope got back from his vacation today and Roundsman Keller will go away for his respite from police work upon the return to duty of Chief Marshal Weiss.

DEATH OF ROMOLO REJOLI.

Romolo Rejoli, formerly of Watchung avenue, North Plainfield, died yesterday afternoon following a lingering illness. He was a shoemaker by trade, and was twenty-seven years old. The funeral will be held this afternoon at the mortuary parlors of J. J. and C. A. Higgins and interment will be in Hillside cemetery.

WILLIAM WATKINS' FUNERAL.

Th funeral of William Watkins, of 663 South Second street, who died yesterday will be held tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock in the Calvary Baptist church. Rev. Mr. Campbell, pastor of the church, will officiate, and burial will be in Hillside cemetery.

ANNOUNCE ENGAGEMENT.

Mrs. J. Madden announces the engagement of her sister, Miss Lillian Vardon, to C. E. Glenn, of Martinsville, formerly of Plainfield.

ENDRESS CO. SAID TO BE INSOLVENT

Local Concern Made Defendant in Chancery Court Suit.

CAPITAL STOCK $25,000

Action Instituted by M. Augenblick and Brother, a Newark Corporation—John K. Roundey is Head of Firm.

Trenton, Aug. 5.—The Endress Company, of 131 West Front street, Plainfield, has been made defendant in a suit brought in the Court of Chancery by M. Augenblick & Brother, a corporation, of Newark, charging that the defendant is insolvent and asking for the appointment of a received. The Endress Company is incorporated with an authorized capital stock of $25,000. The suit is instituted by the complainant on behalf of itself and other creditors.

In support of its allegation that the Plainfield corporation is insolvent, the complainant avers that it obtained a judgment against the defendant in the Elizabeth District Court on July 19, last, amounting to $242.31. In an attempt to execute this judgment, Sheriff Otto, of Union county, levied on the real estate of the defendant in Plainfield, but found it mortgaged for $25,000 and for $8,000. He also attempted to levy on certain personal property, but this was claimed by other parties unknown. The judgment, it is claimed, has not been satisfied. The legal title of the real estate involved is in the name of the Perth Amboy Beef Company.

It is alleged that the defendant owes Edward Kinsey, of Somerville, $1,400, and Swift & Company, of Plainfield, $700, besides other debts.

The plaintiff charges that the defendant has been carrying on its business at a great loss; that it is insolvent, and that to conserve the interests of the creditors a receiver should be appointed. An injunction is also asked for to restrain the defendant from exercising any of the functions of a corporation, or from continuing business pending the determination of the question of the appointment of a receiver. John K. Roundey is president of the Endress Company.

CHANGE OF POLICY IN MEXICAN AFFAIRS

Secretary Lansing and South American Diplomats Are Arranging Plan.

Washington, Aug. 5.—The administration's new step and entire change of policy toward Mexico will be inaugurated today with the conference between Secretary Lansing and the diplomatic representatives of Argentina, Brazil, Chile, Bolivia, Uruguay and representative Paul Fuller, who acted as the President's investigator in Mexico. The definite plan of the administration, toward Mexico will be submitted for approval. This plan broadly speaking is to bring an end to the factional fighting in Mexico and see to it that the constitutional government is restored to the people there. Secretary Lansing said there probably would be no announcement to make following the conclusion of the conference which began at 2:30 o'clock.

Repulse of the Carranzistas who attacked Nogales in violation of the border neutrality pact forced by the United States, was claimed by the Villista agency here today.

Galveston, Texas, Aug. 5.—A cablegram from Vera Cruz today states that General Obregon has resumed his advance on Torreon, which was interrupted by a battle in which he crushed the force under General Fierros. General Obregon has occupied Fresnillo and is advancing rapidly.

WILL PAY RESPECTS.

Members of Watchung Council, Knights of Columbus, are requested to meet at Grant avenue and West Third street tonight at 8:30 o'clock from which point they will proceed in a body to the home of Mrs. Nora Edmundson, who died Tuesday night.

COMMITTEE MEETING.

A meeting of the Knights of Columbus excursion committee will be held in the Columbus Club tomorrow night at 8 o'clock. Important questions will be brought up and a full attendance of members is desired.

Mr. and Mrs. William Riley, of Watchung avenue, will leave tomorrow for Pennsylvania, where they will visit relatives.

LOCAL BOY CAMPERS SEARCH FOR WRITER

East Orange Youth Disappears Mysteriously From Wawayanda.

Plainfield boys at the State Y. M. C. A. camp on the shores of Lake Wawayanda, in Northern New Jersey, had gloom cast over their summer outing last week when Edward Van Valkenberg, twenty-five years old, disappeared and has not been since seen or heard from. Activities at the camp have ceased and all of the members have turned their attention toward hunting for some trace of the young man.

VanValkenberg, who was a magazine writer, had been in ill health for some time past, and went to the lake from his home in East Orange for the purpose of taking a long rest. Acting upon the theory that the young author was drowned, soon after arriving at the resort, divers employed by the missing man's relatives are searching the body of the lake for some trace of the body. It is not sure whether or not Van Valkenberg was drowned, for he disappeared from the sight of his friends soon after registering, and none of them even saw him prepare to go in bathing. When the rest of the members of his tent group left for the bathing pier, he did not accompany them, but when they returned he was missing, and a search, which proved fruitless, was instituted.

Members of the camp grappled the lake bottom Friday morning without result, and they then divided themselves into two searching parties, the Plainfield campers banding together in one, and scoured the adjoining woods without result.

LOCAL CAMPERS ROUTED BY FIRE AT LAKE PLACID

Friends in this city and the borough received communications this morning containing the information that the camp at Lake Placid, N. Y., belonging to E. L. Suffren, of Sycamore avenue, North Plainfield, was burned to the ground with all its contents on July 28.

The camp was occupied by Mr. Suffren and his family and their guest, Miss Gladys Wiltsie, of Watchung avenue. The fire broke out about midnight and spread so rapidly that nothing could be saved. The inmates narrowly escaped with their lives.

SUNDAY SCHOOLS TOOK 1,000 TO THE SEASHORE

Two trains of eight cars each conveyed about 1,000 members and friends of the Sunday-school of the and Park Avenue Baptist churches to the shore this morning. Although threatening skies hung overhead, the happy excursionists seemed unwilling to believe that their day at the shore would be marred by rain. The first section, which made stops at Clinton and Grant avenues, was well filled when it reached the North avenue station, but the second section, which followed immediately, provided plenty of room for all. Lunch boxes and bathing suits were much in evidence, and bits of conversation of the care-free sort were heard everywhere.

C. E. Steiner was in charge of the first section, and R. H. Radford had control of the second. They were assisted by a competent committee, which included W. L. Marshall, Frank Vail, P. S. Suffern, Frank O. Dunning, Jr., Elwood Waller, Jr., Clyde Doane, Francis Mortimer and G. P. Hinman.

IS CATHERINE REYNOLDS HERE?

Deering & Deering, a firm of lawyers in New York, have written to local employment agencies, asking them to try to locate Miss Catherine Reynolds, who is supposed to be employed in this city as a nursemaid, as she is entitled to a legacy of $100 under the will of a former client of the law firm. She is supposed to have come to this city within the last month. Information concerning her would be gladly received by the Hansen Agency, at 122 Watchung avenue.

KAISER'S TROOPS NOW IN WARSAW

Official Announcement Made of Fall of City—But Few Prisoners Taken.

EXPECT PEACE SOON

Think Victory Will Force Allies to Terms—Sharp Fighting Reported by French on Western Front—Italian Army Advancing.

Berlin, Aug. 5.—The following official statement announcing Warsaw's fall was issued by the war office today: "Headquarters reports this morning that Warsaw was taken by German troops last night. Bavarian troops broke through the forts of the outer and inner line where the Russian's rear guard were making tenacious resistance. The armies of Gen. Von Scholts and Gen. Von Gallwitz have advanced toward the road to Lomza, Ostrow and Wyszkow with violent engagements taking place. Desperate resistance on both sides of the road from Ostrow to Rozan was without success.

"Twenty-two officers and 4,840 soldiers were taken prisoners and we captured 17 machine guns. German cavalry defeated in Courland and Samititia. Russian cavalry near Genaize, Birshi and Oniskszhty, yesterday and the day before. 2,225 Russians were taken prisoners. The situation north of Ivangorod is unchanged."

New York, Aug. 5.—The Evening Sun publishes a dispatch from Berlin today, in which it is stated that upon the fall of Warsaw the Germans expect to see the war end before winter. The belief in the German capital is that the enemies of that country are tiring of the war and about ready to talk peace, basing the claim on the assumption that Russia will have suffered a blow that will nullify her offensive power; that England and France realize they cannot put the Germans out of Belgium; that the Dardanelles can never be forced, and that because of Bulgaria remaining neutral, the situation there is entirely satisfactory from a German point of view.

Paris, Aug. 5.—The French war statement says:

"In Artois around Souchez there were combats with grenades and petards, as well as rather an intense cannonade in the night. There were rather sharp artillery actions at Tracy Le Val and around Vailly, in the valley of the Aisne.

"In the Argonne there was considerable activity during the night, there being rifle firing and bomb throwing from trench to trench with the artillery occasionally opening fire. On the heights of the Meuse at Bois Haut an attempted German attack was easily repulsed.

"In the Vosges there was a continued violent bombardment of our trenches at Linge Kopf."

Rome, Aug. 5.—The latest statement of the Italian war office says:

"Our heavy batteries directed an effective fire on the station of Borgo on the railroad in Val Sugana. The enemy's losses in attacks on Mt. Medatta in Carnia are found to have been grave. On the Carso plateau the night of the third passed quietly. During the morning our artillery shelled masses of infantry observed near Marcottini, and columns marching along the road from Rupa to Doberdo. We resumed our advance.."

Constantinople, Aug. 5.—The Turkish war office gave out a statement today. It says:

"On the Dardanelles front our artillery dispersed the enemy from bomb throwing positions on the Gallipoli Peninsula. An enemy torpedo boat that had been shelling our left wing was compelled by our artillery to withdraw.

London, Aug. 5.—The British steamer Costello, 1,591 tons, has been torpedoed and sunk by a German submarine. Captain Penwill and seven of the crew landed here today.

Amsterdam, Aug. 5.—The German military authorities in the captured territory in the Russian Province of Courland, on the Baltic, are employing soldiers in the construction of a railway from Libau to Windau to facilitate the transportation of troops and supplies.

WILL LEAD MEETING.

DUNELLEN

All the Happenings of the Day In Plainfield's Hustling Suburb.

1915-16 TEACHERS' ROSTER COMPILED AT DUNELLEN

Dr. M. J. Whitford was appointed school physician by the Dunellen Board of Education at its August session last night and Charles Clark was re-engaged as janitor. The teachers' committee submitted its supplementary report showing the engagement of the following teachers: Guy H. Rentschler, Miss Rita G. Brokaw, Miss Margaret Crawford, W. C. O'Neil, Miss Edna Burdick, Miss Boyden, Miss Pugh, Miss Edna Hardcastle, Miss Bolmer, Miss Ethel Rogers, Miss May Lindsley, Miss Layton, Miss Florence Smalley, Miss Mabel Noyes and S. Frederick Smith. The new teachers over last year are Miss Pugh, of Garwood; Miss Bolmer, of Martinsville, and Miss Boyden, of New York. They take the places of Miss Veda Ward, Miss Mabel Bennett and Mrs. Robert Lowrie.

District Clerk Hamley's report showing receipts and disbursements for the year was read and approved.

Frederick Gary, of Dunellen avenue, and Charles Taylor, of Washington avenue, spent Sunday in Brooklyn visiting friends.

The O. Z. T. Fraternity will meet with Benjamin Dodwell, of Jackson avenue, tomorrow evening.

William Taylor, of Lincoln avenue, has accepted a position at the plant of the Ransome Concrete Company.

Miss Eliza Taylor and Miss Mabel Winans returned today from Asbury Park, where they spent a week.

Mr. and Mrs. Melacthon Apgar, of Dunellen avenue, are entertaining Mrs. Harry Hildebrandt and daughter, of Fairmount, N. Y.

John Cronin, of New York, is visiting for two weeks with Marshal and Mrs. Patrick Tarpey.

TENDERED A PARTY.

Ralston Peters, son of Mr. and Mrs Ernest Peters, was tendered a party Tuesday afternoon by his parents in honor of his fourth birthday. The home was attractively decorated for the occasion, the color scheme being red and white. There were fourteen young guests present and they and the host had a jolly good time. The feature of the program was playing such games as "pinning tails on the donkey" and "blowing out the candle," for which prizes were given. The party lasted until 6 o'clock and before breaking up a luncheon consisting of sandwiches, ice cream and cake was served. The center piece of the table was a huge birthday cake with white icing and four red candles.

Charles Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Johnson, of New Market road, has returned from Baltimore, where he spent a week with his grandparents.

Plans are out for the new house to be erected by W. F. Wiedenhaupt, adjoining the property on the Warrenville road, which he sold recently.

STRIKERS ARE "FIRED."

The strike of the laborers employed by the H. K. Corbin Company, the collecting sewerage contractors, has been broken by the discharging of fourteen men, considered its instigators. This is the second time that a strike among these men has been broken up in this manner. The men are receiving $1.75 for a ten-hour day and they struck for $2.

BARREL CAME IN HANDY.

Morton Altheen was among the number of local young men who were lured into taking a swim in the various swollen streams about town yesterday. Morton lives on Mountainview terrace and Green brook is very near his home. The waters of this brook flooded the lowlands all along its course, making an expanse of water in some places over 500 feet wide. The waters, however, didn't rise to their greatest extent until after the cessation of the storm. After it stopped raining Morton went down to take a look at the stream. The water looked very inviting and he shortly had pealed off his clothes and jumped in. He placed his clothes in what he considered a sufficiently high spot. When he went to look for them after an hour's sport they were nowhere to be seen as the water had risen and carried them away. A barrel happened to be near-by and Morton enveloped in this wended his way home as quickly as possible.

The bid of the Apgar Construction Company for the contract of erecting the new church of St. John's parish was only $84 higher than the successful bid of Hall Brothers

Fred Fleming, of Edwards avenue, is ill at his home. He has a very high fever and his family is afraid that he is in for a long sickness.

Charles Hausman Ward, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Ward, of Riverside, Cal., who formerly lived in this village, was married at Bayonne on Monday evening, August 2, to Miss Dorothy Veronica Nealon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Nealon, of Bayonne.

SAYS ERECTION OF BARN IS PIECE OF SPITE-WORK

Edward Draper, of Bound Brook road, is highly indignant over a barn which is being erected by a neighbor not more than three feet from his back porch. The barn, he says, shuts off the view from his kitchen and promises to be a menace to the health of his family when horses are kept there. Mr. Draper has taken up the matter with the borough authorities and he hopes to have the barn condemned as a nuisance.

Mr. Draper is colored and he says the erection of the barn in its present location is spite work. His neighbor, refusing to discuss this phase of the question, says he has a right to erect the building any place he chooses on his own property.

The matter was brought up by Councilman Robert Craig at the recent meeting of the Common Council and the advisability of extending the fire zone over the entire borough so as to place the erection of all buildings within the jurisdiction of the Council was discussed. The borough is expanding rapidly and such a step by the Council is considered very probable.

SUFFRAGE WORKERS HAD BIG TIME IN DUNELLEN

"The Proof of the Pudding," a lawn fete held in Washington Park, Dunellen, Saturday evening, under the auspices of the Equal Suffrage League of Dunellen and New Market, proved successful and novel.

The feature of the evening was the pie and cake contest. Sixteen pies and thirty-four cakes were entered. Four prizes were awarded. First prize for cake was a handpainted cake plate and the second prize a cut glass vase. The first prize for the pie was a solid silver pie knife and the second a solid silver cheese knife.

The cake judges were Councilman H. D. Williams, Dr. Longbothum, Edward Pennock, Dr. Bull and the Rev. D. W. C. Ramsay. George W. Day, John Marien, Joseph G. Walton and Dr. Cooley were the pie judges. The entries were known by number only.

When the judges announced their decisions it was found that Miss Mary Hunt, of Second street, was the prize cook of the borough. This was not a surprise to those acquainted with her cooking propensities. Miss Hunt was awarded first prize for cake and second for pie.

When Miss Hunt accepted the award from the hands of Councilman Williams, chairman of the cake judges, she created applause among the women by saying she hoped to be able to vote for the men at the next election.

The first prize for pie, the solid silver pie knife, was awarded to Mrs. William Hinkey. George W. Day, chairman of the pie judges, presented it with a few preliminary facetious remarks.

The second prize for cake was awarded to Miss Gladys Marien. Miss Marien's cake had occasioned much attention. In the centre of it stood a miniature ballot box, topped by a tiny American flag, and around the edge of the box in yellow candies were the words, "Vote here for Women in 1915." Miss Marien said this decoration was her father's idea.

After the contest Miss Leach, of Montana, spoke. This is the second time that Miss Leach had been heard in Dunellen. She was given a heartfelt welcome as she is the type of speaker an audience never tires of hearing. Miss Leach was followed by Mrs. Feickert, who put the question of woman suffrage so plainty that many of the men announced they were won over.

After Mrs. Feickert's speech the Rev. Mr. Ramsay, of the Methodist Episcopal church, spoke in behalf of the Suffrage League, and also spoke of the plans which Willard N. Apgar had drawn for a permanent stand platform for Washington Park. Mr. Ramsay said that the Suffrage League was going to fill a long needed want for Dunellen by erecting such a stand and the co-operation of the citizens of the borough was asked. The league is arranging a calendar of events to obtain money for the erection of this stand. It is to be of white concrete with Grecian pillars supporting an ornamental roof.

The band of the Dunellen Social Club furnished music during the evening. All of the ice cream which was on sale was disposed of.

STORM DAMAGE.

The damage done by the storm in this borough appears to have been confined to the gardens and the roads. In the garden corn and lima bean poles were beaten down and other garden truck damaged by the washing away of earth from their roots. The roads were badly washed out. In some places they will need to be filled in and in other places a new top dressing will be necessary. One particularly bad washout was in front of the catch basin of the storm sewer on the corner of Mountainview terrace and Madison avenue. It will probably take about six or seven loads of dirt to fill this hole up. Damage to the trees appears to have been insignificant. Opposite Mayor E. B. Latham's home on Prospect avenue a large limb was torn from a tree and here and there about the borough some heavily laden fruit trees may possibly have been split in twain.

Prospect avenue was shut off for a time yesterday to pedestrians by reason of the brook flowing through Mayor Latham's property overflowing its banks and flowing over the road, making it necessary for pedestrians going to and from town to take a round about course. One commuter who draws the catching of his train each morning to a hair came running down this street as usual and he found himself confronted with the alternative of taking his shoes and stockings off or retracing his steps and missing his train. He couldn't afford to be late at his office so he did the former.

DAMAGE IN VILLAGE.

Damage estimated to be well in the thousands was done by the storm in this village and surrounding country. The damage in the village proper was confined to fruit trees and garden matter. Down country the bridges over Ambrose's brook, near the farms of William, Randolph and Fred Boice, were washed away. The force of the water was manifested in the moving of the iron bridge near Colbridge's farm and the breaking of Dr. Nelson's reinforced concrete dam.

The waters of New Market pond were raised to about three feet above the dam and it was feared for a time that this might go, and the residents felt uneasy until the water commenced to recede. The water poured over this dam in such volume that the stream running by the mill was raised almost to the floor of the mill and the lowlands in front of the mill was transformed into a good sized lake. The waters raised until 3 o'clock, when, after remaining stationary for a while, they commenced to recede. Many photographs were taken of the dam during the afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. William Tabb, of West Brighton, S. I., are spending two weeks in the village visiting Mrs Tabb's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Foster Sofield.

Flemington.

The Board of Education, Monday night, awarded the contract for furnishing the new High School building with seats, desks and other equipment to the New Jersey School and Church Furniture Company, of Trenton.

The Hunterdon County Board of Elections reorganized Tuesday by electing John Reed, of Whitehouse, chairman, and V. D. Pendreigh, of Hampton, secretary. George Robinson, of Jutland, who was reappointed, qualified. The Board will hold its next meeting here August 12.

Professor Paul R. Radcliffe, who was appointed principal of the Red Bank schools, will move to that city Tuesday. Professor F. A. Nims, who will become principal of the Flemington schools, will occupy the dwelling here where Professor Radcliffe now resides.

Miss Gladys Hanson is spending three weeks in Asbury Park.

Frank Thomas, of Easton, is visiting his son, Dr. F. A. Thomas.

South Plainfield.

The severe rains did much damage here yesterday by tearing down a number of bridges, barns and inflicting heavy losses to the farmers. One of the farmers who faired badly was Louis De Phillipo, who had over $1,000 worth of damage done to his celery fields. On the other hand the young folks had an enjoytable time in the flooded fields. In the afternoon at least fifty bathers were seen scrambling about in the new lakes. A number of young fellows launched their canoes off the porch of Kaine's restaurant and floated down to New Market.

Miss Goldie Herb, of Easton, has returned home after spending a few weeks with her grandmother, Mrs. James Tharp.

Rev. J. J. and Mrs. Allen are spending a month at their summer home in New York State.

The new home being built by Albert Kordak is nearly finished and Mr. Kordak expects to move into it inside of a week.

Miss Mary Kaine, of Plainfield, is the guest of her brother, P. F. Kaine.

Mr. and Mrs. George Bunting, of New Market, have returned from a visit with their daughter, Mrs. Louis Randolph.

Among the heavy losers in the storm was John Hogan, who claims that he suffered $200 damages by having one barn completely wrecked. Mr. Hogan also lost four large pigs, which were drowned, each pig weighing very close to 250 pounds.

The large smoke stack which is being erected at the Spicer plant is now nearing completion. The stack is to be 150 feet high and it is now at a height of 132 feet.

Miss Nettie Smith, who has been quite ill at her home for the past few days, is now able to be about again.

'Plains & Fanwood.

Reports are beginning to come in from the outlying sections of the township of the damage to crops and property done by the storm of yesterday. The dam known as "Cook's Dam," on Greenbrook road, near Seely's mill, broke during the early hours yesterday morning and sent a crest of water, said to be ten feet high, down through Scotch Plains, carrying trees, rocks and other debris, and scattering it along its banks further down stream. Cellars of residences that had never before held water were full, and most of the local streets were under two or three feet of water until last night. Late yesterday afternoon engineers were seen looking over Green Brook with the idea of making bids for the new dam that will have to be built.

Miss Marion Storr, of the borough, is visiting her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Koehler, of Bound Brook.

Miss Viola Garda, of North avenue, has returned after spending the last month with friends at Baltimore, Md.

The cake, candy and ice cream sale, which is the annual summer sale of the Ladies' Aid Society, of the Episcopal church, was postponed from yesterday afternoon owing to the storm, and is being held this afternoon, between the hours of 3 and 6, in the Fanwood firehouse. Tea and other refreshments will be served.

The "Spoms" held their weekly meeting at the home of Miss Gertrude Brick, on Terrill road, last night. Music and games were enjoyed, and refreshments were served later in the evening.

Mrs. A. R. Neilson and daughter, of Martine avenue, are visiting relatives at New Brunswick.

The next and final meeting of the various committees for the "community picnic" before the affair is run off on August 11 will be held in the Scotch Plains Memorial Parish House on Monday night. It has been decided to receive applications for entrance into the athletic meets until the day before the picnic.

Miss Claire Hall, of South avenue, is entertaining friends from Atlantic City.

A. J. Nichol and family, of North avenue, are on an automobile trip to New Hampshire.

A short session of the Borough Council was held last night in the Fanwood firehouse. It is expected that four new street lights will soon be placed on lower Martine avenue, completing the circuit. A large light is also to be installed over the square formed by the junctions of North and Martine avenues, thereby lessening the danger of accident at night. The roads have been repaired in a number of places, and Farley avenue will be macadamized during the month. The police alarm box, which was authorized several months ago, has been delayed in being installed, and borough resideats will not have the additional police protection afforded by the improvement for several more weeks.

Dr. F. W. Wescott, president of the Borough Board of Health, called a meeting of that body last night to discuss the sewer disposal proposition with a representative of the Mosquito Commission and Borough Council. The Mosquito Commission thinks that the present system of drainage breeds mosquitoes, and as a solution proposed that the Board of Health appoint an inspector to inspect all cesspools and order cleaning here necessary. This is about all that can be done in the matter until Plainfield finishes the trunk sewer line, when it is now expected the borough will join, and an inspector will probably be appointed shortly.

Watchung.

Miss Elizabeth Pope, of Baltimore, Md., is the guest of Mrs. Anna H. Underhill, at "Lakeside Cottage."

Richard D. Schmidt is spending a few days at Manasquan.

The weekly prayer meeting will be held tomorrow evening in the Mary [illegible] Memorial Union church, and will be in charge of Rev. Mr. Ramsay.

Westfield.

The Council has granted permission to Stanley Roll to run a jitney bus service between this town and Springfield so far as this end of the route. The route will take in Mountainside and the Baltusrol Golf Club.

A new sewer is to be constructed from Broad street to South avenue through St. Paul street. The work is to be commenced at once.

The farmers in this part of the county have commenced to dig their potatoes, fearing rot.

Your next new boarder is probably watching the classified ads just now—for "opportunity news."

BEER TRUTHS

"A mild stimulant such as Beer, made of wholesome materials in an absolutely hygienic way, meets an adult human need that is almost universal."

We advertise these facts to convey to the public mind the real truth about Beer.

Beer is a TEMPERANCE beverage in the strictest sense of the word. It is a food product and is rarely used to excess.

The great scientist, Baron von Liebig, rightly called it "Liquid Bread."

Beer is not only a mild, nourishing beverage, but it is the very purest of foods in liquid form.

It quenches the thirst, stimulates the appetite, aids digestion and nourishes the body.

Men and women who live at high pressure find good beer invaluable, as it enables them to continue in good health under the most trying conditions.

Physicians strongly advocate its use in moderation and prescribe it for nursing mothers and to their nervous and anemic patients because of its food value and upbuilding qualities.

When the public realizes the NUTRITIVE and DIGESTIVE qualities of Pure Beer, all prejudice against Beer will be removed.

RUPPERT'S Knickerbocker

GARWOOD JR. O. U. A. M. MEN PLAN BIG PICNIC SATURDAY

The second annual picnic and dance of Company G, Fourth Regiment, Uniformed Rank, Jr. O. U. A. M., will be held at Britz Hall and Grove in Garwood on Saturday. This company is recruited from Garwood Council, No. 309. The council is less than three years old and has a membership of seventy-five.

The committee having the picnic in charge hope to make this the banner attraction of the season. There will be shooting, bowling and dancing. Clam chowder, "hot dogs" and sweet corn will be served. Music will be furnished by Prof. Dow's Jr. O. U. A. M. orchestra, and dancing will commence promptly at 3 o'clock. A handsome American flag, 5 feet x 8 feet, with ten foot pole, rope and bracket, will be presented to the organization having the largest number of uniformed men in attendance.

The committee having the affair in charge are Albert T. Stumpf, Frank Braun, Henry M. Wyckoff, Peter Hoffey, Carl T. Chapin, Frank Hefele, Henry Peins. The officers of the company are: Captain, William C. Mesner; first lieutenant, Richard Watt; second lieutenant, Albert J. Stumpf; first sergeant, Henry M. Wyckoff.

POLITICAL NOTES.

August 21—Union county Republicans hold annual outing at Coney Island.

August 25—Union county Democrats hold annual outing at Witzel's Point View Grove, L. I.

August 27—Last day for filing county nomination petitions with county clerk.

September 7—First registration day.

September 21—Primary day and second registration day.

October 19—State referendum election, and third registration day.

November 2—General Election Day.

While there has been some suggestion among a few Democrats that a referendum upon the adoption of the small board of freeholders act should be submitted to the voters in November, no definite action is expected. The proposition has not awakened much enthusiasm among the party leaders, who do not seem disposed to go out and make a campaign for what many believe would be a hopeless proposition. The adoption of the small board system in 1912 and the course pursued by the Democratic majority elected to that board is the reason why the proposed referendum is viewed as unpopular.

That the Republican party in New Jersey was never in better spirit than now, was asserted by Assemblyman Charles C. Pilgrim, of Essex in an address Monday night before the Republicans of Kearny. "When they're talking about bossism in Essex county," he said, "they're giving you the wrong kind of dope." In talking about National affairs, Mr. Pilgrim contended that there is "too much legislation against business."

Arthur E. Warner has been mentioned as a possible candidate for a Republican nomination for freeholder. Mr. Warner has been active in Republican affairs for several years, especially among the younger element. He was a candidate for an Assembly nomination last year, which was his pioneer effort as a vote-getter. He made a most creditable run, although unsuccessful.

U. S. ASTOR THEATRE

With the return of cool weather, capacity audiences were the rule at the U. S. Astor Theatre yesterday, and with the presentation of a program of extraordinary film features this afternoon and tonight, good attendance is expected. The program this afternoon and tonight will comprise several comedy and dramatic films of splendid quality.

Tomorrow's dramatic feature will be "When We Were Twenty-one," in which William Elliott, who last season starred in "Experience," at the Casino Theatre, New York, in the leading role. Mr. Elliott, who is best recalled for his remarkable portrayal of the young lawyer in "Madame X," is a popular favorite among Plainfield theatregoers. Frequently he has been entertained in local homes. It was in this film that the celebrated young actor, who is a son-in-law of David Belasco, made his debut on the screen.

"When We Were Twenty-one" tells a most interesting story of a young college man, who, when a baby, was left an orphan in charge of a friend of his father. The youth becomes enamored of a young woman of the stage and their adventures form the plot of the story. The action is swift throughout and makes ideal summer entertainment. A college football scene, in which Mr. Elliott as the "Imp," makes a long run through a broken field to a touchdown, will appeal particularly to the young folk. The scene in the cabaret, in which the hero kisses the actress while the other young men at the dinner cheer, is also a photographic triumph.

"Better Times" and Better Homes Come to Country and City With This

August Furniture Sale

(Original)

"Everything indicates that big prosperity is just around the corner," says a statistical agency whom we commissioned to give us the FACTS of the country's and city's condition.

Bumper crops being harvested—963 million bushels wheat, 1,399 million bushels oats, 2,814 million bushels corn—a total yield (with the minor crops) of over nine billion dollars.

Nine billion good American dollars!

Money in the Banks

In the savings banks alone of the United States 154 million dollars more than a year ago—a total of 4 billion 667 and a half million dollars.

A hundred million dollars increase in the assets of our country's building and loan associations—an increase for the year of 8.7 per cent.

A 14 million dollar increase in net earnings of the railroads for 11 months.

A billion dollar balance in trade in favor of the United States.

Eighty million dollars paid in income tax this year, an increase of nearly 9 millions. Of the total New York City paid nearly 18 millions.

One million automobiles running to-day in the United States (75,000 in New York City alone); 800,000 new cars being manufactured this year, an increase of about 300,000.

Spending Money in New York

236 million dollars being expended on New York's dual system of subways, now being completed.

50 millions being expended to link up the Pennsylvania-Long Island system with the New York, New Haven and Hartford.

10 millions being expended by the Lehigh Valley and New York, New Haven and Hartford railroads on the port of New York—for docks, water rights, bulkheads and terminal improvements.

86½ million dollars expended in the first six months of this year on new buildings in Greater New York—14 millions more than in the same period last year.

Money in the crops, money in the banks, money being put into circulation in wages and merchandise.

Who said Uncle Sam was a sick man? Who will say so now in the face of these figures?

We have work. We have peace. We have plenty—plenty for ourselves and enough to give away generously when stricken people anywhere need it.

Business is taking a new stride.

People are spending their money to fix up their homes.

Factories are opening up.

Wages are being increased. More wage-earners are at work.

Faith is taking the place of fear.

See All This in the August Furniture Sale

Come in and see the people choosing new furniture for their homes. See the smiles on their faces.

See the brides and grooms, and the brides and grooms to be.

See the cottagers from the beautiful suburbs around New York—replacing an old worn piece of furniture with a new piece, or fitting out a newer and larger home.

See the city folk finding just the right piece for their home or apartment.

See the visitors from other States—a dozen to two States represented each day, according to the "guest register" in the House Palatial.

See for yourself what wonderful furniture a little money will buy in this August Sale—then buy it, help put the country's money in circulation so that work and prosperity may come to all the people.

Fifth, Sixth and Seventh Galleries, New Building.

PROCTOR'S THEATRE

Comedy and laughter which generally follows comedy of the right sort, will reign supreme tonight at Proctor's theatre, when Edward Abeles appears in that modern comedy hit, "After Five." The worst case of blues brought on by the recent rains may be driven away by either this photo-production, or the one to follow, Weber and Fields in "Mike and Meyer Elope."

Recent feature productions probably contains no better liked story than the Universal three part drama, "The Closing Chapter," a photoplay of interest and having as its stars such favorites as Murdock McQuarrie and Miss Lehr. "Behind the Screen," a two act Universal comedy, with Eddie Lyons, Lee Moran and Victoria Forde, is also booked for tomorrow afternoon and evening, together with the sixth episode of "The Romance of Elaine."

"The Prize Story," a three part Universal drama, featuring Harry Meyers and Rosemary Thelby, is booked for Saturday, both afternoon and evening. Another episode of the "serial photoplay beautiful" is also shown on Saturday.

Pony votes, 100 with each ticket, are still being given at the Proctor House for the contest with the three ponies. Patrons of this theare should save these votes for their children friends.

42-CENTIMETRE SKODA GUNS.

Nothing has brought the deadliness of modern war engines more vividly before the mind of the distant reader than the description of the terrific effect of the 42-centimetre Skoda guns. A Warsaw correspondent of the New York Sun says that the shells from the Skoda, nicknamed "Pilsener" by the troops, weigh 2,800 pounds and penetrate twenty feet in soft ground before exploding. As to the results of the explosion, the correspondent says:

A "Pilsener" shell kills every one within 150 yards of the point of explosion, and kills many who are further off. The mere pressure of gases of the explosion breaks in the partitions and roofs of bomb-proof shelters. Scores of men, who escape metal fragments, stones and showers of earth, are blinded, lacerated or killed by the concussion. Men who are only a short distance away are torn to bits; the gas gets into the body cavities in a highly compressed state, and, on expanding, rends the tissues asunder. Sometimes only clothes are stripped from the bodies, the boots remaining intact. Of other men close by not a fragment remains, the clothes disappear and only a few buttons or other small metal articles are found. If the shell bursts very near, the explosion melts rifle barrels as if they were struck by lightning. Men who disappear in such explosions are reported missing, as there is no means of identifying them as dead.

Apparently the Skoda shell includes all the qualities of the "poisonous" or asphyxiating shell in addition to the power of annihilating a regiment in a moment, yet the former seems to be regarded as legitimate while the latter is forbidden under The Hague rules. The distinction is not very clear to the lay mind, for the Skoda shell, in addition to its pre-eminent powers as a man-killer, evidently produces throughout a wide area results practically identical with those complained of in the forbidden asphyxiating shell.

If these enormously destructive Skoda guns are plentiful, it seems strange that they are not concentrated against that short but deep British line so stubbornly defending the approach to Calais. One would think that a continued withering blast from enough of these guns would break the most determined resistance at any given point, even when it was realized that to give ground would open the road to Calais and accomplish the first decisive step toward the invasion of England.

Thomas A. Edison has accepted Secretary Daniels' invitation to become chairman of the advisory board of a proposed Bureau of Invention and Development and great achievements looking toward the defense of this country may result. Mr Edison may invent something that will keep even the Skoda gun at a respectful distance. But where is all this invention of new explosives and new methods of destruction to end? The prospect is appalling, but we at least have the consolation of knowing that the greater the variety and the more hideously perfect are the man-killing machines of the future, the more reluctant will the nations be to engage in war.

Although he will have to go before the people for re-election to the city collectorship, it is a remarkable tribute to the efficiency with which William R. Townsend has conducted the office that not a name has been mentioned of anyone else who may seek the position. By faithful performance of duty, uniform courtesy in handling the many delicate situations which arise in the office, frequent efforts to help delinquent payers in every way that he can under the law, so that they may avoid having their property advertised, and in a hundred and one other ways he has so completely done his work that there is no necessity for making a change. We do not believe that there is a man in any party that can beat Mr. Townsend for re-election.

Considering the severity of the storm yesterday morning, Plainfielders are mighty fortunate that their property loss was not much greater than it was. When we read of the loss of life and property damage in Erie and other places, we can thank our "lucky stars" that we got off as easily as we did, even if trolley service and other means of traveling were paralyzed.

to the hospital, and he was placed in the male ward, together with the patients already confined there. He was covered with mud and grime from head to foot, and only a superficial examination was possible when he was first received at the institution. Further treatment, however, revealed the fact that he was a sufferer from a malignant case of smallpox, and he died at 2:30 this morning in the hospital without making a statement.

Proper diagnosis of the case caused an alarm to be sent throughout the hospital, and Health Officer Chandler was immediately apprised of the nature of the incident. Patients in the ward, doctors, nurses and others who had been near the man were immediately taken charge of and put through a disinfecting process, after which they were vaccinated. Rinehart was sent for at his home in Dunellen, and Van Nest was taken from his sleeping quarters in the local police station. Their clothes were burned and they were subjected to every precautionary method. All persons exposed in any way to infection have been or will be vaccinated, including the thirty-odd members of the local police force. The patrolmen and superior officers went in relays to the hospital this morning and subjected themselves to the preventative operation.

Under the supervision of the health officer the contents of the ambulance, including the stretcher, were burned, as were also everything of an unattached nature at headquartrs. The entire police station has been fumigated and the contents of the room in which Van Nest slept last night have been burned. Bills for clothing and other destroyed articles will be submitted to the Middlesex county authorities.

Coming as it did on top of the event of last Monday night, when Patrolmen Joan Fritts and John Henderschott were exposed to a scarlet fever case, the incident of last night has aroused no little amount of indignation among the local authorities, and when seen by a Daily Press reporter this morning Chief Kiely was loud in his denunciation of the circumstances surrounding the whole affair.

It is the opinion of Chandler that the man had been loafing about Oak Tree and Metuchen for more than a week, and everything possible is also being done in those sections to prevent any possible spread of the ailment. It was apparent that the victim had been lying for many hours on his water-soaked bed, and the disease developed to its most extreme stage under these conditions.

A conference of the Health Board and the hospitable authorities will be held this afternoon, when a further course of action will be agreed upon.

WANTS U. S. TO PAY DEBT.

Washington, Aug. 5.—A modest request that Uncle Sam pay her debt of thirteen millions to Virginia, as fixed by the U. S. Supreme Court in a recent decision, will be made by West Virginia, through her representatives in Congress, at the next session. A bill will be introduced in the House by Congressman H. H. Moss, and another will be introduced in the Senate. "The Federal government should pay the judgment," says Judge Moss. "The separation of West Virginia from Virginia was a war measure. It was necessary to help preserve the Union during the Civil War. West Virginia, or the western part of Virginia, controlling an east-and-west railroad, remained loyal to the Union, and, being a border State, was a potential factor in aiding the Northern army."

WATER DISAPPEARS REVEALING DAMAGE

Extent of Loss by Rain of Yesterday Will Be Hard to Estimate.

Although it will probably be impossible to obtain any accurate estimate of the damage done by yesterday morning's cloudburst in this section of the State, late returns indicate that the loss will reach a figure far greater than was originally anticipated. To tell the tale of the storm there remain large piles of debris, numerous holes in roadbeds and like results of the washout. When the water receded last night the damage became visible and it is apparent that much repair work will have to be done in order to put various thoroughfares back into good condition again. Considerable damage was done to the bed of Green brook, the fast flowing stream cutting away big portions of the bed and banks.

Trolleys resumed their usual schedules last night and traffic in Plainfield is running along as usual today. More accurate returns from the farming districts bring with them much concern over the probabilities of a scarcity of certain products as the result of washouts. Potatoes and green corn suffered extensively and many gardens have been turned into vast fields of mud and water.

Paul R. Collier, of East Front street, took numerous storm photographs yesterday before the water had a chance to subside, and they have been placed on exhibition in his show window. He took two very fine pictures of Wetumpka Falls, at Watchung, which plainly show the vast volume of water rushing over the falls. Besides these views, Mr Collier has pictures of many of the flooded streets in Plainfield and North Plainfield. The pictures will form a valuable pictorial record of the storm when the facts concerning it are forgotten.

United States Weather Bureau Observer John Neagle, of this city, gave the total rainfall of Tuesday night and yesterday morning as 3.96 inches. This record covers the time from 8 o'clock Tuesday night to the time the rain ceased falling yesterday morning. The cloudburst brought the total rainfall of 1915 up to 39.12 inches, which is only 10.20 inches less than the normal for the entire year, 49.32 inches.

Apropos of the flood talk in North Plainfield ran on previous heavy rainfalls, and incidents connected with the freshet or flood which occurred about 1883 were related. One borough resident called to mind the fact that both the Grove street and the Washington avenue bridges over Green brook were washed away at that time.

A daring rescue which James F. Buckle, of Westervelt avenue, made was recalled. A Mrs. Goodman, who has since died, was on the Grove street bridge at the time it was torn away and was carried down the stream. In the excitement following her fall, the fire bell was rung and the firemen responded with hooks and ladders. Mr. Buckle, taking his stand on a huge stump in the water, caught Mrs. Goodman with a fire hook as the torrent carried her by and brought her safely to shore.

Some idea of the force with which the water rushed through Green brook road yesterday morning was had, when the water subsiding, it was seen that flagging which formed the sidewalk in front of the Truitt property, had been raised up and carried some distance from their place.

Mrs. William Campbell, a bride of a few weeks, had an experience in the rain-storm yesterday which she will not soon forget. She is occupying a bungalow far up on the mountain this summer, and on a trip to Plainfield yesterday morning her automobile was caught in the worst of the storm in a narrow part of the road to Watchung. Near Probst's hotel, the old Washington House, the water reached the engine of her car and caused it to stop. Unable to start the car on account of the high water, the chauffeur could do nothing. Mrs. Campbell and a woman friend whom she had in the car with her, were compelled to wait in the pouring rain until Letter-Carrier George Wilson appeared upon the scene and conveyed the two women and their belongings to the hotel. There they waited until the water subsided and their car could be made to run.

Freeholder John Mobus, of Somerset county, was quickly on the job yesterday, after the rain had ceased and had a gang of men making repairs to the roads in the mountains back of North Plainfield, which were washed out by the water.

Much of the stone wall along upper Somerset street, this side of Watchung, protecting vehicles and foot passengers from a drop into Stony brook below, was washed away or carried as debris onto the road. The fence which topped the wall between the two bridges, was in a precarious condition and threatened to topple into the road or the brook at any minute. Repairs to the wall and fence were started early yesterday.

The mountain roads were covered deep in places with dirt and debris and this will have to be cleared away. It is said that hundreds of tons of dirt were carried down from the mountain sides by the water and deposited in the roads.

MRS. ELLEN TULLY SUCCUMBS ATER TWO YEARS' ILLNESS

Following an illness that lasted for two years, and during which she had been a patient and uncomplaining sufferer, Mrs. Ellen Tully, wife of John Tully, of 532 Belvidere avenue, succumbed to the disease at her home last night. Mrs. Tully was in her seventy-eighth year. She was born in Ireland and came to this country in 1863, residing in New York and Brooklyn for forty-three years. Nine years ago she removed to this city, where she has since made her home. She was a communicant of St. Mary's church, and took an active interest in the affairs of that church as long as her health permitted.

Beside her husband, Mrs. Tully is survived by five nieces and five nephews, two of the former being residents of this city. They are the Misses Margaret Sexton and Elizabeth Riley. Both made their home with their aunt.

The funeral service will be held Saturday morning at the late residence at 8:15, and in St. Mary's at 9 o'clock, where a solemn high mass of requiem will be celebrated. Rev. Father MacDonald will conduct the service. Burial will be made in Calvary cemetery, Brooklyn.

DUTCH ARMS BAND HAS A BUSY MONTH AHEAD

With twenty engagements to play between now and Labor Day, the Dutch Arms Band of Trinity Reformed church has a busy month before it. Following is a list of eigh engagements. The remaining twelve have been made, but no definite dates have been set. The schedule is being completed.

Tonight the band plays at a festival at Readington, where the members will be given supper. They will go by automobile bus, which will leave Trinity Reformed church at 5:10 o'clock. On August 7 the band will play at the festival to be given by the consistory of Trinity church at East Front and Church streets. On August 18 the band will go to Harlingen. The band members will also get supper there.

For August 19 the band has an engagement to play at a church affair at Whitehouse. August 20 will find the band playing at the festival of the German Reformed church, which will be held on the lawn at East Front and Church streets. To Pluckemin the band will go on August 26, and on the 28 to Quakertown. This will be a long trip and will necessitate a start from the church at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. On Labor Day the band will play at Middlebush, on which day the start by auto bus will be made at 3 o'clock.

All these engagements are church or Sunday school engagements. The band now consists of forty members in uniform, and three new members have lately been added, making forty-three members in all.

A Galley o' Fun!

WHEN THE WORM TURNED.

"No power on earth shall make me do it!" he declared, firmly. She approached close to his side. Her flashing eyes blazed into his, and her lips sneered: "You shall do it! However you dread it, it must be done! You hear me?"

"I refuse utterly! Such a thing is unworthy for a man of pride and honor to undertake!" he repeated, drawing back from her as from a whiplash.

Quickly she was at his side again, gripping his arm with fingers slim, but hard as steel.

She slipped a small knife into his hand—a thin, sharp-pointed piece of steel. "There!" she said. His obstinacy was momently driving her to desperation.

Her voice broke with passion, and she cried, in a loud, angry tone: "William Tomkins, if you don't do what I say, and go peel those potatoes at once, you'll go to bed without any dinner!"

Papa—You have a little brother, Willie. You are not the youngest child any longer.

HOW TO BUY A FARM.

Never buy a farm during the winter season. Many a farm has been bought with the snow on the ground which later turned out to be a stone-quarry.

Examine closely into the title. Every good lawyer will do this for you, and his bill, with the fees added, should about equal the total cost of the place.

See that the farm is well watered. It is not necessary for the farm to be so located that it is entirely covered with water at high tide. A few good springs will be sufficient.

Remember, a farm might be completely covered with a large and threatening mortgage which is invisible to the naked eye. The county clerk will divulge this secret for a few dollars.

Test the soil before buying. If the ground is run down and exhausted, proceed with due care.

See that the fences are in good repair. There are several kinds of fences—the line fence, the rail fence, the stake-and-rider, the board fence, and the wire fence. You will have no trouble in identifying the barb-wire; the neighbors will show you the line fences.

When you have found the very farm you want, one with a good house, well shaded, fine barns and outbuildings, fair meadows, and thick wood-lots, hurry to the nearest real-estate agent's office and invest—in something else.

PROGRESS.

Friend—I tell you, old man, inventions make wonderfully rapid progress nowadays, don't they?

Aviator—You bet! If they grant us the patent on our new engine by 1914, and we get rid of the infringements by 1925, and finish our suit with the Highflier Co., which is returnable in 1954, we'll show the world what an aeroplane really is.

As he gazed at the package upon his desk he realized his time had come. His watch had been returned from the jewelers.

SECRET OF STEADY GOLF.

It Lies in Proper Use of the Club and Nerve Control.

There is no such thing for any man as eternal steadiness, but there is no reason why most golfers shouldn't develop a much greater steadiness than is shown. It is all a matter of practicing two things—the proper use of the club and concentration, or nerve control.

Remember at each practice or during each friendly round to try to make your brain work as well as your arms and legs. Remember, above all other factors, that it is vital to the success of the shot that you keep your head still, often referred to as "looking at the ball." Make it a point to school your brain as well as your muscles, for the brain is in control of the muscles. The golfer who can't concentrate, who doesn't practice concentration, will never be able to develop steadiness, although he may be a fine shot maker and may be capable of some wonderful rounds.

So, to put a few suggestions into compact, concrete form, the following are offered to those who desire a change for the better in their golfing steadiness or unsteadiness:

First.—Practice concentration—keeping your mind on the ball as well as your eye.

Second.—Make up your mind to accept a bad lie or some bad luck as part of the game and to be expected.

Third.—Play each shot as it comes, without regret over past mistakes or worry over fufure troubles.

Fourth.—Practice the short game, shots around the green, at every possible chance. It is here that scores are reduced.

Fifth.—Practice with the brain as well as with the arms and legs. Cultivate brain control over muscle.—Jerome D. Travers in American Magazine.

LIGHTING OUR LIVES.

Lines Along Which Physicians of the Future May Work.

Some day there will be a new physician who will be part engineer and part medical student. He will ask you no personal questions, and his prescriptions will be filled by a dealer in lamps and lighting fixtures; yet he is a man who can cure the world of half its grouchiness and ill temper.

The new doctor will investigate your home from the standpoint of lighting efficiency. Have you enough or too much light? Is the wall paper soothing to your eyes, yet economical from the standpoint of lighting efficiency, or does the color of it and its figures cut your nerves like a ragged edged knife?

Medical men have said that many a murder has been the result of a glaring incandescent light and red wall paper. When the denizen of a flat building curses the pianist across the way his ill temper may be caused by his desk light and not by the piano at all. The eye can stand less abuse than the ear, and were it in repose the grouch would probably fail to notice the doubtful music. The lighting doctor probably will find the cause of that grouch and remove it.

Instead of a stethoscope he will use an illuminometer. The illuminometer is a device to tell in figures just how bright the light on your book is as you sit and read. It is used by lighting engineers, municipal lighting departments, building inspectors and others for determining the brightness of natural or artificial illumination. Portable, easily and quickly used and utilizing the familiar methods of measurement, it is a complete outfit for making photometric measurements.—Technical World.

Was Ruskin Conceited?

In one of Ruskin's lectures, though I cannot quote it exactly, he says in effect this, and it is said with great earnestness: "Because I have done harm to no one and good to all, because I have loved truth and hated falsehood, because I have regarded the happiness of others more than my own, you can trust what I say to you, and you will be glad in later years that you have trusted me."

I have heard it quoted as an example of Ruskin's great conceit, but to me it has never seemed to be that. It has seemed to me, rather, a just and not a vain measuring of his powers.—Anne Bryan McCall in Woman's Home Companion.

Hazy Ideas.

"I have been promised a job in the forest service," said the politician.

"What are your duties to be?"

"I don't know much about the proposition. I have been told that I may be sent out to inspect government preserves."

"For what purpose?"

Danger Signals.

It takes a cheerful philosophy to find virtue in the sulphurous odor of a bad egg. But if all bad water and bad milk were blessed by a like beneficent danger signal what a host of dead and dying human beings would have been saved!—Exchange.

A Straight Tip.

"Colonel, please give me a little advice on racing matters. I understand you are an excellent judge of pace."

"I am, son, and the one you are going will last about two years."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

An Extreme Case.

"My cousin is a true pessimist."

"How's that?"

"Even the brand of hope he uses is forlorn."—Kansas City Journal.

NO MARKET FOR CROPS OF JERSEY

Suggestion That State Aid Farmers to Sell Their Products.

POTATO GROWERS HIT

Costs More to Raise the Tubers Than Farmers Are Now Getting for Them—Onions and Cabbages Also Fall Off.

Trenton, Aug. 5.—The State of New Jersey is spending about $300,000 annually in an effort to improve farming to enable the agriculturists and horticulturists to raise larger and better crops. For the next fiscal year the appropriations to the State Agricultural College, Experiment Station, State Board of Agriculture for short and long courses in agriculture, fighting insect pests and improving the breeds of horses and cattle amount to more than $292,000.

Half a dozen agencies are supported by the State, yet there is scarcely a year that suggestion is not made that a new job be created in the interest of the farmers, whom the politicians and candidates for public office are particularly anxious to cultivate at this season of the year. It has been suggested now that what is required most is a course of instruction in how to get the farmers' products into the hands of the consumers.

Thousands of tons of vegetables, fruits and berries are going to waste on the farms of South Jersey, while there are thousands of families in the cities of the State and in New York and Philadelphia who are suffering from lack of food, although able and willing to buy at reasonable prices the farm truck that is rotting in the fields.

Last year peaches, pears, plums, cherries, strawberries and blackberries were ungathered because they were so plentiful that it did not pay to gather them. This year conditions are about the same as to berries, but much worse in respect to potatoes, onions, peas, cabbages and other vegetables.

It costs 8 to 12 cents a basket for picking peas, great quantities of which are raised in Burlington, Gloucester, Salem, Atlantic and other southern counties. On several occasions this year the markets were so glutted that peas sold at 10 cents a basket wholesale, and the growers became so disgusted that they began to plough under their vines in order to put in more profitable crops. Last Saturday in Salem the price of peas was 4 cents a basket or 8 cents less less than the cost of picking.

Last year there was a great demand for onions, which sold freely at $1.50 a basket. Now they will not bring 40 cents a bushel, and the demand is so light that farmers are letting them rot in the fields rather than add to their losses.

Cabbages are sold by the pound by the city retailer, and sometimes a single head will bring from 15 to 20 cents. On some of the South Jersey farms crates containing ten heads of cabbages have been sold at 4 cents. If the consumer could get the benefit of these low prices perhaps the grower would not mind so much, but the peddlers or hucksters charge 5 cents a head, making a profit of 46 cents on an investment of 4 cents.

Probably the potato growers are in the most serious predicament, for potatoes have been selling at 75 cents to $1 a barrel of three bushels. It costs more than that to raise them—from 40 to 45 cents a bushel, it is said by farmers who keep careful accounts.

The grangers of Monmouth and Gloucester counties have worked out a system by which they are able to market their crops at a profit. Agents direct the shipment of carload lots of potatoes, peaches, tomatoes, melons and other farm produce as far east as Boston, and west to Buffalo, Pittsburg and Chicago—wherever there is a good market for them.

Not all farmers and truckers belong to the grange, and they must find markets wherever they can. Most of them depend on Philadelphia, Camden and other nearby cities, and in some instances fruits and vegetables that are raised near one city will be shipped to Philadelphia to a commission merchant and then reshipped back to another commission merchant near the point of production. Besides two profits to the middleman, there is the cost of transportation by rail or boat both ways, and the cost of hauling.

KEEN INTEREST DISPLAYED IN ORGANIZATION OF CITY'S FIRST FEMININE ATHLETIC CLUB

After entering their names in the feminine athletic meet planned by the Recreation Committee of Plainfield for Parker Field on Labor Day afternoon, the members of the re-organized "Plainfield Five" transacted considerable routine business in the Plainfield High School gymnasium, last night. Miss Clara Smith, president of the organization, presided at the meeting and told the purpose of the club. In part she said:

"Plainfield has never had an organization where girls who have graduated from either the Plainfield or North Plainfield High School had an opportunity to continue the friendships formed in their alma maters, in social and athletic lines. The main object of this gathering is to promote this interest between the girls after they leave school, and it is our intention to make this organization as universal as possible, so that any girl who has won honors in scholastic and other lines of work in her school years may be admitted for membership. Each applicant's name will be brought up before the board of governors, who will duly consider her entrance and at the following meeting she will be advised of her acceptance or rejection.

"While this city has many independent clubs and organizations it really never has had a city representative feminine club, and it seems to me that this banding together of local young women will be the best representation of Plainfield's and North Plainfield's girls. The larger this organization is the more privileges it will be entitled to by the Recreation Committee. Let each charter member bring in two of her friends and we will have a strong membership. Beside the basketball games, which will probably be the most popular of the club's activities, various other features will be taken up from time to time, such as gymnastics, dramatics and swimming. We have a number of members who have won distinction in amateur dramatics, and one of the features will undoubtedly be a play presented by the organization within the next month or two. Social evenings will be observed once a month, at which time our friends will be admitted to share a part of the fun. The dues of the club will be very nominal, merely enough to cover the expenses the society will meet during the year.

"The club will enter its members from time to time in various events in the city and other municipalities. Those who know the girls already in the organization feel confident that many honors will be brought to the home city."

Five new members were admitted to the new organization last night. They were the Misses Clementine Bremble, Jennie Bremble, Helen Saffron, Lillian Spencer and Ellen Doughty. The charter members of the club are as follows: President and manager, Miss Clara Smith; vice president, Miss Helen Brynairski; secretary, Miss Helen Hummel, treasurer, Miss Elsie Debel; Misses Theresa McCullough, Marion Mair, Mildred McAuliffe, Ida Hummel and Lillian Lamson.

COURTNEY IMPROVING.

Ithaca, N. Y., Aug. 5.—Announcement was made yesterday by the physicians in attendance upon Charles E. Courtney, Cornell crew coach, who has been confined in a hospital here since the Poughkeepsie regatta, suffering from a fractured skull, that Mr. Courtney would be able to leave the hospital within a few days, and although it will be necessary for him to rest quietly for several months, he will be able to resume his duties as coach of the Cornell navy.

POLICE RAID POOL.

St. Louis, Aug. 5.—Police yesterday raided the alleged headquarters of a baseball gambling pool, arrested four men and confiscated two trunks containing 10,000 cards in different baseball gambling pool combinations. Letters also found in the trunk show, it was charged, that the mail was being used illegally.

BIG TENNIS MEET IN THE EAST END

Netherwood Courts to Be the Scene of Lively Competition Starting Saturday.

Enthusiasm reigns supreme over what promises to be one of the most successful tennis tournaments of the year in Plainfield, to be started on the courts of the Netherwood Tennis Club next Saturday afternoon. Thirty members have signified their intention of entering the events, which will all be of the male variety and a handsome collection of prizes will be awarded to successful players.

The singles competition will get under way on the first afternoon and one of the features will be play for a consolation cup. All performers who are eliminated in the initial round of play will be eligible to take part in the consolation competition.

The doubles events will be started a week from Saturday and a large number of racquet wielders will also take part in this play. It is proposed to run a monster handicap tourney about September 1.

MARTIN ANXIOUS TO SIGN BILLY LUSH'S LEAGUERS

Billy Lush, the ex-Jersey City star and at present scout for the New York Giants, has written from Little Farms to Britt Martin, manager of the local Saurers, regarding a game between the Giant Colts and the local team. Lush declares that he thinks a Saturday or even a Wednesday game would draw well here, but Martin has every reason to believe otherwise. In the opinion of the shop team's manager, Thursday would be a better day on which to stage the encounter. The fact that an unusually large number of merchants have agreed to close their places of business on Thursdays during August gives every indication of the fact that the game would be a success from a financial point of view. The Saurer players are all enthusiastic over the idea, but as Martin does not know what guarantee the leaguers demand, he has not closed negotiations.

The team Lush proposes bringing here is the same as that which performs in Long Branch on Sundays, being made up in the main of Giant recruits with a sprinkling of regulars thrown in. Babington, whose signing with the Giants cost Larry McLean his job, is the team's catcher and Bill Ritter attends to the hurling end of the game. Eddie Grant and Davy Robertson have performed at times with the outfit, but are not likely to appear here.

If enough enthusiasm can be aroused the big game may be booked, but if local fans treat the proposition in a cold manner, nothing further will be done. It's a chance the Perth Amboy and Long Branch fans have been glad to accept and ought to meet with the approval of the local followers of the national pastime.

BAREFOOTED GOLFERS.

Chicago, Aug. 5.—John Simpson, of the Terre Haute (Ind.) Country Club, yesterday led a field of sixty-two in the qualifying round of the Western junior amateur golf championship at the Midlothian Country Club with a card of 83. The scores ran high because of the soggy course. Rain fell during most of the play, and many of the youths took off their shoes and played in their bare feet, with trousers rolled to their knees. Among those who qualified for the first round match play was DeWitt C. Balch, of Cincinnati, who turned in a card of 84, the second best score of the day.

MID-WEEK BALL TO BE ATTEMPTED HERE

Venturesome Promoters Belief That it Will Be Profitable.

Inasmuch as a number of local merchants have granted their clerks a holiday every Thursday in August, one local baseball promoter thought it would be profitable to stage a diamond attraction at Parker Field on each of these days. The first game of this kind is being run off this afternoon, the Plainfield A. A. and Ralph Smalley's All Stars furnishing the amusement. Tommy Mullin will perform weekly with the Plainfielders and declares that it will be fine practice for him. Heretofore Tommy had to make the week-end trips to Perth Amboy and Rahway entirely out of practice. Now he can amble around to his heart's content. However, he proposes to undertake the pitching problem in all four games.

Next week it is likely that the All-Scholastics will oppose the Plainfield team and as every member of the combined school teams has had plenty of practice during the year, they expect to run away with the game.

Gifford Jones, manager of the Plainfield A. A., gives out the following lineup for the month:

Tommy Mullin, p; "Kid" Brennan, cf; McCarty, 3b; Dawe, 2b; Hirsch, 1b; Kirch, lf; Jones, rf; Dodd, c; Benny Rosenson, ss.

ST. JOSEPH'S BALL CLUB NOW A DEAD ISSUE

The St. Joseph baseball team is practically a thing of the past. No games have been played for some time, and although the outfit underwent two or three reorganizations, there seems to be no spark of life left. The signing up of Eddie Conshay by Britt Martin's Saurer Club deprives the Saints of the foundation of the whole nine. Under Conshay's lead several attempts at re-establishment were launched, but in each case the matter never came to a head. Harry Moulton's services were once always at the disposal of the Saints, but now he has several strings attached to him, and not one is of any real value. Harold Meade, of course, can be depended upon to be on deck when the roll is called, and the McDonough brothers are staunch also; but Pasch has been signed by the Saurer forces, and his work cannot now be used by the borough boys.

The Saints and the Royal Giants are about as morbid combines as can be found hereabouts, although the managers of both outfits possess the necessary ability.

SPORT BRIEFS

George Parker, crack sprinter of the Olympic Club and joint holder of the world's record for the 220-yard dash, will be unable to compete in the senior Amateur Athletic Union championships at San Francisco on Saturday on account of a sprained ankle.

Al Orth, National League umpire, who was injured at Philadelphia on July 9, will resume his duties the latter part of this week.

The final match for the Longwood challenge cup, in which W. R. Norris Williams, 2d, and Nat W. Niles were to have played at Longwood yesterday, was postponed until today on account of the inclement weather.

BRAVES GET TWIRLER.

Terre Haute, Ind., Aug. 5.—Arthur Nehef, left handed pitcher for the local Central League team, yesterday was sold to the Boston Nationals. Nehef's record this year is nineteen games won and ten lost. He leads the league in the strike outs, with 218. Nehef reports to the Bostons at Chicago today.

NEWARK AUTO SHOW.

An automobile show is to be held in Newark during the coming winter. This was decided upon at a meeting of the New Jersey Automobile Trade Association held yesterday at their new quarters, 22 Washington place. The last week in February, which will take in Washington's Birthday, as heretofore, has been decided upon.

MARTIN HITS BALL AT A LIVELY CLIP

Local Boy Leads the League in Sacrificing His Teammates.

Communications received from Jack Martin, Plainfield's only representative in the really big show, state that he is in fine health and better spirits, but is longing for a glimpse of the old home town, its people and its familiar surroundings. Jack's work with St. Paul has had a good deal to do with keeping that team on top, his hitting having improved wonderfully during the past few weeks. In the field he has been performing up to his usual standard. Unlike his experiences in the National and American Leagues, his career in the American Association has not been marred by mishaps. When playing with the Yankees Jack was hit by a ball pitched by "Cannon-Ball" Walter Johnson, the Swedish phenom on Clark Griffith's payroll. Again, he was spiked by two major league players and was laid up for some time.

Martin, who is leading his league in sacrifice hits, is still the same ginger boy he was when he dug them out of the dust for Ernie Dorflinger's various teams. He still tries for everything that is reasonably within his reach. Naturally his efforts do not always meet with success, and he, having touched the ball, is credited with an error. At that, errors by Jack Martin are few and far between.

One local fan who has followed the game for forty add years, censured Joe Kelly, the St. Paul manager, for not having allowed Jack to go back to the Phillies when Pat Moran, the "Sleepytown" manager so requested. The same fan views the situation in this light: "O'Leary, the ex-Detroit star, has been used at second and short in a few games in order that towards the end of the season Jack Martin may be sent to the Phillies in exchange for Bancroft. The Saints are out to cop the pennant and can't afford to let Jack go now. But when they assume a commanding lead they will be willing to part with the local boy, placing Bancroft on short and O'Leary on second."

Of course, this prophecy does not present any bouquets to the Phillie shortstop, but it certainly is an indication of the goodwill towards Martin prevalent here.

AMATEUR BALL JINGLES

Earle Pierson, whose services have been secured by the Baptists, proved his worth Saturday in every department. Although a heavy man, he can run the bags as quickly as the lightest lad in the league. He wishes us to assure our readers, however, that he is only "a private in the ranks," and will not assume the duties of captain.

Tommy Mullin may enter the Tri-State League next year, says a report. The way the North avenue lad has been performing over in Amboy gives every indication of the fact.

The Orioles, a junior Johnny Dunn outfit, have completed arrangements whereby a match between them and the Watchungs will be staged on Parker Field. Perhaps they'll have music for the occasion.

"Dipper" Smith has been nailing them regularly at third for the Netherwoods. Besides being a fast player, "Dipper" can take care of his end of the discussion business also. More power to "Dip."

Eddie Conshay signed up with Saurers' is the announcement. Eddie has performed with almost every nine in the city, and his work has pleased each and every one of his many managers.

Bob Hebert helped Martin's men Saturday, and, although his efforts were strong ones, they met with little success, as the Baptists had resolved to win.

EVERS SUSPENDED.

Johnny Evers has again come under the censure of President John K. Tener, of the National League, for his conduct in Pittsburg on Tuesday, when he had trouble with Emslie, and ended by flinging water in Fred Clarke's face. He has been suspended for three days, and Pitcher Cooper, of Pittsburg, has been fined $25. The report, according to President Tener, made no mention of any trouble with Clarke, and the suspension was placed against Evers for his difficulty on the field with Emslie. Evers will be eligible to play on Saturday.

RANDOLPH TO WORK.

Cliff Randolph hurls for the Perth Amboy Pacers, Sunday, when they meet the St. Anthony's, of that place.

Don't forget that classified advertisements must be in by noon on Saturdays.

MUCH INTEREST IN FEMININE EVENTS

Plainfield Girls Enthusiastic Over Plans for Big Meeting.

Any one who doubts that Plainfield girls are not as physically developed or as athletic as their sisters in other cities will be given an opportunity to change their opinion on Labor Day, when the feminine meet, planned by the Public Recreation Committee of this city, will be staged on the Parker Field. Up to last night a score of young women of the city and borough, both as individuals and representatives of clubs, registered their names.

Announcement was made last night that the Public Recreation Committee had offered a silver loving cup to the girl who scored the highest number of points during the meet. Another cup will probably be offered to the next highest, while a number of prizes will be offered the third highest winner.

Miss Lillian Lamson, supervisor of the recration work in this city, feels highly enthusiastic about the new features and within the next few days will visit a large number of young women personally to get them to enter. In speaking of the affair she said, "Plainfield has never had much interest in feminine athletics, it appears to me, and this event, planned by the committee, appeals to many that I have spoken to. The entire affair, however, will be a failure, if the committee does not have the co-operation of the public in the work. In other cities where similar meets have been planned the whole city has turned out to appreciate the efforts of the participants and if the Plainfield public takes a similar view of the work of the girls, the latter will feel encouraged to enter other events.

MAY "JITNEYIZE" NATIONAL PASTIME

Newark Feds Show the Way by Inaugurating 10 Cent Baseball.

Ten cent baseball is to be inaugurated in Newark tomorrow at the homecoming of the Newfeds, according to James A. Gilmore, president of the Federal League, who is on business trip to New York. Admitting that the attendance at the Harrison plant has not been anywhere near that expected, Mr. Gilmore says that the Newark backers decided on this drastic move in hopes of educating the New Jersey "fans." The bleacher seats at the Harrison park are to be sold at ten cents each, the pavilion seats at twenty-five cents and the grandstand at fifty cents. The only "big league" prices that will prevail are in the boxes, which remain at $1 a seat.

Mr. Gilmore denied that this presages a general lowering of prices throughout the Federal League. He further says that this move of the Newark management is not even a test for the rest of the league, but is a matter of only local policy. Further, he declared that only Brooklyn and Newark had failed to please the backers of the Federal League. He seemed depressed that the Brooklyn "fans" would not turn out to see the Brookfeds in their home contests.

"The Young Lady Across The Way"

She Will Appear On Our New Editorial Page of TEN BIG FEATURES

HER CLEVER CREATORS ANNOUNCE THEIR INTENTIONS AS FOLLOWS:

My collaborate on "The Young Lady Across the Way," Mr. Westerman, insists that I do all the work in getting her ready for you, but all I really do is express her thoughts--if any. "The Young Lady" has a real personality and occasionally some pretty deep views on questions which one might not think were of interest to the feminine mind. We shall try to make "The Young Lady Across the Way" interesting, entertaining and sometimes humorous, and will be glad to have our readers suggest ideas for her that may occur to them from time to time.

Robert W. Ryder

Mr. Ryder, who writes the paragraphs for "The Young Lady Across the Way," really does the work. I don't do anything but draw the pictures. We have a lot of fun with "The Young Lady," and hope that you will enjoy her. We are planning some stunts for her this summer that will take her all around the town. Maybe you will sometime meet her in real life. Any way, watch for her.

PLAINS' ATHLETES TO HAVE BIG TIME

Varied and Unusual Competition for Many Awards on August 1.

A community picnic will be held in Fanwood on August 11, athletic events being staged throughout the entire day. Senior and junior boys and girls have filed their entries in the meet, which will, consequently, be divided into three sections. To the persons who register the greatest number of points in each of the three meets, a silver cup will be awarded. The cups have been donated by the Fanwood Lumber and Supply Company, the Fanwood Stone Crushing Company and A. R. Nielson. To those who are less successful in the competition minor prizes will be awarded, ribbons, of various significant hues, going to the girls and bronze medals to the boys. In the junior section three troops of Boy Scouts will compete and in order that the prizes presented may be of use to those who receive them the committee in charge has arranged to have a good supply of scout hatchets, canteens, knives, fishing rods and camp utensils, on hand.

For the boys there will be relay races, 100 yard and 220 yard dashes, mile and half-mile runs, and shot-puts, together with running broad and high jumps, obstacle races, discus and javelin throwing and other athletic stunts. For the girls suitable events will be scheduled. Trap shooting, under the guiding "hand" of Edward Hand, one of the best clay pigeon shots in the State, will be one of the main features of the day, although the fat man's race will give it a run for honors. If there are any trap shooters in this vicinity who wish to enter the Fanwood event they must file their entries on or before August 10.

During the afternoon a baseball frolic between the married and singlemen of Scotch Plains and Fanwood will be played.

The committee in charge consists of the following: Marguerite Jahn, Edward Hatfield and Robert Anson. The scene of the day's amusement is the field at Front street and Hunter avenue, near Green brook. Trolleys pass within a block of the grounds.

ROD AND REEL

There probably is no body of fresh water in the East that furnishes a greater variety of fish than does Lake Hopatcong. Pike and pickerel, Oswego bass and black bass, besides other varieties of the bass family; perch, catfish and, last but not least, salmon, all are found in it. During midsummer there is a slump in the fishing at the lake, but in the spring and the autumn excellent catches are frequently made, and the fish, as a rule, are large. However, even in midseason, one picks up a good fish now and then.

The weakfishing in Raritan Bay just now is rather flat, although good results were had yesterday by one party that went out from Perth Amboy and crossed over to the State Island side, and by a boat from Keyport that went down below Keansburg. The bay is full of red muddy water that has been washed down from the Raritan River by the freshets. The regulars say that the fishing will be better than ever after the water has cleared.

To properly preserve fishing boots use pure cod-liver oil. It is heavier bodied and penetrates deeper than any other oil and will last a long time. Several applications should be made, and each one allowed to dry in thoroughly by holding the boots over a fire. If one is in the water very much this oiling should be repeated about twice a week.

Howard Kain and Joe Young, of Newark, already have sent in their entries for the annual casting tournament of the Ocean City Fishing Club, which is to be held on August 14. Both of the Newark anglers are doing better than 300 feet in practice and expect to gather some of the cups that are offered. In addition to the regular events, two special events are scheduled, one being for the best total of five casts in a thirty-foot lane. The contestant in this event must be willing to sell his rod, reel and line for $50. This is known as a "surfman event," the idea being to have the competitors use their regular fishing outfits. Some anglers, however, use outfits in surf fishing that could not be duplicated much under $200. The accuracy event is a novelty. It calls for the best average of five casts down a straight line, the distance the lead falls either side of the line to be deducted from the length of the cast.

GOLF LINKS FLOODED.

The storms which have been raging in the Raritan Valley has played havoc with the golf links of the Somerville Golf Club, near Somerville. Greens, the perfection of which was attained as a result of almost a decade of labor and attention, have been wiped out over night. Two bridges on the course have been blown down, while the great gullies have been washed in the fairways.

MUCH ACTIVITY SHOWN ON PUBLIC CINDERPATH

The track at Parker Field is put to good use every day by about twenty-five cinder-path devotees. In fact it has been said that more use is made of the track than of the baseball diamond. Such scholastic stars as Ralph Runyon, "Bus" Miller, Bill Daniels, Jim Greene, Eddie Dugan, August Franke and Art O'Leary can be seen at the popular playground almost every day. At present Runyon is practicing for his entrance into the Keansburg and Michelen athletic meets, while Daniels is rounding into shape for the Michelen meet.

Other trackmen who pastime at Parker Field are Jack Fritts, Nat Clay, Sid Butler, Peter McDonough, Fred Chamberlain and Holmes Clawson. Discus throwing, mile races and pole vaulting events are staged daily.

DODGERS LOSE GROUND.

Cincinnati, O., Aug. 5.—Appleton and Dell, pitching for the Brooklyn Nationals at Redland Field yesterday afternoon, allowed the lowly Reds to administer another beating. This time the score was 4 to 1, and marked the end of the series, which proved disastrous for the Dodgers, the locals taking three out of the four games played, with one postponed because of rain. Incidentally yesterday's defeat, while the Braves were overwhelming the Pirates at Pittsburg, allowed Stallings' aggregation to tie Brooklyn for third place.

TO IGNORE LANDIS.

As far as the Federal League is concerned it will henceforth proceed without any regard for the possibility of a decision being handed down by Judge Landis in Chicago according to the statement yesterday afternoon of James A. Gilmore, president of the "outlaw" organization. When the case was first heard there was a period immediately following when the league held back, thinking that there might be an opinion at any moment, but from now on the league will proceed as though the baseball situation was not in the courts at all.

LEE MAGEE ARRESTED.

Pittsburg, Pa., Aug. 5.—Lee Magee, manager of the Brooklyn Federal League Club, was arrested at midnight Tuesday night. He had an altercation with Harry Kramer, former press agent of the local Federal League club. At the Central Police Station yesterday Magistrate Sweeney severely scored Magee, called him a "bully" and "a smart Alec," and threatened to send him to jail if he appeared before him again. Magee was fined $25 and costs. Magee was also charged with being insulting to patrons of a downtown hotel.

Of Interest to Women and the Home

Care of the Baby In Summer

Out of Door Life.

[Prepared by the children's bureau, United States department of labor.]

Keep the baby out of doors. It is almost as important to feed the lungs on fresh air as it is to feed the stomach on fresh milk. Stale air is almost as harmful as stale food, and there is far less excuse for it. Fresh air and sunshine at all times of the year are essential to the baby's health and growth, but mothers too often fail to realize this fact. Babies are frequently kept on a starvation allowance of these two things, sometimes from unhappy necessity, when the home is in a crowded, unventilated apartment in a large city. When this is the case the mother must do her best for the baby by taking him as often as possible to the parks, recreation piers, playgrounds and other public open places provided for this purpose by the city. Outings for mothers and babies to the country or seashore are often given by churches and other organizations during the hot summer months in large cities. Many an infant's life has been saved by even a brief stay in the country, but where this is not feasible even brief changes of air such as are secured in the parks are of great benefit to a baby, as well as to the mother.

In the smaller cities and towns and in the country there can be little excuse for depriving a baby of outdoor life and a constant supply of fresh air. In fact, in suitable weather the baby may practically live out of doors. In the hottest weather, when it is cooler in doors than out, the baby should be kept in until the heat is over, but at night and in the morning he may be out for several hours. A screened porch on the shady side of the house, where he may play and sleep, will afford the baby many hours of outdoor life. A sick baby especially needs fresh air, and when possible the crib should be set up on the porch, provided the baby can be protected from the hot sun and from flies and mosquitoes.

Experience has shown that sick babies stand a much better chance of life and recover much more rapidly if kept out of doors. Common sense should guide the mother in this as in all matters where the baby is concerned, and she will realize that if a high wind is blowing dust about or a sudden storm comes up and the temperature drops many degrees in a few moments the baby should be taken in or protected from a chill by suitable clothing and wraps.

The young baby may be taken out when he is two weeks old for half an hour if the weather is warm and pleasant, gradually lengthening the time he stays out. Remember that the baby's eyes are very sensitive and must always be carefully shielded, not only from the sun, but also from direct light. Babies are often wheeled about in their carriages staring directly up into the sky. Try it yourself for a few moments and you will realize the cruelty to the baby, who may not even be able to relieve this strain on the eyes by turning his head to one side.

When the baby is sent out with a nurse she should be instructed on this point and also how long she is to keep the baby out and be warned of the danger of allowing strangers to play with him or kiss him.

The carriage outing should not be regarded as giving the baby enough fresh air for the day. In addition to this he should live on the porch in suitable weather. If it is necessary to bring him in the windows and doors should be opened, screening them as suggested in a previous article.

The baby should sleep at night in a well ventilated bedroom, in a bed by himself and if possible in a room by himself. Keep the doors and windows open. Do not be afraid of the old superstition of the "night air."

The fear of the night air likely came from the fact that it used to be thought that malarial poisons arose in the night before it was known that this disease is only carried about by mosquitoes, which fly chiefly after nightfall.

In malarial regions screens are indispensable. If the house is provided with a screened sleeping porch there is no reason why the baby should not sleep out at night after he is three months old, provided, of course, he is carefully protected. Babies thus taught from the beginning of life to enjoy the open air will be far less sensitive than otherwise and much less likely to suffer from colds and similar troubles as they grow older.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

About the Princess Who Slept One Hundred Years.

"LISTEN, kiddies. Keep still as a mouse while I tell of the princess' long sleep in a house which every one knew was enchanted.

"Long and long ago lived a king and queen, my dears, with no child to love, and so they wept many bitter tears, and a fairy frog was sad that their hearts were sore, and she promised that they should be glad with a daughter presently. Soon there came a little girl, loveliest thing you ever saw—big dark eyes and hair a-curl, beauty, sweet without a flaw.

"Time passed on, and at fifteen princess was a maiden tall; beauty rarest ever seen, famous o'er this earthly ball. Suitors came from all around, sought to win her as a bride. People loved her, and she found joy in life on every side. But one day this princess fair found a staircase in a hall, so forthwith she went up there, where she'd never been at all. There sat spinning an old crone. Said the girl, 'Pray tell me why you sit spinning here alone?' 'For your gowns,' she made reply. 'Let me try,' the princess said. Tried and pricked her finger. Lo, fell asleep as good as dead, she and all her house also. King and queen and man and maid, horse and cow and cat and mouse, every living thing there, made snoring slumber in that house. Hedge of thorn sprang up around, and it was so thick and deep that no entrance could be found where those people lay asleep. So the years passed, one by one, while great princes tried to reach where the princess slept, but none could succeed; the hedge barred each. In those days the tots would cry, 'Mamma, hear that thunder sound!' 'That's not thunder,' she'd reply; 'sleepers in the magic ground.' So the years rolled on until just 100 swift had passed and the spell had worked its fill. Then there came the end at last. Came a prince upon a horse, riding o'er a noble hill. He was handsome; good, of course; loved his way, as princes will. Looked down on the castle tall, covered by its hedge of thorn. Said, 'I'll waken her and all, just as sure as you are born!' Rode unto the castle gate; tied his faithful horse outside; walked right up with heart elate; wished the princess as his bride. Lo, the thorns changed into flowers, and the princeling walked right through, hastening through lovely bowers, sleeping beauty quick to woo. Found her in her room. A kiss woke her up that instant. Then (there's no stranger tale than this) king and queen and maids and men, horses, cows and cat and mouse, every living, sleeping thing, snoring in that magic house, woke and fell to capering. Then the good prince led the maid to the king and asked her hand. They were married in the glade and lived happy in the land."

The Prayer of a Young Mother.

By Cora A. Matson Dolson.

Not at some future time, dear Lord,
But now, just now, the boon I ask,
That on my soul Thy grace be poured,
To help me in my God-lent task.

A wisdom far above my own
I ask, dear Lord, in this, my need;
A soul from Thy white sinless throne
Is mine to mold by word and deed.

Not of myself have I the power
To teach as should my child be taught;
But Thou hast promised for each hour
Unfailing help if it be sought.

To lead aright, since lead I must,
This life entrusted to my care,
I need, and ask in sacred trust,
Soul-strength from One who taught us prayer.

—Mother's Magazine.

Our Weakness.

"There were weak points in the old-fashioned methods of rearing children, but they did not require Juvenile courts, organized charities and regiments of social workers. These new institutions betray the weaknesses in mothers and fathers—children's needs are the same * * * We must restore the true conception of the home, the house and its sustaining environment all under the mother's as well as the father's control for the good of the children."

HELEN C. PUTNAM.

What Food Does for a Child.

By Edith Greer.

As children need to learn to walk, so must they learn to eat. Food not only builds a child's tissue and supplies body-heat and enery, but also promotes digestion. As arms, legs and backs require exercise for health and strength, so does the digestive tract. Upon its health and normal activity depend the vigor and growth of a child.

The digestive tract develops as does the child. A child begins life able to digest milk. When about nine months old it acquires the power to make use of such starchy foods as gruels. It then needs to have these. By having them in moderation the child forms the habit of securely digesting these foods. It thus grows capable of eating more kinds of food as its food-needs increase. Foods new to a child need to be introduced into its diet gradually and with food that it is accustomed to digesting. Foods that a child is not prepared to digest not only do not nourish it but harm it. They require work on the part of the child to rid itself of such undigested food. It is thus that wrong food impoverishes a child's system and at the same time overworks it. It is true that improper feeding prevents growth, deprives a child of energy and opens it to disease. Children need to be spared such misfortunes, as they are, when their food-needs are known and regarded, and the needed food-habits formed.

The foods children need before the fifth year are as follows:

Until 9 months: milk (pure).

From 9 months to 1 year: milk, gruel (cereal), broth (chicken or mutton).

Until 1¼ years: the same, and rice bread, apple (baked or as a sauce).

From 1¼ to 1½ years: the same as earlier, but with the introduction of a little butter and greater variety in gruels and some variety in fruit (that must be sweet and without skin or seeds, as pared peach).

From 1½ to 2½ years: the foods permitted earlier and potato (baked) egg (soft cooked) and orange juice.

From 2½ to 3½ yars: as before but with digestible, young, fresh vegetables, as peas, beans, squash and every few days a little meat (chicken, chop, steak, roast tender).

Until 5 years: the same but with egg and meat on alternate days and light desserts, as custard, tapioca gelatin.

Children should be encouraged to eat slowly and without excitement. Their ability to utilize food is being developed, and can be easily disordered or even permanently limited. Children properly fed are not only made strong in the present but for the future. They know a healthful childhood and health with physical endurance in maturity. Throughout life proper nutrition is a health-giving agency.

SMART DRESS FOR LITTLE GIRLS

Empire lines have been just as modish for little girls as for misses and ladies. A winning dress with a bishop waist is Ladies' Home Journal Pattern No. 9015. This has a round yoke and one piece tucked skirt corded at a raised waistline, and can be made with or without an inverted frill. Sizes 2 to 12 years. Size 8 requires 3⅝ yards of 36-inch material. Patterns may be obtained at the store of A. E. Force & Co.

J. B. DUKE CLOSES PARK.

Somerville, Oug. 5.—On account of acts of vandalism, and particularly of a picnic party which came in 180 automobiles, invaded his estate and ate dinner upon his lawn recently, he has decided to close his magnificent park to the public.

Glimpses of Married Life

By Mrs. Eva Leonard.

Dick had been called away on business. Jo Parsons had invited Nell to stay at her home, but the baby was teething and very fretful, and Nell did not like to disturb Jo's well ordered house with "a carload of paraphernalia plus a crying baby," as she expressed it. "Besides, it is only for one night. I have arranged with my little maid to stay all night with me."

"Aren't you afraid of the burglar?" They always referred to the thief who had carried off Mr. Parsons' clothes as "the burglar."

"Since Dick shot at the sprinkling can, mistaking it for a desperate character, my fears have subsided," laughed Nell. "No, thank you, dear, I shall be all right. I can telephone to you if anything happens."

"Yes, provided you can wake up the night operator, who calmly sleeps on her cot by her post of duty; it's a Herculean task to wake her," explained Jo.

"That's fine night service," complained Nell.

"We are used to it here," admitted Jo, waving her hand at the baby as she ran down the walk.

"If you change your mind call up and Roger will come over and get you," she called as she closed the gate.

"All right. Goodby." Nell shut the door. A small fire blazed in the grate and in front of this she sat down to prepare the baby for bed.

"I'll make up a bed for you here on the couch, Julia, so you will be near me if I need anything. I have several letters to write tonight."

The baby was long in getting to sleep and by the time the maid had been settled on the couch and Nell was seated to write it was nearly ten o'clock. She wrote steadily for an hour or so; the ticking of the clock and an occasional stirring of the half-burned wood in the grate were the only sounds to be heard.

Suddenly there was a thud right under her feet. She started so violently that she blotted her page. The sound was repeated a little farther away.

"What was that?" asked Julia, sitting up in bed. "It sounds as if someone was throwing stones at the floor."

Thud! Thud! This time they could hear a peculiar hissing sound; then something dropped violently to the floor.

Nell ran to see if the cellar door was fastened.

"Shall I get dressed?" asked the girl.

"Yes, it will be better.''

Everything was quiet in the cellar while the girl hurriedly slipped on her clothes. Then a more violent report and hissing than any before was followed by absolute quiet. Nell took up the receiver. After repeated rings she succeeded in getting her number.

"Hello! Mr. Parsons? * * * This is Nell Morton. I'm sorry to disturb you, but something frightful is going on in the cellar. I'm afraid to try to go to sleep. * * * Thank you."

"He's coming over," she said in a relieved tone, hanging up the receiver.

When he came Nell related her experience.

"It can't be a burglar," he said, reassuringly. "Their lay is to be as still as possible. I'll go right down and see what I can discover. Got a candle?"

"There's a lantern hanging in the cellar way."

It was produced and lighted and Nell stood trembling in the doorway while Mr. Parsons went down the stairs. Evereything was quiet for a few minutes, then a hearty laugh floated up to relieve her strained nerves.

"It's your root beer; it has all exploded; the corks driven against the floor was what you heard."

Household Hints

SIMPLE HOME REMEDIES

Salve—Sweet oil, resin and beeswax, equal parts of each. Melt together resin and beeswax, stir in the oil and continue stirring until it becomes stiff. A very good salve.

Rheumatism Remedy—Buy a dozen limes, squeeze the juice out of one or two every day and drink it before meals. It can be sweetened, if one would prefer it that way. The acid in the juice acts on the kidneys.

THE TABLE

Grape Juice Parfait—One cup sugar, one-third cup grape juice, two eggs (whites), one-half cup grape juice, one-half lemon, two cups whipped cream. Boil sugar and one-third cup grape juice till it spins a thread. Pour it slowly over the stiffly beaten egg whites. Add the one-half cup grape juice and the lemon juice and beat till cold. Fold in the whipped cream and put in mold. Let stand packed in equal parts of salt and ice for four hours.

Raisin Bread—Three cups of milk, one cup of water, two teaspoons salt (level), two cups of raisins, one yeast cake, about two and one-half quarts of whole wheat flour. Scald the milk, add the water (boiling), the salt and, when lukewarm, the yeast cake dissolved in a little water. Stir in flour enough to make a soft dough. Beat well, stand in a warm place till light. Cut down, add sufficient flour to make a dough, knead thoroughly, working in the raisins. Shape into loaves and put in greased pans. Let stand again till light. Brush the tops with milk and bake about forty minutes in moderate oven. This makes four small loaves.

Cereal Bread—Excellent for those requiring special nourishment. One cup of rolled oats, four tablespoons (level) barley flour, two teaspoons salt (level), one quart boiling water, one pint scalded milk, two quarts whole wheat flour, one yeast cake. Mix oats and barley, stir this into the boiling water and cook slowly one hour. Rub through sieve, adding enough water to make three cups. Add milk, salt and, when lukewarm, dissolved yeast. Stir in flour to make soft dough. Beat for five minutes with a wooden spoon. Cover, stand

To Cook Asparagus—It is often difficult to cook asparagus without the tops falling to pieces. A cooker can be made that will prevent this. Take one of those egg poachers containing a perforated piece of tin that holds the cups for the eggs. Fit this piece of tin into a granite kettle. It should stand seven or eight inches from the bottom of the kettle. Wash asparagus and cut off tough ends. Fill kettle with boiling salted water up to the tin. Put the asparagus through the holes, allowing it to stand upright, tops protruding. Cover and boil twenty-five minutes. The steam will usually cook the tops tender. If it does not, cover with boiling water during the last five minutes of cooking. Serve as desired, after draining. Use water for cream soup or add to vegetable soup.

Rye Muffins—Put into a warm place till double in bulk. Add more flour and heat, but do not make stiff dough. Pour into greased pans, let stand till light and bake forty minutes in moderate oven. Makes three loaves.

Rice Dessert—Two cups milk, one-sixth teaspoon salt, one-fourth cup granulated rice, one tablespoon sugar. Bring milk to the boiling point, add salt, stir in the rice and boil five minutes. Finish cooking in double boiler. Add sugar. Pour into custard cups and chill. Serve with cream, stewed fruit, fresh fruit or with ice cream sauce, made as follows: Beat one egg yolk light, add one-fourth cup confectioner's sugar, one-half teaspoon vanilla and one-half cup of whipped cream.

Thousand Island Dressing—Whipped cream, chopped parsley, olives and hard cooked eggs, added to mayonnaise.

$5---POLAR CUB ELECTRIC FAN---$5

The Polar Cub increases summer-time home comfort and office efficiency.

Every housewife should have a Polar Cub in the kitchen, in the sickroom, or on her husband's desk.

Every successful manager of an office, store or factory realizes that efficiency is increased by improved and comfortable surroundings.

You can equip every desk or group of desks in your office at little expense. For a small investment you can increase the efficiency of your entire office force throughout the summer months.

It costs but ONE CENT for SIX HOURS to operate. Why should we not all work in comfort?

WHO IS YOUR WATCHMAN?

Midnight! A little baby fire is flickering (all fires are babies at first). It makes no noise and little smoke and smell. Will it be discovered before it breaks forth into uncontrollable roaring flames?

Who will pay for the wet, black wreckage that meets your gaze in the morning?

Let this office be your watchman and protector as we are for hundreds of our townspeople.

$576,000 NEEDED TO RUN COUNTY

Freeholders Ask $1,000 Less Than Was Raised a Year Ago.

MAY MEAN LESS TAXES

Plainfield City Budget is Below That of 1914—$23,000 Wanted for Mosquito Fight, and $24,000 for Widows' Pensions.

Elizabeth, Aug. 6.—The budget for Union county for the fiscal year of 1915, as adopted by the Board of Freeholders at yesterday's meeting, calls for the raising or $576,000 by taxation. According to the committee presenting it considerable paring was done, and Freeholder Charles A. Smith, of Westfield, a member of the committee, declared that it was $1,000 lower than last year's budget. He praised the plan of paying cash for road repairs instead of issuing bonds, saying that there were "no long term bonds for short term roads." All voted affirmatively on the adoption of the budget.

Because of the floods of Wednesday committees were empowered to repair or replace bridges in the county which were then damaged. None were reported from Plainfield or vicinity, however.

An invitation was received from the State Association of Boards of Freeholders to send representatives to a conference to be held in Atlantic City, September 4, when road construction legislation will be discussed. The rate for automobiles on the Staten Island ferry was reduced from thirty-five to twenty-five cents.

The budget being less than last year, coupled with the city budget for Plainfield, which is also less than that of a year ago, means that Plainfield's tax rate will be lower than in 1914.

SEWER CONTRACTORS WANT TO WORK NEXT SUNDAY

The Harrison & Hall Company, sewer contractors for the west side of North Plainfield, are meeting with so much water in their work that gasoline engines have to be kept pumping night and day. In the Rockview avenue and Greenbrook road section of the borough the trenches have to be sunk to a depth of twenty or twenty-two feet, and the water accumulates in the trenches faster than the contractors can pump it out.

Because of this handicap the contractors have asked permission to work next Sunday. Mayor Clark, to whom the request was made, directed them to apply to the engineer in charge of the work, who, by the terms of the contract, is the only one who can grant that permission. The section of the contract covering that phase of the work states that no work on the sewers can be done on Sundays or between the hours of 6 p. m. and 7 a. m., except in a case of emergency to protect new work already done, and then only upon permission from the engineer.

GEORGE RUGGLES DEAD; WELL KNOWN BOOTBLACK

George Ruggles, a colored bootblack, who had a stand at the Queen City Hotel, died suddenly last night at the home of his mother, Mrs. Emma Ruggles, 613A West Fourth street. Arrangements for the funeral will be made later.

Ruggles was well known in Plainfield where he was born and had always lived. He was thirty-five years of age, and had spent may years in the employ of Wiliam Feiring, the Park Avenue barber, before taking the bootblacking stand in the Queen City Hotel.

On Sunday Ruggles was taken ill, but his illness did not seem serious until Wednesday, when he had a bad turn. Death came suddenly last night. He is survived by a mother, a sister, Miss Anne Ruggles and a brother.

BUILDING TRADES MEETING.

At the weekly meeting of the Building Trades Council tonight a number of matters of importance to the building trades will be up for consideration. In some quarters it is said that certain conditions concerning the erection of the addition to the Saurer Motor Company plant will work to the disadvantage of union labor and these matters will probably be taken up at the meeting tonight.

Frederick Kline, of 633 West Third street, who dislocated his ankle on Tuesday evening, is getting along nicely and is able to be about as usual.

PUSHING BUSES NOT A MUSICIAN'S JOB

Dutch Arms Players Put out of Commission by Night's "Heavy Work."

Inquiry this morning in certain quarters concering the why and wherefore for the presence of suits on clotheslines, revealed a woeful tale, reluctantly told by members of the Dutch Arms Band, of this city. The organization was scheduled to play at a harvest home festival given by the citizens of Readington, last night, and members of the band made the trip from this city in an autobus. Everything went smoothly until 10:30, following the arrival at their destination. Threatening clouds hung low, and the autobus driver delivered the ultimatum that the players would have to set sail for the Queen City immediately or be left stranded. The corps of tooters finally agreed to climb aboard the car and start the homeward journey. Inasmuch as the roads leading from the town of Readington to North Branch have not yet been treated to macadam, the bus was soon stuck in the mud just outside the town.

Leaving their precious instruments inside, members of the party clambered out of the motor, rolled up their sleeves and, armed with fence rails, torn from nearby enclosures, began the strenuous work of prying the stranded car out of a foot of earth. Although their efforts proved successful and the journey was resumed, it was not long before a second plunge into the mud was made and the original performance repeated. For two hours the "riders" had to vacate the auto from time to time in order to coax the vehicle along.

Plainfield pedestrians who were unfortunate enough to be caught in the storm last night, and who took shelter in doorways, saw a sad-looking crew arrive in this city shortly after 2:30 this morning. Suits that formerly were the pride of the wearers and a pleasure to look upon were limp, dirt-covered relics.

BONNIE BURN CAUSES CENSUS TO INCREASE

New Providence Find This to Be True Following Announcement of Total.

New Providence, Aug. 6.—Substantial increases in the population both in the borough and township are indicated in the bills of the supervisors of the census, Frank J. Kauffman and Robert S. Rogers, presented for payment by Freeholder Bradford Jones at a meeting of the Union County Board of Freeholders, at Elizabeth, this afternoon.

The township has a population of 847, being an increase of 321 over the census of 1910, and showing 61 per cent. gain in five years. The borough's population is 1,132, showing a gain of 259 over the census of 1910, being a little over 28 per cent. gain in five years.

The phenomenal gain in population in the township is caused by the Bonnie Burn Sanatorium being located in that municipality.

ELECTION BOARD.

For the purpose of organizing for the coming year the Union County Board of Elections will meet this afternoon in the county courthouse at Elizabeth. Andrew McCardell, of this city; Frank J. Pfaff, George J. Stewart and Fred Zior are members of the Board. Election officers will be appointed by the Board and Common Pleas Judge James C. Connolly at a meeting to be held later in the month.

GETS ANOTHER CHANCE.

On the complaint of Samuel Rushmore, Gus Baldwin, driver of a stone-wagon, was arraigned before Judge DeMeza in the city police court this morning, charged with cruelty to animals. According to Mr. Rushmore the man had a load on his wagon too heavy for his team of horses to draw. Baldwin was reprimanded by the court and he promised not to let the incident reoccur.

LEFT HORSE UNTIED.

Raymond Carver, an eighteen-year-old coal and wood merchant, was arraigned before Judge DeMeza in the city court this morning, charged with leaving his horse standing untied on West Front street. He was given a reprimand by the court and allowed to go.

DOCTORS VACCINATE MANY APPLICANTS

Citizens Submit Voluntarily to Board's Precautionary Measure.

Continued surveillance over persons who were exposed to the case of small-pox in Muhlenberg Hospital, Wednesday night, is being maintained by the local Board of Health, one of the precautionary steps taken yesterday being the fumigation of the entire police headquarters and adjoining stable. Disinfectants were placed in the headquarters and cell-room and the fumes were kept in the place until 9 o'clock last night. In the meantime the desk-sergeant "camped" in front of the building and the three prisoners were released to appear for a hearing tomorrow morning. The charges against the inmates was not of a serious character and in order to burn the fumigation preparation in the cell-room it was necessary to liberate all of them. This morning the stable is being treated similarly.

During yesterday afternoon and last night a majority of the police officers subjected themselves to vaccination and local physicians report that many of their patients took this precaution voluntarily. While it is yet too soon to look for developments in the case it is thought that the action of the Board of Health has served to ward off any possible infection. Persons now under the care of physicians will be watched for ten days.

All doubt concerning the nature of the disease which caused the death of Joe Petrowitch, of Harrisburg, Pa., in the hospital early yesterday morning was cleared up last night by the announcement of the hospital authorities admitting that the patient was afflicted with small-pox. He was buried yesterday afternoon in a hermetically-sealed coffin by Charles A. Higgins, the local morgue-keeper, the grave being located in Raritan township. Rumors that dissatisfaction was brewing in Metuchen over the selection of the burial spot were found to be without foundation by a Daily Press reporter this morning.

Those persons who were exposed to the victim and who had their clothes and other belongings confiscated, have prepared their bills and these will be forwarded to the Middlesex county authorities immediately. In an interview with a Daily Press reporter this morning over the telephone, Dr. Howard Gross, president of the Metuchen Board of Health, who ordered the victim's removal to Muhlenberg Hospital, said that the man had come to Oak Tree from Harrisburg, Pa., about two weeks ago. Dr. Gross declared that it was improbable that the man had visited Metuchen and that he personally believed that he had spent much of his time in and about Oak Tree. The physician said that his attention was first called to the incident by the Metuchen police, that department having received the information that a man had been found near death in a field by the Oak Tree police.

In telling of the man's condition and allaying the rumors that Metuchen people were indignant for the part that town has played in the event, Dr. Gross said in part:

"Before I was called into the case by the authorities of Raritan township it was rumored that the man was suffering from small-pox. I found him lying on a pile of rain-soaked bags in the coal-yard about five hundred feet from the Oak Tree railroad station.

"When I examined him I said that he was not suffering from small-pox and had him removed to Muhlenberg Hospital. When he was first admitted to that institution the officials there also took him as an exposure victim and it was not known that he had small-pox.

"Inasmuch as the case was one found in Raritan township and taken charge of by the Plainfield authorities in Union county merely through courtesy, the Raritan township authorities have consented to bear all expenses, including burial.

"I am president of the Metuchen Board of Health and I can state positively that there is no dissatisfaction over the methods adopted in disposing of the body."

FEDERAL REGULATIONS.

With the approach of the open season for shooting wild fowl, the United States Department of Agriculture sends out the warning that in accordance with the Federal regulations, all offenses against the hunting rules will be punished severely. The regulations prescribe the seasons, as follows: Water fowl can be shot in this State from November 1 to February 1, and woodcock from October 10 to December 1. Shooting is prohibited between sunset and sunrise. Insectivorous birds are protected indefinitely, while pigeons, cranes, curlew, swans and smaller shore birds are protected only until the first of September, 1918.

REPORT IS READ TO MACHINISTS

Harmony Featured Gathering of 800 Factory Employes Last Night.

EXPECT A SETTLEMENT

Majority of Local Concerns Have Met Eight-hour Demand—Some Yet to Be Heard From—J. J. Keppler Present.

Eight hundred local machinists and shop workers attended two meetings last night, the reports regarding the eight-hour day campaign being enthusiastically received. The Building Trades hall was crowded to its capacity by the workers, and it again became necessary to hold an overflow meeting at the lodge rooms of the L. O. O. M. in the Abrams Building directly across the street from the main hall.

The reports were presented by the committee in charge of the conferences with the officials of the shops, the documents showing that out of the ten plants visited seven conceded the new schedule of hours, while three shops will make known their decisions before the regular meeting of the local union to be held Monday evening.

The Bosch Magneto Company will make known its decision in the matter tomorrow morning, while the Spicer Manufacturing Company will make an announcement Monday. The Vitaphone Company, it is expected, will be given until October 1 to put the new schedule into working force.

At the conclusion of the reports, a number of addresses were made, the speakers including National Vice President J. J. Keppler, Hugh Reilly, business agent of District No. 47, and Charles Wright, recently appointed assistant organizer. James Symonds, president of the local union, acted as

SAYS THE AWARD IS NOT ADEQUATE

John H. Sebring Has Taken An Appeal to Condemnation Figure for Sewers.

Dissatisfaction arising over the award made by the commissioners appointed to condemn properties through which the sewer right of way in the borough of Middlesex will pass has prompted John H. Sebring to take an appeal to the Circuit court of Middlesex county, through his counsel, William A. Coddington, of this city. The original award gave Mr. Sebring an allowance of $1 per lineal foot, and he is of the opinion that this will fall far short of satisfying the damage that will be entailed.

According to Mr. Coddington, the Sebring property is the last one on which sewer pipes will be laid before reaching the outlet at Green Brook, and the diameter of the piping at this point will be about five feet, much of it extending along on top of the ground in public view. These facts are taken as the grounds for the appeal. It is the opinion of Mr. Sebring that his property, which is said to be one of the most valuable pieces of meadow ground in that section, will be damaged to its full extent, variously estimated to be worth between $500 and $1,000 per acre.

The meadow in question has been used for years past by picnic parties and has become recognized as a popular centre for outings because of the clear flowing stream that goes through it and the many beautiful shade trees. The value of these will be seriously impaired, according to Mr. Sebring, if the borough uses is as a sewer right of way.

The pipe line would shut off the use of the brook on the north side for a distance of several hundred feet. After the heavy rainstorm of Wednesday and the freshet of yesterday many people visited the section proposed as a site for the sewer beds and the condition of the surrounding land indicated that future trouble was in store for property owners in that section if a sewer bed is to be located there. An overflow had been caused which extended all the way from the beds to the outlet into the Raritan River at Bound Brook. It is the contention of the people living in that vicinity that to install a sewer disposal bed there would mean an overflow of sewer matter after every freshet along this route. The results of yesterday's conditions have prompted considerable agitation and it is not unlikely that an appeal will be made to the Borough of Middlesex officials.

BOROUGH COLLECTOR BROWN IS VERY ILL

Will Probably Be Unable to Sign Checks for Bills to Be Passed Tomorrow.

George F. Brown, collector and treasurer of North Plainfield, who has been ill for two weeks, was reported to be in a serious condition today. Having lapsed into a state bordering on coma, he is under the care of a trained nurse. The attending physician fears that complications will set in which may result fatally.

Mr. Brown's illness is causing considerable uneasiness in the borough over the matter of the payment of bills. At the regular monthly meeing of the Common Council, which occurs tonight, the monthly warrants will be ordered drawn, and with Mr. Brown unable to attend to business of any kind, the borough officials are in a quandary as to how the municipality's bills are to be paid. A similar state of affairs arose some time ago, when Mr. Brown was also seriously ill. As he is borough treasurer as well as collector, he has the disbursement of all funds, and it was said this morning that not a dollar of the borough's money can be paid out without the collector's signature on the checks. Mr. Brown has a rubber stamp for his signature, however, and an opinion is being sought from Borough Counsel Isaac P. Runyon today as to whether checks signed in this manner will be legal.

Fortunately the regular borough bills are not very heavy this month. Had Mr. Brown's illness prevented his signing checks last month, when many half-yearly bills had to be paid, it might have held up a large sum of money. As it is, while the sewer contractors will probably ask tomorrow for payments due on their contracts, the regular borough expense bill for the month of July is not heavy.

Owing to Mr. Brown's illness, the duty of preparing the collector's monthly report for July devolved upon Mayor Clark, who, because he has kept in close touch with the collector and treasurer's office, and has a practical working knowledge of bockkeeping, was able to take the collector's books and prepare a very full monthly statement, which will be submitted to Common Council tonight.

WILL CONDUCT A SHOW.

Members of the Brotherhood of American Yeomen, Queen City Homestead, have announced a moving picture entertainment for their friends to be held on Thursday, August 12, at which time the organization will take charge of the Lyric Theatre, on Front street. The afternoon performance begins at 1 o'clock, and will continue until 11 o'clock at night. The committee in charge has arranged an attractive program of appropriate pictures, including several views of officers and leading events connected with the brotherhood. The proceeds of the entertainment will be turned over for the expenses of Queen City Lodge.

TO SHOOT AT SEA GIRT.

Pursuant to regimental orders, August 12, has been set aside for rifle practice for the members of Company K on the Sea Girt range. Permission was granted to report on the range the evening before and those who will avail themselves of this opportunity will assemble in the armory at 6:15 o'clock, August 12. All others will assemble at 6:30 a. m. on the twelfth. Tentage, cots, basins, blankets and lanterns will be furnished at Sea Girt to those reporting on the eleventh. On Monday evening there will be a business meeting in the armory. It is important that every man be present.

BROUGHT FROM JAIL.

George Langford, colored, who was committed to the county jail at Elizabeth on July 22, in default of $300 bail under which he was held by Judge DeMeza to await the action of the Grand Jury on an atrocious assault and battery charge, was brought back to Plainfield yesterday by Captain John J. Flynn. Langford is accused of "carving" another local negro who has just been discharged from Muhlenberg Hospital and Langford will be re-arraigned tomorrow morning before the local magistrate to plead to this charge.

GAME WARDEN SLOW TO REPLY ABOUT BIRDS

And Pest of Black Winged Variety Makes Serious Trouble for Boroughites.

No word has been received by Mayor Robert Clark, Jr., of North Plainfield, from Game Warden Welsh, of Somerset county, in reply to the letter sent ten days ago asking for advice as to what to do to rid the neighborhood of Jackson and Watchung avenues from the pest of blackbirds. Mayor Clark will address a letter to Ernest Napier, president of the State Fish and Game Commission, stating the case to him and requesting permission to shoot into the flock that nightly congregates in the trees in that vicinity, or asking Mr. Napier to advise him of some method which will insure relief from the presence of the blackbirds.

The nuisance is rapidly becoming one in which North Plainfield Board of Health will have to take a part, because the littre from the birds is creating much unpleasantness in the neighborhood. That drastic measures will have to be resorted to in order to get rid of the birds has already been proven. Not only have the residents of the bird-infested neighborhood tried making noises of all kinds, but the other night Charles Steiner, of Jackson avenue, set off a quantity of firecrackers under the trees just after the blackbirds had settled for the night. The exploding crackers caused a flurry of birds' wings among the branches, but that was all. When the last firecracker had burst the birds settled down again as if nothing had happened. It is generally conceded that nothing short of shooting into the flock with a shotgun and killing off a number of the birds will drive them away.

Mayor Clark said this morning that the blackbird nuisance has ceased to be a subject for levity. It has passed that stage, he declared, and will have to be handled like any other serious problem of the day.

MASONIC MEMORIES IN GLOEKLER BUILDING

Cornerstone, to Be Laid Tomorrow, Will Contain Signatures of Lodgemen.

Exercises of an appropriate nature will be held tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock, when the cornerstone of the Gloekler building, Front and Somerset streets, will be laid. The Rev. George Hauser, pastor of the German Reformed church, of North Plainfield, will be in charge of the ceremonies.

Christian Gloekler, owner of the building in process of construction, is a member of Schiller Lodge, No. 66, F. and A. M., of Newark. He has asked a number of brother Masons of Plainfield to take part in the exercises.

An interesting fact in connection with the cornerstone laying is that Jerusalem Lodge, No. 26, F. and A. M., was instituted, November, 1817, in the old building which formerly stood where the new building will rise. Because of this fact, Mr. Gloekler has had William McD. Coriell, of Jerusalem Lodge, prepare a certification to this effect and sign the same as past master of Jerusalem Lodge. Other members of the lodge have also signed this paper, which will go into the corner stone, with other papers and articles tomorrow.

It was said today that Jerusalem Lodge would not participate in the cornerstone laying officially, as such action could come only through resolution of the Grand Lodge.

SPICER EMPLOYES WILL HOLD ANNUAL EXCURSION

In accordance with their annual custom the employes of the Spicer Manufacturing Company's South Plainfield plant, a majority of whom live in this city, will go on their annual outing to the Atlantic Highlands tomorrow. They will leave this city at 7:30 o'clock on a special train and it is expected that about 300 will make the trip. Six cars have been chartered.

A varied program of events for the day has been arranged by the committee in charge and the excursionists will seek amusement principally in bathing, boating and fishing. A shore dinner will be served.

ADMINISTRATION LETTERS.

Application was made at the Surrogate's Office yesterday by Charles K. Mason, of North Plainfield, for letters of administration on the estate of his father, Henry S. Mason, who died June 19. Another son, Howard S. Mason, of Montclair, is the only other heir named in the application.

IVANGOROD NOW IN TEUTON GRIP

Forts and City in Possession of Austro-German Army—Riga May Be Next.

ACTIVITY IN THE WEST

French Statement Says That at Several Points There Have Been Bitter Struggles—Change in Commandant at Dardanelles.

Vienna, Aug. 6 (By Wireless Via Berlin).—Ivangorod, the great Russian fortress on the Vistula River, 55 miles southeast of Warsaw, has been occupied by Austro-German troops, it was officially announced today by the Austrian War Office. The following statement was given out:

"We have occupied Ivangorod. Our troops entered the fortress yesterday."

Berlin, Aug. 6 (Via The Hague).—The greatest military campaign in the world's history is drawing rapidly to a close. The Russians are everywhere in retreat from the Baltic to Galicia, their armies threatened with disaster.

Occupation of the great Russian Baltic seaport of Riga by a German army is now only a matter of hours. Ivangorod, the Russian fortress defending Warsaw from the southeast, has been captured by the Austrians, according to an official bulletin from Vienna. Novo Georgiewsk, lying northwest of Warsaw, and considered impregnable, is being hastily evacuated by the Russian garrison, which is falling back in confusion to escape capture at the hands of the Bavarians who entered Warsaw.

Von Hindenburg on the north and Mackensen on the south are smashing away in simultaneous attacks against the Russian flanks, squeezing in the wings of the beaten Muscovites and threatening the capture of the whole army corps. The world has never witnessed such a retreat.

In Courland, in the north, the Russians are fighting with rare courage and desperation to save the Warsaw-Petrograd railway, toward which Gen. von Buelow is battering his way.

In the southeast the enemy's resistance is equally determined, the flower of the Russian army endeavoring to halt Mackensen's rush northward in the direction of Brest-Litowsky, a march that may spell disaster to the Russian left.

Between these two wings the Czar's forces are falling back steadily, attempting to wheel more than one million men into a straight front to block the Teutons. The greatest strategist of the ages could not organize such a gigantic retreat without sustaining heavy losses in guns and men, in the opinion of military men here. Consequently the rout of whole Russian armies was predicted in German military circles today.

From Warsaw itself little information has been received here today, though it was understood that the fleeing garrison was being hotly pursued. This was taken to mean either that the Russians had not succeeded in destroying all the Vistula bridges in their hasty flight or that the Bavarian Prince held pontoons in readiness and had quickly bridged the stream.

At least 100,000 Russians, fighting in the angle whose apex rested on the Noro Georgievsk fortress, are believed to be threatened with capture by the fall of the Polish capital. Retreat for them was possible only over two railroads, both leading to the eastern suburbs of Warsaw. To take either of these after Warsaw had fallen was to deliver themselves into the hands of the Germans. To retreat over the plain in a northeasterly direction along the Bug River was to face the danger of being cut off by a German advance toward the Warsaw-Petrograd Railway.

Before nightfall the Russians who escaped from Warsaw are expected to have begun arriving at Novo Minsk, twenty-seven miles east of the capital. It was not expected that they would attempt any serious stand directly east of Praga.

German troops already are within artillery range of Riga and aeroplanes have dropped circulars in the heart of the town announcing that the Germans are about to enter. The Russians in the Riga district are now manoeuvring only with the object of making good their escape.

London, Aug. 6.—While the Russians have eluded the German trap at Warsaw, it is by no means certain that the entire army will escape.

DUNELLEN

All the Happenings of the Day In Plainfield's Hustling Suburb.

THE SAD STORY OF A PAIR OF TROUSERS AND THE FLOOD

Andrew Lynch, of Jersey City, one of the boarders at the Ellsworth on Grove street, lost property as a result of the recent storm. His trousers belonging to a new suit of clothes, which cost him $36, are now either lying somewhere along the banks of Greenbrook or in the possession of some tramp.

On Wednesday, Mr. Lynch, accompanied by Lloyd and George Smith, walked to Bound Brook to see the swollen waters of the Raritan and then decided to walk home by the way of Sebring's Mills.

All was well until the buildings of the water company at Sebring's Mills were in sight and the discovery was made that the waters of Greenbrook had flooded the road for a distance of about 500 feet. They decided to wade through and accordingly divested themselves of their clothing, each one tying his up in a bundle and holding them on their shoulders. At one point the water had risen to such an extent that the main current of the stream was deflected by the stone part of the bridge into a hollow.

The current flowed so swiftly through this hollow that the young men had a grab one another in order to keep their feet. Mr. Lynch slipped and his hands ascended toward the heavens with the bundle of clothes. His trousers slipped out of the bundle and into the water. The current was so swift that they were out of reach in a twinkling.

When the party reached shore they scurried into a nearby shed. Lloyd and George Smith shortly came out completely attired and looked about for a barrel to raise the spirits of Lynch, who, realizing his predicament, was sitting in a dejected mood on a log in the shed. The Smith boys didn't find a barrel, but they did find a man who had an old pair of overalls which he could spare. Attired in these Lynch and his companions were shortly trudging along the road to Dunellen.

Bernard Boyle, of Indiana, has been visiting his mother, Mrs. Bridget Boyle, of Bound Brook road.

Miss Catharine Donahue, of Westfield, is spending the week in the borough visiting her brother and sister, James and Miss Hannah Donahue, of Walnut street.

Mrs. Isaac V. Smalley, of Jackson avenue, departed today for Atlantic City, where she will spend two weeks.

Edgar Starker, of Washington avenue, who is enjoying a vacation from his duties in the Plainfield office of the Public Service Electric Company, spent yesterday at Asbury Park.

Mrs. Arthur W. Giddes and children, Harold and Violet, of Port Richmond, are spending the week in the borough visiting Mrs. Joel Giddes, of Lincoln avenue. Arthur Giddes will spend the week-end here.

ANTI-SUFFRAGE TALK.

Mrs. Orville D. Oliphant, of Trenton, will be the speaker at the regular monthly meeting of the Board of Trade to be held in the Whittier School on September 20. Mrs. Oliphant will speak in opposition to woman suffrage.

Miss Florence Smalley, of Jackson avenue, has gone to Belmar, where she will spend the month of August.

Mr. and Mrs. William W. Giddes, of Lincoln avenue, returned today from Atlantic City, where they spent a week. They leave tomorrow for Ellenville, N. Y., where they will spend the remaining week of Mr. Giddes' vacation.

Mrs. George E. Firstbrook and children have returned to Newark, after a lengthy visit at the home of Mrs. Firstbrook's parents, Captain and Mrs. B. A. Cole, of Washington avenue.

Fowler W. Vail and grandson, William F. Vail, leave the sixteenth of the month for Detroit, Michigan, where they will spend a week.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Callahan and two children, who have been stopping at the Ellsworth, on Grove street, since the first of July, returned to their home in the Bronx, today. Mr. Callahan was bitten several Sundays ago by George Zink's dog.

Mrs. Stanley Krom, of Penfield place, continues to improve slowly from her trying illness.

Thurman Ayers and sons, of Centre street, have returned from a two weeks' visit at Holmdel.

Hiram J. Scandell, proprietor of the Park Hotel livery, has put a jitney in service between here and Plainfield. This brings the total of jitneys catering to the boroughites up to three. This further evidences that the borough is growing.

Mrs. W. Keesen and daughter, Clara, of New York, are expected at the Ellsworth to remain here until the first of October.

Borough Engineer Churchill gave line and grade yesterday for 150 feet of sidewalk to be laid along Fourth street to the corner of Washington avenue on property owned by William Miller, of Woodhaven, L. I. Mr. Churchill also will have fifty feet laid in front of his own property. George W. Churchill also had sidewalk line given for his lot. When all this walk is laid it will make an unbroken stretch of 300 feet.

'Plains & Fanwood.

The postponed sale by the Ladies' Aid Society of the Episcopal church of cake, candy, ice cream and fancy articles was held in the Fanwood firehouse yesterday afternoon, between 3 and 6. Many people from the 'Plains and borough visited the place. Tea was served throughout the afternoon. The proceeds are for the benefit of the church.

Harry Jespersen, of Martine avenue, is spending his vacation on a trip through the Middle West, stopping at St. Louis, Chicago and other points of interest.

The Rev. Raymond E. Marshal will be in charge of the prayer meeting in the Methodist church tonight.

During the month of August the morning services at the Baptist church will be held on the lawn, the weather permitting.

Leon Shirley, until recently a resident of the 'Plains, will leave tomorrow for Los Angeles, Cal., where he will make his home. He has been living in Plainfield since his father, Theodore Shirley, left for the Pacific Coast.

The political bee is beginning to buzz in the borough trying to find a candidate for Mayor, as it is said that William H. Hoar will not run for a third term. Thomas Norton, president of the Council, has declined to be a candidate, and Councilman A. I. Nichol is being boomed for the post. He is, perhaps, better qualified to fill the position than any other resident, as in his several terms in the Council he has served on all of the important committees, and ever since his residence in the borough has taken a great interest in local matters. Mr. Nichol is at present spending a number of weeks at his summer camp in New Hampshire, and does not yet know that he is being boomed for the Mayoralty, but his friends are planning to circulate a petition and later send it to him and ask him to become a candidate.

S. Dana Townsend, with his mother and sister, is on a several weeks' automobile trip to Marlboro, Mass. On his return, as superintendent of local schools, he will probably have something to say as to the appointment of teachers for School No. 3, the new building now in the course of construction in the Graceland section of the township.

The regular monthly business meeting of the Epworth League, of the Methodist church, was held in that edifice last night.

Mr. and Mrs. Augustus Sheelen, of North avenue, are entertaining their niece, Miss Madeline Wright, of Jersey City.

Mrs. Moore, of "Rosewood Farms," near Willow Grove, is improving from the illness that has confined her to the house ever since early in the spring.

Work is being pushed forward on the rebuilding of "Knollwood" for William R. Nelson, the former Gallagher estate, near Willow Grove. The large country place was burnt down last spring, and with its rebuilding Mr. Nelson is having many other improvements made, which, when finished, will make one of the show places of this section. Mr. Nelson has become a chicken fancier, and has built a large yard, with the most modern improvements to house the many hundred fowl.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Anderson, of Paterson, have ben spending several days with Postmaster and Mrs. Reiner. Mrs. Anderson was formerly Miss Mildred Sheldon Bass, an elocutionist, who delightfully entertained large audiences in the Parish House in the 'Plains on several occasions.

Another week is expected to see the completion of Charles Norton's country home on Midway avenue. It was formerly the "old station," used as such when the C. R. R. of N. J. ran along the old route thirty years ago, and has been renovated into one of the show places of the borough.

John Kyte, with his Westfield partner, will continue in the third round of the men's doubles tennis tournament at the Westfield Golf Club tomorrow afternoon. The amateur mark for the new golf course is changing hands nearly every day, and when A. I. Nichol, of North avenue, returns from New England, he will have something to do in order to hold his title as amateur champion, obtained on the old course. A. J. Conway, also a local man, has retained his laurels on the new links as professional champion, and local people cannot let any of the club honors now resting here get away from their grasp.

Joe Alberts, the diminutive 'Plains ball artist, will perform on the diamond for the Rahway A. A. tomorrow afternoon, while Eugene Lidgate will be pastiming in Hoboken.

The 'Plains business section has received a boost in the form a baker shop operated in the Morell building by George Robson.

Until September 11 the Daily Press will go to press on Saturdays at 1 o'clock.

U. S. ASTOR THEATRE

William Elliott, the celebrated Broadway star, who last season appeared in "Experience," at the Casino Theatre, New York, will portray the leading role in that refreshing comedy-drama of youth, "When We Were Twenty-one," to be shown this afternoon and tonight at the U. S. Astor Theatre. This corking visualization of the famous play by E. V. Esmond whill be shown for one day only and every lover of the natural, dramatic and artistic in photo-drama should not miss the opportunity to view it. In addition to "When We Were Twenty-one" a program of selected comedies and dramas also will be exhibited.

Aside from the excellent acting of the famous young star, the swift moving plot, the football scene and the cabaret scene especially commend this feature to theatregoers. Mr. Elliott made his screen debut in this subject and put into effect all the dramatic resource at his command. The role of "The Imp," the young college man who falls in love with an actress, fits Mr. Elliott down to the ground, so to speak.

Plainfield, N. J., August 6, 1915.

Plainfield's population as found by the 1915 census is 24,575. That is a net increase of nineteen plus per cent. over the 20,550 persons found by the Federal census of 1910. The figures are extremely gratifying when we take into consideration the fact that Newark, Jersey City and other cities in North Jersey made smaller percentages of gain, and Paterson and some larger communities lost. It effectively puts a stop to the knockers, who have been disgusting everyone but themselves by saying unpleasant things about Plainfield going backward. The truth of the matter is that the city has had a healthy, forward growth, of anything but the mushroom variety. It also goes to prove that vacant houses merely mean that the city has been overbuilt in proportion to its population growth, and that the presence of these buildings is not due to any fault with the community, but overzealousness on the part of real estate speculators.

A NEW DEPARTURE.

Beginning Monday, as has been announced in our advertising columns, the Daily Press will have on its editorial page five full columns of feature articles by well known writers, in addition to our own usual editorial comment. In order to place all these features on one page, and at the same time not interfere with present advertising contracts, they will be found hereafter on page six, except when there are two sections of the paper, when they will be found in the second section.

In making this departure from our regular custom, we believe that we are presenting to our readers the best newspaper features that are procurable, and ones that it would be impossible to present were it not for the fact that a number of newspapers have combined to secure the services of such well known writers as George Fitch, Strickland Gillilan, Jay E. House, George Matthew Adams, Harry J. Westerman, Dr. William Brady, E. R. Branson, W. Kee Maxwell, Catherine Cook, Laura Kirkman and Robert O. Ryder. The work of these writers, especially those first mentioned, is appearing in newspapers throughout the country, which have a total circulation well into the millions, and include one paper in every great city in the United States.

We frankly confess that the publication of these features is an experiment, but we feel sure that the expense to which we have been put to procure them is warranted. The Daily Press has primarily been a Plainfield paper, making local news its foremost consideration, and giving little or no heed to features, except the few which have become so firmly established, such as Scoop, Mrs. Leonard's articles, and the Bedtime story, which will, of course, be continued.

The addition of these five columns of features will in no way curtail the local or general news in the paper, as the re-arrangement of the paging will make it possible to eliminate miscellaneous matter which has been used at times for "fillers."

PRISON REFORM.

New York State has never stood very high as a prison reform State, except possibly at the Elmira Reformatory in the days of Brockaway. He was a pioneer reformer as to first offenders. New Jersey began the probation reform system about 1898 and it has worked admirably. The indeterminate sentence system began when the Rahway Reformatory opened.

The controversy just now going on over the methods of Warden Osborne at Sing Sing is very interesting. There has always been a class in every State who have no sympathy for a person convicted of crime. The old rule of "an eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth" is their method of treating prisoners. But they are wrong and are living in the past. The reform method is here and it is here to stay. Osborne may go at Sing Sing, but his methods will remain. Humane treatment of prisoners with reformatory ends has come to stay. It may be true that imprisonment is for punishment, but it is only so in part. The thing that is lasting is reformation. All legislation, all action, all instruction, and all methods of control under prison rules must eventually have but one purpose—and that is reform of the convict.

Many a convict is in prison owing to environment or possibly accidental or incidental circumstanes, that have led him into trouble. Why should he not be treated in a way that will save him and help him to retain his self-respect rather than push him down? The modern method is to do everything possible to send a man out of prison with some hope and an incentive to do better things; and not to get into difficulty again. Putting him on his honor in prison is to teach him how to live honorably when out.

THE MILITIA AND RIOTS.

Since the Bayonne strike in the Standard Oil works and the refusal of the Governor to send the State militia there has been some criticism of Mr. Fielder. Yet, the Governor was absolutely right in what he did. The militia is not a police force. It is not to be ordered out at the beck or call of any person who thinks he should have its aid. It is a serious matter to order out the militia. It should never be considered lightly nor done for a slight cause.

It is the duty of the local authorities to control their communities. If the city police and the sheriff and his deputies cannot do it then the Governor should act—and when he does act martial law should be declared and the military assume absolute control. All other government is then superceded by the military. To bring about such a condition as this by the act of the Governor as commander-in-chief of the militia is a matter of serious concern. But when it is done the riot or disorder must be put down with a strong hand.

That Governor Fielder was right in the Bayonne case was demonstrated by the final control of the situation by the sheriff and his deputies. There is no justification for strikes in these days if the employers of labor and the men in the shop will settle their difficulties by arbitration, or in the way several local shops have done recently. The ordinary man knows that arbitration is better than a law suit and he also knows that it is better than a strike.

There is always some right on each side of a labor controversy and it should be settled as to what the right of each party is, by submitting the differences to arbitration. The United States has a board for that purpose composed of competent and disinterested men and its good offices should be accepted gladly in preference to a walk-out or a lock-out. It certainly should be tried before force is attempted or required. It is the duty of a Governor to insist upon it.

United States Senator James E. Martine will be the contributing editor again tomorrow, at which time our readers will be given an opportunity to learn more about the Hawaiian Islands, those wonderful possessions of the United States about which so little is really known by the general public.

"WAR BONUS AND BONES OF WAR."

By Donato Di Lonardo.

A year ago today in our first contribution to this paper at the outbreak of the war, after discarding the generally thought-of cause of it, we summed up as follows:

"All human institutions carry within themselves the seed of destruction. Capitalism born upon the ruins of crumbling feudalism follows the same law. Capitalism based on the profit system, the robbery of the the many by the few, is tottering under the weight of accumulated profits. The workers not receiving in wages the equivalent of their product, it follows that the part not received accumulates in other hands than theirs. When in the process of production, the employers—who own the means by which the workers live—find that they have in their stock rooms more goods than the market can absorb, they either reduce their forces or discontinue for a time the manufacture of a given article. Now, when one big industry closes its doors or materially reduces its force it affects all other industries for the simple reason that the purchasing power of the workers, limited even in periods of so-called normal activities, is now lessened greatly—these are the periods which we are wont to call of 'industrial stagnation.'

"Without going much deeper into the question everybody knows that times have not been normal throughout the world for the last six or seven years; that we are in the throes of chronic 'hard times.' This condition of affairs has made the workers of the world restless, and they began in all earnestness to ask the question: Why an ever-decreasing opportunity to work and ever-increasing cost of living? and the answer began to come clearer and clearer with an ever-increasing volume of voice, 'The Profit System.' Capitalism is the real cause of the workers' misery. The invisible power behind the thrones plainly saw the handwriting on the wall and resolved on the last desperate stand for the continuation of its reign of plunder and exploitation. By re-enacting the bloody tragedy of the ages, by plunging the various countries in war against each other, by skilfully exciting race hatred and work the people up to a frenzied feeling of patriotism and national pride, it hopes to accomplish two things, first, to make the workers forget their troubles and their common enemy while engaged to slay one another, and second, with the general destruction sure to follow, the wheels of industry will begin to move again, setting an era of so-called prosperity, and give capitalism a new lease of life."

People who cannot see further than their nose scouted the explanation that the inability of the capitalists to find a market for the surplus goods on their hands was responsible for the present conflict, yet, after one year of fighting, evidence upon evidence has been piling up in proof of our explanation of this world convulsion. Only yesterday the Secretary of the Imperial German Treasury, Dr. Karl Hefferich, in a signed statement to the Associated Press on German economic and financial affairs, among other things said: "The spectre of unemployment has been banished. There is more work than workers. THE WAR HAS PROVED ITSELF TO BE A GREATER EMPLOYER OF LABOR THAN OUR EXPORT TRADE WAS." Who can deny this? Look around, observe how the wheels of industry have begun to move again. One year ago everything was at a standstill and the people clamoring for work, but unable to find it. Why? The markets were glutted. Capital could no longer employ people at a profit if unable to dispose of the stock on hand first. The same conditions confronted the ruling class of all the highly developed industrial centers of the world. War comes. The unpaid labor of the workers accumulated in the hands of the industrial kings is now wasted in the fields or sent to the bottom of the ocean—the problem of its disposition is at last solved. It is a master stroke of capital. Its skillful appeal to patriotism, which in this case means no less than an appeal to the baser instinct of man, the destruction of his fellows for the preservation of that intangible entity called the State, but in reality the preservation of the capitalist mode of production and distribution, has triumphed. An army of slaves on the battlegrounds to destroy that which the army of slaves in the fields and shops, working overtime, produce and create, are now counterbalancing this anarchic system.

The march of progress has been arrested; the pulse beats of the hopes and aspirations of the masses are no longer audible. The red spectre of revolution, "the new creating force, the divinity which discerns all life, which embraces, revives and rewards," has faded among the scattered bones of the battlefields and the "war bonus" of the industrial hells.

REPORT READ TO MACHINISTS

chairman of the meetings. A similar meeting was held this morning for the employes on the night shifts and was well attended. A large number of applications for membership were received.

From present indications, the entire matter will be in proper working shape for settlement at the meeting of the union Monday night. The report as read by the organizer in charge, Thomas E. Carroll, follows:

"All firms visited received your representatives courteously except one, of whom we shall refer to later in this report. The first shop visited was the Hall Printing Press shop. In addition to the request for an eight-hour day we informed them of a strong sentiment among the men for the establishment of a $3.25 starting rate and $4.25 for outside men. They have conceded the eight-hour day and we recommend the question of wages be deferred until Monday night's meeting of Plainfield Local No. 167.

"The Potter Printing Press shop has agreed to an eight-hour day and will do whatever the other press firms do in relation to wages. The present weekly wage stands under the eight-hour day.

"The Scott Printing Press Company conceded the eight-hour day with the present weekly earnings.

"The Pond Machine Tool works, after a lengthy interview, in which a number of propositions dealing with a sliding reduction in hours were discussed, it was agreed to recommend to the president and the executive committee the establishment of the proposed schedule of wages and the eight-hour day. The firm has since agreed to the eight-hour day and assures us it will meet its competitors on the wage question.

"The Ransome Concrete Machine Company requested us to inform you at this meeting that the officers of the company, Mr. Ransome and Mr. Mueller, would recommend to the directors of the company the establishment of the eight-hour day and the details would be worked out with its men.

"The Spicer Manufacturing Company will render a decision on Monday. The outlook is favorable for the eight-hour work-day.

"The Bosch Magneto Company was also visited. Sentiment is overwhelming in this plant for the eight-hour day and at our latest interview today the officials requested a postponement of action until Saturday morning, when Mr. Wild, superintendent, and Mr. Schuborum, the work's manager and superintendent, requested us to call for a definite reply.

"The Vitaphone Company requested that the enforcement of the demand be deferred until October, the first, owing to the firm being small and just emerging from an experimental state.

"The Manganese Safe works was visited, but we have been unable as yet to get in touch with Mr. Layton, superintendent, as he only comes to Plainfield once a week. As there are only a few men involved we deemed it advisable to interview him later.

"The Saurer Company, after learning of your determination to secure the eight-hour day, and after receiving your committee's communication, made haste to grant the eight-hour day, together with a war bonus of twenty per cent., which as you know was unsatisfactory as it lacked sincerity and gave every evidence of being temporary in its nature. The firm no doubt realized the strength of the opposition and has since changed the war bonus to a flat twenty per cent. increase in wages. The committee called on Mr. Ayers, manager, and though, as it now appears, a misunderstanding of an office boy we were admitted to his private office. As we were ushered in he arose and showed surprise at our presence. He declined to enter a conference over the subject of eliminating so-called war bonuses and giving a flat increase of twenty per cent. instead, and contented himself with the single simple statement, 'I refuse to talk.'

"We are pleased to report that during the next twenty-four hours the firm withdrew the objectionable war bonus and gave a straight twenty per cent. increase in its stead.

"The committee will continue its endeavors until its mission is fulfilled. In concluding this report the committee recommends that you use every available effort to strengthen your ranks so that the advances herein recorded may be permanently established. We feel that this precaution is all the more advisable because of the apparent hostile attitude of one of the largest plants.

"We believe that events of the past week have again demonstrated that the I. A. of M. is capable of fulfilling its mission to raise wages and shortening hours wherever it has the confidence and co-operation of the men of the trade."

In "the Game of Life" generally, as well as in want advertising, persistence wins in nine cases out of ten.

COL. STEVENS TO READ PAPER AT NATIONAL ROAD CONGRESS

New York, Aug. 5.—Colonel E. A. Stevens, Commissioner of Public Roads of New Jersey, has been selected by the program committee to present a most important paper at the Pan - American Road Congress. Colonel Stevens' subject is "The Essentials of Proper Laws for Highway Work," concerning which the details of his position must render him an authority. Colonel Stevens paper is scheduled for presentation in the afternoon of Monday, September 13, and is expected to be one of the leading educational features of the congress.

The advance official program of the Pan-American Congress shows that twenty-seven separate subjects will be discussed during the ten sessions, these subjects covering practically the entire field of road and street construction and maintenance, and the organization and administration of highway affairs.

The Road Congress will convene at the Municipal Auditorium, Oakland, Cal., on September 13, and continue until Friday night. The opening address will be made by Governor Charles W. Gates, of Vermont, chairman of the executive committee of the congress. He will be followed by Governor Johnson, of California; Mayor Davis, of Oakland, and Director of Congresses Barr, of the Panama-Pacific Exposition, who will deliver addresses of welcome. Addresses in response will be made by George W. Tillson, president of the American Road Builders' Association, and Fairfax Harrison, president of the American Highway Association. The congress is to be held under the joint auspices of these two Associations, assisted by the Tri-State Good Roads Association, of California, Oregon and Washington, and the Pacific Highway Association. Previously the two great associations, which are of national character, have held separate annual conventions.

MANY PAY LAST RESPECTS TO MRS. NORA EDMUNDSON

Friends in large numbers attended the funeral service of Mrs. Nora Edmundson at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Michael Nevins, 830 West Third street, this morning and later in St. Mary's church, where a solemn high mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. Father MacDonald; Father Baldwin as deacon and Father Sciolla as sub-deacon. The floral tributes were especially handsome, coming from relatives and acquaintances.

Burial was made in St. Mary's cemetery the following acting as pallbearers: Thomas McInery, Thomas Coulter, William Lyons, William Lafferty, Peter Sheridan and Patrick Moran. Members of the Watchung Council, No. 552, Knights of Columbus, met at the Third street residence last night and paid their final respects to the deceased.

FLOODS NOW MENACE TOWNS NEAR PHILADELPHIA

Philadelpaia, Aug. 6.—The Schuylkill is nine feet above normal, and is rapidly rising. Serious trouble is expected among the mills and manufacturing plans of Manayunk.

Lancaster, Pa., Aug. 6.—All Lancaster county is suffering from the effects of heavy storms. Telephone and trolley systems are crippled. A cloudburst at Mt. Joy has flooded the town.

AFTERNOON FIRE DOES $25 WORTH OF DAMAGE

Fire, the origin of which is attributed to mice and matches, did $25 worth of damage to a house owned by Morris Abrams at 222 New street shortly before 3 o'clock this afternoon. The building in which the blaze was discovered is partly devoted to living quarters and partly for store purposes, the latter being run by Angelo Cassaro.

The fire started in a closet and was burning rapidly when the firemen arrived in response to a still alarm. It was extinguished with chemicals.

FUNERAL IN CHURCH.

The funeral of William Watkins who died in Muhlenberg Hospital Wednesday was held this afternoon from his late residence, at 66 South Second street, at 3 o'clock in the Calvary Baptist church on Central avenue. Rev. Mr. Campbell pastor of the church, conducted the service. The flowers were unusually beautiful, a large number of set pieces being sent by friends and relatives of the deceased. The burial took place in Hillside cemetery members of the church acting as pall bearers.

LITERATURE FOR TARS.

Fifty-five pounds of literature was sent several days ago to Captain Benn, of the Missouri yacht, for the sailors, by the Plainfield Woman's Christian Temperance Union. Seamen in a great many instances never see land for long periods, and the contributions that are sent them from various organizations are practically the only source of amusement they have.

PLAN 1916 MISSION.

Plans are under way for a mission to be held in Grace church, the latter part of January or during the beginning of February. The mission services will extend over a period of ten days, and one of the most gifted and successful mission preachers of the church has already been engaged for the undertaking. Active preparations will begin as soon as the activities of the church open in the fall.

BOROUGH COUNCIL TONIGHT.

The regular monthly meeting of the North Plainfield Common Council will be held tonight. Besides the ordinary routine business, the annual budget will probably come up for consideration. A tentative budget was adopted the first of the year, and some curiosity is expressed to know how near the required amount the tentative budget comes.

MRS. TULLY'S FUNERAL.

The funeral of Mrs. Ellen Tully wife of John Tully, whose death occurred Wednesday following a lingering illness, will be held at the late residence, 532 Belvidere avenue, tomorrow morning and later from St. Mary's church, where a solemn mass of requiem will be celebrated. Interment will be in Calvary cemetery, Brooklyn.

EXPECT BIG WAR ORDER.

New York, Aug. 6.—What will probably be the largest contract of its kind ever placed in this country if consummated, is now being negotiated between the Tennessee Copper Company and representatives of one of the important allies in the European war, who are after an enormous amount of acids. While the contract has not yet been closed, it is confidently believed by important interests that it will be shortly.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Smith and family, of Richmond street, are spendnig two weeks at Atlantic City.

Miss I. Tweedy, of Crescent avenue, who has been summering at Lake Minnewaska, N. Y., has returned home.

GOVERNOR FIELDER PICNIC HEADLINER

Community Affair in Scotch Plains the Center of Interest for Villagers.

"We don't very often start anything but when once we get going we do things up brown." In so many words an enthusiastic booster of Scotch Plains' welfare this morning described the merits of the Community Picnic program to a Daily Press reporter. Every individual from the proverbial hayseed up to the suburban politician is looking forward to the dawn of Wednesday morning. The entire day will be given over to an extensive and varied program of municipal interest.

Those villagers who have never had an opportunuity to take a peek at Governor James F. Fielder are holding both optics in reserve for the occasion of his visit Wednesday afternoon. Many there are who also counting on the presence of Assemblyman N. Runyon, of this city. These two possessors of State-wide political fame have promised to deliver short discourses to the assembled villagers and it goes without saying that their speeches will carry with them plenty of advise for the small-town boomer and the male and feminine politician.

Other events such as a flag-raising, a competitive athletic meet and other recreative games will be indulged in by the town folk of Scotch Plains and Fanwood. Taken all all in the day will be the biggest one of the year, yes, and many years, for the people who have their mail addressed to either of these thriving suburbs.

RELIEF FOR MEXICO CITY VILLA ARRIVES AT JUAREZ

Galveston, Aug. 6.—Gen. Pablo Gonzales has loaned to merchants of Mexico City $500,000 to enable them to pay back salaries due to their employes. The Government has cut the price of bread in half in the city. Meat is still high, but is becoming gradually lower with the arrival of supplies.

Washington, Aug. 6.—The American Vice Consul at Juarez telegraphed to the State Department today that General Villa arrived there yesterday morning.

Major-General Hugh L. Scott, chief of the staff of the army, probably will leave within the next few hours for either the Texas border or a mission to Mexico itself to get in person touch with the leaders of the factions there. This was unofficially declared after a conference between General Scott and Secretary Lansing.

J. E. FORCE AND CO. CLERKS HAD OUTING YESTERDAY

About thirty-five employes of the J. E. Force & Co. stores in this city enjoyed a picnic yesterday on the mountainside back of Scotch Plains. The trip was made in wagons. The party left here at 8:30 in the morning, reaching the picnic grounds about an hour later. The noonday meal consisted of clams, corn, watermelon and other good things. Plenty of spring water was to be had and following the flood of Tuesday the party found swimming water unusually plentiful also.

It was, indeed, a happy crowd that arrived home about dusk, just in time to miss the storm.

The picnic is an annual affair with the "White Store" employes, and the clerks have the time of their lives each time the event is held.

Y. W. C. A. NOTES

The regular Saturday night supper of the association will be held tomorrow night from 5 to 7 o'clock. Tempting dishes are prepared for the working young women of the city and here they may obtain a nourishing supper at a nominal figure.

The Sunday home hour will begin at 4 o'clock in the afternoon and will continue until 6. An interesting program has been arranged to which all members are cordially invited to bring their friends.

THINK SCHOONER LOST.

Port Colborne, Ont., Aug. 6.—Hope has practically been abandoned for the safety of the schooner City of Sheboygan, which left Erie, Pa. Sunday, with a cargo of coal for this port. Nothing has been heard of the vessel and it is feared she went down in the storm of Monday night. The captain of the steamer Major reports having sighted a quantity of wreckage off Erie.

MURDERER HUNG.

Hartford, Conn., Aug. 6.—Bernard Montvid, of Taunton, Mass., where he was a barber and editor of a Lithuanian newspaper, was hanged early today at the Connecticut State Prison at Wethersfield for his part in the murder of the Rev. Joseph Zabris, a Catholic priest, of New Britain, and his housekeeper, Miss Ada Gilman, on February 8 last.

Hope, 5; Clinton Avenue, 3.

Games Tomorrow.
Baptist at Hope.
T. A. B. at Netherwood.
Clinton Avenue vs. Saurer (at Baptist Field).

Tomorrow's trio of damond ditties promises to produce startling surprises. If the dope fails us not, we think that one of the league leaders is going to get a "bump." The T. A. B. S. get the chance to see that this happens, and inasmuch as they fell down on the same job last Saturday, it is believed that they will go out for revenge tomorrow. However, in the opinion of many fans, the Netherwoods are on top to stay, and the Hopes are due to drop. Montross is going to convince these dopesters that they are wrong, and declares that just because the Baptists hung one on the Saurers last week does not insure them a victory this week. For the Saurers we cannot predict victory, because it is not known who will twirl, or, in fact, who will show up. Manager Britt Martin is having his troubles along these lines lately, and Tom Apgar states that his boys are going to take every advantage the situation affords. Another tie is going to be broken when these clans clash. "Who will the T. A. B. S. be defeated by?" is a commonplace phrase nowadays, but Manager Jimmy refuses to allow it a life. "Watch us tomorrow" is the way the Abstainers' leader sums up the situation.

Tone Denny will oppose Russ Stewart, Montross will clash with Ernie Stahl, who will stage his debut, and Jenny Rosenson will hook up with either "Babe" Gleason or "Kats" Miller. Perhaps Eddie Conshay may get into this last encounter.

GOULLET HAS AN EASY ROAD TO KRAMER'S CROWN

Frank Kramer's championship hopes received a severe jolt when he was shut out of the final of the quarter-mile professional bicycle championship race at Newark Velodrome last night by Alf. Goullet, of Australia, who has led the champion the greater part of the season in the titular series of races.

The crucial test came when Goullet and Kramer were placed in the same semi-final. Had Kramer won and then taken the final he would have been on even terms with Goullet in points. Goullet won the final, which gives him an advantage of 10 points, a commanding lead, and probably sufficient to win the title.

SPORT BRIEFS

Pitcher Bill James, of the Boston National League team, has been suspended at his own request in order that he might go to his home in Seattle, Wash, and rest his pitching arm.

Maurice Shannon, of the Boston Nationals, has been released to the Rochester International League club.

R. Norris Williams, 2d., defeated W. Niles in semi-final tennis match on the Longwood bowl, on the Longwood Cricket Club grounds yesterday. Williams will meet Maurice McLoughlin in the final today.

Frank Kramer was defeated by Alf Goullet, of Australia, in the semi-final of the quarter-mile championship bicycle race at the Newark Velodrome last night.

Calvin V. Smith, formerly of Beverly High School, and of Pratt Institute, of Brooklyn, last season, has been signed by Boston Americans. Smith will be given a tryout in the box during the Red Sox' stay at Fenway Park.

BUSY SCHEDULES FOR PLAYGROUND TEAMS

Rain Has Interfered With Many of the Organization's Contests.

The Parker Field major and minor leagues are having their tribulations. Between rain and wet grounds it looks as if old "Jup" Pluvius had it in for the boys of Plainfield.

Hereafter, wet grounds are not going to count. If the boys are willing to play in the mud they will not be discouraged from it. Good sliding will be guaranted to all the bags, including the home platter, and, if need be, web feet and row boats will be provided for the fielders. There has been enough rain now so that we may expect some fair weather the rest of the season. So get the habit, and show up with your team. Baseballs and a catcher's outfit are all provided, and all that is necessary for good sport are regular atendance, "ambish" and "pep."

In Tuesday evening's edition of the Press the rosters of all the teams, both major and minor, were published but since then a new team, the Curry A. C., has entered the minor league race. Hence the names of the members of the Curry squad are printed today.

Curry A. C.—Doughty, Passementi, Wissert, Graucher, H. Baker, Sylvestri, Neuben and Beddoe. These fellows are New Yorkers, who spend the summer months at the Curry camp. In the past they have proven themselves capable diamond artists, and expect to shine well this season.

Minor League Schedule for Next Week.

Monday, Aug. 9—Princeton-Hartford.
Tuesday, Aug. 10—Hartford-Curry.
Wednesday, Aug. 11 — Curry-Princeton.
Thursday, Aug. 12—Hartford-Princeton.
Friday, Aug. 13—Curry-Hartford.

The rest of the minor league schedule will be made up later with the help of the captains of the various teams.

The Parker Field major league schedule for the coming week follows:

Monday, teams 3 vs. 2.
Tuesday, teams 1 vs. 2.
Wednesday, teams 1 vs. 3.
Thursday, teams 2 vs. 3.
Friday, teams 2 vs. 1.
No games are played on Saturday.

NATIONAL RACE TIGHTENS; GIANTS HOT AFTER TITLE

By taking both games of yesterday's double-header from the Cincinnati Reds the Giants got right into the thick of the pennant fight. New York is only three and a half games behind the leading Phillies, who dropped a game to Pittsburg after a thrilling battle.

The Cubs moved into second place by a fractional point because of their victory over the Braves. As St. Louis defeated Brooklyn, the Dodgers' tie with Boston continues, though for third now instead of second position.

SCHOOLEY IS BUSY.

Bill Schooley, the canoeist, who is captain of the Tuscorara Canoe Club, of Newark, which captured the State championship at Asbury Park last Saturday, will compete in two important events in the near future. On Saturday, August 14, he will start in the Newark city championships, and on August 28 he will be among the contestants in the Lake Hopatcong races.

DAVE FULTZ MARRIES.

Norwalk, Conn., Aug. 6.—David Louis Fultz, of Brooklyn, N. Y., president of the Baseball Players' Fraternity, and once a National League player, was married here last night to Miss Ida Marjorie Verlin, daughter of Louis Verlin, of this city. The ceremony was performed at Grace Episcopal church, the Rev. James B. Warner officiating. Guests from New York and Philadelphia were present.

SPEEDERS TO MEET.

Chicago, Aug. 6.—Barney Oldfield and Dario Resta, the motor speed kings, will contest Sunday over a 100-mile course on the new speedway in one of the greatest races of the season. It is possible that Ralph de Palma, winner of the Indianapolis race, may start with them and try for the premier honors. Oldfied has secured a new car from France which he will use in his match with Resta.

WESTFIELD TENNIS.

The tennis competition for the championship of Westfield will be concluded tomorrow on the Country Club courts. Play was begun last Saturday.

GOODBYE WEEK'S PAY; THE STARS GO OUT

Ten-inning Game Inaugurated Mid-week Baseball Here Yesterday Afternoon.

Mid-week baseball was inaugurated at Parker Field yesterday afternoon, the Plainfield A. A. losing a ten-inning melee to the North Plainfield Canadians, the score of the engagement being 6 to 5. It was expected that a larger crowd would be on hand to witness the go, although the affair was scheduled mainly to furnish amusement for the participants. 'Tis said that the game was played for the Plainfield manager's week's salary.

We may as well break the sad news now as later. Johnny Dawe lost the game. Dick Lawton, who had been hurling splendid ball, was replaced by Rosenson in the eighth, and Stahl, who had been made the victim of fierce bombardments, retired in favor of Tommy Mullin in the same inning. The Canadians tied things up on Rosenson in the ninth and won the game in the tenth. Here is how it came about: "Count" Trotter walked, as did Tommy Mullin. Boos followed with an infield hit to short and "Dippy" Jones rushed over and got it, but as Dawe failed to cover second no one was put out by the play. With the bags loaded Rosenson called the infield and even the outfield way in, and struck out Force and made V. Mullin pop-fly out to the infield. Brennan let a ball pass through him and Trotter scored, Mullin going to third and Boos to second. A weak hitter, Bob Dawe, was the next man up and he grounded to his cousin at short. This young man fumbled the ball, which was riding at a fairly hot rate of speed, and "Leaguer" Mullin scored, ending the fracas.

The fielding of the Mullin brothers and the hitting of Benny Rosenson featured the attraction. "Dippy" Jones pulled three or four humorous stunts, the most foolish being his removal of Lawton in favor of Rosenson and the most sensible being the evicting of the two umpires, "Yek" Mutnick and Joseph Diver. This move occasioned considerable mirth, mayoralty candidates joining in the laugh, also.

According to "Coach" Jones, the second episode will be run off next Thursday and it's going to be the "reel" thing, too.

The score:

PLAINFIELD.

WATCHUNG VS. BIRDS.

The Watchungs and the Orioles are scheduled to meet on Parker Field tomorrow, and, according to reports, the dust is sure to fly. Crist and Barnes will be in the points for the "birds," with Demler and Marsh as the Watchung battery.

FLEMINGTON FAIR.

The annual fair at Flemington will be held this year on August 10, 11, 12 and 13. Automobile, bicycle and horse races will be run off daily, while balloon ascensions are to be the Fair's main features.

FARMERS IN BALL GAME.

The Farmers will meet the Highlanders at Highland Park, Emerson avenue, Sunday afternoon, in the second section of a big double bill. The Highlanders will oppose the Queen City team in the early melee.

DAILY PRESS TROPHY.

The Daily Press has donated a cup to the Fanwood athletic meet committee. This gift makes a total of four silver cups to be presented to those who register the highest number of points in the various events.

MAJOR MARTIN IN INTERSTATE SHOOT

Former Plainfielder Tuning up for Sea Girt Event in September.

Major William B. Martin, Second Regiment, National Guard of New Jersey, will be among the competitors in the twenty-fifth annual Sea Girt Interstate tournament, which will be held September 9 to 18, inclusive. Major Martin has proven a big figure in the prize money, bringing home awards since 1892. He will compete in the State, interstate and regimental matches. Major Martin has always been a big favorite in the tournament, and is looked upon to gain more laurels.

Major Martin has captured more important prizes than any other marksman to enter the tourney. He has been a member of the Second Regiment team that captured first honors for the Columbia trophy match presented by the District of Columbia National Guard to the National Guard of New Jersey in 1892, 1893, 1894, 1895, 1896, 1902, 1905, 1907, 1908, 1912, 1913 and 1914. He received a medal on each occasion. In 1905 he won the Spencer match and was presented with a gold medal, and he won the Libbey trophy match in 1909. He was awarded first prize in the Officers and Inspectors' match in 1910, while in the next year he pulled down first honors in the Remington Arms Union Metallic Cartridge Company expert match. He was awarded the Hayes trophy in 1905, and the General E. P. Meany match in 1911. He also has won many other awards.

ROD AND REEL

A big school of herring was struck off Seabright on Sunday by an angler who had a party of friends from this city out on his power boat. Big catches were made by all on board, and in addition to the herring they had nice messes of seabass and blackfish.

Experience shows that the best hours for fishing are those of the early morning and of the late afternoon, continuing until dusk. If the weather is rainy, cloudy or dark equal success may be met with throughout the day.

So much fresh water pouring into the rivers and bays, due to the recent heavy rains, is not good for fishing. Weakfish are not very partial to fresh water after they get through spawning, and this might account for them being so far away from land. Wednesday's storm turned millions of gallons of water into the bays, and it may prevent good catches being made for the next week or so.

The Passaic River has settled considerably after the flood and it will be in shape to fish Sunday. Green brook, just west of Scotch Plains, overflowed its banks, carrying hundreds of small trout with it. The Saddle River spread over its banks in many places, leaving trout and chub in the fields when it receded.

You cannot set a drift net in Sandy Hook Bay between June 1 and November 1. The same applies to gill nets and seines, but has nothing to do with pound nets. The net men you see at work are north of the boundary line between Sandy Hook and Raritan Bays. They are market fishermen.

You can catch kingfish just below Spring Lake, where a new inlet is being cut through as a feeder to the inland lakes. A pile-driver is at work there, so you can't miss the spot. Use small hooks and blood worms.

SUNDAY GAME.

Harrison, the real home of the Newark Peps, will send a representative team here Sunday to try conclusions with Jimmy Monahan's Tabs. The affair will be staged on Avon Oval.

DUNELLEN SCOUTS WILL TRY LOCALS ONCE MORE

The Dunellen Scouts and the Plainfield Juniors will stage the biggest baseball attraction that Dunellen has witnessed this year, on Maurer Oval, Dunellen, tomorrow. The last time these two teams met the affair resulted in an argument. Sidney Butler, who held the Scouts to two hits the last time he faced them, will adorn the hillock, with Marsh behind the bat.

Maskell and Eder will compose the Dunellen battery, while Lewis will be held in reserve.

For the locals "Ax" Brandt, "Buck" Semer and "Home-Run" Mullin are heralded as sure producers of victory.

The umpiring job will probably be taken care of by Robert "Cub" Bogardus, Dunellen's best arbitrator.

SKEETERS TO MOVE.

New London, Conn., Aug. 6.—The Jersey City baseball team, of the International League, will probably be transferred to New London, according to a statement from George B. Prest, president of the National Bank of Commerce, and a close friend of Commodore Morton F. Plant, who is financing the deal.

SCHOTT TURNS "PRO;" VETERAN TO FINISH

Jimmy Montross Will Carry Hope Twirling Burden for Rest of Season.

Jimmy Montross will shoot them over for the Hopes tomorrow when they engage in their weekly tilt with the First Baptists. Dick Schott informed the team manager last night that he had accepted a position as twirler for the Hopewell baseball nine, and will perform with that team for the rest of the season.

He was their mainstay in the box, although Matty Coughlin's youth found him no puzzle. As a result of the loss of their star flinger the Hopes will have to rely on "Pop" Montross. The name of Cliff Randolph has been reposing on the Chapel roster for some weeks, and it is not at all unlikely that the big boy will hurl a few innings each Saturday hereafter. It would be good practice for Cliff, who is the regular twirler for the Perth Amboy Pacers.

Don't forget that classified advertisements must be in by noon on Saturdays.

GREATEST EVENTS IN THE HISTORY OF HORSE RACING AT PANAMA EXPO IN 1915

Directum I, 1:58 (top); William, 2:00.

Horsemen throughout the world are looking forward to what will unquestionably be the greatest events in the history of horse racing, the summer and fall meets at the Panama-Pacific exposition at San Francisco in 1915. In the free-for-all it is expected that the stars of the eastern turf, like Directum I (1:58), William (2:00) and Frank Bogash (1:59¼), will be entered and meet the Pacific coast champions.

COOMBS AND WOOD COMEBACKS OF 1915

Jack Coombs (left) and Joe Wood.

During the present baseball season there have been two notable cases of stars of years ago coming to their own again. Jack Coombs, formerly of the Athletics, is now pitching winning ball for Brooklyn, and Joe Wood of the Boston Americans is pitching with the same effectiveness he did in 1912, after having experienced two poor seasons.

FISHING NOTES

We have heard that snappers were biting in the Shrewsbury River. This is rather early in the year for the young blues to be biting, but anything strange is apt to happen this summer. Striped bass are being caught from the bridge at the Highlands, where several weighing over five pounds have been caught since August 1. Trolling for fluke in the river is tame sport, but quite a few follow the pastime for fish for the table.

President Ernest Napier, of the New Jersey Conservation Commission, is of the belief that the Chinook salmon of the Pacific would flourish if planted in the lakes of this State, and he has arranged with W. L. Finley, of Oregon, for the first shipment of 500,000 Chinook eggs to the State hatchery at Hackettstown. The young fish will be reared at the hatchery until old enough to look out for themselves, when they will be liberated in public waters. This kingly inhabitant of the Pacific waters has been transplanted with great success by the Federal bureau in New England waters with the result that Yankee anglers have been catching many of these big fish. The acme of all angling is salmon fishing, but it is a sport that heretofore has been enjoyed only by those with plenty of money and time to seek out the distant streams of Maine and other far-away points. In the near future this royal sport will be within the reach of every holder of a New Jersey fishing license.

A Galley o' Fun!

PARTNERSHIP.

Mr. Lately Married.—But, dearest, I thought we had planned to go to the opera this evening?

Mrs. Ditto.—Yes, love; but I have changed our mind.

THE BACKSLIDERS.

Once upon our sins we brooded—
(some of us—we trust that You did);
But, now Lent is quite concluded,
we have put our broodings by;
Once again we lightly revel with the world, the flesh, the devil,
Once again we find our level—which was never very high!
Oh, you Violets and Graces! Oh,
you hats and gowns and laces!
Oh, you sweet and lovely faces!
Oh, you tresses puffed and curled!
Eyes are bright beneath their lashes,
life again with glory flashes!
Gone the sack cloth, gone the ashes!
—Oh, you good old wicked world!!

Spring, the young and kind and tender, sheds upon us all her splendor;
Nature is a glorious spender—why not join her in the show?

Therefore we're in gladdest raiment though the tailors wait for payment—
Where was ever human clay meant to resist this vernal glow?
Love, with his cherubic troop hid,
finds the Lenten season stupid,
But when Spring comes—Oh, you
Cupid, how your pinions are unfurled!
Easter!—what a welcome this is—Oh,
you cosy-corner Misses,
Oh, you laughter, love and kisses!
Oh, you good old wicked world!

Oh, you sinners, gaily calling with a cadence most enthralling,
You have got us falling, falling from our cold and high estate;
How our resolutions alter as we lay
aside our psalter,
How we half-way skip and falter in our dim religious gait!
Oh, you primrose path inviting! Oh,
you sights our eyes delighting!
Oh, you gay old loving, fighting, laughing life in which we're hurled!
Oh, you game of many chances, circumstances, and romances!
Oh, you tune that each one dances—
Oh, you good old wicked world!

CHEERFUL GIVERS.

Mrs. Cantwell. — The junkman would not buy those things we sorted out.

Cantwell.—Then let us be charitable, my dear, and give them to the poor.

HER RULE.

Newcomer.—I suppose you first ask a boarder what he is accustomed to pay?

Landlady (grimly and very pointedly).—No; "when?"

IN EDEN.

The Serpent.—What's Adam so grouchy about to-day?

The Ape.—Oh, he says that the arrival of woman means that all his plans for universal peace have been knocked in the head for good.

THE MISANTHROPE.

Mostly I love my fellow men,
But I get weary now and then
Of all they do and all they say,
Their way of work, of life, of play!
And on occasions such as that
I hie me to my little flat
And glower at the world, and swear
At everybody everywhere!

In wrathful dreams I take a poke
At all my friends, my foes I choke;
The idle rich, the common host,
The good and bad alike I roast;
And when the slaughter is complete (Within my mind), why, life is sweet!
I am not often taken thus,
But when I am—I'm murderous!

Mostly, I say, I love mankind,
Its funny ways I do not mind;
But just about two times a year,
If I could see my pathway clear,
I'd go and find some gloomy cave
Where I could sit and rave and rave,
And have my fill of angry fun,
Hooting loud hoots at every one!

NOT UP TO HIM.

Teacher.—Tell me! How do you prove that the earth is round?

Dull but Smart Pupil.—I never said it was.

The rearguard is now engaged with four pursuing armies commanded by Gen. von Hindenburg, Prince Leopold of Bavaria, Archduke Joseph Ferdinand of Austria and Gen. von Mackensen.

The Kaiser is expected to return to Berlin on Sunday, according to a despatch from The Hague, to preside at a conference to decide the future of conquered Poland. The meeting will be attended by the German Ministry, the heads of all the German States and two Archdukes of Austria.

The Nieuwe Courrant of The Hague says the proposal to proclaim Poland a semi-autonomous State will be discussed. The plan is to consolidate Galicia and Poland under the joint rule of Germany, Austria and the Poles.

This new constitution for Poland will be presented to the Reichstag, which meets on August 17.

Paris, Aug. 6.—Today's French war statement says:

"In Artois there were grenade combats around Souchez almost all night. Before Neuville St. Vaast an attempted German attack was easily and quickly broken up.

"In the Argonne the battle with bombs and petrads, supported by artillery actions, gained in intensity during the night, particularly around hill No. 213. In the region of Fontaineaux Charmes and toward St. Hubert, to the west of hill No. 213, the Germans attempted to debouch from their trenches, but they were immediately checked by our fire.

"On the Meuse heights at Bois Haut the enemy made two unsuccessful attacks. The attacking forces were thrown back by grenades and rifle fire.

"In Lorraine the Germans bombarded during the night the village of Embermenil and our positions around Reillon. In the Vosges the night was quiet."

The war office today also issued the following:

"At the Dardanelles since the beginning of August there has been no striking development to report. The Government has decided to replace General H. J. E. Gouraud, commander of the French expeditionary force at the Dardanelles, by General Sarrail, who has been named commander-in-chief of the army of the Orient.

Rome, Aug. 6.—An Italian dirigible returning from a bombardment of the Austrian naval base of Pola, fell into the Adriatic, the Ministry of Marine announced today. The Austrians captured the crew of six men.

FROM Three of Our Ten Famous New Editorial Writers

TO MY NEW FRIENDS:

I write from twenty-five to thirty-five paragraphs every working day. About once a month I think of a new one. Most people call me a grouch. I am not accounted much of a philosopher. The paragraph which has brought me the most applause is the one in which I atrociously libel women. Any paragraph written about women will contain a grain of truth. The exaggeration to which I subject my observations along that line takes the sting away. The whisker has done valiant service for me. The Saturday afternoon hair-cut has served me well. I owe a lot to the safety razor, the barber shop minor and the fancy waistcoat, and all three still are regularly in my employ. Now you know what to expect!

TO EVERYBODY IN TOWN

"Pepper Talks" are little inspirational editorials containing observations and conclusions which I have reached on many points of general interest and which, in their turn, will be, I hope, interesting to my readers. They are little essays written right out of my own experiences, failures and successes. People have paid me the compliment of telling me they are interesting. I have even had fathers tell me that they have clipped them to hand to their sons. If I can interest you in the same manner, the writing of these little articles will be a pleasure indeed.

DEAR READERS:

I am to write a Department--"Sermonettes"--for your good paper. The title just about tells the story as "Sermonettes" are short "sermons" on daily events, on things that come up in all our lives and on miscellaneous subjects. These are not religious "Sermonettes" but talks broadly humanitarian. They speak for progress and for betterment. To make them of real service to you is the earnest purpose of

SMART TAILLEUR.

Belted Effect Makes Chic Suit For the Girl.

GIRLISH CREATION.

The belted effect in misses' suit styles holds quite an important place among the autumn season's smart models. Here it is featured in navy mohair, with belt confining narrow plaits that show above and below the waist line. The high roll collar with metal embroidery lends a military note, and the oblong metal buttons afford a trim effect. Deep cuffs and an odd shaped yoke are interesting features. The flare skirt just escapes high button boots, and the trim faille sailor is very girlish.

MIDSUMMER CLOTHES.

Autumn Presses Closely Upon the Heels of Summer.

Midsummer is usually the signal for changes and modifications in the summer fashions. Spring clothes begin to show wear, and to demand renewal, and our fickle minds begin to look for something different.

Does it not seem strange that American men should not have adopted long since a more suitable August attire than blue serge and tan shoes? However, if men persist in conservatism in this respect, women make up for it, for no woman in the world indulges in summer clothes to the same extent as the American woman.

The women of other nations from reasons connected with climate or temperament, or an inborn sense of economy, may wear silks or thin wool, but we insist upon our ephemeral materials, and every year produces new ones for us. This, of course, is a taffeta season, and we are all wearing it accordingly. In order to cater to both parties we combine it with net, lawn, muslin and organdie in the form of colored basques, coatees and the sleeveless jackets, which it is now possible to buy separately in the department stores. What are called "porch frocks" are sold in great variety.

It is a good thing for one of the principal products of our own country that we so generally adopt the cotton fabrics for summer wear. But regard we this, as the French say. Some months ago an active cotton crusade to "help the south" was inaugurated with great blowing of trumpets. It was demonstrated to us how many varied articles were made of cotton, and endless were the surprises of finding, for example, that one's white "London ivory" comb was really made of southern cotton.

We were urged to give up linen bed coverings and take to the less frigid cotton ones; even the superior lightness and washableness of cotton blankets were pointed out to us. Ardent crusaders implored us to relinquish the silk petticoats, which widened skirts had just caused us to adopt, and take to cotton substitutes. Everybody talked cotton for a few weeks, and then the whole subject died a natural death until the Parisian designers, who know nothing about the south and care less, suddenly revived it with the decree of two washable petticoats under the summer's flounced gowns.

Care of the Stove.

To prevent your gas stove from rusting inside of your oven or outside surface use a few drops of linseed oil on a cloth and rub over thoroughly. This can also be used on coal ranges or other style iron stoves, after which you use stove paste to which a few drops of black coffee are added to moisten paste, and then brush over. It will polish up quickly and reward you with a brilliant luster.

Metal Polish.

A high polish for metals is made by mixing two ounces of prepared chalk, three-quarters of an ounce of pipeclay, half an ounce of white lead, a quarter ounce of carbonate of magnesia and a quarter ounce of jeweler's rouge.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

The Woolly Lamb That Never Gamboled.

He would just stand and stare off at the rolling hills.

"I KNEW a woolly lamb that never gamboled," said daddy to Jack and Evelyn.

"What's gambling, daddy?" asked Jack. "Isn't it something naughty with cards?"

"I don't mean that, kiddie," answered daddy, laughing. "The word I used is spelled 'g-a-m-b-o-l-i-n-g,' like that, and it means skipping and playing on the hillside like you and your little sister have seen the little lambs do, for little lambs enjoy life very much.

"But this woolly lamb was a serious minded little creature that never seemed to enjoy life like the other little lambs, and this was rather strange, you might think, for the tiny animal was a pet of the children, at least at first. My, how they did pet it! Why didn't they keep it up? you ask. Well, I think that must have been because it was such a serious minded little creature and didn't respond to their caresses and did not seem to develop a real affection for them, for in this world, as you kiddies will come to learn, you receive just about what you give.

"But at first this little serious minded lamb was a great favorite with the children, who received him with screams of delight and patted his woolly head and his woolly back and looked into his lamby eyes and took him out to play with them in the orchard, for the home of these children was a white house in the country, with beautiful rolling hills in the distance.

"So the children played with the woolly lamb in the orchard, and they had a perfectly splendid time with him, but he somehow didn't seem to mind very much and didn't seem to enter into the proper spirit of their play. Yet when they would ask him if he didn't enjoy it and would pat him on his woolly head he would utter the cutest 'B-a-a!' you ever heard.

"But that was about all. He was about the quietest little lamb you ever saw around. When the children were not immediately about him he would just stand and stare off at the rolling hills in the distance as if he were sorry he was not up on their slopes gamboling with the other little lambs he saw there. He could see them there, gamboling and skipping and leaping about.

"So after a time I am afraid that the children grew to neglect him, and then he would just stand in the orchard and stare, and sometimes they forgot to bring him in, and he would be left out all night, and his beautiful wool grew all stringy, and he got to be about the most pathetic lamb in the world.

"And now he is up in a garret, and nobody has been to see him in a long time, for, you see, this woolly lamb was bought in a store."

No. 8994.

SIMPLE LINES FASHIONABLE.

Simple lines have been enjoying a very wide popularity this season, a fact that will be welcomed by those who make their own clothes. These simple lines show off to excellent advantage in Empire gowns. Ladies' Home Journal Pattern, No. 8994, above, has many of the earmarks of style, with its waist in overblouse effect, deep round yoke and full length sleeves set int large armholes. Two styles of collars are included in the pattern, one to be worn in either of two ways. The sleeves are perforated for shorter length, with turnback cuffs, and the skirt is in three gores, and can be made with or without trimming band and peplum. Sizes 32 to 44. Size 36 requires 5¼ yards 36-inch material, and 1⅛ yards 36-inch net for collar, yoke and sleeves.

Patterns may be obtained at the store of A. E. Force & Co.

PROCTOR'S THEATRE

Universal films will be featured at Proctor's theatre both this evening and at all shows tomorrow and photoplays which are up to the Proctor standard in every particular will be shown. Excellent programs have been arranged, as will be noted below.

For this evening, the sublime and the foolish follow one another, with the three act drama, "The Closing Chapter," as the feature picture. Life as we all find it is here portrayed in a production where photography, settings, the acting, the cast and the story all combine to give the patrons of the Proctor house a novel treat in this type of picture. The stellar roles are played by Murdoch McQuarrie and Miss Lehr.

"Behind the Screen," a comedy in two parts, with such comedians as Eddie Lyons, Lee Moran and Victoria Forde, will also be shown this evening, and a good round of laughs is guaranteed the most sober minded person that enters the house this evening. Coupled with these pictures is episode No. 6, of the "Romance of Elaine."

Tomorrow another excellent bill has been prepared and is headed with "The Prize Story," the Universal three part drama, with Harry Meyers and Rosemary Thelby in the leading parts, together with another episode of that wonderful serial photoplay, "The Goddess." Other pictures, including those of a comedy and travel type are also included in the bill for tomorrow.

The younger folks, as well as the older, should remember that the Proctor theatre is the only moving picture house in the city giving 10 votes with each ticket for the McKeon pony contest. These votes will continue without interruption until the close of the contest, and the advantage of these votes should be taken by all lovers of up-to-the-minute movies.

Glimpses of Married Life

BY MRS. EVA LEONARD

"Do you see that old man carrying those bundles?" Jo and Nell were sewing, sitting in the warm sunshine of Nell's porch.

"The one with the torn straw hat?" asked Nell.

"Yes," replied Jo; "he has a very pathetic history. He lives about five miles from here in a little dugout in the woods, and he never sees anyone except on his infrequent trips to town for supplies."

"Has he any money? How does he live?" Nell gazed after the bent old figure, toiling down the road in the bright sunshine.

"He has a small pension and he traps in the winter and sells his furs. Then he has a good garden on a sunny slope of the hill. He waters it from the river in dry seasons. That and the game he shoots—he is a good hunter—keep him supplied with food." Jo dropped her work in her lap and sat musing.

"Does he own the land on which he lives?" asked Nell.

"No, but he settled there when the country was new and land was plentiful. Judge Wallace owns it. He will never disturb him."

"What makes him live away off by himself?"

"It's a sad story," said Jo, musingly. "He was a strong young fellow, fine looking, they say, and steady as a clock. He was engaged to a young girl who lived on a neighboring farm. They had been playmates and he had always cared for her more than for anything else in the world. She was a giddy thing, fond of dress and amusement, but he paid such persistent court to her that she finally consented to marry him, partly because she had no other suitors, people thought. When the Civil war broke out he enlisted and was gone over three years. He had one or two furloughs and came home to see her, and everything seemed all right. During the last year of the war news came that he had been seriously wounded and was in a hospital in Washington. Finally he was sent on here to convalesce, and she learned that one eye had been hit with a fragment of a shell and torn from its socket and his face was otherwise disfigured.

"Nell, do you know when that shallow girl saw him she went into hysterics and had to be taken from the room. She screamed that she couldn't marry a man who looked like that."

"He wasn't blind entirely, was he?" asked Nell.

"No; he could have had a glass eye, too, and that would have improved his appearance; but probably she had never heard of a glass eye and he, when he saw that she didn't care for him, had no heart to do anything. He released her from the engagement, then had a relapse. He had been very sick and the ordeal was too much to endure in his weakened condition. When he finally crawled back into life all interest in everything, all ambition seemed to have dropped away from him. He made this dugout in the woods and has lived alone ever since."

"How terrible! What became of the girl?" asked Nell.

"She finally married a worthless man who drank and led her an awful life."

"One can't be very sorry for her after what she had done to ruin his life." Nell sat silent a while. "Some people never seem able to rally after a stunning blow like that. It's lack of spiritual resilience, I suppose, just as some people cannot rally physically from lack of vitality," she continued. "There comes Dick! Any mail?" she called. For answer he waved a letter.

"It's from Olive." Nell hurriedly tore open the envelope. "You'll excuse me, Jo, won't you? I must see if she says anything about coming."

The others watched her brightening expression and were prepared for the joyous announcement:

"Olive is coming to spend the month of June."

Household Hints..

LEATHER NOVELTY

A compact and complete pin case, which can be folded flat, so that it can be carried in a handbag or tucked into a suit case, is a little necessity that can be easily made.

To made, take two pieces of ribbon or silk about 3½ by 9½ inches. Overhand the two pieces together to the depth of five inches, then fold one end up 2¼ inches and stitch through the center to form two small pockets. Place two rows of stitching across the ribbons, three and six inches from the bottom. Put in a flat filling of lamb's wool and overhand the ends and the remainder of the silk together.

Along the edge of the cushion place black and white-headed pins, using the top of the cushion for safety pins, while ordinary pins can be slipped into the pockets by cutting the roll in two sections.

Fasten half of a snap to the pocket and the other half to the opposite end of the case. Fold the pockets over the cushion and then fold the top over and snap in place.

A case of this kind can be made of soft leather, using silk for the lining.

BATHROOM LINENS

In the days of the old tin tub almost anything in the way of a towel was good enough, so long as it was free from holes. The advent of sanitary plumbing, the white enamel tub and basin, the tile or tile-effect walls and the nickel and glass fixtures have made the up-to-date bathroom a different proposition. For instance, utility is no longer the sole standard by which the bathroom linens are judged. They must also harmonize with the enamel and glass fittings. As a result housewives now buy their towels in sets in white, with an initial or monogram in color. Many towel sets are bought in plain or fancy material without a monogram, which is worked by the housewife herself.

Bathroom sets of terry cloth are composed of two bath towels, a bath mat, and two face cloths, all with a plain or fancy border and an initial or monogram.

Jacquared figured bath towels are new and attractive. They have a deep pink or blue border and the hem is daintily embroidered in color. The edge is finished with a deep border of crochet of white and color. Turkish and huck towels are almost always embroidered in color and finished with a scalloped or crocheted edge.

FOR SLEEPY AFTERNOONS

Six and a holf dollars is the price of a chair for the beach or the garden that is a delight. It is made of canvas or awning cloth, fitted over a wooden frame, and there is a convenient little footrest that is adjustable to different heights. Moreover, there is an awning over the top that can be rolled up or down by means of cords that fasten to the arms of the chair. So if the sun is troublesome, a simple adjustment of the cords will shift the position of the awning.

WIRE NETS FOR FLOWERS

A little wire net to fit into any dish that holds flowers gives the dish wide possibilities. For with this net a flat dish can be made to hold tall flowers, and a few flowers can be gracefully arranged in a wide dish. These nets cost from fifteen or twenty cents up to four or five times as much, according to size.

INVALID BROTHS

A reliable canning firm put up invalid broth in small cans, each of which holds a cupful, for invalids' use. They are also useful for children, for often broth is desirable at the child's noon meal and is served at the general table only at night. Often, too, the family soup is too elaborate or rich for the child. These invalid broths come in chicken, clam and mutton flavors, and cost twelve or fifteen cents a can.

WOULD MAKE TARIFF NON-POLITICAL ISSUE

Movement Meeting With Enthusiastic Approval by the Entire Nation.

Chicago, Aug. 6.—The movement launched here a few weeks ago by leaders in American finance, industry and labor to take the whole subject of tariff out of politics and establish it as a special bureau, under competent direction, has met with great enthusiasm in all sections of the United States. A spontaneous demand has sprung up for the taking of tariff from the political forum, where it occupies a meaningless, misunderstood and misused position, nad putting it on a sound business basis. The time has arrived, say the leaders in the movement begun here, when the tariff should be put on a scientific basis, for the benefit of all the people, and not the favored few; and it is high time, they repeat, that the public know what tariff means and how it affects the economic advancement of the country.

Among those who have gone on record as favoring the proposal to establish a permanent non-partisan tariff commission are: President Nicholas N. Butler, of Columbia; President Arthur T. Hadley, of Yale; Dr. David Starr Jordan, of Leland Stanford University; President Frank J. Goodnow, of Johns Hopkins; President Benjamin Ide Wheeler, of the University of California; Cyrus H. McCormick, of International Harvester Company; John J. Gannon, president of the Hibernian Bank, New Orleans; W. H. Marshall, president of the American Locomotive Company; Senator Lawrence Y. Sherman and John V. Farwell, a Chicago banker.

James J. Hill has agreed to take the chairmanship of the advisory committee, which is now being formed. Mr. Hill has contributed to a fund to back a national campaign to divorce tariff from politics. Others who contributed, and who are enthusiastic over the movement, are: George W. Perkins and William H. Childs, of New York; Henry Walters, of Baltimore; E. P. Ripley, Victor F. Lawson, E. J. Buffington, Frank G. Logan and Clarence S. Funk, of Chicago.

The Tariff Commission League is the name of the organization which will conduct the campaign to make the tariff a non-partisan issue and base tariffs on scientific data, gathered without political, sectional or economic prejudice, as to the revenue needs of the government, trades conditions affecting the various industries, and the proportions luxuries should bear.

The men who are behind the movement are seeking to make it sweepingly representative of the people of the United States, and not narrowly representative of any one interest or set of interests. It is intended to have agriculture, labor manufacturing, transportation, commerce and higher education represented in the advisory board, which will direct the campaign to force Congress to act.

"The movement is not for the exploitation of any theory, either of high or low tariff, or free trade," said President Howard H. Gross, of the league, when interviewed this week. "It seems to provide a means by which future tariff adjustments shall be based on full facts and detailed analysis, and shall be made in the interests of the people as a whole. It is surely the plainest kind of common sense that the tariff should be a matter of business, not a football of politics.

"Any well-informed person knows that our American tariff system, or lack of it, is about the worst in the world. It is unjust and unfair; it is demoralizing, wasteful, wholly unsuited to modern conditions, and is a serious handicap to progress. In thirty years of tinkering no one is satisfied. Industry has been demoralized more than once, and we have just been through a period of depression, which many ascribe to the fear of the tariff.

"We suggest the formation of a commission as a bureau of the government, to control the tariff. Our suggestion is to pay the Commissioners $12,000 a year, and secure men representing labor, agriculture, industry and trade. Let them engage investigators and experts, gather statistics and figure the tariff question out on unprejudiced, scientific lines. Let them know to a nicety the cost of production at home and abroad, and fix the rate of tariff.

"We have tried the political plan of tariff making and of tariff tinkering, and it has proven a failure. Why not try another plan?"

SEWER BONDS TO BE INCREASED

Bids for $35,000 Worth Will Be Opened in North Plainfield on August 27.

ROUTINE OF COUNCIL

Provision Made for Signing of Warrants During Illness of Collector Brown—Wilson Avenue Residents Want Street Macadamized.

The monthly meeting of the North Plainfield Common Council last night had to do mostly with finance. Disbursements of over $30,000, for salaries, sewer expenses, etc., were ordered made, and a bond issue of $35,000 was decided upon.

Any embarrassment that might have been occasioned in the borough through the inability of Collector George F. Brown, who is ill, to sign warrants was obviated by an action taken by the Council, in which Mrs. Brown or some other competent person was authorized to sign checks, etc., with a rubber stamp bearing the words, "George F. Brown, Collector," and done in his presence. This will enable the borough to pay its bills and meet its obligations for the month as usual. It was feared yesterday that Mr. Brown's illness might hold up all disbursements.

Fred Becker, overseer of the poor, asked for the transfer of $300 to the borough poor fund. This was granted.

The contract with Alfred De Nyse for the Summit avenue storm sewer work was reported as executed, and the same was ordered filed.

Several residents of Walnut street petitioned that the sewer be extended through that street. This, as well as a similar petition from the Wheeler Corporation, the sewer committee reported, could not be granted until after the present sewer system is completed, which will be some time next year. A petition from Wilson avenue residents that the avenue be macadamized was referred to the street committee.

Deeds for a sewer right of way were reported received from William L. Smalley and wife and T. F. Harrington and wife. Another deed, from the Washington Realty Company, which is also to be executed, was not presented last night, so the Smalley and Harrington deeds will not be recorded until the other one is in hand.

Reporting an expenditure of $761.54 on the streets last month, the street committee stated that favorable progress on the Summit avenue storm sewer work is being made.

An expenditure of $556.12 was reported for July from the police committee. The fire and water committee, through Chairman Julius J. Stahl, reported expenses of $352.97.

Councilman U. G. Tingley introduced a resolution for the issuing of $35,000 worth of sewer bonds, which was adopted. This issue, together with the $100,000 already sold, will leave only $15,000 remaining to be issued out of the $150,000 voted over a year ago. These bonds will mature, $1,000 annually, from the years 1918 to 1953. Bids will be advertised for, and Friday evening, August 27, is the date set for receiving the bids. The successful bidder will be expected to take over the Farmers' Loan and Trust Company, of New York, September 3.

Bills totalling $2,748.50 were ordered paid upon resolution of Chairman Tingley, of the audit and finance committee. To Sewer Contractors Harrison & Burton, the sum of $15,305.75 was ordered paid; to Frank Puglio, $5,970.18; to George W. Fuller, the engineer, $1,501.83, and to the several inspectors, the lump sum of $904.46.

In anticipation of sewer assessments and sewer connection fees, the sum of $37,500 was ordered borrowed. This is the full 75 per cent. of the sum expected, all that the law allows. The amount reckoned on from sewer assessments, etc., is $50,000.

Borough Engineer H. C. Van Emburgh was employed to prepare sewer assessment maps for the sum of $827. These maps will be very complete in every detail, and will be in two sets, one for the "East Side" and the other for the section of the borough west of Somerset street. The estimates were for $382 and $445, respectively.

North Plainfield's share for the joint sewer, last month, is $3,809.04. It was ordered paid. Plainfield's share is $10,360.60, and Dunellen's, $1,066.53. Council adjourned to meet Friday evening, August 27, at 8 o'clock, when the bond bids will be opened.

CORNERSTONE LAID FOR GLOEKLER BUILDING

Rev. George Hauser Presides at Ceremony, With C. W. Krausse as Mason.

The cornerstone of the new Gloekler building, West Front and Somerset streets, was laid this morning with simple ceremonies. The Rev. George Hauser, pastor of the German Reformed church, was in charge and made a brief address, after which a tin box, containing a miscellaneous assortment of papers, coins, etc., was sealed and deposited in the stone. The stone, a fine block of granite, bearing on its outside surface the numerals '1915," was set at the extreme westerly end of the Front street wall.

Mr. Hauser said that the site of the Gloekler building is one of historic interest, congratulated the city of Plainfield on having the fine new building added to its business places, and praised Christian Gloekler, the owner.

C. William Krausse made the tin box and acted as master workman during the ceremonies, sealing the box after the contents had been placed therein and depositing it in the stone.

In the cornerstone were placed a list of members of Jerusalem Lodge, No. 26, F. and A. M., and several of the names of members of Anchor Lodge, No. 149, of this city, and a complete roster of Schiller Lodge, No. 66, of Newark, to which Mr. Gloekler belongs.

There was a letter of congratulation from the officials of the United Cigars Stores Company, a copy of the Plainfield Daily Press and the Plainfield Courier-News for Friday, August 6, and a copy of this morning's New York Staats-Zeitung. Two photographs of the old building which graced the site before arrangements to build the new structure were made, the business cards or the names of all the contractors and subcontractors on the job and the following list of coins were also placed in the box:

A 1914 twenty-five cent piece, a 1906 dime, a 1899 nickel, and a 1905 penny, a French 10-centimes, 1854; a German, 10-pfd., 1893; a 5-pfd., 1900; a 2-pfd., 1875, and a 1-pfd., 1887, and an English penny, dated 1891.

ELMER HUNTING MAKING GOOD AT BATTLE CREEK

"Welfare Bulletin," the publication issued at the Battle Creek Sanatorium, in the August issue contains some interesting information about Elmer Hunting, son of Arthur C. Hunting, of West Fourth street, this city. The young man is a graduate of the Plainfield High School, having been valedictorian of the class of 1912, and has many friends in this city. He is employed as one of the bellboys at the sanatorium and his picture appears with a group of them in the bulletin. The following comment regarding the local boy is of especial interest:

"The efficiency of this department is all the more remarkable because of the average length of service is small. In the school year, the boys who work evenings and Saturdays are in High School. One boy, Elmer Hunting, is a student at Alfred University, Alfred, N. Y. He will graduate next June. In one summer vacation he earned $185 as a sanatorium bellboy. He is as full of energy and ambition as an egg is of meat, and runs up a large total of calls. Overtime has no terrors for him. The chances are that he will amount to far more in his maturity than the college boy who receives a big allowance from pap and spends the summer lounging in white flannels."

In another part of the article it tells of one boy who ran up a total of 214 calls in fourteen hours, and this also was the local young man.

FUNERAL SERVICE FOR FATHER OF LOCAL MAN

Phillipsburg, Aug. 7.—The funeral of William Wilson was held at 10:30 o'clock this morning from his home in Bloomsbury. Services were conducted by Rev. J. E. Jamieson, pastor of the Bloomsbury Methodist Episcopal church, and interment will be made at Hazen. Mr. Wilson died Wednesday after a long illness.

He was sixty-one years old and is survived by a widow, a son, George Wilson, of Plainfield, and a brother, Peter Wilson, of Washington, N. J.

THREE EXCURSIONS TO GO NEXT WEEK

Reports Indicate Three Big Crowds Will Visit Asbury Park.

From reports received from the committees in charge of the three excursions to be run from this city next week Plainfield will present a deserted appearance on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, many of the population selecting at least one day and many two to spend at the seashore. The almanac says the weather will be clear, and many hope to get their initial coat of tan and sunburn on those days. The time schedules are as follows:

Tuesday, Watchung Council, No. 552, Knights of Columbus, three sections, forty-five cars, including baggage room. Trains leave Grant avenue, 7:45, and North avenue, 8 a. m. Returning, leave Asbury Park, 6:30 p. m. Outing will include Sunday-schools from Plainfield, North Plainfield, South Plainfield, Stony Hill, Dunellen, Scotch Plains and Netherwood.

Thursday, Sunday-schools of Trinity Reformed church, Netherwood Reformed church, Marconnier chapel and Mt. Pleasant chapel. Trains leave Plainfield at 8:15. Leave Asbury Park, 7:10 p. m.

Saturday, Hope chapel. The longest day at the seashore. Leave Grant avenue, 7:56, and North avenue, at 8 a. m.. Leave Asbury Park at 8 p. m. The only Saturday excursion.

HARRY KESSELRING DIED AT BONNIE BURN YESTERDAY

Harry Kesselring, formerly of 59 Duer street, died yesterday afternoon in Bonnie Burn Sanatorium, where he had been an inmate. He was born in this city thirty-five years ago and had made his home here all his life. A large circle of friends and acquaintances throughout the city and borough will mourn his death and extend the deepest sympathy to the bereaved wife and family.

Beside his wife he is survived by one brother, Frank Kesselring, and his mother, Mrs. Caroline Kesselring, of 25 Chatham street, the borough.

Mr. Kesselring was a carpet layer by trade, being employed in the carpet department of the Woodhull & Martin Company for a number of years and was actively engaged in this business up to the time of his removal to the institution where he died. The funeral will be held from the residence of his mother at 25 Chatham street, on Monday afternoon at 2:30. Rev. Charles H. Kues, pastor of the Holy Cross Episcopal church, will conduct the service. Burial will be made in Hillside cemetery.

MRS. TULLY'S FUNERAL.

The funeral of Mrs. Ellen Tully, wife of John Tully, whose death occurred Wednesday, was held from the late home, 532 Belvidere avenue, at 8 o'clock this morning and later at St. Mary's church, where a solemn requiem mass was celebrated. Rev. Father Sciolla acted as celebrant, Rev. Father MacDonald, deacon, and Rev. Father Oates, of Philadelphia, a nephew of the deceased, sub-deacon. The floral offerings were especially noteworthy, many handsome pieces coming from relatives and friends in this city and New York. The body was taken this morning to Brooklyn and interment will be made this afternoon in Calvary cemetery.

FUNERAL OF LUELLA RUNYAN.

The funeral of Luella Runyan, the six year old daughter of Ralph, and the late Minnie Runyan, was held from the home of her father, 62 Manning avenue, the borough, this afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. J. Tucker Lansdale, pastor of the Marconnier Reformed church, of Oak Tree, ocifiiated at the service. Burial was made in Hillside cemetery.

COLLECTOR'S CONDITION.

Collector George F. Brown, of North Plainfield, who is ill, was reported as holding his own today. Miss Julia Williams, his efficient clerk and stenographer, who has a thorough working knowledge of all Mr. Brown's business affairs, is in charge of the office.

INSPECTING BRIDGE.

Several members of the Somerset County Board of Freeholders are at Warrenville today making an inspection of the bridge below the Correy mill dam which was washed away in the flood Wednesday. A new bridge will have to be built.

BOSCH MAGNETO CO. GRANTS 8-HOUR DAY

Spicer Manufacturing Company is Now the Only One to Be Heard From.

In accordance with a decision arrived at during a conference this morning the Bosch Magneto Company, with factory and offices on South avenue, will inaugurate a forty-eight hour weekly schedule among its machinists beginning August 19. Hugh Riley, business agent for the Machinists' Union, District No. 47, and Thomas E. Carroll, representing the International Machinists' Union, met the officials of the plant by appointment this morning for the purpose of discussing the machinists 'eight-hour day demand and the conclusion arrived at is entirely satisfactory to all concerned.

Although it was originally proposed to have all of the eight-hour schedules go into effect August 15, the Bosch officials requested that this action be deferred until the regular pay day of the concern, four days later, and the respite was granted.

A full report of the meeting will be submitted to the Machinists' Union at a meeting called for Monday night and it is expected that by that time the Spicer Manufacturing Company will have announced their decision on the eight-hour day proposition. The returns from the Bosch Magneto Company make a unanimous accession to the machinists' demand in Plainfield almost a certainty, as a favorable reply is anticipated from the Spicer concern.

WOMEN'S HOME MISSIONS TO MEET AT MT. TABOR

The Mt. Tabor anniversary of the Newark Conference of Women's Home Missions will be held at the latter place on Friday, August 13. Trains will leave Mt. Tabor at 10:29 a m. The morning session will begin at 10:30, speakers being Miss Emily Fox, deaconess; Mrs. Margaret Dye Ellis, national superintendent of legislative section of the W. C. T. U.

In the afternoon, through the courtesy of Mrs. Doremus, the Mt. Tabor visitors will be taken to her home at Mt. Lake for an informal outing. Rev. Dr. Charles M. Boswell, corresponding secretary of the Board of Home Missions of the Methodist church, will be the speaker at the evening meeting.

POST OFFICE GRANITE WILL SOON BE ON GROUNDS

The wet weather has hindered the bricklaying on the new postoffice job somewhat, as bricklayers cannot work in the rain, and the bricks get so saturated with moisture that they cannot be laid in wet weather. The steel for the building has not been heard from, but the granite may be expected early next week, as word was received from the quarries this week that the granite would soon be shipped. It was thought that when the message was sent the stone was loaded on the cars.

WALTER J. BURGESS.

The funeral of Walter J. Burgess, who died yesterday morning after a brief illness, will be held from his late residence, 718 West Front street, Monday afternoon at 8 o'clock. Rev. G. Daeuble, pastor of St. Peter's Lutheran church, of the borough, will conduct the services Interment will be in Hillside cemetery. Mr. Burgess leaves a wife and two children, Lillian and Walter, Jr.

CHILDREN'S PICNIC TOMORROW.

The children's picnic of the Saengerbunds will be held tomorrow at Interhaven Grove. This is the picnic which was interrupted last Sunday by the rain.

INCREASE IN CENSUS WILL RAISE SALARIES

Judge Hetfield and Clerk Adams, of the District Court, Benefit Here.

Plainfield's 4,025 increase in population brought out by the State census recently completed carries with it an automatic increase in the salaries of District Court Judge Walter L. Hetfield and Clerk Horace J. Adams in accordance with the state law fixing the salaries of District Court officers. Up to the present time the city has been classed under 23,000, but the jump from 20,550 to 24,575 places it in the salary class of cities ranging between 23,000 and 25,000.

Judge Hetfield's annual salary will go from $1,500 to $2,000 and Mr. Adams' will advance from $750 to $900. Had 500 more names been recorded by the state enumerators the judge's salary in the future would have been $2,500 and that of the clerk $1,200.

The increased population of the county, going over the 150,000 will also bring raises for Judge James C. Connolly, Prosecutor Alfred A. Stein and Assistant Prosecutor Martin O'Connor. Each of these officials will get a raise of $500 per year.

EXCITEMENT CAUSED BY RUNAWAY OVER BROOK

A runaway which was highly amusing to those who looked on, but which was seen from a different viewpoint by the interested parties, took place in North Plainfield this morning.

A wagon, belonging to S. Joseph, of Cranford, was delivering goods on Watchung avenue, north of Chatham street. Becoming frightened suddenly, the horse dashed away, running south on Watchung avenue to Chatham street, then turning west at the corner. Seeing the door of Jeremiah O'Connor's blacksmith shop at 36 Chatham street, standing invitingly open, the horse turned and loped rapidly through the big double door, on through the shop and out at the other end. But the wagon was left behind.

Howard Cooper was shoeing a horse, and had barely time to dodge out of the way. The horse getting shod jumped and pranced about and threatened to crush Mr. Cooper against the wall. The proprietor of the shop was busy at the forge and had to do some rapid moving to escape the runaway. The wagon top was too high to permit the wagon to pass out of the door. The harness broke and the wagon was left behind.

The horse ran for some distance before being captured. Mr. O'Connor has demanded payment of the owner of the rig.

STATE PAINTERS WILL HOLD CONFERENCE HERE

Journeymen painters from all over the State will meet in Plainfield tomorrow for a conference. The delegates will number about forty, and the meeting will be held in Building Trades Council Hall.

The business session will take place in the morning between 10:30 and 12:30 o'clock. In the afternoon the delegates will be taken for an automobile ride through the surrounding country, several business men having donated the use of their motor cars for the purpose. New York and Brooklyn will also be represented at the conference. Arrangements for the delegates' entertainment will be made by Painters' Local No. 480, of this city.

SUFFRAGISTS MEETING WILL HEAR DR. AND MRS. HERVEY

Except in case of cloud burst the suffragists will meet at the postoffice this evening. The speakers will be Dr. Walter L. Hervey and his wife, Mrs. Antoinette B. Hervey. Dr. Hervey is on the Board of Examiners of the city schools of New York. He was formerly president of the Horace Mann School and is joint author of the Horace Mann readers. The couple were largely responsible for the success of the Child Welfare Exhibition some years ago.

Mrs. Hervey is a lecturer on child labor and kindred subjects. She is recording secretary of the Collegiate League for Woman Suffrage in New York, and both Dr. and Mrs. Hervey are active in all good works.

SORE ARMS SERVE AS "GENTLE" REMINDERS

Other Places Besides Plainfield Taking Precautions Against Small-pox.

Sore arms are almost as plentiful in Plainfield today as raindrops have been during the past fortnight. On every hand may be heard complaints, indicating that the wholesale vaccination has had its desired effect. Meanwhile Health Officer Chandler's campaign to wipe out any possibility of further cases of smallpox continues, and the remainder of the police force visited the hospital this afternoon to receive vacine treatment. The original estimate that 500 vaccinations would be performed has been reached, and it is expected that when full returns are received from the local hospital, Piscataway township and Middlesex county, the number will surpass by a good-sized margin that figure.

In a number of incidents signs of "taking" have not been felt by the vaccinated patients, and a number of duplications were recorded today. Those individuals who have felt no bad effects from the operation are aware of the fact that the vaccine has not had its desired effect, and conequently they are returning for another dose, not because they are paticularly fond of the treatment, but because they want to be on the safe side if an epidemic of the dreaded malady breaks out.

In speaking with a Daily Press reporter this morning, Health Officer Chandler stated that every known means of preventing further trouble had been used, but declared that he would not let up in his vigilance until after the nineteen-day period of observation had expired. It is possible for the disease to develope within three days after infection, while on the other hand it may make its appearance up to nineteen days afterwards.

FRESH AIR CAMP HAVING ONE OF ITS BEST YEARS

A. E. Ainslie, of Bayonne, will be the speaker at the afternoon service held in the Netherwood Fresh Air Home tomorrow. Mr. Ainslie is a gifted speaker for children and no doubt many who are interested in work for the young people will avail themselves of this opportunity of hearing him. The services during the week will be under the auspices of the young people's societies of the Trinity and First Baptist churches.

The Home is in the middle of one of the busiest seasons in its history, and the results are very gratifying to Miss Curry, who is in charge. Many boys and girls who have been brought to the Home sick, are being returned to their parents well and strong; many have come to the Home with a very narrow view of the great things of life, the things which are really worth while, without any religious training; these have been helped through the kindly administrations of those who have been good enough to lend their services to the work in various ways, namely, leading services, singing and doing the little kindly things that have helped those who have been less fortunate than others to enjoy all these privileges.

ORANGE COUNTY FUGITIVE ARRESTED IN THIS CITY

Wanted by the police of Orange county, New York, to face an indictment charging him with deserting a baby, Carl W. Weigand, who has bee nliving in Plainfield, was arrested by the local police this morning and held by Judge DeMeza to await the arrival of a sheriff from that place.

Weigand has long been sought by the Orange county authorities and it was only yesterday that it was learned that he was living here. A warrant was subsequently forwarded to Chief Kiely and he had the man picked up.

FINED IN ROSELLE.

STORM HEIGHT ON CARSO PLATEAU

Italians Now Control Land Dominating Gorizia—Lose Another Submarine.

RUSSIANS STAND SIEGE

Prepare for Desperate Resistance in Fortress of Novo Georgievsk—Expect Balkan League After Being Renewed Will Aid Allies.

London, Aug. 7.—Italian troops have won a most important victory on the Carso plateau by storming and occupying the Austrian positions on Monte San Michele. These works have been the key to the control of the plateu and dominate Gorizia, the capture of which, according to a Paris despatch announcing the capture of the height, now seems assured. Gorizia is twenty-two miles northwest of Trieste and its occupation would be a great step forward in the Italian designs on the Austrian port.

Austrian and Italian submarines have engaged in another duel in the Adriatic, according to another special despatch received in Paris. This reports that the Italian submarine Nereide encountered an Austrian submarine off Pelagosa and was sunk. The Nereide was launched this year, was 134 feet long, and carried a crew of seventeen men.

With the Russian forces which held Warsaw now safe across the Vistula in Praga, Grand Duke Nicholas has left a strong force in the fortress of Novo Georgievsk, a few miles northwest of the Polish capital, to stand siege there. The Germans are reported already to have invested the fortress.

In the Narew region the Germans are continuing their attack, and at the Niemen it is reported their advance i causing the Russians to prepare to evacuate Kovno. According to a despatch to the Daily Mail from Copenhagen the Governor, his staff and the banks have left the city.

The decision of the Grand Duke Nicholas to hold Novo Georgievsk is expected to embarrass the enemy, as the fortress blocks the free use of the Vistula and the railway from East Prussia by the invaders. The garrison is strong and well provisioned. The permanent defences of Novo Georgievsk have been strengthened by great earthworks.

The situation in the north, according to some of the leading military observers, is the most menacing which faces the Russians. General von Buelow has been halted there but it is expected that he is preparing a heavy attack. The military correspondent of the Times asserts that only by strong action in the north can the Germans achieve the decisive victory which the German situation demands.

It is reported that a renewal of the Balkan League, bringing in all those countries on the side of the Allies, is in sight. It is expected that the labors of the ministers of the Quadruple Entente will result in Roumania entering the league, with Serbia, Montenegro, Greece and Bulgaria. Much depends upon Bulgaria, which is seeking concessions in Macedonia from both Serbia and Greece, which these countries are reluctant to yield.

In the Argonne and on the Heights of the Meuse there has been much fighting without change on either side. The Germans have bombarded the French trenches on the western side of the Argonne with great violence, using shells of all calibres. The French have replied with their artillery and trench guns. There have also been artillery combats of marked intensity in Artois, between the Somme and the Oise, and in the valley of the Aisne.

Emperor Francis Joseph, of Austria, is reported to be ill again. A despatch received in Amsterdam from Vienna says that the aged ruler has suffered a severe chill and is confined to his bed.

POLICE BELIEVE BAD GANG HAS BEEN ROUTED FOR GOOD

What the police believe to be their last step toward breaking up the gang of rowdies in the business section was accomplished last night with the arrest of John Boyle, alleged to be one of the ring-leaders, who was committed to the county jail for sixty days by Judge DeMeza this morning. Mike Comiskey, another leader of the group of panhandlers and "curb ornaments," was sent to Elizabeth for a similar term on Monday.

Chief Kiely and his men have been trying to put a stop to the practise of panhandling and Boyle and Comiskey were singled out as the chief offenders several months ago.

"BROTHERLY LOVE" AS SHOWN IN GALLAGHER FAMILY

John Gallagher, of Gallagher's Corner, was arraigned yesterday afternoon in Judge David S. Campbell's court on a complaint made by Michael A. Gallagher, a brother, alleging that he attacked him with a pitchfork yesterday morning. He was released under a bond of $200 to await the action of the Grand Jury. The bond was furnished by David Kuldoshes, of North avenue.

Michael Gallagher told a reporter last evening that he wanted all of the property and monies of Ellen Gallagher's estate turned over to Dr. W. J. Nelson, as trustee, for the welfare of Patrick Henry Gallagher, a brother, who is an invalid, with the understanding that the property and any money remaining in the event of this brother's death should revert to the heirs.

Four of the nine heirs agreed to this and four would not, and Mr. Gallagher then asked for a settlement of his share of the estate. As a result an agreement was made between Mr. Gallagher and the other eight sisters and brothers through Rene P. F. von Minden and Martin Stutsman, attorneys, of Plainfield, whereby Mr. Gallagher was to receive $800. According to this agreement Mr. Gallagher was also granted the right to remove his personal effects and property, including a cow and calf, from the Gallagher place without any interferencec.

Yesterday morning Mr. Gallagher was notified to remove all of his property, including this live stock. The latter, however, had been removed from the barn on the estate and placed in a barn belonging to John and William Gallagher. Mr. Gallagher and a companion went to the barn and were met by John Gallagher with a pitch-fork in his hand. He told Michael to clear out and let his companion get the stock. Michael refused, whereupon John is alleged to have hit him three times with the handle and prongs of the pitch-fork.

Among the witnesses of the affair were Borough Engineer L. T. Churchill, his assistant, Paul Whitford, and Sewer Inspector Lewis Vossler, all engaged in sewer work near the battle ground.

CAPTAIN COLE SPRAINED ANKLE DURING STORM

Captain B. A. Cole, of Washington avenue, broke his ankle Thursday night and will be kept away from his duties as captain on one of the Twenty-third street ferryboats of the Central Railroad for two months at least.

The captain went to his barn during the heavy rain. He jumped across a puddle and in landing his ankle turned under him and he fell to the ground. Dr. Longbothum encased the ankle in a plaster cast last evening. Prior to doing this he took an X-ray photograph of the fracture.

Miss Alice Apgar, of Front street, is spending two weeks at Delaware Water Gap.

Mrs. William Shively and daughter, Miss Helen, of Fairview avenue, will visit relatives through Hunterdon and Warren counties next week.

Mrs. Hicks-Barrow and children, Oxford and Maryland, of Prospect avenue, are away for two weeks visiting relatives at Arlington and Brooklyn.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Apgar and children, of Elizabeth, visited Mr. Apgar's mother, Mrs. Martha Apgar, of Front street, Thursday.

Contractor Victor D. Schomp, of New Market, is repainting the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Abram Van Arsdale on Front street.

Mrs. John P. Fenner and daughters, of Washington avenue, are spending several weeks at Califon.

Charles Blumenauer, of Brooklyn, a former resident of the borough, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin C. Carpenter, of Prospect avenue.

Miss Jeanette Neighbour, of Mountainview terrace, has returned from Scranton, Pa., where she spent a week visiting friends.

Mrs. James Smedley and children, of New York, have arrived in the borough to spend the remainder of the summer with Mrs. John Smedley, of Prospect avenue.

Herman Beller has been visiting Frank Benwell, Jr., of Norton.

Joseph Penrose has secured employment at the Binghamton N. Y.) Bridge Company, and he and his wife have gone there to live.

A week from tomorrow the members of the Young Men's Bible class, of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, will enjoy their annual outing at Palisade's Park. The round trip will be made in an auto truck.

Rev. T. E. Vassar, Sr., of Elizabeth, will occucpy the pulpit of the First Baptist church at both services tomorrow. Mr. Vassar, who retired from active service several years ago, is the father of the pastor of the church, who is on his annual vacation.

A play entitled, "A Case of Suspension," will be given by the young people of the Seventh-Day Baptist Christian Endeavor Society in the church parlors Tuesday evening. Ice cream will be for sale on the lawn after the entertainment.

Mrs. Lewis D. Walker, of New Market road, is able to be up and about her home following an operation a little over a month ago.

Byron Burdick has accepted a position with the New Market Supply Company.

Former Freeholder George S. Bunting has recovered from his recent illness.

Mrs. William J. Davenport and daughter, Miss Helen, of Grove street, departed yesterday for Pittstown to visit relatives. Mrs. Davenport will return tomorrow. Her daughter will remain two weeks. Miss Davenport will attend the Flemington Fair.

Leslie Latham, of Grove street, has returned from his vacation fishing trip through Maine. It is reported that he devastated the streams of fish.

Walter Bowlby, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bowlby, of Washington avenue, has gone to Califon to spend a week with W. E. Terry and family, of this place, who are spending the summer there.

Charles Braun, of Prospect avenue has been detained for the past several days from his duties at the plant of the Spicer Manufacturing Company in South Plainfield.

Lewis Johnson, of North avenue has returned from Stanton, where he spent a week visiting Dr. F. L. Johnson.

Miss Gertrude Hughes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Hughes, of Greenbrook road, is spending two weeks at Brunswick, Me.

William D. Steckley, pastor of the M. E. church at Lebanon, will occupy the pulpit of the local M. E. church tomorrow at the union services of the M. E. and Presbyterian churches. The morning service will commence at 11 o'clock and the evening service at 7 o'clock.

SOME EXCITEMENT.

Local police headquarters received word last evening that a woman was screaming as if an attempt had been made to murder her in a boarding-house on North avenue, just east of Madison, and that a man had been seen leaving the back door of the place following the first screams. The policemen responded to the call, headed by Chief Marshal Mohan. They found the woman crying hysterically. Marshal Shugars asked her what was the trouble. With a volley of oaths she asked if she didn't have a right to cry in her own house if she wanted to.

Other occupants of the house said the woman was subject to hysterical attacks. The neighbors say that they would like to have these outbursts stopped. The man who darted out of the house following the first screams of the woman is believed to have been her husband.

The marshals collecting delinquent poll taxes say that they shortly expect to have a clean slate.

Mrs. George M. Miller and child, of Plainfield, visited Mrs. Miller's parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Frescoim, of New Market road, Thursday.

With the authorizing of the placing of an arc light at the corner of Martine and North avenues by the Borough Council, a number of local residents have accomplished a thing that they have agitated for three or four years. It will be swung over the street and take the place of two ordinary lights. It is a dangerous corner, made doubly so by the heavy traffic, and with better illumination by night, the likelihood of collisions will be materially diminished.

Fanwood borough can now boast of a population of slightly over 700, as although the census enumerator has turned in a figure of one less, the arrival of several newcomers, including one infant, sways the tide ahead. It is an increase of a little over 225 since 1910, and when it is considered that the population did not vary twenty for more than a decade before that, the size of the boom led by H. C. Lockwood for the past four years can be appreciated. The township, with about the same increase as the borough, has nearly reached the 2,000 mark, and will have grown the necessary thirty in another six months after new houses now being built are ready for occupancy.

Traces of the terrific rainstorm that passed over this section last Wedneday are beginning to disappear. After two days' work the borough and township street departments have about mended the washouts in the roads and sidewalks, and residents along Green Brook are making repairs. The bridge on the property on Francis Henderson, which was washed away by the freshet, is being rebuilt. The land, which was just above where Cook's dam, which broke, is a swamp, as there is nothing to hold the water until the county rebuilds the structure.

A regular routine session of the Township Committe was held in Excelsior Hall last night. Nothing of importance came up. The usual bills were audited.

OUR CITIZEN'S DEMAND.

Fully Complied With—A Plainfield Resident Furnished It.

There are few items which appear in this paper more important to Plainfield people than the statement published below. In the first place, it is from a citizen of Plainfield and can be thoroughly relied upon. In the second place, it indisputably proves that Doan's Kidney Pills do their work thoroughly and not temporarily. Read this carefully:

Mrs. S. Driscoll, 540 West Front street, Plainfield, says: "I had a dull pain across the small of my back and in my sides that clung to me constantly and any hard work made me worse. I was subject to headaches and dizzy spells, especially when stooping or lifting, and I felt weak and run down. I tried plasters and other medicines, but nothing helped me until I procured Doan's Kidney Pills at Randolph's Drug Store. They made a lasting cure."

Price 50 cents, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Driscoll had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.—Adv.

SOMERSET COUNCIL WILL HOLD ATHLETIC OUTING

Somerset Council, No. 104, Jr. O. U. A. M., will hold an athletic meet at Wayside Park next Saturday afternoon and evening. In the afternoon the athletic events will be as follows: 100 yard (handicap) dash, tug-of-war, between married and single men; quoit match; one mile run (handicap); shoe race, boys and girls under sixteen; baseball.

The evening's program includes dancing and the finals in three of the athletic events, the 100 yard (handicap), one mile run and 225 ward (scratch), open to juniors only.

The Misses Kitty and May Kiernan, of Newark, are spending the week-end visiting Mrs. T. W. Nolan, of Arlington avenue.

SWISS ARMY AS MODEL FOR OURS

With 3,700,000 Inhabitants Has Force of 262,000.

READY FOR INSTANT SERVICE

If This Country Had as Many Soldiers in Proportion to Its Size as Has Switzerland the Army Would Consist of About 8,000,000 Men—Reserve Would Also Be Large.

The Swiss system of military training has been held up by Theodore Roosevelt and other advocates of universal military education for the United States as a model to be followed.

The little republic, with an area of 15,976 square miles and a population of 3,700,000, has an army, ready for war, of 262,000 men of all branches of the service and a further unorganized reserve of 110,000 men, who have all had military training.

The United States, with an area upward of 3,000,000 square miles and a population of 100,000,000, has a regular army of 85,000.

Here is how Switzerland creates by universal compulsory personal military service an efficient army of citizen soldiers, for the Swiss army is purely a militia force:

Every Swiss male citizen is bound to render personal military service between the ages of twenty-two and forty-eight. Only high federal officials and clergymen not serving as chaplains, policemen and officials of public means of communication, whose services would be indispensable in times of war, are exempted.

Must Report at Twenty.

Every young man who has reached the age of twenty must report at the various canton headquarters for medical and literary examination. The gymnastic tests that qualify for service are as follows:

A running broad jump of not less than eight feet, lifting at least four times a weight of about thirty-seven pounds in both hands at once and running about eighty yards in less than fourteen seconds. Those falling below a certain standard are exempted, but may be "postponed" for not more than four years in the hope of coming up to the standard.

Those who are totally disqualified must pay a tax of 6 francs up to the time they are forty years of age plus 1½ francs for each 1,000 francs net property and 1½ francs for every 100 francs net income.

About 30,000 candidates report for service each year under this system. In order to keep down the expense as much as possible the tests for entering the army are made as severe as possible. Every opportunity is given the young men after they reach the age of eighteen to prepare for entering the army, and the government assists gymnastic and school organizations to fit the candidates to pass the examinations. About 55 per cent of the candidates are accepted, 15 per cent are "postponed" and 30 per cent exempted wholly.

Divided Into Three Classes.

By the law of 1907 the Swiss army is divided into three classes—the auszug, or elite, comprising men from twenty to thirty-two years of age; the landwehr, men from thirty-three to forty years, and the landsturm, men between forty-one and forty-eight years.

The recruits serve for different periods during their first year, according to the arm of the service into which they are incorporated—infantry and engineers sixty-five days, artillery and garrison troops seventy-five days and cavalry ninety days, while those in the auxiliary troops serve but sixty days.

Soldiers in the elite are called out seven times during their term of service for a period of eleven days a year (fourteen days for the artillery and garrison troops), while the landwehr is called out only once for a training period of eleven days.

Cavalrymen serve ten years in the elite (no service in the landwehr) and during that period are called out eight times for training periods of eleven days. Between the ages of twenty and forty each soldier must attain a certain proficiency in marksmanship, while there is an annual inspection of arms, uniforms and equipment. The confederation also makes money grants to rifle societies.

Rifle and uniform become the full property of the soldier after he has completed his full term of service. Officers serve in the elite to thirty-eight years of age and the landwehr till forty-four, while they remain in the landsturm till fifty-two years of age.

10,000 MEN BUILD ROAD.

Officials of All Sorts Help to Make Interstate Highway.

When 10,000 volunteer workers engaged in the construction of an interstate highway between Paducah, Ky., and Memphis, Tenn., laid down their picks and shovels after a day's work they had completed, in its most important details, the entire roadway over its length of 150 miles.

Congressmen, judges, city and county officials along the line of the highway were among the most active of the workers. Dinner was served to the workers by the women of the various cities and towns along the route.

Rent one of your rooms and reduce your own rent materially. It's a simple and sensible plan—and it works.

The John Wanamaker Store

A Message to the Million Homes in the Suburbs of New York City

New York City is proud—justifiably proud, because this year's census shows an increase of half a million population. A hundred thousand new families. The increase alone would make a substantial city.

But if New York City is proud, you of the suburbs should be prouder. If New York City has increased by half a million population—added a hundred thousand new families—the New York suburbs have grown very much more.

While there are no census statistics to show exactly what the increase is, we do know that suburban development during the last six years has been astounding—evidently, on its face, greater than New York City's.

And all this suburban increase in population means more homes. Not apartments, but homes surrounded by lawns, with gardens and air space.

And right in the center of this great ring of suburban homes—a million in number—right in the center of New York City itself, is Wanamaker's—the store of the home, and itself the home of the

August Furniture Sale

(Original)

Suburban trains, trolleys, bridges, tunnels, all empty in the City within easy transit distance of the Store

So—we extend a special invitation to you home-makers of the suburbs to visit this August Furniture Sale.

It will help you in your home making—point a way to improve some room or the general furnishing of the house or any one of the hundred-and-one things that you would like to do for your home.

If you intend to furnish a new home, to re-furnish your old home, or to substitute some new furniture for something old and out-worn, you will find it greatly to your advantage to SEE Wanamaker's First.

You will find furniture to fit your needs and your pocketbooks; and you will find it now at 10 to 50 per cent. lower in price than at any other time of the year.

And only genuine furniture, whatever you pay. Solid wood, reliable veneer (when used), best cabinet work, artistic designs.

And every piece and suite bears the usual Wanamaker guarantee—which stays with the furniture as long as you have it.

Fifth, Sixth and Seventh Galleries, New Building.

P. S. You from the million homes in the suburbs will also find yourselves at home at Wanamaker's, because this is a home store—with home-like hospitality, home-like dealing and home-like service.

U. S. ASTOR THEATRE

Having been viewed by several Plainfield clergymen who gave it their approval, "The Blindness of Virtue," the most widely criticised play of its type ever produced in films, will be shown at the U. S. Astor Theatre Monday and Tuesday of next week. This great play teaches of the stupidity of virtues which lead to vice. It convinces that the greatest danger the young girl can be subjected to grows out of her ignorance regarding certain problems of the maturing body. And this ignorance is laid on the head of her mother, whose great duty it is to open her eyes. "The Blindness of Virtue" is a moral play which has been endorsed by every prominent clergyman, social worker and critic in the country. Effie, the girl who portrays ignorance is played by Edna Mayo. Bryant Washburn plays opposite her as Archie, the minister's protege and protector of Effie.

In addition to this big feature a supplemental program of excellent quality will be exhibited.

PERSONAL.

Mrs. E. Lane and daughter, Hilda, are registered at the Delphian Hotel, Asbury Park, for the month of August.

William Willis, of West Fifth street, is slowly getting around after an accident to his foot three weeks ago.

Miss Bida B. Whitney, a graduate nurse of Muhlenberg Hospital, class of 1914, who has been confined to the hospital for twelve weeks with an attack of typhoid fever, was able to return to her home on West Fourth street today.

Miss Lillian Lamson, supervisor of the recreation work in this city, left this afternoon for a two weeks' vacation, which will be spent touring the New England States. She will spend one week at Ogunquit, Me., and later will spend several days with her parents in Connecticut.

"Bunt" Shirley left this morning for a three years' stay in the West. He will visit his uncle in San Francisco and will undoubtedly locate in that city after visiting the principal cities of the West.

THE HAWAIIAN ISLANDS.

My mind is still filled with the beauties and delights of the Islands, there is so much of pleasant memory to recall. Let us first take up Honolulu, that being the principal city. It is situated on the island of Oahu, has a population of about 65,000 or 70,000 people. The stores and business blocks would be a credit to any city. Many Japanese, Chinese, Portugese and Americans are engaged in all mercantile lines of trade. The Japs and Chinamen are particularly polite and courteous to all strangers. It is a most interesting and picturesque sight to see the little Japanese and China women in their gaudy costumes, with their babes strapped on their back, flitting around, all wearing the sandal clacking on the pavement as they move. It seemed to me that it must be a real work of art to move in them.

It is a dreamy atmosphere and life is not on the drive as with us in America. From about 3 p. m. the day is devoted to rest and recreation. There are fine golf links, tennis courts, polo grounds, clubs, Sons of Veterans, Elks, Legion of Honor, Pacific Club, The Commercial Club, the fine University Club, Scottish Thistle Club and others.

In the matter of schools, the city and island is well advanced. The first public school law was enacted in 1841; they have fine school buildings and all are well conducted. Many years ago the Hawaiian language was abolished in the schools and the English is the standard tongue taught. On the islands there were last year 32,288 pupils of almost every nationality. There are 168 public schools in the group and 51 private schools with a total of 1,020 teachers. I found several of them were from New Jersey.

The perpetual summer climate there permits a method of housing the classes in separate and apart buildings, these all convenient to the principal one. They are quite artistic and built of frame, two or three feet from the ground; are boarded up about four feet and then finished to the eaves with lattice, thus giving fine ventilation and yet preventing the student from being diverted. The whole structure is painted or stained with some pleasing color. It is quite common for the Japanese children to attend both the public schools and afterward their own schools.

The churches of Honolulu are numerous and many beautiful. A Young Men's Christian Association, costing $240,000, graces the city and is most up-to-date.

There are two daily newspapers published in the city. Four Japanese dailies and a Chinese daily find circulation there. I visited the American newspaper offices and found the modern type setting machines there in use. The news of the world is received in Honolulu by cable and wireless. All the above will give the reader an idea that the people are quite up to the times.

But the charm of the homes is an everlasting attraction, though some are palatial the great mass are of modest type, beautifully fitted and all fairly bowered in bloom and foliage. Great wide verandas, furnished with rockers, hammocks and grass rugs, make it the living part of the house.

Since they have rain only in May and November, this is a most charming mode of life. Hospitality is proverbial.

Hilo, the second city, on the island Hawaii, is superbly situated. It is a city of quite commercial importance, two banks, good stores and many beautiful homes. Its location overlooking the bay is ideal. As I looked out on its blue waters, I noted a couple of vessels tugging at their anchors, their sides streaked with rust. I asked, what are these, to whom do they belong? So neglected do they look. I am told they have been interned there for about a year, they are German and dare not go out for fear of the lynx-eyed Japs, who are on the lookout in the Pacific.

While at Hilo it was my privilege to speak to an audience of about one thousand people in their amory. A most enthusiastic body of today American citizens. Also while in this city we participated in the ceremony of laying the corner stone of the new United States postoffice and government building.

I fear I weary you with my story, but before I close, let me say that I deem this group of islands among the most valuable acquisitions of the United States. They are at the cross roads in the Pacific; the people a fine patriotic race; the soil as fertile as the far famed valley of the Nile, with a climate Heavenly.

JAMES E. MARTINE.

WENT TO LOOK FOR SPIRIT AND LANDED IN HOSPITAL

"A spirit done told me to gwine and see what was happen' at my house," said Robert Gray, a negro, when giving testimony in the city court this morning in explanation of his quarrel with George Langford, who was charged with "bouncing" a beer bottle off Gray's "dome." Such injuries were inflicted as to necesssitate the victim's removal to the hospital and Judge DeMeza decided that Langford had caused enough damage to warrant his paying a fine of $20 or sojourning in the county jail for sixty days.

According to the defendant the trouble arose over a woman and he confessed to paying attention to her while she was employed as a housekeeper by Gray. The assailant went on to tell how Gray had broken through a door while he was paying a visit to the housekeeper.

Gray explained that he was obeying the spirit when Langford brought the beer bottle into play and the next thing he knew the spirit told him he was lying on a hospital cot with Patrolman Martin Welsh giving him the "once-over."

FORMER PLAINFIELD GIRL IS MARRIED IN THE WEST

Miss Frances Thayer Carr, daughter of Mrs. William T. Carr, who formerly resided on West Fifth street, was married to John Donald Lamont, of Cortlandt, N. Y., Thursday afternoon. The wedding took place in Missoula, Mont., the bride's present home.

Mrs. Lamont is well known in this city, having been graduated from the Plainfield High School in the class of 1909 and from the Cortlandt Normal School in 1912. Mr. Lamont is a graduate of Cornell University.

WARSAW SCENE OF MANY BATTLES

Has Been Controlled by Various European Nations.

WARSAW has been controlled at some time or other by most of the European nations.

Since its inception as a city, back in the ninth century, Warsaw has appeared frequently and in different roles on the page of history. Situated on the bank of the Vistula in a fertile country and a center for commerce, the capital of Poland was desirable at a time when conquest was more the order of the day than at present. For a long time Warsaw was the capital of the duchy of Mazovia, but upon the union of Poland and Lithuania, in the early part of the sixteenth century, it became the capital of Poland.

For more than 100 years afterward Warsaw flourished in comparative peace. At only one time was it seriously menaced, and then John Sobieski, the Polish hero, saved it from falling into the hands of the Turks. In 1655, however, Charles Gustavus of Sweden took the city, and for the first time since becoming part of Poland Warsaw found herself in the hands of a conqueror.

Only for a year, however, did the Swedes hold the city. In 1656 the

A GLIMPSE OF WARSAW.

Polish took back their capital and held it for nearly fifty years. When it fell into the hands of the enemy the second time Sweden was again the victor. For many years after that Charles II. remained the ruler, and the city yielded its profits to Sweden. Again, however, the Polish threw off the conqueror's yoke and became autonomous.

By this time Russia had grown strong enough to look around for desirable lands to conquer. Poland and Warsaw were nearest and therefore came under the Russian influence first. Upon the death of Alexander III. in 1763 Russia took a hand in Polish politics and succeeded in having Stanislaus Poniatowski chosen king. It was not until 1794, however, that the Russians came into actual possession of the city. Then it was taken by arms rather than intrigue. After an attack on Praga, a suburb across the Vistula, Warsaw surrendered to the Russians.

The Russians had been in control of Warsaw only twelve years when, in 1806, Napoleon's army took the city. By the peace of Tilsit, a year later, the city was made independent as the capital of the duchy of Warsaw. In 1809 the city was again taken, however, and this time by the Austrians. Their occupation lasted only two months, when the city was again made free and independent. In 1813 the Russians finally took the city and held it, together with the rest of Poland.

Warsaw has been said to be the most beautiful and interesting city in eastern Europe. The streets are lined with picturesque buildings, which express the Polish love of splendor. The public gardens are among the most beautiful in the world. The chief pride of the residents, however, is the Lazienski theater, in the Lazienski gardens. Its mural decorations are said to be among the finest in all Europe.

The modern city has a population of about 750,000, of whom 25,000 are Germans and 200,000 Jews. It is a busy industrial center and is the junction of six important railroad trunk lines, which connect it with all the important cities of the continent. The city is divided into two parts by the Vistula, Warsaw on one side and Praga on the other. They are connected by the Alexander bridge, built at a cost of more than $3,000,000.

The importance of Warsaw, both strategically and commercially, cannot well be overestimated. Through the Vistula as well as the railroads the city has access to all sorts of commerce and owes its eminence largely to this fact. The rich wheat belt has the city for its center, and for this reason it may be particularly valuable to Germany if it is able to hold the territory while a crop is maturing. Warsaw figures largely in the wool and hop market. Its manufacturing facilities also enhance its value.

Because it has had some use, and is, therefore, "second-hand," may not greatly impair its usefulness to you. So watch the 'For Sale' ads.

THE FORUM

Editor, Plainfield Daily Press:

The boys and girls of the different Sunday-schools of our great and favored land repeated together the jubilant comment on King Solomon's possessions and prosperity and joyous privilege in being citizens of ancient Israel. The new proprietor of the ancient and distinguished "Hotel Netherwood" is the happy man of the present day, and gladly looks forward as one of Plainfield's useful citizens. I received a 'phone message this morning from his newly-acquired hotel telling me 'the hotel was opened for business and prospects were good for the license to sell liquors."

Through his own experienced ability and energy he has got possession of the property. Now encouraged (and almost in sight) the coveted license acquired by the keen-eyed and far-seeing, yea, up-to-the-minute Netherwood Association; also additional support by "the Calkins' plan" and the "responsive attitude of the City Council." Now the weary, wealthy Auto Billies, with parched lips and dried tongues, famishing for a drink, can be accommodated. Eternal gratitude for this privilege will ever issue from Proprietor Ruehl to the people of Netherwood.

But the license is not a concrete actuality, for acrosss the bright pathway of a successful business venture there hangs a shadow from "the great cloud" of church folks who will protest and say "That the Beer that Builds" and "The Whiskey that Pays" hotel licens s will not find a responsive chord or signature from us; and in the words of Billy Sunday, who said, "Liquor, of course, has a place, and that place is in hell."

So, if whiskey is the only guarantee of Netherwood's resuscitated hotel business, there will arise en masse an overwhelming majority of Plainfield citizens, and particularly the citizens of Netherwood, who will issue an avalanche of protest and say, "Not our boys and girls, or those of other cities, to hell; but to hell where it belongs, the whiskey that pays the bill."

Thanking you for your space, I am, yours for Plainfield's prosperity and Netherwood's security.

Editor, Plainfield Daily Press:

Just a few facts regarding the recent use of the ambulance to convey a scarlet fever patient to the hospital. I did not order the ambulance, in fact didn't know it was used until afterwards. The hospital authorities knew they had a scarlet fever case coming because I made the arrangements with the superintendent, who can corroborate this. The parents of the child informed the policemen who accompanied the ambulance, that it was a case of scarlet fever. Why didn't they refuse to take the sick child and have the proper vehicle sent? Don't the policemen know that the ambulance is not used to convey patients with contagious diseases? Whoever ordered the ambulance for the purpose made a mistake (and I should like to know who did it), but the men who carried out the order knowing it was scarlet fever were equally to blame.

MUNITION OUTPUT GROWS FOURFOLD

American Plants Able to Make 5,000,000 Cartridges a Day.

965,000 RIFLES ON HAND.

But In the Event of War This Country Would Still Be Behind European Nations—America Has Supplied Only a Small Percentage of the Shells Fired by Allies In France.

Unofficial inquiries made by the war department and the navy department have shown that through the extension of private munition plants and the construction of others the munitions production of the United States since the beginning of the war has been increased about fourfold. In small arms ammunition the increase has been from 1,000,000 rounds a day, this being the amount that the government was able to turn out for its own use, to 5,000,000 rounds a day. But as compared with the amounts of munitions that would be required should the United States become involved in war the augmented production has been infinitesimal.

How small is the proportionate ability of government and private munitions plants in this country to turn out supplies may be understood by the appropriate figures of German preparedness. At the outbreak of the war a year ago the German army had on hand five rifles for every soldier, regular and reservist, with 2,000 rounds of ammunition for each rifle—that is to say, the German army before a hostile shot was fired had 25,000,000 rifles and 50,000,000,000 rounds of ammunition. Since the war began the German arms and ammunition factories have been working night and day to keep up a proportionate supply of such munitions. This government has something more than 600,000 modern Springfield rifles of the present army pattern and in the neighborhood of 365,000 rifles of the Krag pattern, which are not now used by the regular army, but could be distributed to troops in the field in case of an emergency. Thus the reserve supply of rifles of the United States is about 1,000,000 as compared to 25,000,000 for the German army.

Encouraged by Increase.

The government is greatly encouraged over the increased ability of the country to turn out arms and ammunition through the extension of present private plants and the construction of new plants. But with these additions the producing capacity is far behind the demand that would exist if the United States should go to war. The capacity of 1,000,000 rounds for the government plants and 5,000,000 rounds for private plants is based on a working schedule of twenty-four hours a day. This means that if the government should put a million men in the field each man would have an ammunition supply of only five cartridges a day. At the rate of ammunition expenditure in the European war the supply of cartridges would leave the American forces engaged in hostilities in a very dangerous position for either offensive or defensive work.

Major General Leonard Wood, commander of the department of the east, who has just returned to his headquarters at Governors Island from an inspection tour, gathered much valuable information concerning the arms and ammunition output of private factories in the country. What he learned has been supplemented by figures obtained by other officers of the army and by officers of the navy and the naval department itself.

It is learned that, although European countries have placed orders in the United States for small arms, no small arms have been shipped to Europe. It has also been ascertained that the supply of artillery ammunition that has gone abroad has been so small as to make no appreciable showing. Information of this character bears out the statement of the French government through its embassy in Washington that the French army has not been using any ammunition sent from the United States.

Big Shipments Ahead.

There has been a marked increase in the shipments of other forms of ammunition and explosives, however. This is shown by the figures of trade and commerce collected from official sources by the department of commerce. But even with this marked increase the amount of war munitions sent to Europe has not amounted to a drop in the bucket as compared to the expenditure of ammunition by the hostile European armies in the field. The figures obtained by the government show that American factories have turned out only about one twenty-fifth of 1 per cent of the total amount of ammunition used by the allies alone since the war was begun, a year ago.

One of the plans that will be pressed upon the attention of congress in connection with the effort to provide more adequate means for the national defense contemplates increasing the capacity of the government arsenals to a great degree, but with provision for producing only a minimum amount of munitions in time of peace. This plan, which has been urged upon congress by the ordnance department of the army in past years, would keep the additions to the government factories in first class condition at all times, so that in the event of a war the entire plant at each arsenal could be used.

They Introduce Themselves To Our Readers

Letters from Four of the Ten Famous Writers Who Will Contribute Splendid Features to the New Editorial Page of the Plainfield Daily Press.

TO THE READERS OF THIS NEWSPAPER

The question of health is, of course, one which possesses a deep interest for every person. I shall endeavor, in my "Health Talks" to give to you, my readers, information which will be of value in your daily lives. I shall write these talks in plain everyday English and in them endeavor to tell you those facts, established by medical science but to which persons outside the medical profession do not have access. I shall welcome your questions on any subject connected with health, hygiene and sanitation and be pleased to answer them under the conditions noted at the bottom of each article.

M. A. Brady

MY NEW CLIENTS:

Questions of law, particularly those little commonplace questions which occur daily in our relationships, are always a source of interest to everyone. In my position as "The People's Legal Friend," I hope to have the pleasure of receiving such legal questions as any of you, my readers, would like to ask and I will give you full and complete answers to them from a lawyer's point of view. I only ask that you make your questions conform to the conditions named in the Editorial Footnote which appears at the bottom of my department.

Law, as complex as life itself, is, of course, a reflection of the attempt of all the people to organize principles of conduct which will serve as a guide to fair dealing with one another. I want to invite the readers of my department to make full use of it and I will earnestly strive to make "The People's Legal Friend Department" as useful to you as possible.

E. R. Branson

TO BE HEALTHY, WEALTHY and WISE!

READ BRADY! We do not really need to announce Dr. Brady. He could appear unheralded in our newspaper and in but a few hours everybody would be reading his clever medical talks and writing him their health questions! Health has so many important phases, is a matter of such daily, hourly concern, that you cannot help realizing in just what way Dr. Brady's help will prove mighty important to you.

COMING NEXT WEEK!

READ BRANSON! There are hundreds of lawyers in this country "Reading Branson" because he is an authority on legal subjects. Yet Branson has the faculty of giving the public the deepest legal facts IN PLAIN ENGLISH—so simple, a child can understand them. If you have a legal question that is bothering you, send it to him. He will answer it. He will help you on your property transfers, your rights as heir or stockholder, your controversies with others. "The People's Legal Friend" Department will have a real money value for you—the service will cost you nothing.

BEGINNING MONDAY!

AN OPEN LETTER From "Finnigan"

Fellow Citizens:

I'm on agin' With your long-suffering indulgence, I'll make some more deep foot-prints on the Road of Literature with my No. 11 Regals!

Your Editor has kindly invited me into the tent of his Eleven Great Gladiators of the Pen. I've sharpened my quill and Pegasus is pulling hard on the bit--I'm all a-quiver and ready to dash madly into the Arena of the New Editorial Page.

What will I write about? Anything that comes along--especially something easy. Styles, automobiles, world's fairs, fishing, divorce--and love!

One of the best things I do is to save myself work by printing bits of comment, humor or verse sent me by my reader friends.

"CONTRIBS"--PLEASE ATTACK ME!

I know that among the readers of this newspaper there are several with the glorious gift of literary genius. Here's the chance of a lifetime. Send me ten to seventy-five choice words--hand picked--and if they are found "available," we, editorially speaking, will publish them in our "Off Agin, On Agin" column. Help yourself to some real newspaper fame.

Altogether, my column will be a merry offering of gloom-destroying "poekry," a mutinous assortment of "humor" (not canned) and a medley of minute essays.

Among the Ten Other Gladiators of the Pen, count me as the ruthless Assassin of Sorrow!

Yours and Everybody's,

Strickland Gillilan

P. S. This is called an "OPEN LETTER" to let you know that there is nothing private in its contents. You can read all of it!

Dictated but not read.

THE MUCH-QUOTED WRITER!

Even if you don't read Strickland Gillilan you are bound to know him. Your friends will be saying, "Did you see that clever stunt of Gillilan's today?" He has the faculty of writing himself into the thoughts and talk of folks! Verse and prose that stops you!

DEFENSE BY THE AUTHOR OF VEST POCKET ESSAYS

I am going to write for this paper little bundles of words on various themes ranging from "Hope" to "Hash" and from "Cabbages" to "Kings." The Editor is really the one to blame because he made me do it, but if the reader forgives him, so do I.

Among the thousand-odd subjects upon which I will write, some will pertain to the United States, its glories, and peculiarities, due to the fact that I am seventeen-tenths American myself. I have decided to write these so-called humorous essays, so that the reader may soak up, at one sitting, incredible amounts of information regarding his native land.

I have obtained this information from encyclopaedias, blue books, census reports, the World Almanac, railway time tables, lunch counter bills of fare, sign boards, advertisements, hearsay, suspicion, conjecture and the charges made in the heat of a campaign. Of the readers of this newspaper I will expect about half to write me at various times, correcting mistakes and inaccuracies. If any mistakes remain, therefore, they are plainly the fault of the other readers who neglect their opportunity to set me right.

I submit these essays to the reader in the belief that the essays may be taken in liberal doses without special harm; also that a number of facts herein contained are making their first appearance in public.

Yours very truly,

Geo. Fitch

HIS NAME IS KNOWN TO FAME

because of the screaming humor he has put into his famous Saturday Evening Post stories and writings in Collier's. Geo. Fitch's first contributions to our New Editorial Page are right up to his standard. You might know from the titles—"Wash Day," "Punctures," "Promises."

STANDRIDGE'S "FORK BALL" IS BECOMING AS FAMOUS AS MATHEWSON'S "FADEAWAY"

Pete Standridge and methods of delivery of his "fork ball."

Pete Standridge of the Chicago Cubs is getting famous in the National league for his "fork ball," demonstrated above. At the top is shown his over hand for a "floater;" lower left, side arm movement for "floater;" lower right, side arm for fast curve.

AMATEUR BALL JINGLES

Although there were not many people on hand to applaud their efforts, the Plainfield and North Plainfield baseball team, which engaged in their first midweek melee last Thursday, performed in a manner the standard of which was far above that put forth by many of the so-called big leaguers. The pepper displayed by Tommy Mullin and Benny Rosenson delighted the fans, Tommy's fielding and Benny's clouts causing the encounter to take on the nip-and-tuck aspect it did.

Quite a humorous stunt was pulled off by "E-Yah" Jones in the ninth frame of Thursday's game. Joseph Diver and Joe Mutnick were the "umps" up to this time, but their decisions tantalized "E-Yah" and disgusted the "audience." When the supposed last frame rolled around everybody was yelling for a change. Consequently, Herbert Stine and ye scribe went to the relief of the marooned arbitrators.

Young Vincent Mullin, encouraged at critical stages by his older and far more experienced brother, nailed everything that came down the third base line.

When the youngsters at Parker Field inaugurate "Major" and "Minor" League ball at less than Federal League prices, it is time the O. B. promoters took a hand. It is announced, also, that rain will not hereafter prevent ball playing on Parker Field.

McLOUGHLIN WINS.

Boston, Aug. 7.—Maurice E. McLoughlin, of San Francisco, yesterday defeated R. Norris Williams, 2d, of this city, the national lawn tennis champion, in the challenge match of the Longwood singles, the oldest tennis tournament under club auspices in the United States. The score was 6—3, 6—3, 2—6, 6—2.

NOT TO DISBAND.

According to reliable information the St. Joseph baseball team has not the slightest thought of disbanding, although its activity during the past month or so has given no indication of the fact. Eddie Donshay is still at the helm, and believes he can see "land," where he has booked several good attractions. As the team has a schedule mapped out for it, and as no cancellations have thus far been made, it looks as though things were going to brighten up a bit in the borough camp.

SCRIBES HAVE KIND WORDS FOR "OUR" TOMMY MULLIN

The Perth Amboy scribes certainly have great respect for Tommy Mullin's ability as a ballist. One writer, commenting on the good box work of Freddie Olde, declares that he has a runner-up for popularity with Amboy fans in the person of Thomas Mullin, the fastest fielder in the city league." The account goes on to say that the merit of the Plainfield boy's work was recognized by the Amboy manager when he let go of all outsiders with the exception of Tommy and Artie Romer, the Tottenville slabman.

It has been frequently reported in baseball circles both here and in Amboy that Tommy has received offers from Tri-State and other O. B. league teams.

HARRISON FIELD CLUB TO PLAY TABS' OUTFIT

Avon Oval tomorrow will be the scene of a scamper between the baseball forces of the Harrison F. C. and the local Tabs.

Jack Denny will twirl for the homesters with Art Kyle as his receiver.

The infield work will be in charge of Jim Scott, Joe Geary, "Tush" Jaeger and Jimmy McCarty. Tone Denny, "Kid" Brennan and F. Lawton will romp around the outfield.

RANDOLPH IN IMPORTANT GAME ON AMBOY FIELD

Cliff Randolph will be the Perth Amboy Pacer pitcher tomorrow when that team enters into an argument with the St. Anthony's of the same city. Cliff will have as an opposing boxman "Dutch" Neider, who is classed with the best of them.

As the game tomorrow is an unusually important one great anxiety is felt for the safe delivery of both Randolph and Neider's "shoots."

WILLARD NOT TO COME TO PLAINFIELD THIS MONTH

Local sport fans are not to have a chance to see "Jess" Willard, the world's heavyweight prize fighter on August 20, after all. Arrangements had been made by the 101 Ranch Wild West Show, with whom Willard is traveling, to appear here on that date, and a lot and license were procured, but for some reason unknown here the plans were changed, and the show will go elsewhere. It will appear in Newark on August 19.

1916 A. A. U. CHAMPIONSHIP PLUM HANDED TO NEWARK

The championships committee of the A. A. U. has decided upon Newark, as the scene of the 1916 championships, according to a telegram received by Edward J. O'Brien, of that city, yesterday.

Mr. O'Brien is chairman of the exhibition and athletic committee of the Committee of One Hundred, which is handling the preparations for the city's celebration next year of its 250th birth anniversary.

PLAINFIELDS IDLE.

Manager Jones, of the Plainfield A. A., has no game scheduled for tomorrow, but will lead his clan against the T. A. B. S. next Sunday. Jones is desirous of obtaining Parker Field for Labor Day afternoon. He has already been promised a return date with the Meadowbrooks and would like to bring them here.

SPORTS FOR MOOSE.

Plans will be completed Monday whereby euchre, bowling and quoit tournaments will be inaugurated at the Moose clubhouse.

ROD AND REEL

Word came up from Corson's Inlet last night that the storms have changed the bars off the beach and new sloughs have caught since the heavy storm of Tuesday, and it will take a day or two to learn whether the bass were driven off until their annual migration southward in September.

A report comes up from Atlantic City that a sixty-six pound channel bass was caught at Brigantine Beach this week. If the report should prove true, the catch will set a new record. The channel bass have been running big this year, several of more than fifty pounds having been landed.

Good catches of fluke have been made from the Long Branch pier recently. An occasional croaker or weakfish is also pulled in, while kingfish are being taken in the surf.

In answer to a reader, we will state that the purging of a lake is caused by the blossoms from the weeds coming to the surface. The heavier the undergrowth, the more discolored will be the water. Some lakes of stony bottom don't show any sign of purging. Your lead is entirely too heavy for fresh water fishing. Put it away entirely and take a few lessons in casting.

Bad weather is promised for today, but weather promises are not always kept, thank goodness. The rain of Thursday night added a richer color to the Raritan River water, but if it doesn't repeat there will be a chance to fish tomorrow in the bay. The lower bay, southeast of Keansburg, cleared up yesterday and by tomorrow the clay should have settled to the bottom. The storms have kept the fish from coming close to shore, but when they do come they will be hungry.

At Great Kills large blue claw crabs are plentiful, and good messes of them are being picked up every day. Lafayettes are being caught and while not plentiful are running large.

The fishing for weakfish in the waters of Raritan Bay has not been up to the usual mark during the past week, although good results were had by one party who went out from Perth Amboy on Thursday. They crossed over to the Staten Island side and by a boat went out below Keansburg. The bay is full of red muddy water that has been washed down from the Raritan River by the recent freshets. The regulars say that the fishing will be better than ever when the water clears.

A large school of herring has been reported off the coast of Seabright.

One of the most popular fresh water fishing spots is Split Rock Pond, where many anglers go to catch bass and perch.

Kingfish and flukes are being landed daily off the Long Branch piers. Catches of these species are regarded as valuable, inasmuch as kingfish alone sells at twenty-five cents a pound on the market.

The cool weather has put a decided crimp in the fishing business, both for pleasure and profit. Rod and line fishermen haven't had half a chance to get out on the bays and but few of the deep-sea boats have ventured out any distance.

JACK MARTIN THE WHOLE "CHEESE" IN AMERICAN

Mike Kelley's St. Paul league leaders are the sensation of the American Association race. According to the sport scribes in that city the outfield is wonderful, the pitchers unsurpassed and the backstopping perfect. "However, the real class of the team is the infield," writes a scribe, "and Jack Martin is the headliner. Martin is, perhaps, the fastest shortstop in the league."

Tributes to the local boy have become every-day occurrences, now. In fact it has been reported that "Cap" Neill, the Philadelphia National League team's chief scout, has been looking the local youth over relative to reporting to Pat Moran whether he considers it worth while to re-call the local boy at once or not. It is known that Kelley is of the opinion that if he lets Jack go St. Paul's pennant chances go with him.

Those local pessimists who continually praise the work of Wortman, the Milwaukee shortstop, ought to compare Jack's record with his.

SCHOTT TO "BREAK IN."

Dick Schott, who deserted the Hope chapel baseball ranks to accept a hurling position with the Hopewell baseball nine, will twirl for his new mates against Lambertville today. Cliff Case, the up-State phenom, will be Schott's pitching opponent.

That funny fellow Scoop is on the classified page.

SPORT BRIEFS

Martin Becker, centre-fielder of the Lewiston, New England, League Club, has been sold to the New York Giants. He will report to Manager McGraw on September 8.

Charlie Weinert, the Newark light heavyweight, has signed articles to box ten rounds with Jim Savage, of New York, at the Madison Square Garden Athletic Club on August 31.

The ten round boxing bout between Gunboat Smith and Jack Hemple, which was to have been held at the St. Nicholas Athletic Club on August 11, has been postponed until August 18. Smith injured his hand in his bout with Cowler, which necessitated the change.

Battling Levinsky outpointed Colin Bell, the Australian heavyweight, in ten rounds at Brown's Far Rockaway Club, last night.

Oldfield, Resta, Burman and Cooper are to compete for the $10,000 purse on the Chicago Speedway today.

Maurice E. McLoughlin, of San Francisco, yesterday defeated R. Norris Williams, 2d, of Boston, the national lawn tennis champion, in the challenge match of the Longwood singles, at Boston, yesterday, by scores of 6-3, 6-3, 2-6 6-2.

Thomas McNamara, the Boston professional, won the open golf championship of Philadelphia yesterday with a total of 296 strokes for the 72 holes.

BARGAIN DAY BILL ON DIAMOND IN EAST END

The Queen City B. B. C. will have the Highlanders as their weekly opponents on the Summer avenue field tomorrow afternoon. The game is to be the first section of a bargain bill, the Farmers and the Highlanders mixing things up in the second tilt. In an effort to annex a win the Queens will use their one best bet, Velard, in the box. Megonegal will catch. For the Highlanders, Anton Stebor and Bert Trotter will compose the battery.

In the Farmer-Highlander tilt great doings are bound to occur. Kachlenieris, who held Willett's Trinity outfit to two hits last Saturday, will hurl them over the plate for the "Suds," and Simms will be held in reserve. It is reported that A. Stebor will attempt an iron-man stunt.

NEWS OF INTEREST IN THE PLAINFIELD BUILDING WORLD

SLIGHT ADVANCE IN JULY REPORT

Building Operations Last Month Show Improvement Over June.

MATERIALS SELL WELL

Large Cities Make the Biggest Gain Building Commodities a Dominant Factor in the Market—Prices Still High.

New York, Aug. 7.—July building reports for the entire country probably will show a slight improvement over that of June, which was 7.7 per cent behind June of last year in point of total anticipated expenditure. At the same time there is a great deal of construction going ahead, work that had been held up for more than a year in some cases. It is notable that the large cities are not the ones that have been making the biggest gain in the last month as far as building construction reports available at this time are concerned. Practically all of the improvement in prospective construction work is noticeable in the smaller industrial cities, where companies have been able to take munition orders for delivery abroad during the next two years.

It is also significant that the building commodities that find a good call when quick construction is under way are in heaviest demand and at higher price levels today. Structural steel and Portland cement continue to be the dominating factors in the market. Waterproofing paints are in better demand than are decorative paints, although some of the big paint distributors are feeling an improvement. Paint prices have not receded with the general drop in linseed oil prices, because the cost of pigments is still abnormally high.

A halt seems to have been made in the advancing price of copper and sheet brass used extensively by fireplace goods manufacturers, building for copper flashing and leader work and interior ornamental metal workers. The reason for this hesitation in the price ascendency has been ascribed to the relinquishment of larger supplies from the copper belt and a slight falling off in demand for electrolitic in London. New York prices have sagged slightly on account of the slight slump in demand.

The market, however, does not believe that this halt will be permanent, but so far as can be learned, fireplace fixture manufacturers have not been in speculative mood, and have not loaded up to an unusual degree.

Portland cement is still in a very tight market, not only in the East, but in some places in the West. The Lehigh district shipments to New York in July were far in excess of last year's total, the estimated excess being around 20 per cent. Prices in New York in the last month have risen and sagged, but the net gain over the quotations ruling two months ago at the mill is 23 cents a barrel. The crippling of the Knickerbocker Portland cement plant, due to the collapse of its powerhouse in quicksand, will put this plant, with a capacity of 3,000,000 barrels a year, out of service for three months, and will make arrangements imperative with other companies to take care of its contracts. There were reports to the effect that this accident will compel the reopening of the Edison plant at New Village, N. J., in order to relieve the pressure on other mills. Wholesale prices in New York at the first of the month were $1.52, shaded, whereas two months ago it was $1.23.

It has been said that no business carrying deliveries over sixty days is being taken by cement manufacturers' agents at less than $1.58 a barrel.

Common brick throughout the New York metropolitan district is very weak. The heavy rains have done great damage to the yards, and green brick, which is a further aggravation to Hudson River manufacturers, some of whom have already made arrangements to shut down their plants this month. That will mean a supply of only half that normally required by New York over the fall, winter and spring. This may mean abnormally high prices later on.

Hardwood manufacturers show a decided tendency to curtail production. In view of the adverse weather conditions that have prevailed this year they have found the cost of production higher than normally, and feel that they should have a better price in the building and consumer's market. The demand for hardwoods for building construction now is moderate, although the inquiry is said to be keen, but mantel manufacturers and door makers are said to be anticipating a heavy exporting demand later on, and have been heavy buyers. Hardwood floor interests have been anticipating an upward movement in prices late this year, and are making their reservations now, where it is possible to do so.

Lime, plaster and concrete ingredients are practically where they were as to price a month ago, although there is less inclination upon the part of distributors to shade. Dealers say there is a better inquiry for building materials, indicating an awakening on the part of consumers regarding the future price levels.

NORTH JERSEY SHOWS LACK OF BUILDING

Jersey City and Newark Especially Have Dropped in Amount of Permits.

While building prospects in Plainfield and vicinity are good at present, the same is not true of the northern part of the State. In Jersey City, for example, a decrese in building operations for the month of July, as compared with the month of June is shown, as well as a decrease of nearly $200,000 worth of work over July of last year.

During July 120 permits were issued for new buildings and alterations in Jersey City to cost $345,905. This total represents a decrease of $174,045 from June, when 138 permits, totalling $519,958, were issued. In July, 1914, 135 permits were issued, totalling $545,172, an increase of $199,259 over July of this year.

There is also a falling off in realty transactions in Jersey City. Last week there were filed for record at Jersey City 151 conveyances and 162 mortgages ($465,969.31) in comparison with 192 conveyances and 184 mortgages ($862,233.87) in the week previous.

Building at Newark during July shows a decrease of 45 per cent. from the June total; also a decrease of more than 100 per cent. when compared with the figures for July a year ago.

During last month 211 permits were issued for operations, costing $584,703, a decrease of $186,181 from June, when 223 permits were granted for improvements, costing $770,884.

In July, 1914, 216 permits were granted for new work, to cost, $1,171,958 the decrease from that month being $587,255.

REALTY TRANSFERS

Middlesex County Transfers.

Transfers of property in Middlesex county this week as recorded in New Brunswick were as follows:

George E. Loeffler Land and Improvement Co. to Rudolph Frendenfels, two lots in Piscataway township.

George E. Loeffler Land and Improvement Co. to John and Ada Lotta Nisch, two lots in Piscataway township.

Christina G. Madeson to Charles M. Peterson, two lots at Metuchen.

John Hanson and wife, to Hans Knogh, property at Fairmount Park.

Jacob W. Wilbur and wife to William Ruckle, et. al., four lots in Raritan township.

Schwartz Land and Improvement Co. to Peter E. and Clara Schneider, property in Piscataway township. Consideration, $500.

Union County Transfers.

Following are the transfers of property in Union county filed with the county register this week:

Fanny M. Gross to Thomas Hanlon, westerly corner McDowell street and lot 13, Plainfield, $2,000.

Lydia D. Hill to Philip Senser, northerly side Franklin street, easterly lot 28, Rahway, $1.

Lydia D. Hill to Philip Senser, lot 30, map of Rahway Gardens, Rahway, $1.

Charles W. McCutchen et al. to Samuel W. Rushmore, centre Ravine road, 492 feet southeasterly Berkeley avenue, Plainfield $1.

HOD CARRIERS' MEETING.

The regular monthly meeting of the Hod Carriers' Union will be held next Thursday night, at which time the present agreement between the Master Mason's Association and the hod carriers will come up for action. The master masons want to do away with the present agreement between them and the hod carriers, and, it is said in some quarters, have "open shop." Whatever action is taken by the Hod Corriers' Union next Thursday night will probably be discussed at the meeting of the Building Trades Council, which will be held on the following evening.

WORKING ON GLOEKLER BLDG.

The foundation walls of the new Gloekler building, at West Front and Somerset streets, are up and the steel girders and the first floor beams are in place. Masons are busy laying up the outer walls, which will be faced with gray pressed brick.

JULY 1915, PASSES JULY OF LAST YEAR

Local Building Operations Took a Jump During Twelve Months.

A summary of the building operations in Plainfield for the month of July shows a decided increase over operations for the corresponding period last year. 21 permits were issued by Building Inspector T. O. Doane during last month. Eighteen of these were for new buildings—dwellings, stores, business structures, garages, etc.—while the remaining three were for alteration jobs.

These permits represent a total expenditure for building operations of $37,885 as against $22,000 called for by the permits issued during July, 1914. The following table shows how the permits were issued by wards:

	New Bldgs.	Alter.	Totals
1st ward	$ 925	$ 500	$ 1,425
2d ward	250	——	250
3d ward	21,400	——	21,400
4th ward	13,225	1,585	14,810
	$35,800	$2,085	$37,885

These figures do not include the new edifice for the Netherwood Reformed church, on Leland avenue, which has been started, but for which a permit has not yet been taken out, the estimated cost of which is $13,000; the addition to the Saurer Motor Company on West Front street, which was not granted last month because of the omission of the estimated cost in the application, $22,000; or the storage warehouse just started on East Third street by the Plainfield Storage Warehouse Company, $25,000. The aggregate cost of these three buildings will total $60,000.

CONTRACTOR STARTING WORK ON WAREHOUSE BUILDING

Work on the new structure for the Plainfield Storage Warehouse Company, on East Third street, is being started. This building will be four stories high, of concrete construction, and will be absolutely fireproof. It will be built after what is technically termed the "flat slab" method construction.

The building will have a frontage of 100 feet and a depth of 75 feet. A railroad siding will run into the building. Four large stores, suitable for wholesale merchants, will occupy the first floor as well as an office and an entrance hall for the building. The second floor will be devoted to open storage, while the third and fourth floors will be divided into separate storage rooms for furniture storage.

The Plainfield Storage Warehouse Company is composed of W. R. Codington, Walter F. Manning, Harold E. White, James G. Manning, Frank Hubbard, Peter Koehler and C. D. Manning.

SOMERVILLE MEN WILL BUILD DUNELLEN CHURCH

Hall Brothers, general contractors, of Somerville, were awarded the contract for building the new church of St. John's parish, to be erected on Washington avenue, Dunellen, this week. The bids were opened at Trenton in the presence of the Rev. E. J. Dunphy, the rector of the parish, and Architect Onderdonk.

The bid of Hall Brothers was $27,408. The Apgar Construction Company, of Dunellen, was the second lowest bidder, and the M. Byrnes Building Company, of Elizabeth, was the third. There are a number of preliminaries to be arranged before the contract can be signed, and it is not likely that work on the new edifice will be started much before the middle of the month.

HOME A MEMORIAL.

Cambridge, Mass., Aug. 7.—The Craigie House, home of the poet, Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, and one of the historical places visited by all tourists in the East, has been turned over to the public as a monument to the famous poet by his children. It was there that George Washington stayed during the siege of Boston in the Revolutionary War. The deed of trust was signed by Ernest W. Longfellow, son of the poet, and the three daughters, famous as the characters in the poem, "The Children's Hour." Mrs. Richard H. Dana was "Edith With Golden Hair," Mrs. J. G. Thorpe was the "Laughing Allegra," and Miss Alice Longfellow was the "Grave Alice." The last named is the present occupant of the old home.

Rent one of your rooms and reduce your own rent materially. It's a simple and sensible plan—and it works.

MOTOR COMPANY TO ERECT AN ADDITION

One of Two Permits Granted by Building Inspector This Week.

Only two permits were issued this week by Building Inspector T. O. Doane, the permit for the International Motor Company's extension and the garage for the Muhlenberg Hospital ambulance. The first permit was issued on an application held over from last week because of a slight omission in the application, but the hospital garage permit came under the head of this week's business.

Second Ward.

The permit for the hospital garage calls for a brick building 24x26 feet in dimensions, one story high, designed for one car and sleeping quarters for a chauffeur. It will be located on Moffett avenue. The building will have a peaked roof, covered with slate, and will correspond in general treatment with the other hospital buildings in the vicinity. B. F. Tallamy & Brother are mentioned as the mason contractors. The cost of the building is placed at $1,300.

Fourth Ward.

After Architect John G. Brown, who drew the plans, had fixed the estimated cost of the International Motor Company's extension at $22,000, Building Inspector T. O. Doane granted the permit this week. As stated previously in the Daily Press, the building will be 120x120 feet in dimensions, one and two stories high. It is to be located at 1325 West Front street, west of Clinton avenue.

PLAINFIELD PROPERTY SOLD AT SHERIFF'S SALE

As the result of actions in the Court of Chancery for the foreclosing of mortgages, Sheriff George C. Otto this week sold eight parcels of real estate.

Property in William street, Plainfield, was purchased by Mary A. Kinnitry, complainant in an action against Emma Campbell, for $500.

In an action brought by Gustave Schlorff against William Leary, property at Jaques and Division streets, in Rahway, was purchased by Alex Stamler for $100.

A property located on the road leading from Barnet's Mills to Westfield, in Cranford township, was purchased by the complainant in the suit brought by Electa B. Williams against Hugo Doernburg, for $250, subject to a mortgage of $3,500 and the 1914 taxes.

AUTHORIZE MONEY FOR SCHOOL.

The sum of $6,000 was authorized for the purchase of land on which to build a new school in the East End at the meeting of the Plainfield Common Council, Monday night. As told in this paper following the introduction of this resolution at a previous meeting, the $6,000 will be provided merely for the purpose of buying a suitable tract of land but the school itself will probably not be erected for another year, at least.

HOSPITAL GARAGE WELL ALONG.

The new brick garage in which the new ambulance for Muhlenberg Hospital will be housed is being pushed ahead rapidly. The ambulance is expected to arrive some time this month. At the present time it is in Rahway having the body placed on the chassis.

BUYS BERNARDS PROPERTY.

Charles Ingersoll, the Jersey City watch manufcturer, has purchased from S. S. Swaim the Van Dorn and Swaim estate in Bernards township, near Bernardsville, comprising eighty acres. Mr. Ingersoll will shortly begin the erection of costly residence.

AUGUST 7TH IN HISTORY.

480 B. C.—Famous battle at the pass of Thermopylae, when 300 Spartans withstood the entire army of Xesxes.

1679—LaSalle sailed on Lake Erie in the first vessel built upon that lake. The wrecked vessel has recently been found; its loss was a mystery.

1742—Born, Gen. Nathaniel Greene, famous Revolutionary leader.

1815—Bonaparte sailed on the British warship Northumberland for St. Helena.

1830—Throne of France declared vacant by chamber of deputies: after modifying the charter they called to the throne Louis Philippe and his male descendants forever.

1854—Turks entered Bucharest, now the capital of Roumania, after Russians had left.

1855—Bloody fight between Irish and Americans in St. Louis; 10 killed, many hurt.

BUILDING TRADES COUNCIL DISCUSSES NON-UNION JOBS

At a meeting of the Building Trades' Council last night the Saurer Motor Company's addition came up for discussion. It was claimed that the building is being erected by non-union labor, and it is likely that the machinists, at their meeting Monday night, will go over the situatino thoroughly, as the idea of union machinists working in a plant which is being built by non-union labor was distasteful to many present.

It was reported that the building being erected by the Gulf Refining Company, in Dunellen, is being built by non-union labor also.

BOROUGH BUILDING PERMITS.

Building permits issued last night by the North Plainfield Common Council were as follows:

Corra Ryno, of 9 Codington avenue a permit for the erection of a chicken coop on the rear of his property, the building to be 12x16 feet in dimensions.

William Debele, to erect a frame garage, 20x24 feet in dimensions, on his property, 128 Grove street. The garage is to be of frame construction, covered with corrugated iron.

C. W. McCutchen was granted a permit for two additions to his Rockview avenue residence, one to be 10x22 feet in dimensions, and the other 8x44 feet. Both are to be two stories high.

PROCTOR'S THEATRE

In this age of materialism we seek money, we read money, we sleep on our money, and see the filthy lucre in the "movies." For Monday afternoon and evening "Marrying Money" is to appear at Proctor's Theatre, with Clara Kimball Young playing the leading part. In this picture the materialistic, love and romance are welded together into one solid mass of motion-picture, which is well up to the Proctor standard of feature pictures.

The program for the remainder of next week includes the following schedule: Tuesday, "The Sealed Valley," with the brilliant emotional actress, Dorothy Donnelly; Wednesday, the ever-popular star, Mary Pickford, as "Little Nell;" Thursday, "Buckshot John," with an all-star cast; Friday, Theda Bara, in the society drama, "Lady Audley's Secret."

The Tuesday and Thursday matinees will again be of special iterest to the women folks, with the bobbling bracelets on the former afternoon and silver souvenir spoons on the latter day. Pony contest votes are given with each and every ticket.

"The Prize Story," a Universal drama in three parts, and featuring Harry Meyers and Rosemary Thelma; travel pictures, an episode in the serial photoplay, "The Goddess," and other pictures are booked for both this afternoon and tonight.

Hints for the Needle Worker

Marguerite Lace and Insertion.

Abbreviations: ch., chain; d.c., double crochet; tr., treble; l.t., long treble; d.l.t., double long treble.

Most simple to crochet, yet so very effective are these wheels when joined as an insertion for trimming casement window curtains, pillowslips, tray cloths, etc. Our design shows a pretty curtain for a window.

This lace is worked in crochet cotton No. 24 with a No. 5 steel hook. Begin with the lace. For the first flower work 5 ch., join into a ring by a slip stitch.

First round—4 ch. for long treble, 2 l.t. (cotton twice over needle) over the ring (keep the first two stitches on the needle and work them off with the third), * 5 ch., 3 l.t. over ring, work them off in the same way as first group; repeat from * six times.

Second round—Into each of the eight spaces of five chain work 1 d. c., 6 tr., 1 d. c. This completes one pattern. Work a second pattern and join to the first by the third treble on one pattern to the same treble on first pattern. Join them by two leaves. Leave two free leaves on both sides of joining. On the corner leave four free leaves on the outer edge.

The heading—1 d. c. into the first of two leaves on inner edge, 5 ch., 1 d. c. on next leaf, * 8 ch., 5 d. c. on first leaf on next pattern, 5 ch., 1 d. c. on second leaf on same pattern; repeat from *. On the corners, after working 5 ch., 1 d. c. on last leaf before corner, work 8 ch., 1 d. l. t. (cotton three times over needle) between two leaves on corner pattern, 3 ch., 1 d. c. into first leaf on next pattern.

Third round—* 9 d. c. over first space of eight chain, 4 ch. Turn back over four double crochet, draw the cotton through the fifth double crochet, over this small space work 8 d. c., 5 d. c. over same space as first nine double crochet were worked, 6 d. c. over next space of chain, 4 ch. Turn back over four double crochet, draw the cotton through the fifth double crochet and work 8 d. c. over this space; repeat from *. At the corners work 5 d. c. over each of the spaces of three chain on both sides of the double long treble on corner pattern.

For the insertion—Work the patterns and join them in the same way as for lace. See illustration for the placing of patterns for insertion. The edgings of the insertion are done in the same way as for the lace. On the outside edge of the corner pattern work 5 ch., between first and second leaves, 8 ch. between second and third, 8 ch. between third and fourth.

Pillow Slip Lace.

Abbreviations.—Ch., chain; tr., treble.

First Row.—Tr. in tenth st. (ch. 3 skips 3, 1 tr. in next st.) 8 times, making 9 spaces in all; 1 tr. in last st. turn.

Second Row.—Ch. 3 tr. in second tr., 7 spaces, 5 trs., 1 space, turn.

Third Row.—Ch. 9 tr. in tr., 3 under 3 ch., 1 in each of 5 tr., 3 under 3 ch., 1 in tr., 6 spaces, tr. in last tr. turn.

Fourth Row.—Ch. 3 tr. in tr., 5 spaces, 5 trs., 1 space, 5 trs., 1 space, space 5 trs., turn.

Fifth Row.—Ch. 12, 4 trs. over 12 ch. just made 5 trs. in 5 trs., 3 under 3 ch. tr. in tr. 1 space, 13 trs., 4 spaces, tr. in last tr., turn.

Sixth Row.—Ch. 3 tr., in tr., 5 spaces, 5 trs., 1 space, 5 trs., 1 space, 5 trs., turn.

Seventh Row.—Ch. 6, 13 trs., 6 spaces, tr. in last tr., turn.

Eighth Row.—Ch. 3 tr. in tr., 7 spaces, 5 tr., 1 space, turn.

Ninth Row.—Ch. 6 tr. in first tr., 8 more spaces, tr. in last tr., turn.

When you have as much as you need, break and work a picot edge around each scallop, as follows:

Fasten thread in first space of scallop; ch. 5, 11 d. c., 5 ch., 1 d. c., 6 ch., 1 d. c., 5 ch., 1 d. c.; in next loop, ch. 5, 1, 1 d. c., 6 ch., 1 d. c., 7 ch.; 1 d. c., 6 ch., 1 d. c., 1 in center loop; ch. 5 1 d. c., 5 ch., 1 d. c., 6 ch., 1 d. c., in center space between two scallops, ch. 5, 1 d. c., in 1 st. loop of second scallop, etc. to end.

Baked Beets.

Beets retain their sugary, delicate flavor to perfection if they are baked instead of boiled. Turn them frequently while in the oven, using a knife, as a fork allows the juice to run out. When done remove the skin and serve with butter, salt and pepper on the slices.

The man or woman who have not the habit of "trying again" very often fail as want advertisers, wholly for that reason.

VACATION TIME FUN.

Why Don't You Begin Gathering Christmas Gifts Now?

The "Do Your Christmas Shopping Early" signs, which make their appearance between four and five months from now, really ought to be tacked up in the summer, for that is the very best time to shop as far as the comfort that comes from uncrowded stores is concerned.

So why don't you do your Christmas shopping now? If you are in the city look about the shops at your leisure and choose your gifts carefully. You will find uncrowded aisles and experienced and rested salesmen and saleswomen, a far different condition from that which prevails after the 1st of December.

If you are traveling about the United States this summer buy your gifts on your travels. Make out a list of such friends as you wish to remember with gifts at Christmas, and whenever you find anything that would make a particular appeal to one of them buy it and make note of it.

If you are spending the summer at the shore or in the country or in the mountains you can still do much toward getting your Christmas gifts together. Even if there are no shops near at hand there are lovely things to be had for a little pleasure giving exertion on your part.

Suppose you have a summer home in the country. Why not make jams and jellies of the wild fruits in your neighborhood? Wild plum conserve, wild grape jelly, wild blackberry jam—all these have a delicious flavor if properly made. At the nearest country store you can probably get attractive little jam pots in which these preserves, jams and jellies can be packed. If not, you can send to the nearest city for a consignment of the right sort of glasses or jars.

Half a dozen jars of jam packed into a little basket would make a most welcome gift to a young girl at college next Christmas. Four jars of assorted jelly daintily tied with holly and ribbons would be welcomed by an invalid friend, and the fact that they were made from wild fruits would carry a suggestion of freshness and health.

If you cannot make these preserves yourself perhaps you can buy them at some farmhouse. And perhaps there will be jars of extracted honey for sale and cakes of maple sugar. Or perhaps you can make little net bags to fill with sweet lavender blossoms, first put in colored silk bags.

Pillows filled with pine needles and covered with linen covers that may be appropriately embroidered or stenciled with cones are another dainty gift from the country.

For a child in school a scrapbook filled with carefully mounted specimens of wild flowers would prove useful and interesting. And you might dig up some small ferns in the woods and start them growing in pots. Later they could be put in pretty basket holders for gifts.

From the seashore bayberry candles, hand dipped, of course, are an appropriate gift. They can be given in sets of four or six, or one can be set in a candlestick of brass or pottery.

Bundles of driftwood, too, are welcomed by the woman with a fireplace. And bags or boxes or unusual shells are liked by small children.

SOME SANDWICHES.

Pumpernickel Sandwiches.

Slice thin, butter, cover with slices of bologna and a little chopped dill pickle.

Rye Bread Sandwiches.

Between well buttered slices of rye bread spread a layer each of wafer thin slices of Bermuda onions, lightly salted, and bologna sausage.

Cheese and Anchovy Sandwiches.

Blend well together Parmesan cheese and anchovy, one part of the fish to two of cheese. Add a little dill and spread between slices of zwieback.

Honey Sandwiches.

Spread honey between slices of bread and butter, taking care that it does not run over the edges.

Fig Sandwiches.

Chop figs fine, add a little water and cook slowly until the right consistency for spreading. Add a few chopped nut meats and a little finely shredded orange peel and spread between thin slices of brown bread.

Of Interest to Women and the Home

For Young Folks

Teddy Roosevelt 3d Is a Happy Outdoor Youngster.

© 1915, by American Press Association.

As his picture indicates, Teddy Roosevelt 3d is a wholesome and robust little lad. He is a great favorite of his famous grandfather and spends much of his time at the ex-president's home at Oyster Bay, N. Y. He is the son of Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., and is the third of his family to bear the well known name. The youngest Teddy is very fond of bathing and may frequently be seen sporting in the waves at Southampton, N. Y. It was at this resort that the camera man snapped Teddy 3d. He had just emerged from a ducking in the waves, but was good natured and willingly posed for his photograph. He is too young to swim as yet, but by this time next year, if he inherits the qualities of his grandfather, he will have acquired that accomplishment.

Proverb Puzzle.

In each of the following ten sayings a word of five letters is omitted. When these ten words are rightly guessed and placed one below another in the order here given the central letters reading downward will spell the name of a famous poet, who was born in February, 1807:

1. Idle —are always meddling.
2. A bird in — by its note and a man by his talk.
3. Make yourself all — and the flies will devour you.
4. A — is a fool's argument.
5. — a fool your finger and he will take your whole hand.
6. A small leak will sink a — ship.
7. A person's — ought to be his greatest secret.
8. He that shows his ill temper — his enemy where he may hit him.
9. A rascal — rich has lost all his kindred.
10. Do as most do and — will speak ill of thee.

Answer.—Longfellow. Words—folks, known, honey, fight, offer, great, folly, tells, grown, fewer.

A New Way to Play With the Sea.

The traditional way to play with the surf is to dive through the breakers. There is, however, another game that is still more riotous fun and gives the waves a fairer chance.

The bather wades out to the line where the breakers begin to curl and the water is about shoulder deep and stands facing out to sea with his eye on the coming wave. Just before the wave begins to lift to form the breaker the bather throws himself on his back and floats in that way—head toward the shore, feet toward the sea. If he has judged time and distance correctly the curling breaker will pick up the bather, feet first, turn him heels over head and leave him standing on his feet, ready for the next wave. If he misjudges the timing or the distance—well, that is the game—the wave scores.

It takes large breakers to turn a grown man, as large breakers as people often bathe in, but ordinary surf will do the trick for a boy.—Youth's Companion.

A Strange Word.

There is a word in the dictionary which you may read forward or backward without changing it one iota, either in meaning or letters. Write the word out in capitals and analyze it. The letters are now in procession. Mother is in the lead, sister Ada is conspicuous in the center, while poor papa—the father of us all—is in the rear.

Again, if children reassemble the first part of this word they will be crazy, and if their boats go over the last part they will probably be drowned. What is this mysterious word?

Answer: Madam. Words: Ada, Adam, mad, dam.—Chicago News.

At the Telephone.

Hello, daddy! Is that you?
This is little "Eyes o' Blue."
How are you today?
I am feeling very well,
Going downtown with Auntie Bell
To the matinee.

Auntie says we'll see a show
About a boy who wouldn't grow
Up to be a man.
Teddy bears and fairies, too—
I can scarcely wait, could you?
It's called "Peter Pan."

Daddy, don't forget you said
When you broke poor dolly's head,
And I didn't cry,
You would get me a new doll
With a hat and parasol;
Dont' forget. Goodby!

Daddy's Bedtime Story — The Little Story That Wanted To Be Told.

Sometimes it hovered about a mastodon.

"I WONDER if I ever told you about the little story that wanted to be told?" asked daddy of Jack and Evelyn when they came to him for the evening tale. "And how bad it felt because it seemed to it that nobody was ever going to tell it?"

"Why, no, daddy!" answered Evelyn, laughing. "That sounds odd."

"Well," answered daddy, with a smile, "it is an odd story for a fact, a story about a story. In fact, it is a story about the first story that ever was.

"It was away back in the beginning of things, the times of which I have told you upon occasions. The world was very young then, and the people were not much as they are now. They lived in caves and wore skins for clothing, and for a long time they had no language. They used to let one another know what they meant by strange gruntings and motions.

"I think it was about the time that these queer people began to acquire a real language that one another could understand that the first little story hovered around, anxious to be told. But nobody could tell it because, you see, nobody knew enough."

"Yes, daddy," interrupted Jack, "but what was that little story about, anyway?"

"Why," explained daddy, "it was about anything that should come to the mind of the first person who should think to tell it. You see, it was the spirit of the story, something that nobody had learned to tell yet.

"So that poor little story just had to wait to be told, and it grew very much discouraged sometimes, for it seemed to it that nobody would ever learn to tell it. Sometimes it hovered about a mastodon, which was like a very great big elephant, hoping that somebody would see it there and make up a tale about that terrible creature, and sometimes it would linger near a sunrise or a sunset or perhaps near the breeze in the forest.

"But one day it found its chance to be told and in the queerest way.

"A mamma went out of her cave one day to see some of the neighbors, for people had learned to talk some then, and they did enjoy it, and she left a little boy with his papa.

"And that little boy was very cross and fretted, and his daddy didn't know what to do to quiet him, and the story that was waiting to be told was up in a tree near by just at that moment, and it saw its chance.

"Quick as thought it flew to the daddy's ear and whispered to him, and the daddy saw a great light and told sonny about how the tree grew, and stories have been told by daddies ever since."

SOUTH'S WEEK AT FAIR.

San Francisco, Aug. 7.—The week of August 8 to 14 is "The South's Week" at the Panama-Pacific Exposition. Under the direction of the Southern Commercial Congress a large party of Southerners is arriving by special trains today. Clarence J. Owens, managing director of the Congress, is in charge of the South's celebration at the Fair. State and city officials from Southern States, executives of civic and commercial organizations, officials of patriotic associations and a host of industrial leaders of the South will take part.

August 9 has been officially designated as "Dixie Day," by the Exposition officials. On that day the visitors will be welcomed by California officials, and a mass meeting, with speeches and plenty of enthusiasm, is planned.

AIDS CITIZENSHIP.

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 7.—The report that the Kaiser is to take steps to bring charges against Germans working in munition factories in the United States that are supplying war munitions to the Allies has stimulated interest in naturalization, according to employes of the naturalization division of the clerk of court's office. It is said that there is a constantly increasing number of inquiries about naturalization, and many of the inquirers are Germans and Austrians.

ZEPPELIN'S FIRST FLIGHT AT ST. PAUL

Origin of Airship Ideas Fifty-two Years Ago at Minnesota City.

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 7.—Count Ferdinand von Zeppelin, the airship inventor, has admitted that he was "Count Steiner" who experimented with balloon flight in St. Paul in 1863. His first aerial trip, he now admits, was made on August 9, 1863, at St. Paul, and it was while he was sailing aloft on that initial trip that the possibilities of aerial navigation and aerial warfare fixed themselves in his mind. He returned to Germany and spent his life and fortune trying to accomplish the endless task of overcoming the forces of gravitation, winds and weather.

Zeppelin met with his difficulties at once when he was able to ascend into the clouds. But on August 9, with no less a distinguished guest than the daughter of the Governor, he made his successful flight. Alexander Ramsey, the War Governor of Minnesota, was to have journeyed up with him, but was too busy that day so that little Marion Ramsey was his substitute. Miss Ramsey is now Mrs. C. E. Furness, of St. Paul, and she recalls the balloon ascension.

"I can remember making the flight," she says, "but did not realize until now that the pilot was so distinguished a person as Count von Zeppelin. I enjoyed my trip, and was glad that mother was not there to stop me from going up."

St. Paul at the time was a frontier town, and gas was a scarce article. The balloon he used was owned by an army officer, who was experimenting with it as a captive balloon. Zeppelin's determination finally secured enough gas to give the buoyancy for a flight. The thrill of adventure was then in his veins, for the Count was then only twenty-five years old. While sailing over the forests and lakes, he conceived the idea of the dirigible, the application of power to directing the movements of gas airships. Instead of drifting with the breezes, he believed it possible to fol- [illegible] war machine could be produced. Later on, when the gas engine was perfected the Count was able to secure the needed power, and in his half-century of experimenting since his flight here he has demonstrated his theories to be entirely practical.

The Count, though seventy-seven years old now, is hoping to see the day when one of his pet Zeppelins will cross the Atlantic, and nothing would please him more than to be at the helm and pilot the craft to St. Paul, where he obtained his inspiration.

Glimpses of Married Life

BY MRS. EVA LEONARD

"My, but it's good to see you." Nell drew a low stool up to Olive's easy chair and laid her cheek on her hand. "Now, begin at the beginning and tell me all about yourself."

"At the beginning," laughed Olive, "do you refer to the hour of my birth?"

"Of course not. Begin where we left off when I was in Detroit at Christmas time. You have not said much about Mr. Joplin in your letters. Is he laid away in lavender as a mere memory? You owe it to your former suitors to retire them with that much respect."

"It would not take a large compartment to put them in, all duly swaddled with sentiment. I have had almost no suitors. I've had what I value much more: men friends. Poor Mr. Joplin is an exception. I say poor not from pity, but because he is made of poor stuff."

"Why, Olive, he's from one of the finest old families in New England," expostulated Nell, raising her head.

"Can't help it; maybe the family has deteriorated," said Olive.

"What makes you think so?" Nell had every faculty awake, trying to understand. Olive had a way of wading into things while she dabbled in the shallows, unable to follow.

"A man who is made of proper stuff will not be driven to drink or to the devil cross lots by any disappointment."

"Do you mean——" interrupted Nell.

"I mean he wants me to marry him to save him, as he expresses it, and I think a man who needs a woman to save him is not worth saving."

"Why, Olive!" There was pained surprise in Nell's tone.

"A real man may be bruised by the bludgeons of fate, but he'll not slump into himself for long. He'll get his breath, raise his head and face the future. Mr. Joplin has slumped; he's not studying; he's loafing. He flunked in two subjects last semester, and he's doing some drinking. He's in danger of being sent home in disgrace, all because I don't choose to marry him. Bah!" Olive grimaced in disgust.

"But think of it! He has had absolutely everything all his life; that's no preparation for the greatest disappointment a man can suffer," said Nell in extenuation.

"That's true. I must try to be fair, but weakness in a man is so absolutely obnoxious to me that I find it hard to be patient."

"Well, the doctor is certainly strong. Look at the way he bore his seven years' purgatory with that wife of his, and all the public scandal of the divorce. He is always cheery; you would never imagine he had been submerged again and again in the sea of trouble." Nell watched the color creep up into Olive's face as she talked and secretly exulted.

"There's a man," said Olive simply, and dropped the subject.

"Can't something be done for Mr. Joplin?" resumed Nell, a pucker between her eyes. "I liked him so much. I can't bear to think of his going under. You could swim in any sea, but a line must be thrown to some or they will drown."

"So daddy says. He says I am as hard as a green apple, but he hopes I will mellow with age."

"What would he have you do?" asked Nell.

"That's what I asked him, and he replied: 'Feel for him.' He says sympathy might pull him out; that I am pushing him under with my contempt, but feelings are not made to order. That is, feelings that are worth while. I squeeze out a little trickle of sympathy for him, but a flood of contempt swallows it all up. It's like a strong, healthy person trying to sympathize with a chronic invalid." Olive leaned back in her chair and began to hum softly.

"That can be done," persisted Nell; "I've seen it."

"Yes, when love existed between the two to aid in understanding. Love can interpret anything, but I don't love; that is the trouble."

Household Hints

RECIPES

Waldorf Salad—Six apples, four stalks celery, one-quarter cup chopped nuts, four chopped figs. Cut up apples and celery and mix with nuts and figs and pour dressing over the whole.

Boiled Dressing—One teaspoonful salt, one teaspoonful mustard, one tablespoonful sugar, one egg, one cup milk, one-half cup lemon juice, two tablespoonfuls flour, one tablespoonful butter. Mix dry ingredients, add egg beaten slightly, then milk, lemon juice and butter. Put in a sauce pan over the fire and stir constantly until thick. Remove from fire, strain and set aside to cool.

Cream of Tomato Soup—Two cups tomato juice, one pint milk, three tablespoons butter, two tablespoons flour, one teaspoon salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper, one-quarter teaspoon soda. Scald milk and make white sauce. Just before serving add soda to hot tomato juice. Stir and then add to white sauce. Serve at once.

Peanut Cookies—Two tablespoons butter, one-quarter cup sugar, one egg, one teaspoon baking powder, one-quarter teaspoon salt, one-half cup flour, two tablespoons milk, one-half teaspoon lemon juice, one-half cup peanuts, cream, butter and sugar. Add well-beaten egg. Mix and sift baking powder, salt and flour. Add to first mixture. Then add chopped peanuts, milk and lemon juice. Drop from teaspoon onto buttered sheets. Bake from twelve to fifteen minutes.

Combination Salad—Wash a head of romaine salad in several cold waters. Then take large shears and strip the leaves into pieces about an inch wide. Clip green peppers in the same way, cutting these almost to threads. Put these in a large bowl, add some canned asparagus tips carefully drained of liquid, two tablespoonfuls of chopped chives and four tender beets cut in thin slices, and then throw in the tender hearts of two bunches of celery, cut in small pieces. Use French dressing made of olive oil, salt, pepper and lemon juice. This salad should be kept as cold as ice before serving.

DAINTY WAYS IN COOKING

Dandelion leaves are excellent when chopped finely and mixed with salad. A delicious sandwich filling is made by working minced dandelion leaves with seasoned butter.

When making apple sauce, after washing the fruit, cut it up without removing the skin or core. Press sauce through a sieve.

Grated orange rind is excellent for flavoring cakes and puddings.

BAKED CUCUMBERS

Peel medium-sized cucumbers, arrange them in a baking dish, and pour about them two tablespoonfuls of water in which has been melted one tablespoonful of butter. Dust with salt and pepper and bake, covered, for half an hour.

HANDY ARTICLE

Here is a practical use for a discarded hot water bag. Cut the bag a little less than the size of an embroidered doily, which has a lining with a small opening left in one side, bind the rubber mat all around with a bias piece of white linen and slip inside the doily, to set under hot plates or fern dishes that have a tendency to leak.

BRILLIANT BATH MATS

Bath mats have taken on all the colors of the rainbow. For a dollar one can buy a mat in one's favorite shade—deep red, pink, brown, blue, green, yellow and violet. These mats can very well be used to repeat the color scheme of the bedroom or hall the bathroom adjoins. Some of them are made in squares, like tiles. Some have a thick, indistinct design that covers the entire mat. Some are made with borders of color and white contrasting.

FIVE MONTHS OF WAR COST FRANCE $1,280,000,000.

The first five months of the great war cost France exactly 6,403,000,000 francs ($1,280,000,000). This is shown by the report of the budget committee on supplementary military and naval credits just issued.

GERMANS SHOOT FIRE FROM A NEW DEVICE.

Carried on the Back and Projects a Long Flame on Trenches.

London.—The correspondent of the Morning Post at British headquarters sends the following description of the German "fire projector" attack on the British trenches at Hooge:

"At 3:30 o'clock in the morning the German attack began. A tremendous fire was concentrated from three sides upon the Hooge salient. There was a direct fire of five inch and field guns against our parapet, in addition to high explosive shells of longer range and a rain of every sort of bomb from trench mortars. After over half an hour of this the enemy crept toward our battered parapets by saps they had carried forward and began to play upon what was left of the defenders with fire projectors.

"The fire projector is carried strapped to the back exactly as is a fire extinguisher and apparently contains some inflammable oil under pressure which, when the cock is opened, projects a long, flaming jet.

"Weakened by the tremendous shelling they had undergone and with defenses badly knocked about, the troops holding the salient had to relinquish the trenches on the north side of the road and fell back slowly from the ridge.

"Owing to delays inseparable from the situation, it was impossible to get a counterattack into shape before 3 o'clock in the afternoon. Then the advance was made partly under cover of an irregular piece of forest known as the Zouave wood, which offered the only concealment, but from the ridge east of Hooge German guns swept the wood. The whole place looked as though it had been thrashed with a flail of thunderbolts, yet the troops held on to it and even succeeded with the greatest gallantry in advancing to the edge of it facing the enemy, which was found, in German fashion, to be completely swept by machine gun crossfire, so advance beyond it was almost certain death. None the less, the advance was repeatedly attempted, and small isolated parties of officers and men succeeded in getting right up to the barbed wire in front of the enemy's trenches. We were in the end obliged to be content with holding the line of the wood to which the troops had clung with such determination."

ADMIRAL BADGER RETIRES.

His Career in the Navy One of Service and Honor.

Rear Admiral Charles J. Badger of the general board of the navy, who since his retirement as commander in chief of the Atlantic fleet last year has made Washington his home, goes on the retired list after forty-six years in the navy, twenty-five of which have been at sea. He has sailed on every sea, has been superintendent at Annapolis, was one of the officers who participated in the famous Greely relief expedition to the Arctic and was the senior commanding officer in Mexican waters for months following the taking of Vera Cruz by the marines and bluejackets under Fletcher, his successor to the Atlantic fleet command.

Admiral Badger is a Marylander. His father was the late Commodore Oscar C. Badger, U. S. N., and Ensign Badger, U. S. N., is his son. President Taft made him commander in chief of the Atlantic fleet, and President Wilson made him a member of the general board.

As superintendent at Annapolis he was known as "Square Deal" Badger, a nickname that has stuck to him ever since. He was a strict disciplinarian, but just.

INVENTS KISS RESONATOR.

Device Records Osculatory Sounds, but Joshua Needs Another Machine.

A kiss resonator, that's the invention of Joshua Conkling Reeves of Stoyestown, Pa.

Necessity, some one said, is the mother of invention. Joshua is the father of three perfectly kissable daughters. Men called on them sometimes. Joshua felt his parental responsibility, so he invented the resonator.

"It ketches and increases sound," Joshua explains. "When there is any kissin' goin' on in the parlor the sound floats through this machine and I hear it all, but much louder. Jist common kissin' on the cheek or neck sounds like a B. and O. train goin' over Turkey Foot crossin', and long huggin' kisses are like the wind blowin' in November. Good night kissin' sounds like cannon shot.

"What I need now is a machine that will tell me what to do about it."

"Automobile Eye Tire."

The "automobile eye tire" and much of the headaches and so called neuralgic headaches are not headaches, but merely inflammation of the ocular muscles, Dr. Franklin Baker of Philadelphia told the Physical Therapeutics society of the American Institute of Homeopathy.

You need not keep "on your hands," to your present disadvantage, any real estate that is "good enough to advertise."

MORTGAGES AS INVESTMENTS FOR IDLE FUNDS

There is no better form of investment for those who desire a higher rate than the 4% paid in our Special Department, than mortgages on well selected property on a 50% basis.

This Company invests a certain amount of its funds in gilt edge mortgages and is willing to sell participations in these mortgages from time to time to persons desiring conservative investments.

We are always pleased to talk over the matter of investments with persons having idle funds in an endeavor to be of service and will be glad to submit our offerings to anyone who may be interested.

Many Prizes As Incentives to Keen Competition—Addresses By Well-Known Statesmen—An Exclusive Meeting For Two Suburbs.

The community picnic which will be held in Scotch Plains Wednesday will have as one of its features a monster athletic meet, open only to those who live either in Scotch Plains or Fanwood.

The day's events will begin with a parade to the grounds, in which the Boy Scouts and school children will take a prominent part. Upon arriving at the picnic grounds, the flag-raising will be held, followed by the running-off of the children's games, Boy Scouts' exhibitions and junior athletic meet. At noon a recess and lunch hour will be allowed, activities being resumed at 1:30, when addresses by Governor James F. Fielder and Assemblyman William N. Runyon will be delivered. Following the Governor's address, short speeches of welcome will be made by U. S. Senator J. E. Martine, Senator Carleton B. Pierce, Congressman J. H Capstick, Assemblymen Arthur N. Pierson and William N. Runyon and G. A. R. veterans. Directly after this section of the program is completed, the senior athletic meet will be held, and at 4 o'clock the Benedict-Bachelor baseball game will begin.

Music will be poured forth at regular intervals by the Westfield band, and salutes will be given by all the Boy Scouts upon the arrival of the Governor.

Points for all the athletic events will be awarded as follows: Five for a first prize, three for a second and one for a third.

The following are the events which will be run off in the junior section of the bill, boys and girls under sixteen being the only ones allowed to compete: Girls—50-yard dash, three-legged race, shoe race, chariot race, potato race, running hop, skip and jump; first prize ribbons in each event. Boys—100-yard dash, canteen; 100-yard sack race, fishing pole; running broad jump, bowie knife; three-legged race, points only; potato race, points only; 440-yard relay race, Scout axe; obstacle race, Scout knife.

Senior athletic events:

Girls—50-yard dash, potato race, three-legged race, hop, skip and jump, baseball throwing, relay race.

Boys—Fat man's race, 100 yards; obstacle race, 100 yards; sack race, 100 yards; three-legged race, 100 yards; standing broad jump, running high jump, running hop, skip and jump, shot put, 110-yard dash, 440-yard dash.

To the winner in the men's mile run the Plainfield Daily Press silver cup will be presented. The person who registers the largest total of points will receive the Fanwood Lumber and Supply Company's cup, while the Courier cup will go to the winner in the girls' quarter-mile run. Bronze medals will be awarded to the winners in the boys' contests.

The athletic officials are: Starter, E. Tulloch; timer, L. Morgan.

POSTPONED TWICE, CHURCH FESTIVAL FINALLY HELD

After having been postponed twice on account of the rainy weather, the ice cream festival and home-made candy and cake sale under the auspices of the consistory of Trinity Reformed church was held Saturday night on the lawn at East Front and Church streets. About $100 was realized, which will go to reduce the church debt.

The members of the class of Henry P. Seader had charge of the tables and the waitresses; P. A. Vroom's class solicited the home-made cake and looked after the sale of it, while Mrs. Woodruff's class did the same with the home-made candy. The Dutch Arms Band presented a pleasing program of music during the evening from a band stand erected with lumber donated by the Boice-Runyon Company. Charles Ryder strung the electric wires and placed the lamps gratis.

The committee in charge of the affair was composed of William Trembath, chairman; Mayor Robert Clark, Jr., of North Plainfield; A. K. Willett, H. E. Gayle, E. F. Sheppard, T. R. VanZandt, L. M. Leek, W. R. Kriney, J. Miller, Frederick S. Cutter, F. E. Smith and W. F. Oliver.

"JACK" GAFFNEY "OFF."

John A. Gaffney, of the reportorial staff of the Courier-News, today started a two weeks' vacation to be spent at various points of interest.

BOY CAUGHT RIDING STOLEN BICYCLE

Arrested In Borough Yesterday and Held For a Hearing This Afternoon.

Charged with stealing a bicycle, Clarence Garthwait, the sixteen-year-old son of Mrs. Wesley W. Garthwait, of Harmony street, is awaiting a hearing in North Plainfield police headquarters before Justice Thomas H. Snape at 4 o'clock this afternoon. While Garthwait is alleged to have stolen two bicycles, he is being held for a hearing on a charge of stealing only one, a Pierce wheel belonging to Joseph Blatz, of Somerset street. The other alleged theft took place in Plainfield.

Marshal Pope arrested young Garthwait yesterday after quite a chase. Robert Campbell, who rooms at the Y. M. C. A., stepped into borough police headquarters late yesterday afternoon and declared that he had just seen a boy go along riding a wheel which was stolen from him in Plainfield some time ago. Getting a description of the boy, Pope immediately recognized him and set off on the trail. Garthwait evidently realized that he was being pursued by the marshal and gave the official quite a lengthy chase before the latter came up with him.

As the alleged theft of the Campbell bicycle had occurred in Plainfield, Acting Chief Marshal Keller expected to turn the boy over to the Plainfield police, but subjecting him to a grilling first, Keller finally obtained an admission from the prisoner that he had stolen a wheel belonging to Joseph Blatz, and upon this admission, he was held for the borough authorities. The boy is said by the police to be giving his mother grave concern over his escapades.

STATE PAINTERS WERE IN SESSION HERE

Reports Prove Lack of Work—Delegates Shown City In Automobiles.

That work among the journeymen painters of the State is slack this summer, was evidenced in the reports from the various districts presented yesterday at the State Journeymen Painters' Conference held in Building Trades Council Hall. Only fifty per cent. of the union painters of the State are working at present, and this is the season of the year when work ordinarily is plentiful. The reports were an echo of the stringent times that are being complained of everywhere.

The painters came to Plainfield for an all-day session. The business meeting opened at 10:30 o'clock in the morning and lasted until about noon. President Joseph Mehl, of Elizabeth, presided. There were about forty delegates present, including some from New York and Brooklyn, who met with the New Jersey Conference.

In the afternoon the delegates were given an automoabile ride about the city in cars donated for the purpose by the following Plainfield business men: M. C. VanArsdale Frank Linke, A. E. Force and William C. Krausse. Upon their return the delegates expressed their delight with the city. Some of the painters visited Plainfield yesterday for the first time.

A reception was held upon the conclusion of the automobile ride. This was in charge of Painters' Local Union, No. 480, of Plainfield. The committee consisted of Allen Anderson, Ernest Rhodes, Andrew Love, John Donaldson and John Cordova.

LOCAL MAN'S AUTOMOBILE INJURES NEWARK CHINAMAN

As he alighted from a jitney bus at Broad street and Central avenue, Newark, yesterday, Wing Lee, a Chinese laundryman, living at 454 Orange street, Newark, was struck by an automobile owned and driven by Herbert Van Fleet, of 716 South avenue, this city. The victim was removed to the City Hospital, believed to be suffering from a fractured skull.

Van Fleet was arrested and paroled, pending the outcome of the Chinaman's injuries. This was one of a series of accidents to jitney bus patrons in Newark yesterday.

MRS. WALTER L. HERVEY HELD SUFFRAGE CROWD

Made Telling Argument at Saturday Night Street Meeting.

At the postoffice corner Saturday night, there was the usual flash of yellow, and a banner bearing the inscription, "Equal Suffrage League of Plainfield and North Plainfield," explained the gathering crowd.

Mrs. Walter L. Hervey was the speaker of the evening and made an admirable address. Dr. Hervey was to have been present also, but was unavoidably detained. Mrs. Hervey said in part:

"I believe in woman suffrage because I am a grown-up human being in a Democracy. I want to be a full citizen. Now women are counted as citizens only when men want to count them as such. I am counted in when they are counting the population to see how many Assemblymen we can have—I am not counted a citizen when it comes to casting a ballot for Assemblymen.

"In the second place," she continued, "I believe in woman suffrage because I am a woman and want the woman's point of view expressed in politics.

"In Copenhagen there are women councilors in the City Hall and I was proudly told by one of the men councilors 'You should see how well the children are cared for.'

"I also believe in woman suffrage because I am a taxpayer. In New York we Suffragists are paying our taxes, but at the same time protesting that it is taxation without representation. I believe in woman suffrage because the State needs both its men and women.

"Lastly I am a Suffragist because the vote is a step toward equality of opportunity and equality of moral standards—levelling up not down."

Mrs. Hervey gave an interesting description of her home occupation and showed how they all were affected by politics. Many in the audience smiled when she told how no man crosses the threshold of her apartment in New York without being asked his opinion on the vital question of Votes for Women.

Champlin L. Riley, following Mrs. Hervey, said there was great hope for Democracy when women like Mrs. Hervey so earnestly asked for the vote. And he claimed they are asking for it in increasingly large numbers. "Women," he said, "have been educated to a point where they inevitably ask for enfranchisement." J. W. Harrison was the last speaker.

The speakers, in answer to a question, as to whether women wanted the ballot, told of straw votes taken in fifteen New York towns where Miss Helen Todd and Miss Lucy Price have been debating the question of woman suffrage.

Woman suffrage won the debates by a proportion of 11 to 4.

The balloting began at Perry, where the suffrage majority was 39; at LeRoy, 135; at Batavia, 164; at Brockport, 110; at Albion, 148; at Lyndonville, 139; at Honeoye Falls, 72; at Canandaigua, 96; at Cortland, 106; at Greene, 51, and at Walton, 188.

RECORDER HAND DISPOSES OF FOUR POLICE CASES

Four cases were disposed of in the North Plainfield police court this morning by Recorder Fred W. Hand. All of them were drunk or drunk and disorderly cases except one, which was an arrest for not paying a fine levied last May.

Catherine Cahill, 65 years old, of Plainfield, was fined ten dollars in the borough police court on May 25 last and allowed to go upon her promise to pay the money in a short time. She has not paid it yet, so when Catherine ventured within the borough confines Saturday night she was recognized by Marshal Herrmann, who knew the circumstances surrounding her previous arrest and release, and locked her up. This morning Recorder Hand released her again upon her promise to pay her fine money within two weeks.

William Garrigal, 48 years old, of North Plainfield, was picked up on Somerset street late Saturday night by Marshal Herrmann. Pleading guilty to a charge of being drunk, he was fined five dollars.

Wilbur Russell, colored, 40 years old, who resides in French's alley, was arrested by Roundsman Keller Saturday night while he was using profane language. He was charged with being drunk and disorderly and was fined five dollars.

Harry Serpion, 25 years old, of 10 Somerset place, was fined five dollars for being drunk and disorderly. He was charged with fighting with August Podreco Saturday night. Marshal Herrmann made the arrest.

NO VERDICT FROM SPICER OFFICIALS

Concern Will Continue to Operate On Old Schedule Until Further Notice.

VISITED BY LABOR MEN

Riley and Carroll Went to South Plainfield This Morning, But Would Give Out No Report Concerning Conference.

Indications that opposition may develop from an unlooked for quarter to the machinists' demand for an eight-hour day came this morning, when the officials of the Spicer Manufacturing Company refused to make an announcement concerning their decision in the matter. When called on the telephone by a Daily Press reporter, Mr. Dana, the superintendent, said that there was nothing new in the situation and that his concern "was working on the old schedule and would continue to work on it until further notice."

Thomas E. Carroll, agent for the International Machinists' Union, and Hugh Riley, business agent for District No. 47, visited the plant this morning, but when seen by a Daily Press reporter upon their return they were non-committal. Asked if the outlook was an optimistic one they refused to make any assertion and the outlook at the present time is such as to warrant much concern.

When the movement for an eight-hour day was originally launched it was stated that every factory would be compelled to meet the demands prior to August 15, so the Spicer Company still has five days of grace under that agreement.

Rumors that the officials of the plant would make an announcement during Saturday's outing to Atlantic Highlands proved groundless and no intimation was made of a decision, favorable or otherwise.

When interviewed by a reporter this afternoon, Mr. Dana said that he had just returned from New York, but admitted that the labor representatives might have conferred with other officials of the plant. Both Riley and Carroll say they were received at the company's offices.

Mr. Dana further stated that the matter would be brought to the attention of the company's officials "in the near future" and said that a decision would positively not be made public until after that meeting.

HOLY JUMPERS ARE STOPPED BY POLICE

Chief Kiely Put An End to Meeting In Dignified Manner Saturday Night.

Activity on the part of the police and city officials over the week-end indicates that some drastic action is brewing over the Pillar of Fire question, a topic that has been troubling local minds for some time past. During Saturday night's session at Park avenue and West Second street one of the speaker's remarks became so objectionable that Chief of Police Kiely, who was one of the spectators, felt called upon to step into the middle of the "ring" and request the representatives of the sect to disperse. His demand was heeded without an utterance but the same delegation appeared at the spot again last night.

Among the spectators who attended the Sunday night meeting were several councilmen and members of the police force. It is apparent that careful attention is being paid to the remarks of the speakers by the city authorities and this activity, in the minds of some, indicates that the city fathers have something "up their sleeve."

The action of Chief Kiely, Saturday night, was commented upon in a highly favorable light by those who happened to be on the scene and had the "Holy Jumpers" remonstrated, it is said that the temper of the crowd was such that serious trouble might have been expected.

HEROIC COP STOPS HORSE'S MAD RUN

Patrolman Brower Crashed Into Trolley Car After He Had Grabbed Bridle.

For the second time in three days, a horse attached to a grocery delivery wagon belonging to Simon Joseph took fright this morning, and ran on a wild rampage through the city streets, endangering lives and property along its course. The animal was brought to a standstill at Park avenue and Front street through the heroic efforts of Patrolman Harry Brower after it had raced at breakneck speed through East Sixth street from Richmond and into Park avenue through the crowded business section. A number of pedestrians narrowly escaped injury at street crossings and the wagon in its surging course missed by small margins a score of other vehicles.

At the juncture of Park avenue and Front street Traffic Policeman Brower leaped out and grabbed the bridle of the animal. A few seconds later horse and policeman crashed into a trolley car that had stopped directly in front of Park avenue, blocink the steed's further progress.

That Brower was not impaled on the shafts or otherwise seriously injured is considered a miracle by the many eye-witnesses at the end of the equine's dash, all of whom were profound in their praise of the officer. Aside from a slightly wrenched shoulder he was none the worse for having been jammed into the car by the horse.

Joseph claims the animal took fright as he was getting off the wagon. The horse is the same one that created havoc on Somerset street Saturday by running away on that thoroughfare.

SUSPICIOUS GYPSIES ROUNDED UP BY COP

Welsh Marshalled An Unusual Parade of Twenty-five Through Streets.

Anyone who happened to see Patrolman Martin Welsh marshalling a caravan of twenty-five thoroughbred gypsies through the West End section of the city to police headquarters Saturday afternoon might have been prompted to believe that the popular copper was being kidnapped. Welsh appeared at police headquarters in the centre of a troop of wrangling, jabbering, dark-skinned wanderers and City Judge DeMeza and others who happened to be at the station house at the time proceeded immediately to aid the officer in assembling his "finds."

According to what information could be secured from a handful of indignant Plainfielders who claimed they had been "touched," the gypsies spent the better part of Saturday operating a flim-flam game in the West End portion of the town. One by one reports began to make their appearance at the police station by individuals who claimed they had been robbed of sums ranging from $16 to $50. All admitted having been in conversation with attractive gypsy women and it was finally agreed that something crooked was being engineered by the tribe.

Welsh was accordingly delegated to round-up the visitors and single-handed he herded the entire troop together and paraded them to the station house.

As best he could under the circumstances, Judge DeMeza read the "riot act" to the wanderers and gave them to understand that Plainfield had no welcome for "flim-flam" agents. They agreed with him to the extent of returning $50 to James Shea; $16 to Henry DeForest, and $15 to another person who had given them some kindly advise, for which they in turn are suspected of having picked his pockets. Insufficient evidence caused Judge DeMeza to let them go free, but he took occasion to remind them that a second appearance in Plainfield would mean a long, long camping stop at the Union county jail in Elizabeth.

GUESTS AT WEDDING HAVE RIDE IN PATROL

Unexpected Feature Added to Celebration by Patrolmen Welsh and Strayer.

Festivities marking a Polish wedding reception in a West Second street hall resulted in four joyful guests being committed to police station cells by Patrolmen Welsh and Strayer, yesterday afternoon, and when they were arraigned before Judge DeMeza in the city court this morning they were held in $25 bail each to await trial Wednesday morning. The accused are represented by Francis J. Blatz. Those who concluded the celebration in the jail cells were Joseph Stacurski, 137 Plainfield avenue; Martin Diski, 725 South Second street; Peter Rosca, 716 West Third street, and John Roscea, of the same address.

According to the police the persons responsible for the wedding had the greater portion of Plainfield's supply of jitney buses, taxi cabs and other available motor propelled vehicles chartered for the occasion and the thoroughfares in the immediate vicinity of the hall presented the appearance of an automobile show.

Thirteen kegs of beer had also been "chartered" for the reception accorded to the newlyweds after the knot was tied and it was this amber fluid that got the prisoners into their scrape. Between now and Wednesday morning the police will conduct an investigation in the nature of the observance in the Polish hall and more arrests may follow.

When the patrol wagon appeared on the scene confusion started and the fact that the entire wedding party was not escorted away in the horse drawn vehicle with its glittering polished brass was due to the lack of accommodations.

DIVER LOCATES BODY AT Y. M. C. A. CAMP

Local Boys Joined In Search For Missing Leader That Lasted For Week.

After a search lasting more than a week, campers at the State Y. M. C. A. Camp at Lake Wawayanda, a large number of whom are Plainfielders, have located the body of Edward W. VanValkenberg, the camp leader from East Orange, who was accidentally drowned while swimming on July 29. Aided by the local boys and the other camp members, Willis VanValkenberg, father of the youth, conducted the search for his son's body, and he left the lake Saturday night for the purpose of engaging an additional diver to assist the one who had been working day and night since the leader disappeared.

In a statement issued yesterday the father asked that the newspapers announce that no blame attaches to the camp management for the tragedy. Young VanValkenberg had innocently violated the camp rule against swimming alone. He had eaten a late luncheon and did not join his tentmates at supper in the lodge, evidently intending to take a bath while they were eating.

To facilitate the search for the body the diver had utilized an underwater searchlight which gave him a vision range of ten feet below the surface. VanValkenberg was twenty-five years old and was a writer for newspapers and magazines.

The Plainfield Y. M. C. A. boys at the lake are scheduled to return to their homes in this city Thursday. Gloom has been cast over the place by the untimely death and all activities have been suspended. This is the first death that has occurred at the rendezvous during its ten years or more of existence.

FATHER EGAN RECTOR OF CHURCH TO CELEBRATE

Rev. Father Andrew M. Egan, rector of St. Mary's church, Bayonne, whom many Plainfielders will recall as one time pastor of St. Mary's church, this city, yesterday announced that the golden jubilee of the parish will be celebrated on October 17, the celebration lasting two days.

St. Mary's is the mother church of Bayonne, and while the Roman Catholic mass was first said in the city sixty-two years ago, the fiftieth anniversary of the actual founding of the parish will be celebrated in October. Four years ago Father Egan was created irremovable rector of St. Mary's by decree of Bishop John J. O'Connor of the diocese of Newark.

PRAGA, WARSAW SUBURB, IS TAKEN

But German Army Is Reported To Have Met Reverses Near Riga.

GORIZIA UNDER FIRE

Italian Artillery Has Made Streets Unsafe—Continued Efforts of Germans to Break Through French Lines Is Unsuccessful.

Bulletin.

Constantinople, August 9 (via London)—The Turkish battleship Kheyrhed Barbarossa has been sunk by a submarine, it was officially announced today. She was formerly the German ship Kurfurst Freidrich Wilhelm. She carried a crew of 579 men.

Berlin, August 9—Occupation of Praga was announced in the official war office statement today. The town is a suburb of Warsaw, on the eastern bank of the Vistula.

London, August 9—Official announcement is made by the Russian general staff that the German army that was menacing Riga has been defeated and ousted from the region traversed in parallel lines by the Dvina, the Ekau, and the lower course of the Aa. This may mean that this army, which is linked up with that of General von Buelow, who is making a desperate effort to take the fortress of Kovno and further north to break through to the Vilna-Petrograd railroad, has been drawn upon to reinforce this movement.

Vienna, August 9 (via Berlin wireless) — Austro-German troops have pierced the Russian front on the Vieprz River, north of Lublin, and the Slav troops, divided and retreating, are threatened with disaster.

The defeat of the Russians yesterday in the fighting on the line between Lubartow and Miechow resulted in driving two groups apart, leaving a large gap between. Russian troops fighting north of Laubartow fled northeast across the Vieprz at Lessekowice, about twelve miles north of Lubartow, while those around Miechow fled northwest to reach the Vieprz by way of Baranow.

It is impossible at this moment to determine how serious a danger for the Russians this breach may prove, but probably they are amply protected against dangerous inroads upon their line of retreat by troops withdrawing from Ivangorod along the highway running parallel with the north bank of the Vieprz to Radzyn.

In resisting the Austrian advance the Russians made a desperate attack at Miechow. The retreat of their left wing over the Vieprz at Lessekowice was a rout of pronounced character. It is known that the number of prisoners considerably exceeds the 6,000 mentioned in the official report.

Rome, August 9—The infantry fighting around Gorizia after ten days has ended with the Italian artillery occupying well organized advanced positions from which it is now continuing its terrible fire against the Austrian batteries posted on the Isonzo by way of Turin. The streets of Gorizia are impractible for traffic of any sort any many of the houses and business places are demolished. In Trentino the Italian bombardment directed at Rovereto has done heavy damage, says a despatch from Lausanne. One shell exploded in the law courts building and wrecked it.

Paris, August 9—The French war statement issued this afternoon says:

"In Artois there was activity during the night to the north of Arras. A German attack to the north of Souchez station was repulsed. In the sector of Neuville St. Vaast, to the east of Lille highway, the Germans after exploding a mine violently bombarded our positions and attempted a sortie from their trenches. They were immediately halted by our rifle and artillery fire.

"In the Argonne near the highway from Vienne le Chateau to Binarville, the enemy attacked with grenades and petards our advance posts and the neighboring trenches. He was thrown back upon his own line. In the western part of the forest of Argonne, from Haute Chevauchee as far as Vauquois, there was a conflict with bombs, grenades and rifle fire during part of the night.

"In the Vosges a new German attack against our positions at Linge was launched about 1 a. m. and was completely checked. Our curtains of fire inflicted appreciable losses on the enemy."

A despatch from Bucharest dated August 6 says that the Roumanian Cabinet has approved the new extraordinary credit of 100,000,000 francs for military purposes.

SURPRISE GIVEN FOR MISS KENNEDY BY MRS. BOWLBY

Miss Lillian Kennedy was tendered a surprise miscellaneous shower Friday evening at the home of Mrs Frank Bowlby, 505 Washington avenue, in honor of her approaching marriage to Ruliff J. Fisher. When Miss Kennedy entered the darkened parlor Mrs. J. F. C. Kinney pulled a ribbon which showered the contents of a pink and white umbrella over her and everybody exclaimed "surprise."

The home was artistically decorated for the occasion with crepe paper, flowers and asparagus fern, the color scheme being pink and white, even to the refreshments, which were ice cream, cake, punch and candy.

The evening was joyously passed. The program included games, dancing and music, the latter being furnished by a phonograph.

Miss Kennedy received many useful and valuable presents. Among these were cut glass, china, Irish crochet, linen, pictures, clocks and other gifts.

Among the guests present were Mrs. Jacob Fisher, Mrs. G. T. Schenck, Mrs. J. F. G. Kinney, Mrs. F. H. Gise, Mrs. L. T. Churchill, Mrs. Joel Giddes, Mrs. W. W. Giddes, Mrs. Raymond Hamley, Mrs. C. F. Mattis, Mrs. William Kennedy, Mrs. Edward Krinic, Mrs. T. J. Todd, Mrs. Ella Kennedy, Mrs. George Rittenhouse and Mrs. Walter Apgar, of Plainfield; Miss Elizabeth Cyphers, Miss Lulu Adams, Miss Jessie Stites, Miss Lila Stites, Miss Flosie Gangloff, Miss Helen Shively, Miss Gertrude Bowlby, of Plainfield, and Miss Viola Bowlby.

COULDN'T FOOL JUDGE WITH STORY ABOUT TOOTHACHE

Salvatore Querra, 27 years old, was arraigned before Judge David S. Campbell, in the Borough Hall Saturday evening, charged by the local police with having assaulted his wife at his home, 444 North avenue, Thursday evening.

Mrs. Querra in testifying before Judge Campbell said she had a toothache. The court, who followed the dental profession for six years, looked at her teeth and then Judge Campbell exclaimed: "Woman you haven't told me the truth, you have as perfect a set of teeth as I have seen."

Robert Lowrie and Fred Doyle testified for the borough. Mr. Lowrie said that he and his wife were sitting in the dining-room of his home when the woman's screams first rent the air on Thursday night. He said that they were of such a nature that he thought some one was surely being murdered and he hurriedly went out to investigate. He said the screams might have been emitted by one who was suffering from a toothache, and said that the defendant's home had been quite orderly in the past and suggested that Querra should be given the benefit of the doubt in this instance.

The court dismissed the case with a warning that disturbance of the peace in that neighborhood again would have a far different ending.

Mrs. George M. Miller and child, of Plainfield, spent Thursday in the borough visiting Mrs. Miller's mother, Mrs. M. L. Frescoln.

The P. O. S. of A. initiated two candidates at its regular weekly meeting held in W. G. Holton Hall Thursday evening.

Johnson Gary, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Gary, of Dunellen avenue, has gone to Pattenburg to visit his uncle, Lewis Gary.

Assessor and Mrs. J. H. L. Peters visited Assessor Peters' cousin, Herman Peters, of Brooklyn, yesterday.

Henry Case, of Grove street, has purchased an auto.

Edward Oakley and daughter, of Brooklyn, are making Mr. Oakley's brother, Clarence Oakley, of Front street, a week's visit.

Councilman and Mrs. Richard M. Ryan have returned from New London, Conn., where they made a two weeks' visit to their daughter, Mrs Elston Lowrie. The councilman spent most of the time in taking long trolley trips for the benefit of his health. His longest trip was from New London to New York and back. The councilman said that the trips were fine and did him much good.

Mrs. Laura Kitchen and son, William, of Oyster Bay, spent the week-end in the borough visiting Mrs. Kitchen's sister, Mrs. John Huff.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Garretson, of Prospect avenue, are spending a week with Mr. Garretson's folks at Millstone.

Michael T. Moynihan has purchased a touring car.

CHURCH FAIR.

The general committee of the coming fair of St. John's parish, to be given for the benefit of the new church met in the rectory of the church yesterday afternoon and decided to hold the fair in the W. G. Holton Hall on the evenings of the 23d, 24th and 25th of September. The members of the general committee are: Richard M. Ryan, chairman; Owen Mohan, George Zink, Valentine McLoughlin, John McMahon and John Logan. The committee expects the fair to add about $3,000 to the building fund of the new church.

President Alvah Gray, of the local bank, has been going up to Califon for the past several weeks on Tuesday and remaining until Friday as the guest of his daughter, Mrs. W. E. Terry.

Allen Frederick, of Dunellen avenue, is spending the day in New York.

Alfred Hoak and daughter, of Brooklyn, spent the week-end in the borough visiting S. M. Kookogey, of New Market road.

Arthur Shaw, of North avenue, has given up his position with the Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company. His place has been taken by Adolphus Hoffman.

Miss Lillian Garretson, of Front street, spent the week-end at Bloomfield visiting Miss Mabel Bennett.

Contractor Isaac Line, of New Market road, is building a boat during his spare time. The boat will be placed on New Market pond when completed.

Benjamin Vail, the genial and popular clerk at a local hardware store, is enjoying his annual vacation.

John Pierson, son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Pierson, of New Market road, has malaria.

Walter Craig, of New Market road, has resumed his duties in the counting house of J. P. Morgan following an attack of lumbago, which laid him up for several days.

Contractor and Mrs. J. F. G. Kinney leave next Monday for Asbury Park, where they will spend two weeks.

Mrs. Lizzie Hunt, of Atlanta, Ga., is making her sister, Mrs. Mary Wilson, of Madison avenue, a two weeks' visit.

CAST FOR PLAY.

The cast of the play, "A Case of Suspension," to be given in the Seventh Day Baptist church tomorrow evening by the Y. P. S. C. E. of the church, is as follows: Young ladies of the seminary, Misses Merle Randolph, Grace Burdick and Mabel Whitford; college students, Byron Burdick, Milton Randolph, Harold Burdick; professor, C. M. Ryno; preceptress, Miss Edna Burdick; maid of the seminary, Miss Ethel Rogers; hired man, Elston Randolph. No admission will be charged, but ice cream will be on sale after the entertainment.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Dayton, of Plainfield, spent yesterday in the village visiting Mr. Dayton's parents, former Freeholder and Mrs. Fred Dayton.

The Scotch Plains Boy Scouts will meet tomorrow night in the lecture-room of the Baptist church and complete the plans for the part they will take in the "community picnic." Tomorrow they will erect the Red Cross tent and booth at the grounds. Besides hot dogs, the boys will sell souvenir pennants of Scotch Plains. They expect to leave a week from today or tomorrow for Fox Hills Lakes, to camp for several weeks.

Robert Meggy has returned to his position at Carbonville, Pa., after visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Meggy, of North avenue.

Besides the many medals and ribbons that will be awarded in the three athletic meets, junior, senior, and girls', five loving cups have been donated. A. R. Neilson, the Fanwood Lumber and Supply Company and the Fanwood Stone Crushing Company have presented cups to be given the point winners in the three meets in the order named above, while the Plainfield Daily Press cup will go to the winner of the mile run, and the girl coming in first for the quarter-mile will receive one from the Plainfield Courier-News.

There are a number of minor matters to be settled at the last meeting of the "community picnic" worker in the parish house tonight, and a full attendance is wanted.

There were not enough members present on Saturday afternoon to hold the weekly shoot of the Fanwood Rifle Club.

S. W. McAnneny, who has been confined to his home on North avenue for the past three weeks by illness, is improving slowly. Besides being kept from his business in New York, the borough has lost his services as clerk.

Within the next two weeks the O'Halleron house, on Midway avenue, and the Norton house, on the same thoroughfare, will have been completed, while the residence of Charles Sheelen, on North avenue, will be ready for occupancy in another month. The Dickson home on the road to Glenside is nearing completion after being in the course of construction several years, and will be the largest in this section of the Watchung mountains. On completion of the one now building on Russel road, James Miniszek expects to have work started on a number of other dwellings in order to develop that section of the borough bounded principally by Martine and Midway avenues and Watson and Russell road, recently acquired from H. C. Lockwood.

The boys of the Willow Grove section of the township averaging sixteen years have organized a baseball team for week-end games, and have won in their first two contests.

Watchung.

Services in the Mary E. Wilson Memorial Union church yesterday were in charge of Rev. Mebane Ramsay, and were very well attended. In the morning Rev. Mr. Ramsay preached an excellent sermon on "Recipes for Happiness." At the evening service he gave an interesting report of the Anti-Saloon League conference held in Atlantic City.

MUSICAL BELLS PLEASING FEATURE AT SUNDAY-SCHOOL

The Temple Baptist Bible school held the second of its musical services yesterday morning. The associate superintendent, Frank Stewart, conducted the opening exercise, assisted by Rev. J. W. Muson, the former pastor of the church.

Following the opening exercise, Emil Closs, of Brooklyn, gave a delightful program of sacred music with his sweet toned Gospel bells. Mr. Closs has attained the merited reputation as the leading artist in his profession. He is well-known in Plainfield, and has delighted many Plainfield audiences. The old and familiar Gospel hymns were most impressive as played on the bells, and it was the general impression that never before had his music sounded more attractive.

Some of the hymns were sung by the school with the accompaniment of the bells. "Saved by Grace" was given as a solo by Miss Bessie Carson, with the accompaniment of the bells. Miss Carson has a fine soprano voice and rendered this selection with most pleasing effect.

DeWitt Frazee, with his cornet, added much to the musical program.

The attendance was far in excess of the usual average, the entire room being filled.

Next Sunday the Temple school is to be visited by the choir of the Netherwood Fresh Air Camp, under the leadership of Clifford A. Braider. Mr. Hendrickson, of New York, will render a selection of Gospel hymns with chrystal chimes.

PROCTOR'S THEATRE

The materialistic age and its characteristics will be shown in all its reality at Proctor's Theatre tonight, when Clara Young Kimball will appear in "Marrying Money," a Shubert feature that will undoubtedly draw a capacity house. The story, the cast, the settings and all combine to make a photoplay that does credit to the house which has it on the program.

Tomorrow afternoon is to be the occasion for the special bob-o-link matinees, and the young women patrons of the Proctor Theatre will receive one of these beautiful souvenirs. At the Thursday matinee the souvenir silver spoons for the housewives will be distributed.

"Sealed Valley," a Metro production in five parts, is scheduled for Proctor's Theatre tomorrow afternoon and night. Aside from Miss Dorothy Donnelly, there is a cast of thirty-two recognized Broadway favorites, while the production has over 300 scenes. The whole story is one that brings out the emotional characteristics of the star, is replete with thrilling situations and vivid climax.

Mary Pickford plays the leading role in "Mistress Nell," a Frohman production, which is to be shown on Wednesday, and lovers of the silent drama will make no mistake in seeing this famous romance of the days when knighthood was in flower, and a drama of hearts and swords. Mary Pickford will be seen at her best in this photoplay, and will be supported by an able cast, including Owen Moore, Arthur Hoops, Ruby Hoffman and Amelia Rose.

RESCUE MISSION MEETING.

Last night's meeting at the Rescue Mission was largely attended, as it was the last meeting which Superintendent John LeMatty will lead for two weeks. He left for a stay at Northfield, Mass., this morning. Mr. LeMatty spoke from John 8:12: "Ye are the light of the world." Miss Etta Raybert sang two solos. Mr. Granite will be the leader tonight.

TOLD OF HIS WORK WITH PRISONERS OF SING SING

An interesting meeting was conducted by the Young People's Association of the Park Avenue Baptist church last night, led by J. D. Lofzeaux, who spoke very effectively upon "The Power of the Gospel Among the Men of the Toils." His remarks had special reference to his evangelistic work among the Sing Sing prisoners, and the audience were deeply impressed as they listened to one instance after another of the transforming influence of the Gospel upon the lives of these men.

The special music included a solo "I Come to Thee" beautifully rendered by Mrs. William Heath, accompanied by Miss Lena Von Tobiel, pianist, and T. S. Sasner, cornetist.

PLAN A RALLY.

Preparations for a rally of the Independent Order of Foresters have been made to take place on Monday night, August 16, at the rooms of Companion Court Clinton, in New Union Hall, 161 Springfield avenue, Newark. Some of the New Jersey officials are to be present and make addresses. Included in the high standing committee of New Jersey, composed of the State officers, is W. L. Hetfield, Jr., of this city, who occupies the position of high court counsellor.

MARRIED HERE.

Miss Ruth Hodge, of Somerville, and James Huff, of Manville, were married Saturday, August 7, at the home of the bridegroom's brother, George Huff, of 732 East Sixth street. Rev. John W. Mason, of Minden, Conn., officiated at the ceremony. The couple, after a two weeks' vacation spent in the West, will reside at Manville. Both bride and groom are well known in this city and the borough, and have a host of friends throughout both municipalities.

DRAGGED BY TRAIN.

In attempting to board a moving train at the eastbound Central Railroad depot Saturday afternoon, Charles Laszaka, of South Plainfield, was dragged for a distance of twenty-five feet, sustaining cuts and bruises of a painful, though not serious, nature. He was brought to police headquarters by Patrolman McCarthy, where first aid remedies were administered, and he was later able to return to his home unassisted.

FUNERAL OF GEORGE RUGGLES.

The funeral of George Ruggles, colored, was held yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the home of his mother, Mrs. Emma Ruggles, 613A West Fourth street. The Rev. Edward W. Roberts, of the Shiloh Baptist church, had charge of the services. Interment was made in the Methodist Episcopal cemetery, the pallbearers were William Kline, Walter Kline, Edward Lorie and Herbert Doyle.

RAISING THE EASTLAND.

Chicago, August 9—Work of raising the steamer Eastland was begun today. Officials in charge of the task said that the 3,000 or more tons of water in the vessel's hull will be pumped out tomorrow, when it is expected that the Eastland will be righted. A huge steel crane brought from Cleveland will be used in the work of raising the steamer.

BICYCLE RUN OVER.

Percy Stoddard, of 423 John street, reported to the local police yesterday that a roadster, bearing the New Jersey license number, 31801, had run over his wheel while it was standing at the curb along East Fifth street, near Watchung avenue, Saturday afternoon, and severely damaged it. According to Stoddard the automobilist refused to stop.

TROUBLE FOR TOM MUIR.

George Webster, of Westervelt avenue, left yesterday to spend a two weeks' vacation with Tom Muir at Camp Ram's Horn, Lake Hopatcong. Webster, who is known as "Turk," is the star end of the Holy Cross football team, and is employed by the Central Railroad in the Jersey City offices.

REV. WILLIAM WARDELL IN GRACE M. E. PULPIT

Rev. William Wardell filled the pulpit of Grace Methodist Episcopal church yesterday. His morning sermon was from the text, John 7, 46, "Never man spake like this man." It was a very earnest, practical talk. Miss Marian Major rendered a contralto solo, "The Lord is My Shepherd."

The text for the evening sermon was John 16, 7, "It is expedient for you that I go away." Thomas Wallis and Louis Bullman sang "The Good Shepherd" effectively.

Wednesday evening next the prayer meeting is to be in charge of the Sunday-school. W. J. Conroy, superintendent, will lead. Special music, including the orchestra, will be a feature.

REV. BERGEN D. STELLE AT FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

Rev. Bergen D. Stelle occupied the pulpit in the First Baptist church yesterday morning in the absence of the pastor, Rev. Dr. Philip Burroughs Strong, who is away on his vacation. The regular choir is also taking a respite from Sunday work.

Taking for his text the passage of Scripture from the Gospel of St John beginning, "Come unto me all ye that labor." Mr. Stelle spoke of the "yokes" which all mankind wear and enumerated some of them. Adverse criticism, being misunderstood, and selfishness were three of them, and he said that to enjoy the real peace of God it is necessary to throw off these yokes.

RECREATION NOTES

Tomorrow night the Zephers and their friends will meet in the Plainfield High School gymnasium. Beside the regular athletics for the colored boys and girls, there will be an hour of choral work under the leadership of William Imes. A glee club will be formed in September, and many pleasant evenings and fine concerts are looked forward to.

MANY FEATURES TO SPICER EXCURSION

Employes of Big Concern Had An Active Day at the Atlantic Highlands.

Employes to the number of 285, representative of the Spicer Manufacturing Company's force of workmen, enjoyed the concern's annual outing to Atlantic Highlands, Saturday, making the trip in a special train chartered for the occasion. An unusually attractive program of all-day entertainment had been previously arranged by the committee, and the excursionists were kept "on the jump" from the time they left Plainfield until they returned.

At the shore resort a banquet was served, and officials of the concern and leaders of the Spicer Mutual Welfare Association delivered speeches. The spirit of fraternalism among the employes was an outstanding feature of the outing, and men from all departments of the big plant mingled in the various events.

A number of side excursions were previously arranged for, and a large number of guests took advantage of these. Others enjoyed surf bathing, while still others went out on the fishing banks, large catches of flounder and fluke being recorded during the day.

Recreative games of various kinds were indulged in during the afternoon, a large field having been chartered for these affairs. Refreshments were served on the train both going and coming, and the men all voted this year's trip the best of a large number already conducted by the company for its employes.

KNIGHTS' EXCURSION GOES TO ASBURY PARK TOMORROW

Without a doubt tomorrow's excursion will go down in Plainfield's annals as a record-breaker, according to reports from people who know. Although the kiddies will have the time of their lives, hundreds of their elders have signified their intention of accompanying them. Eighteen hundred tickets have been distributed to the Sunday-school children of the Catholic churches of this city and the borough, South Plainfield, Stony Hill, Dunellen, Netherwood and Scotch Plains.

Three sections, totaling forty-five cars, will be equipped with every possible comfort for the excursionists. Baggage cars have been attached for such luggage as the pleasure-seekers wish to take with them. A A. Cannon, chairman of the affair, has appointed a corps of knights as assistants, dividing them in three sections, to accompany each delegation of Plainfielders. Trains will leave Grant avenue at 7:45 and North avenue at 8 o'clock. Returning they will leave Asbury Park at 6:30 p. m.

BELGIAN PRIEST TELLS OF CONDITIONS IN FAR EAST

The large congregations that attended the services at St. Mary's church yesterday morning heard interesting accounts of the efforts of missionaries to Christianize the far East. Father Cmetue, a Belgian missionary, who came to this country in February, spoke of the work being carried on in Hindustan, where the mission with which he is connected conducts schools, orphanages, hospitals and dispensaries for the natives, and where thousands are given religious teaching each year. The pitiful condition of the people of those countries is a sight that one can never forget, and Father Cmetue brought the story home in a forceful manner. The fervor with which they worship their gods, offering their gifts, their superstition and their ignorance are things that the missionaries of the various churches have to combat.

Father Cmetue, though a Belgian, possesses an excelent knowledge of the English language, and his remarks yesterday held an interested audience. He will be at St. Mary's rectory for this week, and the collection of the latter church next Sunday will be for the benefit of the natives of the far East. While here he is stationed in Philadelphia.

EVANGELISTIC MEETINGS.

Complying with the request of the general evangelistic committee that an announcement of the coming evangelistic campaign be made in the Plainfield churches, so that the meetings will be kept ever before the people, notices to that effect were read yesterday. The evanglistic committee wishes the services remembered in prayer at regular Sunday worship, at prayer meetings and in family worship at home.

REV. DR. ROBINSON HEARD.

The Rev. Dr. Albert B. Robinson, of New York city, preached in the Crescent Avenue Presbyteran church yesterday morning in the absence of the pastor, the Rev. John Sheridan Zelie, who is away on his vacation. Dr. Robinson preached in the place of the Rev. Dr. Edward McA. Noyes, pastor of the First Congregational church, at Newton, Mass., who was secured to fill the pulpit for that date some time ago.

COLLECTOR'S PETITIONS ARE PUT IN CIRCULATION

Petitions endorsing the candidacy of William R. Townsend for re-election as Plainfield's tax colector at the coming elections went into circulation in this city this morning, and from early indications ready signers have been found in large numbers. The petitions have been placed in the hands of a number of his friends, and the canvass will be completed within a few days.

Mr. Townsend is at present recuperating at his former home at Brewster, New York State, following an operation for appendicitis. He has been granted a leave of absence by the Common Council extending to September 1.

JOHN KYLE TO UNDERGO OPERATION IN NEW YORK

John Kyle, of Spooner avenue, this afternoon was entered as a patient in St. Luke's Hospital, New York, to under go an operation which will be performed tomorrow morning. Mr. Kyle, who is one of the most popular members of the Watchung Council, Knights of Columbus, has been in failing health for some time past, and it is with a view to regaining his health that he has decided to undergo treatment.

He began a two weeks' vacation from his duties with the Warner Sugar Refining Company, in New York city today, and anticipates full recovery prior to the termination of this period.

GROTTOES TO BE BLESSED IN ST. JOHN'S CHURCH

At the Feast of Our Blessed Lady's Assumption on August 15, at St. Joseph's Roman Catholic church, two artistically constructed grottoes which enshrine statues of Our Blessed Lady and St. Joseph, will be blessed and afterwards formally presented by the Holy Name Society. The ceremony will close with an address by the Rev. Peter J. Hart, pastor of the church in North Plainfield, followed by Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament. It is hoped that James R. Nugent, of Newark; Judge Peter Daly, of New Brunswick, and Hon. William N. Runyon, of Plainfield, will speak. The Holy Name Society met Saturday and made the necessary arrangements for the ceremony.

REV. WRISTON AT FIRST M. E.

The pulpit of the First Methodist Episcopal church, in this city, yesterday, was occupied by the Rev. Dr. Henry L. Wriston, who preached at the regular morning service of the church, and also at the union service in the evening. Rev. Dr. Wriston, whose son, G. L. Wriston, resides at 515 East Seventh street, this city, is from Boston. He is a member of the New England Conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, and is secretary of the Methodist Ministers' Relief Association.

FUNERAL OF YOUNG MAN.

The funeral of Harry V. Kesselring, who died in Bonnie Burn Sanitorium, on Friday, was held this afternoon from the home of his mother, Mrs. Caroline Kesselring, 23 Chatham street, the borough. Rev. Charles H. Kues, pastor of the Holy Cross Episcopal church, officiated at the service. The floral offerings sent from relatives and friends of the deceased were unusually beautiful, many handsome pieces being included in the number. Burial was made in Hillside cemetery.

WALTER BURGESS BURIED.

The funeral of Walter Burgess, whose death occurred on Friday at his late home, 718 West Front street, was held this afternoon from the latter residence at 2 o'clock. Rev. C. Daeuble, pastor of St. Peter's Lutheran church of the borough, conducted the service. Burial was made in Hillside cemetery.

FREDERICK E. ATKINSON.

Frederick E. Atkinson, whom many Plainfielders will recall as a resident of this city for many years, died at his home in Philadelphia, last Friday, following a brief illness. Mr. Atkinson was married twice, his second wife being Miss Elizabeth McNichols.

PANAMA CANAL BLOCKED BY SLIDE IN DEEP CUT

Washington, Aug. 9.—The Panama Canal is blocked to traffic for half a mile, the War Department was informed today by Acting Governor Harding. The west bank of Gaxe Lard Cut has been slowly moving for several months, and within the last few days the movement of earth commenced to gain on the dredges. Ten vessels are held in the canal awaiting the deepening of the channel.

RESUME CONFERENCES ON MEXICO ON WEDNESDAY

Washington, Aug. 9—Plans for the resumption of the conference between Secretary Lansing and the Latin American diplomats on the future of Mexico were completed today. The conferees, the State Department announced, would gather at the Hotel Biltmore, New York, at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon.

Confirmation of the demand of the Carranza government that the Gautemalan minister to Mexico leave the country forthwith was received at the State Department today in a despatch from Minister Cardoza, of Brazil.

Through orders issued by the War Department today at General Funston's request, a battalion of the Ninth cavalry has started from Laredo to the Barnesville, Tex district to protect the principal towns there.

STOREHOUSE OF THE MIND.

There Is Nothing Occult or Mystical In the Subconscious.

Stated as briefly as possible, the subconscious may be described as that region of the human mind in which are stored the memories acquired by previous experience, education and observation.

This includes memories of sights and sounds which were perceived without our being aware of them at the time we perceived them.

Let them come within range of eye and ear, even when we are paying attention to something else, and the delicate mechanism of these sense organs registers a definite memory image of them in our minds.

Such images, together with all our other memory images, no matter how acquired, remain our permanent possession.

We are able to recall by voluntary effort only a comparatively few of our innumerable memory images. But repeated experiments as well as facts of common knowledge seem to indicate that under certain conditions any experience that we have ever had can be recalled by us. As one psychologist puts it:

"Whatever has gone into the mind can come out of the mind."

Obviously there must be a region of the mind wherein are stored these multitudinous memory images. It is to this region that psychologists refer when they use the term, "the subconscious."

But the subconscious is not only a reservoir for the storage of memory images. It is also a workshop for their manipulation, so that on occasion they may emerge, not simply as they went in, but in pleasing and often remarkable combinations.

This function of the subconscious is exemplified in many ways, from the picturesque and vivid dreams of sleep to the "inspirations" of men of genius.

In its hidden depths, it would seem, the mind is perpetually active. It is not content to hold its memory images in inert form. It must fuse and collate them, choosing for its purpose those memories in especial that are most closely linked together in a network of associated ideas.

That is why one man's subconscious is more serviceable to him than another's.

Through conscious study and reflection he has packed the secret chambers of his mind with a mass of memory images relating to one specific subject or subjects, hence naturally linked by association of ideas.

And just because he consciously focuses his attention in this direction he sets his subconscious working for the same end with the special material his conscious thinking has accumulated for it.

In a word, there is really nothing occult or mystical in the subconscious. It is simply a convenient term to designate one phase of our mental life.—H. Addington Bruce in Kansas City Star.

Leti and the King.

In any list of prolific authors mention should be made of Gregorio Leti, who settled in England in 1680, on the strength of a promise made by Charles II. to appoint him royal historiographer. Leti was then able to boast that in twenty years he had produced twenty historical works and become the father of twenty children. "I hear you are writing a history of my court," Charles once remarked to Leti. "Take care that your work give no offense." "I will do what I can, sire," said Leti, "but if a man were as wise as Solomon he would scarce be able to avoid giving some offense."

"Why, then," rejoined the merry monarch, "be as wise as Solomon; write proverbs, not histories."—London Chronicle.

LEARN HOW TO SWIM

In a Series of Ten Articles, Famous Expert Louis De B. Handley of the N. Y. A. C., Gives Advice to Beginners and Veterans.

Article No. 1.—Competitive Swimming.

By LOUIS DE B. HANDLEY.

[Copyright, 1915, by American Press Association.]

An ambitious youngster, who once asked a prominent coach of swimming what he should do to make his mark in the competitive field, thought it quite a joke when he was told that the chief requisite was to learn to swim. Yet the jesting remark really embodies the whole secret of success in racing, if its true sense is understood, for there is a strong tendency among novices, nowadays, to enter the game totally unprepared, before a correct stroke has been mastered. The result of this practice is that even youths of unusual natural ability often fail to rise above mediocrity, because the unavoidable faults incurred by beginners, which might easily be eliminated in the early stages, eventually become chronic from habit and so are never completely eradicated.

A PERFECT STARTING DIVE.

The aspirant to aquatic honors should bear in mind that form is indispensable to fast swimming and that it can only be acquired by patient and painstaking work done at moderate pace. The young recruit who becomes a contestant as soon as he finds he can thrash wildly, in any old way, over a fifty yard course, and thereby confines his efforts solely to sprinting, can hardly hope to attain championship rank. It is impossible to improve beyond a certain point while every thought is devoted to making time, and it pays in the long run to go slowly at first.

Of course the inclination is strong to test one's speed the moment one begins to show progress. But it should be checked. Proficiency is gained far more readily by rolling along easily and attempting to make every movement perfect. Such work not only develops form, but gradually makes for accurate judging of pace, one of the most valuable accomplishments to the racing man.

Let the prospective competitor stay out of the game until he can swim the furlong without tiring and he will increase tenfold his chances of success.

As a matter of fact, even the skilled natator will profit by doing most of his training at a pace which will allow him to study his faults and correct them. Time trials should be few and far between.

The system used by some supposedly competent instructors, that of making their pupils dash a short stretch as hard as they are able, then little by little increasing the distance, is fundamentally wrong, because it gives no opportunity to better the stroke. The minute a swimmer begins to tire, as he soon must traveling at top speed, he loses all form and his every defect of action is magnified and confirmed.

During the period of novitiate study should be given to starting and turning. In sprinting races a good or bad dive often makes the difference between victory and defeat, and in pool swimming ability to turn has frequently proved the deciding factor.

A starting dive should be made with hard spring and outward, not downward, direction. Stand on the take-off with feet together, toes bent over the edge, body leaning forward slightly from the waist, arms lowered at the sides; then at the signal jerk the arms back and up, simultaneously rising on the ball of the feet, and as this double movement thrusts you forward bend the knees and swing the arms vigorously ahead, launching yourself out almost horizontally, so that you will strike the water aslant, sinking only a few inches and making it possible for you to come promptly to the surface by merely lifting the arms and arching the back. Hold the legs and feet outstretched and rigid until fully covered, and don't start swimming at once, but wait until the acquired momentum begins to wane; then take the first stroke with arms only unless you use a very narrow crawl thrash, for any marked opening of the legs produces a noticeable check, acting like a brake.

Probably the most important feature of turning is the approach, for unless the swimmer reaches the wall or board with top arm in front and ready he cannot hope to get around quickly. He should, therefore, learn to adjust his last few strokes so as to come up in the required position. At the point of spinning about the body must be on its side, in order to allow a deep breath to be taken immediately before lowering the head for the push-off; then as the top arm recovers the head is thrown back and the shoulders are hollowed. This twists the body half around, and the turn is completed by a quick push from the wall with the extended arm. The under arm meanwhile is used to back water, so that the hips are brought close to the wall, when both feet are rested firmly eight or ten inches below the surface, the arms thrust forward and the legs forcibly distended. The body is then left to glide in plunging position until its obtained speed begins to slacken.

In training for competition excessive work must be guarded against, and particularly speed work. It is pace that kills. The wisest plan is to alternate sprinting practice with middle distance swimming at moderate gait.

Abuse of the steamroom should also be avoided. Beyond question it is advisable for one who enters the natatorium chilled and stiff to activate the circulation with a few minutes of heat before plunging into the pool, but to spend long periods in the abnormal and weakening temperature is decidedly harmful. Competent trainers assert that many more swimmers go stale in the steamroom than in the water.

Alcoholic drinks and stimulants of all kinds are best left alone, though there may be times when a small quantity of beer, ale or claret at meals will prove beneficial to a contestant who has lowered his vitality by overwork or continued racing.

Smoking, however, is the worst habit a swimmer can acquire. One often hears people say that in moderation it does not affect an athlete, but it unquestionably does affect a swimmer, for the lungs suffer from it, and breathing is one of the most important parts of the art of natation.

No special diet need be prescribed to watermen and hearty meals of plain, wholesome food are advisable, for a bit of surplus flesh makes for imperviousness to cold, increases the buoyancy and adds to the fund of reserve energy. Of course, particularly indigestible foods should be avoided, but in this the individual is the best doctor, for what fattens one may poison another.

Plenty of sleep is indispensable to the training swimmer. An adult should have seven or eight hours, preferably eight, every night; growing boys and girls require more, nine hours at least. The bedroom should be well ventilated and the windows partly opened on retiring.

During the indoor season, when all practice is done in inclosed baths, exercise should be taken frequently in the fresh air, having care, though, to choose some form that will not tend to harden the muscles. Walking, especially in the country, can be strongly recommended, and it will prove doubly beneficial if deep breathing is indulged in the while.

Any kind of physical effort liable to bind or toughen the muscles must be avoided. The body is in ideal shape for swimming when its every part is supple and flexible and all effort should be devoted to so making and keeping it.

Massage will help materially, and while scientific treatment is naturally the best, even ordinary rubbing and kneading of the muscles answers the purpose. It will be found very profitable to self massage the arms, legs and front of body, and to apply friction to the back with a rough towel, both before entering the water and after the practice spin.

Regarding the amount of work to be done in training, there is no way of formulating even approximate rules without writing a whole volume on the subject. Much depends on the physical makeup of the swimmer, the distance to be covered, and the number of weeks or months available.

It is advisable, however, to lengthen the preparatory period as much as possible, so that condition may be acquired gradually, without the least strain.

Opinions vary as to the number of days a week one should swim, but in the writer's twenty years of activity in water sports he has never known of ill effects to follow even daily work, sensibly done. The majority of experts, however, advise a rest of one or two days a week.

BOBO LAYS ASIDE ALL CLAIMS TO HAITIAN GOVERNMENT

Washington, August 9—Dispatches reaching the State Department today from Admiral Caperton and American Charge d Affaires at Port au Prince, Haiti, state that General Bobo, revolutionary leader, has given up all claims to executive power, and with his generals laid down his arms. Bobo and all members of his cabinet resigned from office and signified their intention of abiding by the decision of the Haitian Parliament as to the selection of a president.

POLISH FALCONS HOLD THEIR SECOND OUTING

The second summer picnic, given yesterday under the auspices of the Falcons of the city, on the picnic grounds on Rock avenue, brought out a large attendance of Polish people from this city and vicinity. Games, singing and refreshments were the principal features of the outing, while several addresses were made by the officers of the organization.

The Falcons plan to give their first dance of the fall season on Labor Day night in the T. A. B. Hall, on West Fourth street. The committee in charge of the arrangements is completing plans for the affair, which promises to be run on a large scale.

BIRTHDAY SURPRISE FOR MISS CHRYSTAL MARKY

A score of friends surprised Miss Chrystal W. Marky, Saturday night, at her home, on Sycamore avenue, the occasion being the anniversary of her nineteenth natal day. The young woman proved an able hostess and provided a pleasing entertainmept for her visitors. The evening was spent principally in playing games, singing and dancing. Several vocal and instrumental solos were rendered by the Misses Marguerite Kress, of Brooklyn; Nellie McCormack, of New York city; May Ayers and Ruth Scelle, of this city. At a late hour refreshments were served.

Miss Markey was the recipient of many handsome and useful gifts while a number of congratulatory messages from absentees were also received. The pazza and reception hall were beautifully decorated with Japanese lanterns and cut flowers. The guests included young people from this city, New York, Brooklyn, Boston and Dunellen.

DR. SAVITZ RETIRES FROM STATE SCHOOL POSITION

Trenton, Aug. 9.—After serving one year as Assistant State Commissioner of Education, in charge of elementary education, Dr. J. J. Savitz, of Westfield, Union county, has just resigned his position. His successor is Zenos E. Scott, superintendent of the schools of Asbury Park, who has just been appointed by State Commissioner of Education Calvin N. Kendall, following the acceptance of the resignation of Dr. Savitz. Dr. Savitz will return to his old post of superintendent of the schools of Westfield.

The position to which Mr. Scott has been appointed pays $4,500 a year, and is an important one, involving the general supervision of all the elementary schools of the State.

Mr. Scott has been superintendent at Asbury Park for a year, and before that was at the head of the schools in Millville. He is a native of Indiana and is thirty-seven years old. He was graduated from the State Normal School of Indiana, and later from Moore's Hill College, in which institution he taught for three years. He also taught several years in country schools in Indiana.

Resigning from Moore's Hill College, he entered Columbia University New York city, where he studied problems of elementary education.

The resignation of Dr. Savitz was unexpected, and in his letter to Dr Kendall, he states that it was prompted by circumstances over which he had no control. In his farewell to the State Department of Education, Dr. Savitz pays a high tribute both to the work of the department and to Dr. Kendall.

Commenting upon the quitting of Dr. Savitz, State Commissioner Kendall declares the State suffers a great loss.

Y. W. C. A. NOTES

Recreation night will be observed at the association tomorrow night. Any girl member is welcome to come and spend an evening. The committee in charge of these social gatherings each week have arranged an especially interesting program for tomorrow and urge a better attendance. The gathering is not for the junior members of the association, but is reserved as an evening for the older girls.

The regular Thursday night Bible class will be held in Mrs. Mead's garden, on East Front street.

JUVENILE TALENT PUT ONE OVER ON THE QUEENS

The Queen City baseball team defeated the Highlanders in an eight-inning game yesterday afternoon by a score of 5 to 1. Inability to solve Huffmeister's delivery was the cause of the Queens' downfall, although the terrific odds that were against them discouraged many a game effort they made to recover lost ground. The Highlanders failed to crack the pill into oblivion as they are accustomed to do. Haberman got two safeties, while his mates collected four off the "stuff" exhibited by Velard. Betzenberger, the Saurer "speed king," tackled second for the winners and made a success of the job.

HOME RULE.

There is a strong sentiment for municipal home rule in all parts of the country. The New York Constitutional convention is likely to give the local towns and cities of that State an enlarged power in this regard. The New Jersey Legislature last year missed its chance in failing to submit to the people of the State an amendment looking to conferring this power upon the municipalities of this State.

Why should not each locality have the right to regulate its own affairs, and amend its charter to meet its local demands, without having to run to the Legislature every year for some needed local relief? The people of each locality know what they want and they should have the right to get it as they need it.

Every town should regulate, for itself, its gas, light, water and other problems in any way it pleases. If it wishes to control them itself it should do so. They should be furnished to the people at the lowest rate possible and by city ownership or contract as the citizens of each place think will be most economical.

Take the license question. Every community should control or limit or regulate that as it pleases. The sentiment of the country is growing rapidly upon all these questions and the next Legislature is very likely to give the cities and towns of New Jersey a large measure of power in this direction.

There is, however, one limitation that should be placed upon this grant of power, and that is there should be a limit on the possible rate of city or town debts. The problem of municipal debts, by bonds or otherwise, is getting to be a serious one and no municipality should be allowed to run wild in the matter of debt and taxation. The valuations in New Jersey are now very high and the debt percentage in municipalities large and the tax burden is becoming heavy. With this protection against local extravagance in debt building almost all local affairs can, with safety, be left to each community to regulate for itself.

THE STOCK MARKET.

For the past four months the trend of speculation in the stock market has been exciting—at least in the war order stocks. The war has added to some of our industries large opportunities and the man in Wall street has gone crazy. The price at which stocks are selling in industries in which war orders are known to exist, is very high. It would require a dividend of from thirty to forty per centum per annum to net a five per centum of income on the price now prevailing in certain stocks. There is, of course, no possibility of such a dividend. Stock which has not paid any dividend for years and is not now paying any, is selling at $270 per share. It has no basis of value for such a price either present or prospective.

The war is not going to last forever, that is sure, and a terrible drop must come soon. The men who are buying now are buying for a quick turn and a profit. It is not investment buying; it is gambling pure and simple. If there is no way now provided under the Stock Exchange rules for prohibiting this kind of dealing a rule should be adopted to do it. It is misleading to those not familiar with the Exchange methods and must, of course, result in great loss to some one in the end. It also injures the standing of the Exchange. It is affording new ground for attacking Wall street methods. There are many fine investment stocks now selling on an excellent dividend paying basis. It is a good time to buy these and it is very unfortunate that people are being misled into dealing in worthless stuff when such fine securities are to be had on a safe and unusually good paying basis.

The figures issued by the various nations in Europe giving the cost of one year of war are incomprehensible. When a total of cost reaches $15,000,000,000 it becomes so big that when stated in figures as above it is not comprehended. Its magnitude is so great that it is almost impossible, if not quite so, to grasp its meaning. It is only by illustration or comparison that it becomes clear. This vast sum spent in Europe on war the past year is said to exceed by fifty per cent. all the gold that the world has mined in five hundred years. It is more money than the accumulated fortunes of all the wealthy men of the earth. And in addition to this great loss in expenditure is to be added the value of property destroyed and the economic loss in workshops and factories and on the farm and in the family. And why war? It is all loss.

Colonel Roosevelt says he is going to enroll in the Progressive primary this year. He will have a large number follow him. He does not say, however, that he is going to support Progressive candidates. He is probably like most of those who supported that party in 1912; going to hold himself ready to help where help may make for progressive principles, and if neither of the old parties act in such a way as to give him that opportunity, then fight by direct action of the Progressive party. That looks like wise policy. At any rate if all the progressives do this the kind of candidates nominated by the old parties are likely to be looked after more closely than otherwise would be the case. And they will also be more likely to look into the kind of platform they adopt.

JOURNALISTIC OPINION.

The Philadelphia Record remarks that if one could believe what one hears this has been a great financial year for the American newspapers. It is true that it has outwardly been a distressing twelvemonth for most of them, because of the shrinkage of advertising, but certain wiseacres know that this is as nothing compared to the sums they have made in letting themselves be subsidized. Thus, Miss Parkhurst publicly asserted that the Germans had subsidized a considerable portion of our press, and we know from the German press here and abroad that 90 per cent. of us are bought and paid for by the British. Some papers must have taken bribes from both sides impartially. The Cologne Gazette is sure that the entire American newspaper world is mortgaged to J. P. Morgan, the Ammunition Trust, and Lombard street. As for our domestic prophets, Senator La Follette knows that the Eastern editors have been purchased by "millions of dollars of steamship advertising" (presumably before the war) to oppose the shipping law, and William J. Bryan seems positive that criticism of him is due to the powder-makers' money. Altogether, the press has evidently reaped a handsome harvest. But what worries each separate editor is why he has been overlooked. Patiently and expectantly as we wait, nobody has yet crossed our palm with British or German gold. Let Messieurs the Subsidizers begin.—New York Evening Post.

HEALTH TALKS

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

Ice-Cream The Ideal Food

WHAT passes for ice-cream in many places is something fierce, from the sanitary standpoint. There are the remains of fly-specks, and invisible footmarks of the busy little flies from the back alley, to say nothing at all of the unholy filth in the cheap grade of milk entering into the ice-cream. But ice-cream made under cleanly surroundings, by cleanly people, from clean milk, is an ideal summer food. It is no extravagance, but a positive economy.

We refuse to believe that it causes freckles. That would be a deplorable effect indeed. Just think of all the incipient courtships which would be ruthlessly interrupted if ice-cream did anything like that!

The other day we hurried into a big store and called for a quart of ice-cream of our favorite flavor. The clerk at the counter said he would have to cut a two-quart brick in two, and we bade him haste to the cutting. But he seized a knife from somewhere beneath the counter, shooed away some flies and grabbed the rag with which he had been mopping off the counter. The rag was rubbed up and down the knife-blade, and the clerk started for the two-quart brick, but just then, it so happened, we had to hurry out of the store, and we are never going back there any more.

For a sick or feverish child or adult, for one with sore throat, for a patient with typhoid, for one with no appetite or a rebellious stomach, a little homemade or certified ice-cream is an ideal form of acceptable food. In any case where there is no contra-indication to the giving of good milk, ice-cream is permissible, and will often be taken and retained when nothing else can be.

There is just one abuse connected with ice-cream, and that is soda-water. Soda-water is bad dope for the stomach. The less you drink of it the better for your health.

Of course, ice water is commonly served with ice-cream, and for many individuals it appears to be harmless, but as a general rule cold water, without ice in it, is preferable, and certainly safer, unless you know positively the source of the ice. For ice can, and does occasionally, carry such contamination as typhoid.

It is safer, on the whole, to carry your ice-cream home and share it with your own people. When it is served you elsewhere you have got to take chances on the personal cleanliness of the servants, and everybody knows how easy it is for an innocent carrier of diphtheria or typhoid bacilli, or possibly tubercle bacilli, to thrust his or her germ-contaminated finger into the cream or water you are about to consume.

Vest Pocket Essays

THE ROOSTER

A ROOSTER is a feathered alarm clock who does the heavy posing while a hen lays an egg. Later on he takes all the credit for the job. He corresponds to the man who comes proudly downtown when his ninth child is born to get his wife another washing customer.

The rooster is handsome and dashing and is madly admired by his family. He couldn't be more popular if he were the tenor soloist in a comic opera company. This is because he does nothing but crow.

The rooster is much wiser than some men. They crow industriously and then in an evil moment attempt to perform and fall down and are given the cruel "ha ha" by the bystanders. But the rooster crows and refrains with great firmness from doing anything else. Thus he is never exposed and in time acquires more wives than a pugilist.

A hen who is raising twelve chickens and scratching for all of them is as proud of the rooster who is watching her hustle as a wife is of the husband who can lick all creation but is going to stick around before starting anything until she has prepared one more square meal with trimmings, having stood the grocery off for the same.

The rooster has reason to be proud however, for he has one great talent. He can wake at daybreak. This would make a millionaire of him if he did anything after waking. However he is content to awaken the rest of the world. More people are awakened by roosters than by alarm clocks or all other appliances put together. It is impossible to start a rooster by winding him up like an alarm clock, but he can be easily stopped by this method. To teach a rooster not to go off in the morning take him by the head and gently wind him up. This separates his head from his body and makes it impossible for him to crow with any feeling or expression. Later on he can be boiled and eaten with very satisfactory results.

The husband who can lick all creation

This is why there are so few roosters, comparatively speaking. A rooster like a poet is most highly appreciated by humanity after he is dead.

Views Of The Press

What Does "Adequate Defense" Mean?

TWO bogeys, "militarism" and "peace-at-any-price," enter very largely into the discussion. As a matter of fact, the so-called militarists insist that they are the real peace men, and the alleged peace-at-any-price men vigorously repel that epithet. The Lake Mohonk Conference on International Arbitration, for instance, is persistently misrepresented as a peace-at-any-price body, though every year it deprecates being called even a "peace conference," and generals and admirals are usually conspicuous among its guests. On the other hand, the organization of effective means to maintain peace is the first professed purpose of the army and navy. The European war has furnished arguments that are used by both sides. Vast armaments, it is pointed out by the "peace advocates," have not insured safety. Neither, it is pointed out in reply, have treaties and Hague conventions availed to prevent war. The term "adequate defense" remains an elastic phrase, the meaning of which depends upon the surmise of the one using it as to the power against which we should arm ourselves. Admiral Dewey would have us ready eventually to meet any first-class power on equal terms. General Carter, stationed in Hawaii, thinks a continental army of 500,000 men should be available to repel invasion. General Leonard Wood is on record in favor of a standing army of 200,000 to 250,000 men. These views are welcomed by the Montgomery Advertiser. It is time our naval and military officers should speak up, it thinks, for the politician has had the center of the stage long enough. But the Jacksonville Times-Union puts in a demurrer. Shall not the same policies that have made us peaceful and respected for a century, it asks, produce the same effects hereafter? "Let these paper warriors," it adds, "tell us what nation under heaven could afford to send an army or navy against the United States?"—Current Opinion.

A. The bond must be for a sum which is double the value of the personal estate.

Is The Physician Liable?

Q. Where a physician performs services free for a patient, is there any liability in case the treatment should cause harm to the patient, instead of benefiting him?

A. The physician would be liable in such case only for gross negligence.

Business Name

Q. May a business man adopt and use a name, for business purposes, different from his own name? 2. If he does so, will contracts so made by him be binding upon him personally?

A. Yes, to both questions.

Sewing Machine Not Paid For

Q. Please tell me whether a company has the right to take possession of a sewing machine and remove it from the purchaser's house, claiming that it has not been entirely paid for?

A. This depends upon the nature of the contract.

Employer's Liability

Q. I find it necessary, in my business, to employ several agents in the work of canvassing. Please tell me to what extent I am bound by their acts.

A. You will be bound as to all acts done within the real or apparent scope of the authority of each agent.

Not In Iowa

Q. Please tell me whether a deed, made in Iowa, must have the signatures of witnesses.

A. No witnesses are required.

Entitled To Reasonable Wages

Q. I did some work for a neighbor, at his request, the understanding being that he would pay me. Nothing was said as to how much he was to pay. Please tell me what my rights are?

A. You will be entitled to compensation measured by the reasonable value of the services you performed.

Written Contract Mutually Cancelled Orally

Q. Two men of my acquaintance made a contract with each other in writing. Later, in a conversation between them, it was agreed that they would not go on with the contract. Have they the right to let it drop?

A. If the verbal agreement was based on what the law regards as a proper consideration, the written contract will no longer be binding.

Depends Upon The State

Q. Kindly inform me whether the method of taking acknowledgments to deeds is the same in all the states?

A. It is not.

Unfenced Land

Q. What is the Illinois law concerning the removal of a division fence and permitting lands to lie open?

A. The statute provides that the owner of a division fence, or a part thereof, may remove it and permit his lands to lie open, provided he gives the adjoining owner one year's notice in writing of his intention, unless the adjoining owner causes the value of the fence to be ascertained by fence viewers and makes a tender of the value to the person desiring to remove the fence. If the fence is removed without such notice, the person injured may recover damages.

Can't Understand Contract

Q. Please inform me whether a contract will be good where one of the parties is unable to understand it?

A. The mere fact that one of the parties is not as bright in intellect as the other will not affect the validity of the contract. If, however, such person is mentally weak and is unable to comprehend and protect his own interests, the contract will not stand.

Partners? No

Q. I make an agreement with a man to share in the net profits of a business. Are we to be considered as partners?

A. Not necessarily. The mere fact that you have agreed to share the net profits will not be sufficient to establish the relation of partners between you.

Wants To Give It To Wife

Q. What is the law of New Hampshire concerning deeds made by a husband to his wife?

A. The New Hampshire statutes provide that real estate may be conveyed directly by husband to wife, or by wife to husband, whenever it might lawfully be done through the medium of a third person.

The Life Line

By Laura Kirkman

Those Who Speak Unfeelingly About The War

They're not heartless; they're only thoughtless. They're the folk who've never learned to put themselves in others' places. They've never seen themselves on the march—perhaps only half fed—staggering along, dead, dead tired—so tired that they'd want to die. And yet, their dying would hurt those tender ones at home—that gray-haired mother who lives only for her son—that clinging girl-wife whose heart mustn't break—so young; those romping, rollicking babies who mustn't be robbed of their childhood! So they'd stagger on—their heads reeling, their minds too benumbed to think, their feelings too battered to feel. Then would come battle. They'd find themselves behind the breastworks. Like a machine, they'd load and fire, load and fire. Till suddenly a strange faintness would overtake them. To their own surprise, they'd find themselves sinking to the ground. They'd look down and see blood on their coat. Then they'd know. "Oh, Molly! Molly!" they'd whisper. Yet to-day they talk unfeelingly about these things. They've lost themselves.

Of Interest to Women and the Home

Woman's World

What Femininity Knows About War Was Told by Noted Woman

DR. ANNA HOWARD SHAW.

When Dr. Anna Howard Shaw was speaking the other day she touched on the subject of the war, and a man in the crowd called out, "What does a woman know about war anyhow?"

"Take the newspaper out of your pocket and hold it up," answered Dr. Shaw. "Five hundred and fifty thousand men already sacrificed to the war! You ask what a woman knows about war—550,000 men dead! No woman can understand the horror of the death of 550,000 men. Nobody understands this. But if you were to tell me that one man lay dead I might be able to understand something of its meaning. I might be able to go back over the years and remember that a woman whose heart throbbed with love and sympathy and hope of coming motherhood walked day by day with her face toward an open grave, with a courage so sublime that no man ever surpassed it.

"And then after her child was born that woman in her young womanhood laid aside what every human being of us has—her ambitions for herself—that she might give her life to the life which she had given. And year after year her child grew until he became a man, and the mother looking into the face of that boy knew herself built into him, her life wrought into his life. Then in an hour that wonderful thing, that beautiful spirit, was called out, and he lay dead. And while that mother is looking into his dead face some one asks, 'What does a woman know about war?'"

Raspberry Sirup.

This is a very refreshing drink and is especially recommended for the invalid, to whom a cooling drink with tart flavor is appetizing. Boil the raspberries and strain, and to one pint of the strained juice add one pound of granulated sugar. Let it stand overnight. In the morning boil it again for about ten minutes and then bottle. When serving put two tablespoonfuls in a glass of cold water.

Daddy's Bedtime Story— The Fable Which Ended Happily.

"I'M getting so I like to tell stories in rime, kiddies, so if you don't mind I'll tell the one tonight in rime. Listen to the tale of the fairy deer:

"Children, did you ever hear the fable of the fairy deer? Once a great king had a daughter. She was fair. Two princes sought her. One was good and brave and bright. Him she loved with all her might. T'other one was bad and bold. Of course he found the princess cold. When he asked her if she'd wed, 'I had rather die,' she said. He was angry as could be; bound he'd be revenged, you see. So that night, so dark and still, he went creeping o'er a hill to a cave with moss o'ergrown where an old witch lived alone, with her frogs and snakes and things, hating princesses and kings. The bad prince his story told, handing her a bag of gold, asked if she through magic queer would change the princess to a deer. Said the horrid witch with a wicked leer:

"'I can change the princess to a doe, forthwith through the woods to go, timid as a bird in air, shunning mankind everywhere, and the man whose hand first lies on her head hath won a prize, for his touch will change her back to the princess. Then, alack, wish she'd stay a doe, you said? She and that fine man will wed.'

"So the next night, when 'twas dark, the princess walked within the park, when suddenly—like that, presto!—the princess was a timid doe. Her dad and mamma wept full sore. But there was no princess any more. The bad prince who invoked the spell went searching over hill and dell to find the doe and by his touch make her the girl he wanted much. One day he saw her in a glen and ran with might and main, and then the doe, quite frightened, leaped away and led that prince a chase, they say. But he to win the prize was bound and ran as fast as any hound, and, though his heart began to pump, he gained on her with every jump. At last they gained the park where she became a doe, and, hark! the brave good prince was walking there, a-dreaming of his lady fair. The doe came running to him and rubbed her soft nose against his hand. Before his joyous eyes there stood his lovely princess, fair and good. The bad prince turned to run away, but with his life he had to pay, for the good prince his long sword drew and ran the rascal through and through. The witch was walking through the wood, and she forsook those parts for good. The good prince led the old king's daughter back to her patents who had sought her. The king and queen were filled with glee and happiness and ecstacy. The prince and princess, history tells, soon heard the sound of wedding bells and mid all joy and peace and laughter lived happily forever after."

SMART BOX-PLAITS POPULAR.

The ramifications of a single style feature, if one cared to trace it in its peregrinations in and out of favor, would prove very interesting indeed. Most styles do not last out the season, although frequently a feature will drop out and later even be resusitated. A style that same back with the advent of the full skirt and that will stay with us as long as the latter is here is the box-plaited skirt. Very smart indeed are the new suits with box-plaited skirts, shallow yokes and short bolero jackets in round or square outline, like Ladies' Home Journal Pattern No. 8834-8927. A suit of this character will develop well in gabardine or voile with striped silk. The bolero, No 8834, cuts in sizes 32 to 44 inches bust measure and the skirt No. 8927 in sizes 22 to 36 inches waist measure. Suit in medium size will require 6⅝ yards 36-inch material with ¼ yard 27-inch contrasting silk.

Glimpses of Married Life

BY MRS. EVA LEONARD

Dr. Ellson and Olive Dunn were sitting in a secluded nook in the corner of the garden. The syringas at their back were heavy with waxy bloom that filled the warm June night with fragrance; the moon threw long waving shadows from the elm tree across Olive's white dress and her dark eyes had a starry brightness.

"I love all the dear sounds of the summer in the country," sighed Olive contentedly, looking over the sleepy village with its winking lights. "It's so good to have the noise of the trolley car and the tiresome honking and buzzing of the automobiles die out and allow the frogs and crickets and the dear homely sounds of nature to be heard.

"I have grown very fond of the quiet life here. I doubt if I could ever be contented in a city where people elbow each other, crowded in so closely that you cannot breathe without disturbing your neighbors."

Olive started nervously. "What is it?" the doctor asked. "What is it, dear?" he repeated as she did not answer. It was the first word of endearment he had ever used and the color leaped to Olive's face.

"I heard a step, a cracking twig," she answered, listening intently.

"You are not in the crowded city. We are alone here, Olive. Your invariable kindness has made me dare hope that you might learn to care for me, in spite of my scarred past."

"Do not speak in that way of yourself." She turned her frank eyes to his face. "It is because you were so undaunted in the face of a fate to make the stoutest heart quail that I first admired you. I make a fetich of strength. Any of us may have a knock-down blow at the next turn in the road. The one who can look Fate steadily in the eye, hold up his head and go on his way no matter what fortune hands out to him is the one who is least liable to make a mess of his life." The doctor closed his hand over the two clasped in her lap and she continued.

"Do you know my greatest fear has been that I may be unable to meet what comes and keep my zest in life, keep on living—not slump to a mere existence. You met a hard fate gallantly."

"Do you mean"—he grasped her hand so that it hurt—"do you mean that you could care for me?"

"I mean that I do now." She smiled steadily up into his face.

"I do not want to misunderstand." He took her face between his hands and gazed earnestly into her eyes.

"Could you give up all the golden opportunities your beauty and intellect would draw to you to become the wife of a country doctor? It seems a cowardly thing to ask."

"It would be a cowardly thing not to ask the woman you love, the woman whose life you could enrich with the wealth of your character for any such scruples."

"All the dark past is only a background to make the brightness of this hour stand out," he said solemnly, and their faces drew together.

Suddenly Olive gave a suppressed scream and sprang to her feet.

"What is it?" asked the doctor anxiously, rising and slipping his arm around her waist.

"I heard a panting as if someone were suffocating and felt, actually felt, a hot breath on my neck. Let us see who is there in the bushes." She turned to look and he assisted in the search, saying gravely:

"You are not usually nervous; you may have imagined it."

"I did not imagine it," insisted Olive, peering behind the bushes into the dark shadows; "someone was there."

"Well," laughed the doctor, "no one is here and no one had a chance to go unobserved."

"Anyway we will go to the house." She laid her hand on the doctor's arm, where it was promptly covered by his other hand, and they started across the moonlit lawn.

Household Hints

MENU MAKING

Potato salad and rice pudding, having the same heat and energy producing elements, should not be used in the same meal. Cottage pudding or cup custard or any dessert which does not duplicate the starches in the main dish can be used.

Where meat or protein is considered in a dinner, it should make no difference in what dish this is found, it must be considered of protein value, whether dried bean soup, cup custard, cheese dishes, chicken or veal salad, it is all in the meat class.

Lamb, veal, chicken, young beef and all kinds of fish are seasonable now.

Be as careful in the cooking of foods as in their selection, as much may be lost in the heat process, and we live and thrive upon what we digest.

CANNING AND PRESERVING

Watermelon Marmalade — One watermelon, sugar, English walnuts, lemons, one-half cup crystallized ginger. Cut the heart of a ripe watermelon into small squares, minus seeds and strings. Allow two lemons and three-fourths pound sugar for each pound of fruit. Cut lemons in slices and cook sugar, fruit and lemons together till syrup thickens. Crystallized ginger and a few English walnuts change this economical preserve to a very rich conserve of indistinguishable variety.

Tomatoes Canned Whole—Select medium-sized, smooth and perfectly sound ripe tomatoes. Put a few at a time in a colander or wire basket and plunge them into boiling water, then remove skins and hard stem end and put carefully into wide-mouthed jars. Dissolve two tablespoons salt in two gallons boiling water. Fill jars to the very top and steam about fifteen minutes. (This steaming may be done by putting the filled jars into a wash boiler with hot water covering three-fourths of the jar.) Then seal. These tomatoes may be eaten cold with salt, pepper, sugar or mayonnaise. They are especially tempting, each one on a lettuce leaf, topped with mayonnaise and a slice of hard-boiled egg.

KEEPING SUMMER GLOVES IN ORDER

The care of gloves in summer is a greater difficulty than the care of gloves in winter, because summer gloves become soiled more quickly than winter ones. For one thing everything is dustier in summer than in winter. The windows of cars and trains and houses are open and we go about in open automobiles, and almost everything we touch is dusty. The moisture of the hands in summer also adds to the difficulty of keeping gloves clean. And then the fact that we wear lighter gloves generally in summer is another thing that makes it hard to keep our gloves clean in warm weather.

The washable dressed kid gloves are another summer boon. These cost from $1.25 up a pair. They should be washed in cool, soapy water, and it is best to wash them on the hands. If the washing is carefully done, the gloves come out of it in admirable shape. They need less frequent washing than the soft-surfaced doeskin and chamois gloves, as the glazed surface does not hold the dirt so readily.

It is a good plan to have a chunk of kneaded rubber eraser in the handbag. With it a soiled spot on the glove can be removed, or at least so nearly removed that it is almost unnoticeable. It is even possible to make a very soiled pair of white dressed kid gloves presentable for one more wearing in an emergency with this kneaded rubber.

AN ORDINANCE

TO VACATE AN UNOPENED AND UNUSED STREET ON PROPERTY OF JOHN GRAY, RUNNING THROUGH THE BLOCK BOUNDED BY PUTNAM AVENUE, WEBSTER PLACE AND WOODLAND AVENUE, AND BEING THE UNOPENED AND UNUSED CONTINUATION OF BERCKMAN STREET

WHEREAS, it appears that the hereinafter described unused portion of the street, which street is particularly described in a return of the Surveyors of the Highway recorded in Book 1 of Road Returns for Union County at page 51, and which appears by the Surveyor's map to have a width of sixty-six (66) feet instead of sixty (60) feet as shown by the return, has never been opened to public use, to wit, the portion thereof hereinafter particularly described; and

WHEREAS, it appears that John Gray is the owner of all abutting lands on said portion of said street, and that he and his wife have applied to the Common Council of the city of Plainfield to vacate said portion of said street; and

WHEREAS, the said portion of said street has not been opened to public use for more than twenty years, or at all, since it was laid out by the Surveyors of the Highway as aforesaid; and

WHEREAS, it appears that the opening of said portion of said street to public use would involve a large expenditure of public funds, and that the opening of said portion of said street to public use would be of no public benefit; and

WHEREAS, all of the owners of abutting lands on said portion of said street have consented in writing to such vacation by filing in the office of the city clerk in the city of Plainfield such consent duly acknowledged as in the case of an acknowledgement to a conveyance of lands; and

WHEREAS, it appears to the interest of the city that such unopened and unused portion of said street should be vacated, and the Common Council judges the public good requires the same be done:

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

1. That the unopened and unused portion of said street hereinabove referred to and more particularly hereinafter described, which was laid out by the Surveyors of the Highway by their return dated October 20, 1865, recorded in Book 1 of Road Returns for Union County, at page 54, and which unopened and unused portion is particularly described as follows:

Beginning at a point in the centre line of Berckman Street as the same is now laid out and opened, said point being distant one hundred and eighty-nine and one-tenth (189.1) feet in a magnetic course of south forty-two degrees and thirty-seven minutes east along said centre line of Berckman Street from its intersection with the centre line of Webster Place, said beginning point also being in the division line between lands formerly belonging to Evan Jones and Stephen Vail; thence running south forty-two degrees and thirty-seven minutes east through lands of said Vail and J. H. Thomas, now John Gray, a distance of fifteen hundred and forty-six feet, more or less, to its intersection with the westerly side line of Woodland Avenue (formerly the Short Hill Road); said line is intended to cover a portion of the same route as described in Book 1 of Road Returns for Union County at page 54, and is the centre line of Berckman Street (sixty feet wide), be and the same is hereby vacated and relieved of the public use and burden pursuant to the acts of the Legislature in such case made and provided.

Adopted by the Common Council, August 2, 1915; approved by the Mayor, August 3, 1915.

LEIGHTON CALKINS, Mayor.

AN ORDINANCE

A Further Supplement to An Ordinance Entitled "An Ordinance For the Assessment of Taxes For the Year, 1915," Approved June 7, 1915.

WHEREAS, the Board of Education of the City of Plainfield, in the County of Union, did decide that it is necessary to raise money for the purchase of lands for school purposes in the public school district comprising said City, and did fix and determine the amount of money estimated to be necessary for such purpose to be the sum of Six Thousand Dollars, and pursuant to such determination did prepare and deliver to each member of the Board of Estimate of said City a statement of said determination and did call a meeting of the said Board of School Estimate to vote upon a resolution fixing and determining the amount necessary for said purpose and certifying the same to the aforesaid Board of Education and to the Common Council of said City as required by law;

AND, WHEREAS, on the 29th day of June, A. D. 1915, the said Board of School Estimate did accordingly meet and vote and did make its two certificates in writing signed by each member of said Board of School Estimate, one whereof was duly delivered to said Board of Education and the other whereof was delivered to the said Common Council and received by it on the sixth day of July, 1915, and which said certificates are substantially as follows, to wit:

"The Board of School Estimate of the City School District of Plainfield, N. J., hereby certifies that it has this day fixed and determined and hereby fixes and determines the sum of $6,000.00 as the amount of money necessary to be appropriated for the purchase of lands for school purposes in the City School District of Plainfield, N. J., and hereby makes two certificates of said amount signed by at least three members of said Board of School Estimate; of which certificates one shall be delivered to the Board of Education of the City School District of Plainfield, N. J., and the other to the Common Council of the City of Plainfield, N. J."

AND, WHEREAS, the Common Council of the City of Plainfield hath determined and doth hereby determine that it is for the best interests of all concerned rather than to issue bonds therefor to appropriate the said sum for such purpose in the same manner as other appropriations are made by it, and that said sum of Six Thousand Dollars be raised, assessed, levied and collected at the same time and in the same manner as other moneys appropriated for other purposes in said City of Plainfield are raised, assessed, levied and collected; Now, therefore,

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

Section 1. That pursuant to the act of the Legislature of the State of New Jersey, entitled "An Act to establish a thorough and efficient system of free public schools and to provide for the maintenance, support and management thereof," approved October 19th, 1903, and the acts amendatory thereof and supplemental thereto, the sum of Six Thousand Dollars (additional to any sum or sums heretofore appropriated or provided for pursuant to said acts) be and the same is hereby appropriated for the purpose aforesaid, viz: For the purchase of lands for school purposes in the school district comprising the City of Plainfield, as other appropriations are made by this Common Council and that said amount shall be raised, assessed, levied and collected for the year Nineteen Hundred and Fifteen in the same manner as moneys appropriated for other purposes in this City are raised, assessed, levied and collected.

Adopted by the Common Council, August 2, 1915; approved by the Mayor, August 3, 1915.

Saturday's Results.

First Baptists, 11; Hopes, 0.
T. A. B. S., 3; Netherwood, 1.
Saurers, 5; Clinton Avenue, 4.

Two "kings" were almost dethroned Saturday in the league race, one of the monarchs getting severely beaten by a mere "slave," figuratively speaking. The Hopes and Netherwoods succumbed to ignominy at the hands of the lowly Baptists and the declining Tabs. The Martin boys put one over on the Clintonians, although they sprung their surprise at the very last moment.

The week's encounters had a decided effect on the standing of the clubs, benching three outfits on top of the ladder and boosting Saurer stock a fraction above par. Upon the Clinton it had little effect. It did them no good; nor did it harm their "rep." Taeir record dropped a few points, but they are still the "peps" of old and, believe us, they are going to be the stumbling blocks in the paths of their more lucky opponents.

Hats off to "Hub" Stine, who tried pitching for the second time Saturday and got away with it. Gleason's doom came with the Saurer win, while Jack Denny's "rep" underwent a decided advance.

The cannons are sure going to "boom" next Saturday.

WOW! A REGULAR SLAP IN THE FACE

"Hub" Stine Swashes the Kalsomine On the Much-touted Hope Stock.

Indeed, Clarice, the Baptists' 11 to 0 win over the league leading Hopes has almost put us to sleep. We reckoned that last Saturday's victory was the only one the Firsts would annex during the entire season, and we admit that, in our estimation, Stine never stood ace high as a twirler. But he has accomplished the impossible, and he allowed only four hits, too. Twenty safeties were garnered off the deliveries of Jimmy Montross and Louis Hefti, and these bingles included two doubles, two triples and a homer. Twelve Baptist died on the bags, and if their efforts had materialized the score would have been 23 to 0, provided, of course that the four stranded Hope runners failed to register. The non-appearance of Dick Schott and three others is assigned as the reason for the slaughter. It was stated officially this morning that the Hope manager is through with Richard, and intends adding some new material to his league roster.

Every Baptist got at least a hit, Terry shining with four safe slams to his credit. One of these went for three bags.

TABS-NETHERWOODS GOING FIFTY-FIFTY

It's a Case of Alphonso and Gaston With These Rival Leaguers.

"Who won?" Naturally the Tabs did, turning the trick this time by the score of 3 to 1, taking a fine fall out of the demon East End clan, and that "bearcat" boy Clark hurled a fine game, too, although he was forced to take the bitter dregs of defeat. At that he was almost assured of victory in the final frame, when, with a man on second and one on third, Eddie Coughlin slammed a terrific drive to left, Dick Lawton, after a healthy run, gathering in the clout. Clark struck out twelve men, while Jack Denny whiffed eight.

A wild throw by M. Terry really lost the game, although the aggressive spirit exhibited by the Tabs throughout the whole session made their win possible.

A MISS IS AS GOOD AS A MILE—PROOF!

Clintons Rested Too Long On Their Early Inning Laurels.

A renovated cripple spilled the beans for the Clintonians Saturday, his feat resulting in a 5 to 4 victory for Martin's Saurers. What made his act more remarkable was the fact that he staged it at the last minute. With the score 4 all at the ending of the ninth, Herr Rosenson settled down, making Henry Alberts ground out and causing Johnny Wilson to whiff. "Twirler" Dixon tapped a clout to center and "Heim" Rosenson. Rosenson fielded the ball poorly, Dixon going to second. 'Twas then the cripple did his duty. Haberman, the youth referred to, slammed the first of Rosenson's shoots for a neat, single, scoring Dixon and winning the game.

John Gleason essayed to attend to the hurling job for the "Sauerkraut," but lasted only two innings, a terrific bombardment of hits deciding "Babe's" fate, and, perhaps, his future.

Circus catches by "Kittens" Miller, Eddie Gunzelman and "Heim" Rosenson were the fielding features of the fray.

Henry Overland and "Pop" Martin clouted the pill to the best advantage.

BEERS WALKS AWAY WITH TENNIS TITLE

Experienced Racquet Wielder Has An Easy Time With Stanley Bellows.

Although he was the popular choice for the Plainfield-North Plainfield tennis singles title, A. D. Beers was conceded no such easy task as he had in disposing of Stanley Bellows on the Plainfield Country Club courts Saturday afternoon, in the finals of the event that has occupied the center of the racquet stage for a number of weeks. Bellows offered hardly any argument for the crown and as a consequence the experienced Beers walked away with two love sets and a 6-2. He started and finished the trio of matches with love verdicts and easily demonstrated his superiority over the recent graduate from the schoolboy ranks.

Bellows and Beers both mounted to the finals by dint of hard and consistent playing, being forced to battle against the cream of North Plainfield court talent and because of his showing in the preliminaries Bellows was considered a likely aspirant to Beers' titular honors. The youngster was purely outclassed, however for his style of tennis was indierent when put up against the finished calibre put up by his older and crafty opponent. Beers appeared to possess the peculiar ability of being able to put in a telling lick anytime he saw fit and Bellows on the other hand seemed to have resigned himself to defeat in the early stages. At no time did the Netherwood youth have a look-in and the two sets he captured bore a strong resemblance to pure gifts on the part of the crown bearer.

HOWARD DREW, FAMOUS SPRINTER, OUT OF SPORT

Springfield, Mass., Aug. 9—Howard P. Drew, of this city, the track athlete, announced his intention to retire from racing, in a signed statement published here Saturday. Telegrapaing from the Panama-Pacific Exposition field, where Friday he was beaten in the 100-yard dash event of the senior A. A. U. track and field meet, Drew said:

"I was bothered with my legs a great deal today in the race so that I pulled up lame at the finish. I have been in poor physical condition, for I now weigh only 150 pounds, and that is much below my normal. I want to say right here that I am through with open competition after this year."

RANDOLPH WINS GAME.

Cliff Randolph led his team, the Perth Amboy Pacers, to a 4 to 1 victory over the St. Anthonys, of the same city. He held the Saints to four bingles, while his mates were garnering six safeties off Neider. The Pacers' victory places them on even terms with the Franklins, and practically pushes the Saints out of the race.

MULLIN IN TWO GAMES.

Tommy Mullin had a busy weekend, performing at Rahway against the Roselle Casino team, the former winning, 2 to 0. In this game Tommy failed to get a hit out of four tries, and handled seven chances with only one slip.

On Sunday the local lad played with the Keyport club, which defeated the Keansburg clan, 9 to 6. In this melee Tommy scored two runs, walked three times, polled out two hits, one a double, and handled four chances without making an error.

CYCLE RECORD FOR 100 MILES.

Toledo, O., Aug. 9—Riding 100 miles in 1:54:13 2-5 here yesterday, Maldwyn Jones, of Lebanon, O., and Claude Pineau, of Middletown, broke the world's record for a half mile dirt track. The two relay riders also lowered the record for the first, second and third quarter of the distance, riding the first 25 miles in 28:20, the half in 57:25, and 75 miles in 1:25:50.

O'DAY BACK IN GAME.

Chicago, Aug. 9—Henry "Hank" O'Day, veteran umpire, yesterday was re-appointed by John K. Tener, president of the National League. President Tener was in a box seat at the start of the first game of the Brooklyn-Chicago double header, and when Umpire Quigley took the field to officiate singlehanded, President Tener sent word to O'Day to come to his box, where they conferred a few minutes. O'Day then hurried away for his umpiring regalia and returned in the fourth inning of the initial game, and officiated as arbitrator on bases. He was given a rousing welcome by the "fans," who applauded him for fully 10 minutes.

GOLFERS DESERTED P. C. C. LINKS FOR VACATIONS

Summer vacations had their effect on the weekly competition at the Plainfield Country Club Saturday afternoon, but two golfers welcoming Old Sol back to the city after a visit behind the clouds lasting nearly a fortnight.

W. M. Allen and Howard H. Craig went over the course in the sweepstakes' event turning in cards of 93, 13-80, and 95, 16-79, respectively.

EIGHT OUT FOR CUP ON PARK GOLF CLUB COURSE

Play for the President's Cup at the Park Golf Club was continued Saturday afternoon, eight golfers turning in cards, the best of which net score being credited to H. H. Woodland who had a card of 91, 16-75. The other scores were: R. G. Morse, 93, 15-78; William P. Taylor 98, 20-78; Charles B. Morse, 97, 14-83; William Nischwitz, 98, 15-83; Campbell, 90, 15-85; Clarence J. Hand, 105, 19-86; Collins, 111, 23-88.

FRANK MORAN OUT AFTER JESS WILLARD'S CROWN

Frank Moran, the heavyweight pugilist, who fought twenty rounds with Jack Johnson in Paris in June, 1914, reached New York yesterday aboard the steamer St. Paul, from Liverpool, and announced that he would seek a match with Jess Willard.

"I will be ready to fight the battle of my life in five weeks," Moran declared, "and I propose to stick to Willard until he gives me a chance."

JERSEYMEN ARE ADDED TO LIST OF GOLF ELIGIBLES

Almost fifty names have been added to the national rating list of the United States Golf Association as eligible to compete for the approaching annual amateur championship at Detroit. The Jerseymen are George F. Kohler, Ridgewood; Marc Michael, once State champion, Yountakah, Paul Moore, in finals of last Tuxedo tournament, Morris county, and C. T. Watkins, Baltusrol.

When the United States Golf Association established a rule last winter barring all golfers handicapped higher than five from competition in the national amateur championship tournament it was believed that the association had made a wise move. Each year the field had been getting more and more unwieldly, many players of mediocre ability entering and competing for the experience when their calibre would not entitle them to play along with the low handicap men.

FEDS WILL INAUGURATE CHEAP BALL ALL OVER

Within a short time the Federal League will make the important announcement that a policy of popular priced baseball will be adopted in all eight cities of the independent circuit. That means 10 cents for the bleachers, 25 cents for the pavilions and 50 cents for the grandstand.

This innovation was practically decided upon by President Gilmore after he and several other Fed. League officials witnessed the big crowd which went to the Newark park at Harrison yesterday, at the reduced prices of admission. The attendance was more than 18,000.

EVERS NOT TO QUIT.

St. Louis, Aug. 9—"They've almost got my goat, but I'm going to stick it out," declared Johnny Evers, captain of the Boston Braves yesterday, when he was asked if the report that he would quit the game for the season at the end of the recent series with the St. Louis was authentic.

Until September 11 the Daily Press will go to press on Saturdays at 1 o'clock.

PLAINFIELD JUNIORS WALLOPED THE SCOUTS

The Plainfield Juniors administered a decisive trouncing to the Dunellen Boy Scouts at Dunellen, Saturday afternoon, defeating them by the score of 17 to 4. Sidney Butler, the colored hurler, as on the mound for the locals, and the Scouts could not touch him. Up to the seventh the Scouts had obtained only two hits off him, a scratch by Russell and a double by Maskell. In the seventh Butler slowed up and was tapped for three hits, which, aided by Trotter's muff of LaRue's fly netted the Scouts three of their four runs.

Lewis, who commenced the twirling for the Scouts, became discouraged early by his support, and was batted hard. He gave way in the seventh to Dealaman, who was hit safely seven times.

The playing of the Scouts' center fielder, John Maskell, both in the field and at the bat, attracted much attention.

ELIZABETH DOG OWNERS WANT PLAINFIELD SHOW

Elizabeth dog fanciers have responded to a rumor that the Plainfield Kennel Club is entertaining the possibility of holding its annual bench show next month in the armory at that place, and Frank Meeker one of the county seat's most interested Boston bull raisers, is waging a campaign among dog owners in that city to make the event a reality. It is a well-known fact that the local kennel club committee, headed by President A. C. Wilmerding, is having a hard time singling out a local showroom for the monster annual meeting, and at the present time conditions indicate that a shift will have to be made this year to the armory, that being the only place of sufficient floor space within easy reach of the Queen City.

It is expected that about 1,500 will be entered this year, and it is desired that a site within easy reach of the entrants be procured. Plainfield fanciers are working hard to solve the local question, and if it is found practical it goes without saying that the dog classic will be kept in Plainfield.

RANDOLPH ESCAPED THIS.

Pitching against Cliff Randolph's team-mates Saturday, Judd, the Elmhurst twirler, allowed them no hits, and only one run, scored in the ninth. "Lefty Joe" Ritter hurled for the Amboys.

RAIN INTERVENED.

The T. A. B.-Harrison go, on Avon Oval, yesterday afternoon, was stopped by Jupiter Pluvius after one inning had been played.

A PITCHING FEAT.

Charley Hall, Jack Martin's "veteran" team-mate, hurled his twelfth consecutive win yesterday, defeating Indianapolis, 14 to 3. The Saints lost the second game, 5 to 1.

A Galley o' Fun!

The dreamy stillness of the mountain air had woven a spell over the man and woman, as they sat close together, gazing down the uneven slope that stretched before them. The silvery rim of the moon rose through feathery clouds, making a picture to which no artist could do justice. It was an evening in midsummer. Such an evening as makes love seem the more beautiful, and the man and woman had loved each other since childhood.

They were, both young; he not over twenty-five, the woman several years his junior. She had a sad, wistful little face, and clear white skin, offset by a mass of chestnut hair. The man was tall and handsome, and like the woman, dark. The unmistakable stamp of good breeding encompassed them both.

The woman stirred with a sigh. "It is our last night here," she said. "Tomorrow you must return to your work—I to my husband." A groan escaped her at the mentioning of that name. Her companion frowned. His thoughts seemed far from pleasant. Then after a moment: "Is he very—busy nowadays?" It was as though nothing else could be said at such a time. She thrust out her hands with an impatient little gesture.

"O, yes, I dare say. They tell me he is very successful—yet he gives me only the bare necessities. He will never take me anywhere; is not even civil to me at times, and yet"—her voice dropped to a whisper—"I said 'until death do us part'."

The man patted her on the shoulder affectionately. "We'll slip away again, later on, little girl," he said, "and have another junket just like this one. We've had a great time together, haven't we—just you and I?" His eyes were soft and clear.

She leaned toward him and put an arm about his neck. On her face was the love beyond words. "Phil, old pal," she said, "you're just the nicest brother that a girl ever had!"—William Sanford.

A HALF-TOLD TALE.

He—I dreamt that I proposed to a pretty girl last night.
She—Well, go on! What did I say?

IN TRANSITION.

Manhattan will be a most beautiful town
When the houses are up and the pavements are down;
But we never know now, when we breakfast or sup,
Which house is torn down or which street is torn up.

As we gaze at a scaffolding up in the sky,
We fall in the subway conveniently by;
We trip o'er the pavement in more ways than one
As we dream of the day when New York will be done.
We tremble sometimes as we go to our beds
Lest ere morning the roof cease from over our heads.

The workmen are banging all over the town,
Yet the houses won't stay up, the streets won't stay down;
And until a kind Fate in relenting decrees it,
It's a wise man that knows his own street when he sees it!

UNSAFE.

Warden.—So you moved No. 128. What's the matter? He seemed to be very quiet and docile.

Assistant.—I was afraid he'd tear the jail down. You see, I learned that he was graduated in the same college class as No. 129 and that they were planning a reunion for to-night.

VALUABLE KNOWLEDGE.

"And these?" we asked, as we were ushered into a room filled with children deeply immersed in study.

"They are learning," said the principal, "the difference 'twixt tweedledum and tweedledee!"

We were not a little struck. "But is the game," we objected, "worth the candle?"

"Oh, entirely so!" rejoined the principal. "When they grow up they will be able, with a very little assistance from the agent, to distinguish a car of the current year's model from a car of the year previous, thus to save themselves much humiliation and loss of social rating."

THE TEST OF SOCIAL STANDING.

Old Porkenlaard.—Sh! My wife has a pearl necklace concealed in her bonnet!

Customs' Inspector.—Huh?

Old Porkenlarrd.—Don't overlook it, that's all! She wants to get her name in the papers as a society leader!

NEW DEATH RECORDS.

Trenton, Aug. 9—Under a new system of recording vital statistics, adopted by the State Department of Health, persons will hereafter "die at home" for record purposes. "This simply means," said the Board in a bulletin on the subject, "that the bureau of vital statistics is now tabulating separately deaths of non-residents occurring in institutions, summer resorts and other places, and charging the same to the districts where the deceased formerly resided."

DEATH OF YOUNG CHILD.

Dorothy Randolph, the six-month's-old daughter of Alonzo R. Randolph, colored, of Somerset street, died last night, and will be buried this afternoon at 4 o'clock from her parents' home. Interment will be in the Methodist Episcopal cemetery.

Cut Flowers, Palms and Ferns

MORTGAGES AS INVESTMENTS FOR IDLE FUNDS

There is no better form of investment for those who desire a higher rate than the 4% paid in our Special Department, than mortgages on well selected property on a 50% basis.

This Company invests a certain amount of its funds in gilt edge mortgages and is willing to sell participations in these mortgages from time to time to persons desiring conservative investments.

We are always pleased to talk over the matter of investments with persons having idle funds in an endeavor to be of service and will be glad to submit our offerings to anyone who may be interested.

DAY NURSERY IS IN NEED OF FUNDS

Building Needs Painting and Improvement, and Grounds Are Washing Away.

MILK FUND IS SHORT

One Mother Brings Five Children to Home, Whose Husband's Income Is $1.25 a Day—29 Taken Care of On Some Hot Days.

Never before in its history has the need for additional aid for the King's Daughters Day Nursery been so great as at the present time. In addition to caring for a large number of children each day, improvements to the building and grounds are much needed, and the fund for the daily supply of milk is none too large.

When appeals for this work have been made through the Daily Press in the past the response has been large. This year the total amount subscribed to date has been but $25.20, and in order to do all that is desired a total of several hundred dollars is needed. The various circles of Kings Daughters contribute a liberal sum annually for the work, and other philanthropic people in Plainfield add to this sum. This year, because of needed improvements a larger sum than usual is wanted. An appeal has therefore been prepared by a friend of the nursery, and it is hoped that there will be a liberal response. Money may be sent direct to the Daily Press or to the nursery. The appeal follows:

"The milk station and baby clinic, held at the King's Daughters' Day Nursery, are still doing their splendid work of saving the babies; but they must have funds if it is to continue.

"The attendance has increased—one hot day in July, 29 babies were brought to the milk station; very few of these mothers are able to pay the small charge of 5 cents for the milk and ice, so, of course, these are given to them.

"Since June 1 the total attendance at the clinic has been 335 children.

"One mother has five children her husband works, but can earn only $1.25 a day, two of the children are only babies, and on a milk diet consequently, which the milk station provides for them. There are similar cases.

"The King's Daughters need help for this summer work, as the Day Nursery work is also enlarging—415 children were enrolled in July. The building is in need of painting and other repairs; and the severe storm last week caused a great deal of damage to the playground.

"Even the spring freshets are washing away soil, so that it will be necessary to construct a retaining wall very soon, if the property is to be preserved.

"The King's Daughters wish to thank the kind friends who have donated clothing, fruit and vegetables for the Nursery, and contributed money for the much needed milk station and clinic."

VAN ARSDALE'S ANNUAL SUMMER SHOE SALE BEGINS

One of the biggest annual events in local "shoedom," which is always awaited by thousands of Plainfielders with much interest, started its 1915 run this morning, when M. C. VanArsdale's "black arrow sale" began. For many years Mr. VanArsdale has held a sale in August to clear out his stock of low shoes, in order to make room for the fall and winter goods, and at this sale goods are sold for cash, and without the exchange privilege.

For two weeks the Van Arsdale store will be the Mecca for a large number of local purchasers, as the fact that the goods are all from regular stock, and not bought especially for the sale, is known to everyone who has taken advantage of these offering in the past. Further details of the sale will be found in the advertising columns.

R. W. COOK LEAVES ESTATE TO WIDOW AND CHILDREN

Elizabeth, August 10.—According to the will of Robert W. Cook, who died some weeks ago in Plainfield, $50,000 is left to his widow, Mrs. Mary E. Cook, of Plainfield. The will devised equal shares of the residue of the estate between a son and daughter, but under a codicil $2,000 additional is left to the daughter.

UNION OFFICIALLY ACCEPTS SHORT DAY

Machinists Met Last Night to Act On Requests From Two Local Concerns.

Reports of conferences between labor representatives and local factory heads were submitted at a meeting of the local machinists' union in Trades Council Hall last night, by Thomas E. Carroll, the agent for the International Machinists' Union, who has been directing the Plainfield eight-hour campaign. The request of the Vitaphone Company's officials for a delay in putting the eight-hour day into effect until October 1 was presented and acted upon favorably. A similar report was read from the Bosch Magneto Company, asking for a delay until August 19 which was also granted. Both of these concerns have agreed to the shortened day and will put the new schedule in effect on the dates mentioned above.

Following the union meeting employes of the Spicer Manufacturing Company held a private session and adjourned until Thursday night. At that time they will convene again to discuss further action in the event that the heads of this concern have not made a favorable answer to their demands by that time.

Although in his previous report read at the Friday night mass meeting Mr. Carroll stated that the Spicer concern would announce a decision by yesterday, the verdict was not forthcoming and no intimation has been given of the possibility of a favorable reply as yet.

FLYNN ARRESTED FORMER CONVICTS IN THIS CITY

Acting on a request from the New Brunswick police, Captain John J. Flynn, of the local department, last night picked up Alexander and Edward Kurtchner, two former State prison convicts, who are suspected of stealing a motorcycle in that town. Flynn arrested both of these men two years ago after they had stolen a quantity of automobile tires and accessories in this city, and they were at that time sentenced to serve two years at Trenton. They were recently paroled.

It was upon his memory of the men of two years ago that he arrested Alexander as the later stepped from the 5:58 westbound train at the North avenue depot last night, and Edward a few hours later in North Plainfield. The men both deny their guilt, but were held by Judge DeMeza to await the arrival of the Middlesex county authorities this afternoon.

HELD FOR GRAND JURY FOR ABANDONING CHILDREN

Mrs. Mabel Rowe, of Harmony street, was arrested yesterday by Acting Chief Marshal Keller of the North Plainfield police force, charged by Borough Overseer of the Poor Fred Becker with abandoning her four children. Given a hearing this morning, before Borough Recorder Hand, she was held for the Somerset County Grand Jury in the sum of $500, and was taken to Somerville by Keller in default of bail.

The woman is only twenty-one years old, and has four children ranging in age from one to four years. The two younger are being boarded at the home of Aaron Reed, on Fritz place, by the borough, while the two older ones are in the North Plainfield Children's Home, the Charity Organization Society paying their board.

TWELVE FULL HOURS FOR HOPE CHAPEL EXCURSIONISTS

The annual summer excursion run by Hope Chapel to Asbury Park and Ocean Grove will take place Saturday, August 14, leaving Plainfield at 8 o'clock and returning from Asbury Park at 8 o'clock. Two sections have been chatered to convey the excursionists to the shore.

The committee in charge of the outing this year consists of the following, from whom tickes may be procured: G. Herbert Condict, Donald McInnes, Thomas G. Hendry, Dr. D. G. Atwood, Frank Rimmer, Robert Slorah, William Baker and Walter I. Firstbrook.

JULIUS J. STAHL RETIRES WILL REST FOR YEAR

Sells Share of Confectionery Business to William G. Debele, Partner.

Councilman Julius J. Stahl, of North Plainfield, has sold out his share of the candy and ice cream business of Debele & Stahl, to William G. Debele, his partner, the transaction taking place yesterday, when settlement was made. Mr. Debele will continue the business while Mr. Stahl will live a retired life for the present, perhaps taking up some other line of business after a year or so of rest.

Councilman Stahl has spent about fifteen years in the confectionery business on Somerset street, starting in a smal store at 108 Somerset street in 1891 the manufacture and sale of ice cream and candy. He was the first North Plainfield merchant to sell ice cream in the same store where it was manufactured, although at the time he started other dealers were selling ice cream bought from a wholesale house.

After two years at 108 Somerset street, he moved into larger quarters at 110. In another two years he had found a location which seemed better adapted for his business enterprises, and Mr. Stahl moved again, this time to No. 90 Somerset street. Then in another two years, or in 1903, the firm of Debele & Stahl was formed, and the stores at Nos. 111 and 113 Somerset street were taken.

Mr. Stahl has been in the public eye in North Plainfield politics for many years. He was in the old volunteer fire department for fifteen years, and during that time held every office from foreman to chief. He was chief of the department for three years.

As a Common Councilman, Mr. Stahl has served the borough seven years already and is just starting in the first part of his third term.

Mr. Stahl's store was made post office sub-station No. 1 fourteen years ago. This office Mr. Stahl has resigned, and Postmaster Hoagland will appoint some one else as superintendent of Station No. 1.

SECOND BIG EXCURSION OF THE WEEK THURSDAY

Thursday the second excursion of the week to "The Town Without a Frown," namely Asbury Park, will be under the auspices of the Sunday-schools of Trinity Reformed church Netherwood Reformed church, Marcounier Reformed church and Mt. Pleasant chapel.

Trains will leave North avenue at 8:15, and returning, the Plainfielders will leave Asbury Park at 7:10, arriving in this city about 9 o'clock.

EX-MAYOR GILBERT 76 YEARS YOUNG TODAY

Has Seen and Aided Growth of Plainfield From 1866—Mayor For Five Years.

Former Mayor Alexander Gilbert, of West Eighth street, is today receiving congratulatory messages from friends and business associates, the occasion being the seventy-sixth anniversary of his natal day. Still actively engaged in business in New York city, Mr. Gilbert is undoubtedly the best known of Plainfield's earlier residents, coming to this city in 1866 and living here ever since. Mr. Gilbert was born in Elizabeth and received his public school education in that municipality and New Haven, Conn. He is the son of Thomas and Phebe (Matthews) Gilbert.

From 1891 to 1896 he served the city as Mayor, and at the conclusion of his last term he declined re-election. Although a staunch Republican, Plainfield men of both parties honored him when he retired from the Mayoralty. As a testimonial of his services to the city a monster banquet was given in his honor. During his last term the Common Council decided upon the sewer system which is in operation at the present day, and which has been one of the greatest incentives to Plainfield's growth. When he came to the city in 1866 he found a community with mud streets, where the inhabitants had to carry farm lanterns to make their way at night, but he has lived to see his home city rise and flourish, to be called by her sister cities "The Queen City of the State."

Mr. Gilbert is a banker, and from the position of cashier and vice-president between the years 1863 to 1897, he rose to the presidency of the Market and Fulton National Bank, of New York city. From 1894 to 1895 he was secretary of the New York Clearing House, and president from 1906 to 1907.

In politics he has been closely identified with his party movements, being a delegate to the Republican National Convention in Minneapolis in 1892, and a member of the Presidential electorate in 1908. He is a member of the New York Board of Trade, Chamber of Commerce, American Academy of Politics and Social Science, the Pilgrim Society and the Union League and Fulton clubs.

JEALOUS HUSBAND HAD MORE GOOD QUALITIES THAN BAD

Charging her husband with threatening to kill her, Mrs. Joseph Grant, colored, of 212 West Third street, appeared in the city court this morning in the role of complainant against Marse Joe. Joe's Spouse had a long tale of woe to relate to City Judge W. G. DeMeza, and when the couple finished expounding on their marital troubles both were shedding tears.

According to Mrs. Grant, who admitted that her husband enjoyed a wage of $16.50 per week as a hod-carrier, and that he turned all but $1 into the family treasury, Joe insisted that she remain away from church on Sunday evening, and when she refused, he threatenend to put an end to her worldly existence. It was brought out that Grant was of a jealous make-up, and he didn't want to run any chance of having the other chappies run away with his better half.

Judge DeMeza gave the couple a heart-to-heart talk on the subject of married life and how to overcome petty differences, also taking occasion to compliment Joe on his generosity, and to remind the wife that she was fortunate in having a husband who replenished the family purse to the extent of $15.50 once a week. The defendant admitted that he was sorry for his threat, and the couple left the courtroom arm-in-arm, prepared to begin life anew.

FUNERAL OF MISS HENRY.

The funeral of Miss Ida F. Henry, colored, whose body was found in the East River, Tuesday, August 3, was held from the residence of her uncle, Daniel Henry, Somerville, on Monday afternoon, at 3 o'clock. She was thirty-eight yars old and was born in this city. She was employed on 136th street, New York city, for some time. She is survived by a brother and sister, who reside in Somerville, and a stepmother, Lucy J. Henry, of 817 Richmond street, this city.

G. O. P. MEETING.

Members of the First Ward Republican Club will meet tonight in the office of V. W. Nash, Jr., at 220 Park avenue. The annual election of officers will take place at that time.

GEORGE F. BROWN DIES IN BOROUGH

Illness of Three Weeks' Duration Ended In Death Last Night.

A RESPECTED OFFICIAL

Served North Plainfield As Tax Collector and Treasurer For Sixteen Years—Funeral Will Be Held Thursday Afternoon.

George F. Brown, tax collector and treasurer of the borough of North Plainfield, died at 7:40 o'clock last night, at his residence, 87 Grove street, after an illness extending over a period of a little more than two weeks. The funeral will be held Thursday afternoon, at 3:00 o'clock, from the house. Interment will be made in Hillside cemetery. The Rev. Dr. Philip Strong, pastor of the First Baptist church, of which Mr. Brown was a member and an officer, will probably have charge.

An office-holder in North Plainfield for about sixteen years, Mr. Brown had a wide acquaintance in this city as well as in the borough. While it was generally known that his illness was of a serious character and that his chances of recovery were poor, his death last evening came as a shock to a large circle of friends. It is probable that his funeral will be one of the largest held in North Plainfield for many years.

Mr. Brown was born in New York about 1852, and took up his residence in this section about thirty-eight years ago. He was in the wallpaper business on Canal street, New York, at first, and commuted to this city. Later he opened a store and conducted a similar business on Somerset street, North Plainfield. Mr.

THOMAS B. STILLMAN, NOTED CHEMIST, DEAD

Born In This City—Was a Brother of William M. Stillman.

Thomas Bliss Stillman, a brother of William M. Stillman, of this city, died at his late home, 532 River street, Hoboken, this morning. Mr. Stillman was a famous chemist, and many will remember him as being a resident of this city in his earlier days.

He was the son of Dr. Charles H. and Mary Elizabeth (Starr) Stillman, and was born in Plainfield, May 24, 1852. He attended both Rutgers College and Stevens Institute, graduating from both with high honors in medical science. Continuing his scientific studies, Mr. Stillman entered the Fresenius Laboratory, Weisbaden, Germany, and made a splendid record for himself there. He graduated from that institution in 1877, thereby earning a distinction seldom shared by one of that age. On November 3, 1881, he married Miss Emma Louise Pomplitz, of Baltimore.

Between the years of 1874 and 1909 he was at different periods instructor and professor of analytical chemistry and professor of engineering chemistry in Stevens Institute of Technology. In 1909 he retired from active teaching upon the Carnegie Pension Fund. He was appointed State Inspector of Oils in New Jersey in 1884, and in 1911 examiner in chemistry for the municipal service in New York city. He was prominently identified with various scientific bodies in New York and throughout the country. Besides being a noted teacher, Mr. Stillman was an author of note, and a number of his scientific writings have had a wide circulation. He has written many monographs and papers in English, French, Italian and German chemistry journals on investigations in technology and applied chemistry. The funeral arrangements have not yet been completed.

SUFFRAGE CARTOONS BEING EXHIBITED ON DEPOT PARK

The last of the series of cartoons suggestive of suffrage is now on exhibition in the window of suffrage headquarters on Depot avenue. The caption reads, "We tell the woman wage-earner to beg for what she wants." In the picture she is begging, and very small she seems by comparison with the legislator, who is also represented in the cartoon. Many who have viewed the drawing proclaim it the best of any submitted thus far.

Next week the window decoration will be very striking, being full of color, a marked contrast to the black and white of the past few weeks.

NARROWLY ESCAPED DEATH UNDER TRAIN

Frank Runyon Leaped From K. of C. Excursion Car In Sight of Throng.

In attempting to alight from the first section of the Knights of Columbus excursion train as it passed the North Avenue station this morning, at a speed estimated to have been twenty-five miles an hour, S. Frank Runyon, of West Third street, had a miraculous escape from death. The manner in which he swung from the fast moving train caused his body to be hurled through the air and before hitting the cinder track bed it turned over twice. The man landed in a heap a few inches from the rails and managed to wriggle away from the wheels of the train. Runyon had boarded the train at Grant Avenue intending to get off at the main station, but when it failed to come to a standstill he "took a chance," placinging his own life and that of others who stood near the tracks in jeopardy. Much indignation was expressed by members of the excursion committee.

This was the only incident to mar the trip of 2,300 excursionists from this city, the borough, Dunellen, South Plainfield, Fanwood and Bound Brook to Asbury Park this morning under the direction of the Knights of Columbus. The biggest outing of the season left in three sections, thirty-nine cars being well filled.

Members of the Knights of Columbus personally supervised the outing, two members being in each car to look out for the welfare of the pleasure-seekers. Eighteen hundred Sunday-school children were presented with complimentary tickets by the Knights. Grown folks were also out in large numbers.

AUTO TRIED TO CLIMB POLE; OCCUPANT IN HOSPITAL

Joseph Hartnen, of 55 Sterling street, New Brunswick, was brought to Muhlenberg Hospital this morning, suffering from injuries about the face and neck as the result of an automobile accident. The young man, in company with another, was riding down Park avenue, en route for New Brunswick when the car skidded. In an effort to extricate the vehicle from a ditch, into which it was run, the companion of the young man ran it into a telegraph pole. Hartnen was thrown out and sustained minor cuts. Inquiry at the hospital this afternoon brought the information that Hartnen is resting comfortably and nothing serious will result. He will probably go home this evening.

MISS JANE MUIR BRIDE OF CHARLES A. SNYDER

Miss Jane Muir, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Muir, of 904 West Fourth street, was married to Charles A. Snyder, of 719 West Third street, in the rectory of St. Mary's church, Saturday night, by Father McDonald. The couple were unattended and left immediately after the ceremony for a short honeymoon trip.

Upon their return to Plainfield, Mr. and Mrs. Snyder will begin housekeeping in their newly furnished home on Monroe avenue. Both are well known to a wide circle of friends, particularly in the West End section of the city. Mr. Snyder is a machinist.

U. S. S. TENNESSEE SAILOR VISITING RELATIVES HERE

Travelling during the past year a distance of 2,603 miles, and visiting England, France, Italy, Turkey, Greece, Egypt, Syria, Palestine, Spain, Azore Islands Merle J. Arbuckle, whom many Plainfielders will recall as a one-time resident here, is visiting his grandmother, Mrs. M. C. Terry, and uncle, P. H. Moore, of 331 East Third street, on a fifteen-day furlough from the U. S. S. Tennessee. Mr. Arbuckle was among the bluecoats shipped on the Tennessee to pick up refugees from the warring nations in Europe last July. This is his first arrival home since that time, and during his vacation here he is renewing old acquaintances and telling of his experiences abroad.

He was connected with the engineers' division while on the vessel. After his stay here he will visit his grandmother, Mrs. Julia Arbuckle, of Newark, for a short time before returning to his ship.

ZEPPELINS MAKE RAID ON ENGLAND

Allies Reported to Have Made Progress At Dardanelles—Fleet Active Also.

ITALY - TURKEY BREAK

Counsels of Former Country Said to Be Leaving Turkey—German Loss Before Warsaw 65,000—Submarines Renew Activity.

London, Aug. 10—The Press Bureau today gave out the following:

"German airships visited the east coast last night and this morning, dropping incendiary bombs. Damage was done. Thirteen persons were killed and 12 wounded. The fires caused by the bombs were quickly extinguished. One of the Zeppelins was damaged by our gun fire and is reported to have fallen into the North Sea, and to have been towed into Ostend. A later report said that the Zeppelin had exploded. Flight Lieutenant R. Lord, of the British air service, one of the aviators who engaged the enemy, was killed."

Paris, Aug. 10—The Allies have resumed their attack upon Turkish positions at the Dardanelles with great vigor during the last two days, and have made progress on the Peninsula, according to a despatch from Athens. Simultaneously the allied fleet bombarded Turkish positions on the Dardanelles inflicting severe damage.

The French war statement issued today says:

"Using large quantities of asphyxiating gases, the Germans have been making most violent attacks against the French in the forest of Le Pretre upon the eastern rim of the Woevre district. Despite the severity of the assaults all were repulsed by French artillery.

"In Artois, to the North of the Souchez station, German attacks were repulsed. In Argonne, in the eastern section of forest, there were a cannonade and rifle firing without infantry engagements."

Two French military aviators were killed at Villa Coubley yesterday when the machine in which they were flying overturned.

Athens, Aug. 10—All Italian consuls in Turkey are preparing to depart, according to trustworthy advices from Constantinople. They have turned over their duties to neutral officers, chiefly United States consuls. Immediately following their departure it is expected that war between Italy and Turkey will be declared. Italian troops will then join the Allies at the Dardanelles.

The Government today authorized a denial of a report that Greece had negotiated a loan of $40,000,000 from Germany.

Geneva, Switzerland, Aug. 10—A despatch to the "Tribune" from Innsbruck, Austria, says that in the recent fighting along the section of the eastern front running from the Pissa River to Ostrov, northeast of Warsaw, the Germans lost 65,000 men in killed or wounded, but succeeded in capturing the principal fortified positions of the Russians.

The engagements in the vicinity of Novo Georgievsk, the despatch says, have been continuous for five days, and the Germans have occupied the northern portion of the defenses of the surrounded fortress. The Russian garrison depends mainly upon bayonet charges, as artillery ammunition is lacking.

North of the Lublin-Chelm railroad the battle continues to the advantage of the Austrians and Germans. In the region of Nova Alexandria, on the Vistula south of Ivangorod, the Russians are offering fierce resistance, inflicting heavy losses on their opponents.

Petrograd, Aug. 10—The following official communication was issued yesterday:

"A German fleet of nine battleships and twelve cruisers, with a large number of torpedo boat destroyers, persistently attacked the entrance to the Gulf of Riga Sunday, but everywhere were repulsed.

"A cruiser and two torpedo boat destroyers were damaged."

Rome, Aug. 10—The reply of the German Kaiser to the peace proposals of the Pope have been received at the Vatican and will be published in the Osservatore Romano.

Teutonic claims that the Italians have lost 200,000 men in the war with Austria are denounced as a ridiculous canard, in an official statement issued by the War Ministry today.

TENNIS TOURNAMENT.

The first tennis match of the elimination tournament of the O. Z. T. Fraternity was played Sunday afternoon, when Harrison E. Giddes defeated Benjamin Cole 6-1, 6-1. The match scheduled between Allen Frederick and Alfred Day was forfeited to Frederick through the failure of Day to make his appearance. The tournament will be continued this afternoon at 3 o'clock when George Martin will play Arthur Barto.

The tennis courts of the O. Z. T. Fraternity have been put in great shape for the tournament and the seating capacity has been increased to take care of the crowd which is expected to be in attendance at the various matches.

Those desiring to attend the matches can take a Main Line car, get off at Madison avenue and walk six blocks towards the mountains.

SON IMPROVING.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Victorson, of Front street, visited their son, William Victorson, who underwent a serious operation in the German Hospital in New York several weeks ago, at that institution Sunday. He is getting along so nicely that his folks expect him to be able to come home the latter part of this week.

PLAY TONIGHT.

The play entitled "The Case of Suspension" to be given this evening in the parlors of the Seventh-Day Baptist church by the members of the Y. P. S. C. E. of the church, promises to be a big success. Those taking part have been thoroughly drilled by Mrs. Polan, the pastor's wife, and those who attend are promised a fine performance. No admission will be charged, but ice cream will be sold on the lawn after the entertainment.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Pfeister, of Front street, entertained their daughter, Miss Kathryn Pfeister, of Jersey City, Sunday.

M. Coletta, the North avenue tailor, spent yesterday in New York.

Richard Hunt and Clayton Apgar went crabbing to Boynton Beach Sunday. They caught 32.

Mr. and Mrs. James M. Kirby and daughter, Miss Mildred, of Roselle, who formerly resided here, visited Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Henry, of Washington avenue, Sunday.

Archibald R. Brakley, city editor of the New York Sun, is spending a part of his month's vacation in the borough visiting his mother, Mrs. Helen Brakley, of Front street.

William Smith, of New Market, is being broken in as one of the chauffeurs on a jitney bus.

Miss Anna Moban, of Dunellen avenue, and Miss Anna Murphy, of North avenue, visited friends at Hackensack Sunday.

The monthly meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Methodist Episcopal church will be held at the home of Mrs. Firman H. Gise, on Front street, tomorrow afternoon.

Mrs. Arthur J. Hamley and children returned to their home on Washington avenue Sunday evening from Port Murray, where Mrs. Hamley was called a month ago by the death of her mother, Mrs. Albert Fleming.

Miss Josephine Dealaman, of Washington avenue, is enjoying a week's vacation from her duties as bookkeeper in the local bank.

The committee in charge of the approaching fair of the Defender Fire Company will meet in the hardware store of Smalley Brothers Thursday evening, when it is expected that the dates of the fair will be decided upon.

Mrs. W. W. Walters, of Front street, is confined to her bed with a severe attack of rheumatism.

Finley Lewis and daughter, Miss Grace, of North avenue, spent Sunday at Coney Island.

Charles F. Starker, the teller in the local bank, spent Sunday at Asbury Park.

Mrs. E. J. Kessler and family, of Lanark, Pa., is visiting Mrs. Kessler's daughter, Mrs. Walter Stryker, of Whittier avenue.

Mrs. Ella H. Dey, of Globe, Arizona, who has been visiting her mother, Mrs. M. E. Harris, of Greenbrook road, for the past six months or so, has terminated her visit.

Mrs. Wilbur Hayes and daughter, Miss Jessie, of New Market road, are making Mrs. Stella L. Hayes, of Jamaica, L. I., a two weeks' visit.

Treasurer B. K. Burke, of the Dunellen Lumber and Stone Company, spent the week-end at Asbury Park, where his wife is spending several weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. John J. Farrell and daughter, of Bayonne, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. George Meyers, of Prospect avenue.

COMPLETE PLANS FOR CAMP

$5; J. T. Pratt, $2; Mary de P. Charles, $5; Charles W. McCutchen, $10; A Friend, $201. Total $255.

Other contributors were reported as follows: J. D. Loizeaux, lumber and material at cost; Edward V. French, drawing of working plans; Arthur E. Smith, blue printing; C. E. Bond, varnish; Cedric Ostrom, services; W. W. Coriell, site and cotton duck, and Frederick A. Martin, insurance. The names of those who have contributed in any way toward the building of the camp will be permanently posted on a tablet within the camp. There have been a number who have contributed money and energy in bringing the camp to an actuality, but whose names have not been listed at their request.

L. M. Leek, second vice-president, presided with Howard W. Satterfield serving as secretary in the absence of Dr. George T. Moore. Mr. and Mrs. Stephen G. VanHoesen, of Fanwood, were present as guests of honor.

Howard Leek, of Troop 10, of Trinity Reformed church, was awarded the first prize offered by Mrs. Stephen G. VanHoesen, for the best essay on the Scouts' interpretation of the Scout law prescribing kindness to animals. It consisted of a complete camp cooking outfit. Claire Higgins, of Troop 5, was awarded the second prize of $2.50 in gold given by William L. Smalley. Mrs. VanHoesen, last night, offered another prize for the best demonstration of first aid to animals at the championship Scout competition on Columbus Day, October 12, at Parker Field.

The commissioner was given power to proceed with the organization of a Scout Mothers' Auxiliary, same to have branches in the churches with which Boy Scout troops are associated. The purpose of the auxiliary is to give the mothers of Scouts an active part in the Scout work. It is planned to invite the Scout mothers to make cake, candy and other eatables and to conduct a refreshment tent at the competition for the benefit of out of town as well as local Scouts who will be here on that day.

Walter W. Price, president of the Boy Scout Council, of Staten Island, has been invited to be the guest of honor on that day and he plans to bring a special trolley carload of Boy Scouts with him. He will make the principal address of the day. Tentative plans for the championship contest were submitted by Chairman Collier last night, and this committee will be in charge of the demonstration; Paul R. Collier, A. V. Searing, Jr., F. E. Bach, Ernest K. Powlison, F. M. Genung, Frederick A. Martin and the commissioner. Due announcement will be made regarding the various events. The Dr. H. D. Corbusier Red Cross championship pennant, won last year by Red Cross patrol of Troop 5, Thomas P. Fitch, leader, will be competed for this year for final ownership.

Nominations to membership in the Boy Scout Council, last night, resulted in the election of William W. Coriell.

Merit badge applications were made by Caryl Dunavan, of Troop 9, Edwin Addis, Troop 10; Mills Barnes, Troop 7, and William Dixon, Troop 7.

It was formally announced that Scouts Addis and Dunavan, had both been promoted to the rank of Life and Star Scouts for diligence in Scout work.

Second-class Scouts Donald Warren, of Troop 14; Ernest K. Powlison, Scoutmaster, and Wilbur Bolen, of Troop 9, applied for examination for promotion to first-class Scoutship.

Dr. Raymond S. Stevens, Scoutmaster of Troop 9, has been forced for business reasons to relinquish the Scoutmastership of his troop and there is an opportunity for some man who enjoys wood life to do a good work and find a generous amount of recreation for himself. This troop is one of the best trained in the city and in view of the championship competition in October, the need of a Scoutmaster, said Commissioner Beals this morning, is most urgent. Application can be made to any of the four local commissioners.

LINCOLN BODYGUARD TO GATHER AT G. A. R. REUNION

Washington, D. C., Aug. 10—A reunion of the Union Light Guard, which was the bodyguard of President Lincoln for two years during the Civil War, is planned in Washington during the encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic, September 27 to October 2.

While conversing with Secretary of War Stanton in 1863 the Governor of Ohio offered to obtain a bodyguard for President Lincoln. Secretary Stanton accepted the offer. The Governor therefore asked for a picked man from each county in Ohio, and when the soldiers arrived in Washington they were informed they were to be the bodyguard of the President, and they served as such until the war closed.

They were quartered upon the ellipse south of the treasury, and some of them were on guard every hour, two hours being the limit for each day and night, winter and summer. There were 108 men in the company. They were mustered in at Columbus, Ohio, December 17, 1853, and their enlistment was for three years of war. The mustering officer was Capt. Elmer Otis, Fourth United States cavalry.

After being mustered out of service the members scattered, and it has been difficult to trace them, but at the encampment of the G. A. R. in Toledo in 1908 nine gathered and effected an organization with Lieut. George C. Ashmun as president and Robert W. McBride as secretary.

It was decided that a more thorough search should be made to locate the missing members, so that they might have the privilege of "touching elbows" again in a peaceful organization. Last year there was a meeting of the survivors in Detroit, Mich., and another meeting will be called in September during the G. A. R. encampment here.

U. S. ASTOR THEATRE

"The Blindness of Virtue," drama of engrossing appeal, was shown at the U. S. Astor Theater for the first time yesterday. It will be screened again today. This film will find favor not only with those who like sermons in film form, but with those who like exceptionally fine and clearly told stories on the screen. When Cosmo Hamilton's play was first presented on the stage it was indorsed by many of the leading thinkers of the country, not only because it presented a very wholesome lesson, but because it was more than a good sermon, it was a good play.

The producers, in making the motion picture production, have been careful not to lower the high standard of the play. The cast is a consistently good one. Edna Mayo makes Effie as innocent as the play requires. It is hard to play a guileless girl without making her idiotically unnatural, but Miss Mayo carefully avoids making Effie the impossible heroine she so easily might have been. Thomas McLarnie has somewhat the same difficulties to combat in portraying the Rev. Harry Pemberton, but he succeeds admirably in making the minister a very pleasant and very human man. Bryant Washburn is a very satisfactory hero.

The story deals with two country girls, both entirely ignorant of the fundamental principles of life. Effie is the sheltered and the beloved daughter of fine and broad-minded minister, and Mary Ann is the pretty and pleasure-loving daughter of a washerwoman. Mary Ann is portrayed very charmingly and pathetically by Betty Brown.

Don't forget that classified advertisements must be in by noon on Saturdays.

CONFERENCE ON NATIONAL DEFENSE

Great Meeting to Be Held In Washington In October.

Plans for the conference on national defense to be held at Washington under the auspices of the National Defense league, Oct. 4-7, immediately following the Grand Army of the Republic encampment, are under full headway. Many thousands of the veterans who attend the G. A. R. encampment will remain in Washington for the sessions of the conference on national defense, which will be presided over by Representative Julius Kahn of California, chairman, and United States Senator Robert F. Broussard of Louisiana, vice chairman of the National Defense league.

While the conference will be held under the auspices of the National Defense league, it will not be a convention of the league, but a great gathering of representative citizens from every state in the Union, who will consider what measure must be taken by congress and the states to increase the navy, army, national guard and coast defenses—to put the country in a military and naval position where it will be able to maintain its dignity and security throughout the world.

The national defense conference is unique in that all citizens of the United States are invited to attend the conference. Any citizen, man or woman, from any section of this country can attend the conference as an accredited delegate and participate in the deliberations on national defense simply by sending his or her name and address to the National Defense league, Riggs building, Washington, with notification of his or her intention to take part in the conference. No other appointment or credentials are necessary to participate in the conference. This will be the first great national gathering of any kind in this country where everybody is invited to attend.

REPRESENTATIVE JULIUS KAHN (ABOVE) AND SENATOR ROBERT F. BROUSSARD.

A large number of members of congress, governors of states, members of state legislatures, mayors of cities, officers of commercial organizations, editors of American newspapers, veterans and members of patriotic organizations and hundreds of prominent citizens from every part of the country already have signified their intention of attending the conference.

The program, now being arranged, will last four days and will include as speakers men of national fame.

There is a nation wide interest in the national defense problem. A statement issued recently by the National Defense league says:

"After more than two years of persistent propaganda and a large amount of work by the National Defense league, which was the first and pioneer defense organization, we rejoice that the people have at last waked up to the necessity for adequate preparation.

"The Washington conference will focus the attention of the country on what all patriotic Americans now desire congress to do—to put the country on a defense basis, strong enough to protect our republic, our citizens, our ocean commerce, our world wide interests and the honor of our flag. We are not in such a position now.

"We must have a larger navy, a larger army, a larger national guard, more coast fortifications, more naval ships, more field guns, more submarines, more rifles and more ammunition of every kind."

Because it has had some use, and is, therefore, "second-hand," may not greatly impair its usefulness to you. So watch the 'For Sale" ads.

QUEER HAWAIIAN NAMES.

Such as Mrs. Oyster and The Man Who Washes His Dimples.

The natives of Hawaii are singularly picturesque in their choice of names. Mr. Scissors, The Thief, The Ghost, The Fool, The Man Who Washes His Dimples, Mrs. Oyster, The Weary Lizard, The Husband of Kaneia (a male dog), The Great Kettle, The First Nose, The Atlantic Ocean, The Stomach, Poor Pussy, Mrs. Turkey, The Tenth Heaven, are all names that have appeared in the city directory.

They are often careless of the gender or appropriateness of the names they take. A householder on Beretania street, Honolulu, is called The Pretty Woman (Wahine Maikai); a male infant was lately christened Mrs. Tompkins; one little girl is named Samson; another, The Man; Susan (Kukena) is a boy; so are Polly Sarah, Jane Peter and Henry Ann. A pretty little maid has been named by her fond parents The Pig Sty (Hale Pua). For some unknown reason—or for no reason at all—one boy is named The Rat Eater (Kamea Ole Ole).

The Rev. Dr. Coan of Hawaii possessed the love of his flock. One morning a child was presented for baptism whose name was given by the parents, Makia; when the ceremony was finished the parents assured the doctor that they had named the baby for him.

"But my name is not Michael," said the doctor, supposing Mikia to be aimed thereat.

"We always hear your wife call you Mikia," answered the mother. She had mistaken Mrs. Coan's familiar "my dear" for her husband's given name.

An old servant in Dr. Wight's family at Kohala caused her grandchild to be baptised in church, The Doctor (Kauka); that was its only name. By way of compliment to the early physicians, many children were named after their drugs, as Joseph Squills, Miss Rhubarb, The Emetic, The Doctor Who Peeps In at a Door.

Names uncomplimentary, or even disgusting, are willingly borne by their owners; others convey a pleasing and graceful sentiment. Among the latter are the Arch of Heaven (Ka Ria Lani), The River of Twilight (Ka Wia Liula), The Delicate Wreath (Ka Lei ma Lili). The name of Liliu O Kalani, the queen now in retirement, means A Lily In the Sky.—Youth's Companion.

WALKING FOR SPEED.

Arm Action, Body Balance and the Proper Leg and Foot Motion.

In starting on the track the novice should hold himself as erect as possible, without, however, leaning at all backward, the arms at the sides, with the forearms in a horizontal position, at right angles to the part of the arms above the elbows. He should have a feeling of being "well balanced on his pins."

The weight must be kept on the heels—therein lies the chief secret of walking fairly. Speed depends on two factors, the length and the frequency of the stride. Experiments prove that the length of the stride becomes greater as the frequency increases.

Arm action should be carefully cultivated. Properly used, the arms seem to act as levers to lift forward the body, besides helping to balance it. In each stride one foot should be always on the ground and at same moment of the stride some part of both feet should be on the ground simultaneously—that is, the first necessity. Second in importance is to have the walk "heel and toe"—that is, the heel of each foot should strike the ground unmistakably first and the toe of each foot should be the last part to leave it. One should not walk flat footed, with the ball of the foot or any part except the heel striking the ground before the heel does. Lastly, the knee should be "locked" at the end of each stride—the grounded leg should be stiff and taut as the loose leg swings out for the next stride.—Outing.

Story of a Dream.

Of course the medical sharps know it all, but let me tell what happened to me. I had a strikingly vivid dream in which I saw and spoke to a dead friend, and she emphasized what she said by laying her hand on my hair, a trick the dead girl had when living. The subject of her speech has no value. But when I woke I could almost feel her touch still. In a day or two I noticed my hair looked queer where she touched me, and it faded until I had four bars, almost white, across my red mop, just such as would be made by four fingers.—Letter in New York Times.

Homemade Rat Poison.

Farm and Fireside gives the following recipe for homemade rat poison:

Barium carbonate is a poison which in small quantities is harmless to the larger domestic animals, but will kill rats and mice. Mix four parts of meal or flour and one part of barium carbonate and place where the rats will find it, or mix ordinary oatmeal to a stiff dough in water, with about one-eighth its bulk of barium carbonate.

Tracing a Thief.

A burglar who broke into an antiquary's shop in Paris was identified by means of a small strip of skin torn from his ear by the broken glass of a showcase. The piece of skin was preserved in a bottle of spirits, and it fitted on to a fresh scar on the man's left ear.

"You are never idle, are you, dear?"—Baltimore American.

HAITIAN AFFAIRS NOW IN U. S. CONTROL

Administrative Work Being Done By Men Under Rear-Admiral Caperton.

Washington, Aug. 1.—The United States Government has taken over control of the administration of Haitian affairs, civil and military. Rear Admiral William B. Caperton, of the United State Navy, is in complete charge of the republic. Naval officers have been designated to collect the revenues of the republic, and the process of disarming loyal and revolutionary troops is going on rapidly.

Among those who are acquainted with conditions in Haiti, which led up to the recent murder of political prisoners and the disruption of the recent government there, it is believed that the United States must take over the affairs of the "black republic." For not only is the island bankrupt from graft and revolution, but its commercial interests are in the hands of German and French traders, and its magnificent harbor at Mole St. Nicholas is the key to the Panama Canal trade, and a menace to the defense of the canal in event of war.

While the efforts of Admiral Caperton to bring the armed leaders into peace and order is lauded, it is pointed out that the trouble lies deeper. It is said here that the only way possible to end the deplorable grafting and the horrible murders of that benighted land is by intervention. That this intervention should include the taking over of the finances of the island and their readjustment is generally thought by those in touch with affairs in Haiti to be the main necessity.

In the hundred years and more of Haiti's independence, only one President has completed the term of office for which he was elected, the others leaving office always by being shot, stabbed, poisoned or driven out.

It is probably because the unspeakable abuses in Haiti have been committed in the name of liberty that the United States has been loath to interfere. Discussing the sort of free and democratic government maintained in Haiti, one of the oldest officials of the State Department remarked: "In a century of independece the sole right which those people have saved for themselves is the right to go to the devil in the way they choose. And they hold this to be their dearest right. Any other right can be taken without protest, but let it be insisted that they behave themselves and they become worse than a nest of hornets."

Apart from the humanitarian phases of the Haitien problem, there are considerations demanding action by the United States which are of deep, if not vital, importance to this government. Since the birth of the German imperialistic policy in 1900 the activities of the Germans in Haiti have made it more and more evident that it was essential for the United States to protect its interests in this little island of the Caribbean.

The harbor of Mole St. Nicholas is the key to the Haitien problem. There the Germans have for years been strengthening their grip, and now control practically all the trade. Many Germans have married native Haitien women in order to enable them to own property on the island. It is charged that they have financed one revolution after another, when the government in power refused to abide by their will. In this way huge debts have been piled on the republic at high rates of interest, which have steadily weakened the government and brought it further and further into the clutches of those who sought control.

When a government is in such a deplorable condition as have been the last twenty-odd governments of Haiti, the money-lender naturally owns the body and soul. Whatever the government possesses that the creditor wants he can take. And the United States has begun to find it very disagreeable to its interests to have the Germans in such relationship to the harbor of Mole St. Nicholas, particularly since the Panama Canal was built.

In 1911 the United States first insisted upon obtaining a representation in the financial operations sustaining the Haitien government. This was done on the same theory that it was attempted in China, namely, that if the United States had a direct interest in loans it could check any move on the part of the other creditors that were inimical to American interests. The United States obtained a minority interest. The European interests, German and French, prevailed.

When the 1911 measure proved unsuccessful by reason of a succession of revolutions, financed largely by Haitien merchants, the United States contemplated consolidating the entire debt of the republic, refunding it through a loan from a first-class American house, reducing the rate of interest, so that it would be less burdensome to the Haitien people, and handling through American agents the collection and disbursement of the customs, in order to end the grafting which was ruining the country.

The fact that such a scheme would have ended the grafting was enough to earn the opposition of all the Haitien politicians. Efforts were repeatedly made to carry the scheme through. Finally the European war put a temporary stop to European opposition, and now the French interests are willing to sell out. But the Haitiens are still opposed to the plan.

BATTLESHIPS READY TO RETURN TO MEXICO

Anti-American Feeling Again Strong In Southern Republic.

Washington, Aug. 10—Now that Latin American countries and the United States have begun conferences looking to the settlement of the problems in Mexico, anti-American feeling again has become evident at Vera Cruz, the State Department was informed today. No disturbances, however, have been reported.

Train service has been re-established between Vera Cruz and Mexico City, but there are frequent skirmishes along the right of way. Reports from Tampico indicate that in spite of the strike the oil companies continue the operation of their plants.

Orders were issued today by the Navy Department to commanders of the battleships Louisiana and New Hampshire to put their vessels in readiness to sail from Newport R. I., at a moment's notice. The State Department gave the information that the vessels destination would be Vera Cruz in case their dispatch was necessary.

Admiral Benson and Leon Canova, chief of the Latin division of the State Department, conferred concerning the reports of danger of anti-foreign uprising in Vera Cruz, and then went to the office of the Secretary of State. Admiral Benson said no additional naval forces have been ordered to Vera Cruz or Mexico.

A long telegram was received today at the State Department describing the situation in Vera Cruz. The despatch told of speeches made in front of public buildings and at street corners inciting the population against foreigners, but especially Americans. No acts of violence were reported.

Senor Ortega, the Guatemalan Minister to Mexico, who was deported by order of General Carranza, arrived in Vera Cruz last night on board the U. S. gunboat Sacramento. He will be transferred to the gunboat Marietta on her way to Vera Cruz to take aboard the Brazilian Minister, who is coming to the United States.

READY FOR BIG DAY AT 'PLAINS TOMORROW

Community Picnic Will Be Greatest Event In History of Fanwood Township.

Fanwood township's community picnic will open at 9:30 tomorrow morning with a parade of the citizens and school children of the borough. Scout exhibitions and junior athletic events will be held in the morning. At 1:30, Governor James F. Fielder will address the gathering, followed by greetings from U. S. Senator James E. Martine, Senator Carlton B. Pierce, Congressman J. H. Capstick, Assemblymen Arthur N. Pierson and William N. Runyon. The senior athletic meet will begin at 2:30 p. m., and at 4:00, the Benedict Bachelor baseball battle will be waged. Music for the afternoon will be furnished by the Westfield Band. There will be trap shooting all day at the Mountain avenue end of the grounds under direction of Edward Hand.

The committee chairmen in charge of the affair are: Dr. J. Madison Hare, William Ward, William I. Guest, Mrs. John Z. Hatfield, A. Rutgers Neilson, Jr., Miss Marguerite Jahn, Edward Hatfield, Philip Jahn, William Sisserson, and the athletic officials will be T. Tulloch and L. Morgan.

It weather conditions prevent the holding of the picnic tomorrow, it will be postponed until Saturday, August 14.

PERSONAL.

Mrs. M. C. Terry, of 331 East Third street, is visiting her daughter, Mrs. G L. Ackerman, of 44 Orchard street, Newark, for several days.

William Klein, of East Second street, has gone to Point Pleasant, where he will be the guest of Herbert Reynolds, of the borough, for the remainder of the week.

John Heron, of West Third street, was among the excursionists from this city today. Mr. Heron will remain in Asbury Park for a two weeks' vacation.

Henry Bryniarski, of West Second street, is visiting in Asbury for several days.

"THE SCANDAL."

In place of the picture, "Sealed Valley," as was scheduled for the Proctor Theatre today, "The Scandal," a five-part Universal production, has been substituted, the change having had to be made at a late hour. "The Scandal" is an excellent picture, well photographed, and played by an excellent cast.

HERE'S A COP WHO IS REALLY ON THE JOB

Dunellen Marshal Making Scores of Catches Every Week.

Those who see Marshal Ernest C. Kepler, of Dunellen, darting hither and thither through the dewy grass in any part of that borough early in the morning do not want to make the mistake of thinking that the marshal has suddenly gone crazy, because he is only endeavoring to catch butterflies and moths.

The marshal is a collector of butterflies and moths for a lepidopterist in Los Angeles, who distributes them throughout the country. The marshal has been following the practice on and off for a number of years. He gave it up four years ago, but resumed it again three months ago upon the urgent request of the Western lepidopterist.

During these three months the marshal has caught 200 specimens ranging in value from ten cents to $20 each. The specimens must be perfect in order to have any value. Great care must be exercised in catching and handling them or they will be spoiled.

As an example, Mr. Kepler told of a butterfly which Edward Pennock caught on a maple tree in the rear of his home. The butterfly was of a species known as the Yellow Emperor and worth $7 in its perfect state. Mr. Pennock, however had marred it by scraping some of the dust off of his wings. The butterflies should be caught in nets and handled only with forceps. The proper method of killing them is with a cyanide jar.

The marshal places the specimens packed between cotton in three cornered envelopes and forwards them by parcel post to Los Angeles.

There are a few valuable collections of butterflies and moths in this vicinity. Mr. Lloyd, of Mountain side avenue, Westfield, has a collection worth $1,000.

MANY PLAINFIELDERS ARE VISITORS AT EXPOSITION

Included in the list of New Jersey visitors who have recently arrived at San Francisco to attend the Panama-Pacific Exposition are the following Plainfielders: A. B. Meredith, Mrs. George M. Holstein, Miss Abby Holstein, Miss Anna Holstein, G. H. Bristol, Kate E. Brush, Adelaide S. Meredith, Spencer Meredith, Helen M. Biddle, A. C. Penn, A. Laurie Bell, and Midshipman S. B. Stover, U. S. N.

Mr. and Mrs. D. T. Mason, of Bound Brook, and C. L. Dahl, Jr., of Dunellen, have also arrived in the western city. New Jersey is well represented in the fine arts display at the exposition, a feature which is attracting keen interest just at present. A number of the artists from this State have entered pictures in the exhibit.

EXPECT BIG GATHERING AT P. S. CLUB'S PICNIC

Members of the Public Service Social and Recreation Club of Dunellen will have an outing to be held tomorrow in Wayside Park. Conductors and motormen on the Elizabeth division, comprising the towns between Bound Brook and Elizabeth, will be present. New Brunswick and South Orange barn teams will play baseball.

An array of prizes to be awarded to successful competitors in the athletic meet is now on exhibition in Slonim's jewelry store in this city. In the evening dancing will be enjoyed, an orchestra having been engaged for this part.

RECREATION NOTES

Tonight the Zephers will meet in the Plainfield High School gymnasium. There will be two games of basketball. The colored girls are enjoying the gymnasium work and new members are coming in each week. Games with out-of-town quintets are being scheduled and will form an important part of the club's activity this winter.

The colored young men are to have the use of the gymnasium for basketball and other athletic pursuits in the fall. At the present time many of them are co-operating with the Zephers, coaching the young women in the rules of the indoor game and giving exhibitions of some pretty team-work.

HOLD BANDITS AT BAY.

Washington, Aug. 10.—An attack by bandits on the Railroad station last night at Norras, Tex., was telegraphed to the War Department today by General Funston. Eight United States regular withstood the fire of fifty bandits for several hours, finally driving them off at dark. They left four dead and several wounded. One woman, who had taken refuge in the station, was killed, and three soldiers and two civilians wounded.

Vic Saier Now Swatting The Ball at Great Rate

VIC SAIER, the Cubs' sterling young first sacker, is now belting the pill at a great rate. In fact, he is leading his teammates with a batting average of .303. Saier is one of the longest hitters in the National league. He may not get on the bases as often as some of the other players, but when he drives out a hit it usually counts for a great deal. The fact that he has been asked to face more southpaws than right handers makes his performance more commendable. He leads the National league in total bases acquired this year, having a total of 164 for eighty three hits, an average of two bases a swat.

When a left hander is working on the slab fans do not see many home runs made off him by the players who swing from the first base side. The supposition is that it is extremely difficult for a left handed hitter to drive the ball off a southpaw to the remote parts of the field and into the stands. That has been the case to date, and records prove it, but Saier is one of the exceptions in the National league, for he has made most of his home run raps off left handers, and all of them were not made at the Chicago ball grounds either.

Saier gets his home runs because he has learned what to look out when a left hander is opposing him. He will often take a strike or two to wait for a fast ball just a bit inside and about waist high. That is the ball he likes and the one he pulls with such tremendous speed to right field. He has been known to hit balls shoulder high and about the knees for home runs. He can do it because he has wonderful driving power, but when they ring loudest off his bat is when they are about waist high.

FATHER TIME ABOUT TO DEAL A KNOCKOUT BLOW TO GREATEST CYCLIST OF THEM ALL

After holding the professional cycling title for fourteen years, Frank L. Kramer, of East Orange, may retire from active competition at the end of the season. He admits that he has apparently reached the end of his racing career. Kramer is not riding in his old form. Alfred Goullet, the Australian cyclist, leads him in the championship percentage column, with the remaining races for the national title to be decided before September 1.

The passing of Kramer takes from cycling the best known rider since Major Taylor. Kramer has about $200,000 invested in first mortgage bonds, all earned by his cycling. The champion was born at Evansville, Ind., Nov. 21, 1880. He developed tubercular symptoms at the age of fifteen, and to give Frank outdoor exercise his father bought him a bicycle. The boy soon became an expert rider, and within two years was a contender for the amateur championship. He captured the title in 1898 and held in two years.

Kramer competed in professional races in 1900, finishing second to Major Taylor for the American professional championship. He became champion in 1901, holding the title fourteen consecutive years. In 1912 he won the world's championship. That was the only time he competed in a world's title race, although during twelve of the fourteen years he held the championship against all-comers he was considered the world's greatest rider.

During the racing season of 1906, 1907, 1913 and 1914 Kramer defeated all his rivals in Europe. In 1906 and 1907 he won the Grand Prix of Paris, worth $2,500 to the winner. His appearance in European races attracted record crowds at the tracks in Paris, Berlin, Brussels, Copenhagen and other capitals. He was second to Georges Carpentier, the French boxer, in the athletes' popularity contest in 1913. In the same year he was a guest of honor with the French Premier and other Cabinet officers, after his victory in the Grand Prix.

Every season he receives a bonus of $7,500 for riding exclusively on the tracks of the Cycle Racing Association at Newrk, Boston, Philadelphia, Sheepshead Bay, Chicago and Toronto. All prize money won by the champion, never less than $5,000 a season, makes his income about $12,500. Kramer's season on European tracks netted him $5,000, his contracts stipulating that sum with all expenses. His European managers gambled with the track promoters, making more money than Kramer, who would never ride on a percentage basis! In 1905 he refused an offer of $15,000 to race in Australia.

The three riders who have defeated Kramer in match races caught the champion off form. This year the champion broke the quarter-mile record established fifteen years ago. He rode the distance in 0:27 2-5, three-fifths of a second faster than the figures. He reduced the one-third mile record from 0:37 2-5 to 0:36 4-5, and lowered the eighth of a mile mark from 0:11 3-5 to 0:11 2-5. The fastest time for the eighth of a mile made by any other rider is 0.11 4-5. This time in an eighth of a mile cycle sprint race is equivalent to 0:09 4-5 in a 100-yard dash.

Before this season Alfred Goullet, the Australian; Joe Fogler and most of the professional riders apparently combined to beat Kramer. Racing faster than ever before during the first two months of this season, he was able to beat this combined force, but by pushing the champion hard in every heat they finally wore him down.

The referee was not able to disqualify the teamsters. They were too clever. Kramer trained hard to overcome the odds. The result was practically a collapse. He has admitted that his chances for the championship are slight. Goullet is leading by five points. With little chance of regaining form during the hot weather, it is likely that Kramer will see his string of national championships broken.

When teaming was not stopped by the course officials the National Cycling Association changed the rules governing titular races to provide that two instead of four should race in the semi-finals and finals. A series of grand semi-finals, where only two riders were to start, was instituted. The remaining races for the championship will be run under these rules. Kramer says the rule was made too late to help him, as there are several riders who are now able to beat him in two-men races.

The champion is a methodical business man, and keeps a set of books, showing all receipts and expenditures. He never smokes and seldom drinks, his indulgence being limited to a glass of light beer with his meals. His only fads are automobiling and raising roses and chickens.

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS

OUR COONTRIBUTING EDITOR.

Ex-Governor Fort spoke recently of a desire to retire permanently from legal business, and said he had found occasional pleasant occupation in writing for newspapers which his son controls. He had always enjoyed that kind of occupation, and would like more of it, he said. With his experiences, he would make an excellent contributor, and he possesses what is not frequent among lawyers, a good newspaper style.—Newark Sunday Call.

Blackbirds are so noisy in Plainfield that many of the soundest sleepers are awakened at all times of the day from early morning to evening. The playing of a hurdy-gurdy, however, will keep them quiet, it is said. We know where there are several phonographs in town that we would be glad to send down to counteract the chirping.—Newark Sunday Call.

An Anecdote of Genius.

The following anecdote of Leigh Hunt was once related by "Orion" Horne. Horne on a bitterly cold day in winter went to see Hunt and found him in a large room with a wide, old fashioned fireplace. He had dragged his piano on to the hearth, close to a large fire, leaving only room for himself and his chair, and was playing with the greatest enjoyment.

"My dear fellow," cried Horne, "are you aware that you are ruining your piano forever and ever in that heat?"

"I know, I know," murmured Hunt, "but it is delicious."

Tomb of Ezra.

Doubt has often been expressed as to whether the tomb of Ezra, on the Tigris, now in British possession, really holds the remains of the great Hebrew prophet, for Josephus says he was buried in Jerusalem. The Talmud, however, states that Ezra died at Zamzura, a town on the Tigris, when on his way from Jerusalem to Susa to plead the cause of the captive Hebrews; so the authenticity of the tomb is not improbable.—Pall Mall Gazette.

Way to Win.

"I have always been unlucky in life."

"Me, too."

"Yet you are very successful."

"Well, just as soon as I got the idea that luck would do nothing for me I began to hustle."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Wouldn't Be Wooden.

The nearsighted woman who talked to an Indian in front of a cigar store about his soul's salvation declared afterward that she would rather talk to a wooden man than be a wooden Christian and never talk to anybody.—Christian Herald.

Island of Manhattan.

In other days there were the Island of Manhattan and Manhattan Island. They were different bodies. Island of Manhattan was applied to the land occupied by the old city of New York, now the borough of Manhattan. Manhattan Island was a little knoll of land in the limits of what is now Third, Houston and Lewis streets and East river. At high tide the knoll was an island.

Two Houses.

"That's a pretty nice house you're built there, Stubbubs, but it's rather thrown in the shade by that new mansion next door."

"Yes; that's the contractor's house, built out of the profits he made on mine."—Boston Transcript.

Friendship.

In the hour of distress and misery the eye of every mortal turns to friendship. In the hour of gladness and conviviality, what is our want? It is friendship.—W. S. Landor.

AUGUST 10TH IN HISTORY.

1791—William Cunningham, who had charge of British prisons in America during the Revolution executed in England for forgery. He confessed to starving 2,000 prisoners in New York, by stopping their rations, which he sold.

1792—Great riot in Paris; nearly 4,000 killed in taking the Tuilleries; Swiss guards were massacred and royal family fled.

1821—Missouri admitted to Statehood.

1865—Delegates met in Mexico City and chose Gen. Carrera president for six months.

1870—Strassburg captured by Prussians from the French.

1893—First Chinaman deported from San Francisco under the Geary act.

1904—Russian sortie from Port Arthur repulsed with great loss, by the Japanese.

1914—English Suffragettes abandon militant methods and declare they will aid the government.

1914—The War.
German troops massing on their eastern border.
France and Austria sever diplomatic relations.
British admiralty closes the North Sea to fishermen.
Small force from German Southwest invaded Cape Colony.
Germans enter Liege, but forts still hold out.

PRACTICAL VACATIONS.

Business and professional men of the United States have inaugurated a new form of vacation at Plattsburg, New York. Instead of lolling at ease on the piazzas of summer hotels, on yachts and ocean steamers, five hundred leading men of New York, Boston, Chicago and other cities of the East have reported for a course of military training. Their camp at Plattsburg Barracks marks a new era in the military history of the United States. It is the first attempt to introduce the Swiss plan of national defense into this country.

The latest adjunct to military preparedness has the sanction of the government. The camp has been authorized by Secretary of War Garrison upon the recommendation of Major General Leonard Wood. The business and professional men demanded a chance to train. Their activity is no longer limited to talk, but has taken the form of effective organization. The personnel of the new camp is recruited from older men than attend the students' camps.

The new idea is not to confine the military strength of the government to a small army and national guard, but to train all citizens, from boys of 12 to men of 50 to handle arms, march, signal, and obey orders and to do the things a soldier should know in times of war, so that if called to the colors to protect the country against invasion they will be something besides mere "cannon-fodder."

The course will extend until September 6. The recruits will be given a short but intensive course of military training to qualify educated men to aid in filling the great deficiency in commissioned officers that would immediately arise in case a national emergency required the raising of a large volunteer army.

In view of the utter lack in the United States of a reserve body of officers necessary to organize and command volunteer troops, the coming forward of the able men is hailed as an important and useful public service.

The business and professional men are taking their training seriously, and are anxious to get a good taste of army life. They are housed in regulation army tents, will eat army fare and go through the hard military drills and manoeuvres prescribed by the War Department and will try their skill in war by sham-battles against the regulars.

It begins to look as if the awakening as to the lack of a proper defensive army has come throughout the country.

There is no place in any decent community for such people as the Pillar of Fire cohorts, and Chief Kiely did exactly right on Saturday night, when he stopped their meeting as soon as they became abusive. While it would probably be difficult to prove that they are a lot of religious fakers, and pending such proof no one could call them by that name, they are nevertheless no credit to Plainfield, and it is to be regretted that some means has not been found to drive them away from the city permanently. As we have pointed out before, they never call attention to any good works they have done, as is the case with every legitimate religious organization, and apparently are content to meet on street corners, make a loud noise while saying nothing, and then pass on until the next time. Religious freedom is all right, but when it comes to be a matter of license the authorities should forget the law, and find some excuse for ridding the city of such people, as was done in Somerville.

Elsewhere in today's paper are told some of the needs of the Day Nursery. They are set forth only as those who are closely identified with the work can do it, and that generous Plainfielders will answer the appeal goes without saying. No charitable cause makes a stronger plea to the public than one in which children are in need of the comforts of life, and scores of the youngsters brought to the nursery day after day, know little about the meaning of that word "comfort." In past years the responses to requests for aid for this worthy cause have been many, and it is certainly to be hoped that there will be no dropping off this season. At such a time as this, when hundreds of our residents are enjoying themselves at the seashore or in the mountains, it is certainly to be hoped that they will set aside a sum equal to a small part of one day's expenses, and forward it to the Daily Press or direct to the Nursery, to be used in the work. Prompt acknowledgement will be made.

Petitions are being signed to be used in placing the name of William R. Townsend on the primary ballots for re-nomination as the Republican candidate for the office of city collector. That they will be largely signed is a matter of course. Mr. Townsend, following a very serious operation for appendicitis, is unable to be here to attend to the work personally, but his hundreds of friends are on the job, and he need have no fear for the future. The people of Plainfield, regardless of political party, appreciate a good official, and even those who disagree with Mr. Townsend most heartily in politics, agree unanimously that he cannot be improved upon as an official.

The news comes from Newark that the Central Railroad is to tear down the old barn that serves for a station there, and erect a modern structure. That's good news to a lot of Plainfielders who travel, but will not be received with half the acclaim that would come with the announcement of a new station at Elizabethport, large enough to provide protection in a rain-storm for all travelers who are compelled to change cars there. It is the one serious blot on the record of an otherwise up-to-date and accommodating railroad.

The Newark Sunday Call speaks about the candidacy of State Senator George W. F. Gaunt, who would like to be Governor, and refers to a lot of things in his career at Trenton. Somehow or other his connection with the trolley freight bill a few years ago seems to be carefully omitted in any write-up of the Senator.

An opportunity to hear distinguished citizens of New Jersey is offered to all Plainfielders at the Scotch Plains community picnic tomorrow. It is to be hoped that entire success will attend the gathering.

FOR UNIFORMITY IN LAWS.

Salt Lake City, Aug. 10—One of the most important of the uniform laws to be adopted at the convention on uniform laws, which opened here today, is the Torrens Act, under which name eleven States have enacted legislation simplifying in many essential features the system of land registration. California, Colorado, Illinois, Massachusetts, Minnesota, Mississippi, North Carolina, New York, Ohio, Oregon and Washington have adopted the measure.

The man or woman who have not the habit of "trying again" very often fail as want advertisers, wholly for that reason.

The want ad way of tenant-finding is the accepted way—and means small expense and delay.

War-Hate

General Depression is a soldier we despise!
General Debility's as hateful in our eyes.
General Humidity's the guy that gets our sweat—
General Acceptance is a mighty reckless bet.

General Admission has often kept us out;
Bad Old General Cussedness—he's not a jolly scout!
Also General Exodus is rapid on retreat—
Most as bad as General Run in welcoming defeat.

Sizing up the officers we've mentioned there above,
Can you even wonder that we haven't any love
For the military life that Addams (J.) and Bryan
Everywhere and all the time loudly are decryin'?

Mystery!

I watched him sell his stuff "at less than cost,"
Year after year, and pitied him amain.
At last he quit, a millionaire: I've lost
My interest—such liars give me pain!

On That Condition

It doesn't make half so much difference if a man "goes off half-cocked" if his aim is right.

Speaking Of Foreigners

Why do we never speak of Boston-Americans?

Not Persecutorily Inclined

We don't know why we sometimes think of so many things about New England all in a row, but we should really like to know if the lady in Anita, Iowa, who is bringing up a boy from Boston can be said to be "raising a Hub-bub."

Quick, Quatson, The K-needle!

Suppose we were a regular statistician and should tell you that each bushel of the 1,000,000,000-bushel American wheat crop this year contained 3,000 cubic inches, and each cubic inch contained 400 grains, making a total of 1,200,000 grains per bushel: that this made a total of 1,200,000,000,000,000 grains of wheat; that these grains would make about four to the inch, laid end to end; that these would total 300,000,000,000,000 inches (linear—gosh, I left that out!), which means 25,000,000,000,000 feet, which means approximately 4,735,000,000, miles, which would reach 189,400 times around this well-known earth at its over-advertised equator—wouldn't you know a lot more than you do now, even if the above figures are correct, which they are not, any more than other fool statistics are correct?

A Serious Reason

One reason why we do not want a war to come is that, in spite of the fact that a lot of people would be killed, they would not include just the people we should have carefully selected for that purpose.

Other Kinds Of Dropping In

HEALTH TALKS

by WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

In Old Ben Franklin's Day

LIKE many of us common mortals Benjamin Franklin did not always practise what he preached. His autobiography bristles with gentle counsels about soft answers and evasive replies, but when B. F. felt very het up he knew how to hand out a stinging statement, all right, as witness his famous epistle to Great Britain.

One thing he preached and practised, however, gives us great comfort in our hours of distress, for we are delighted to learn that the famous American philosopher had no fear of fresh air. Indeed, we are not a little abashed to find that he actually used a word we imagined we had personally coined, viz., aerophobia, meaning fear of air. And he spake thus:

"It is recorded of Methuselah, who, being the longest liver, may be supposed to have best preserved his health, that he slept always in the open air (Rah for Methuselah!); for when he had lived five hundred years an angel said to him: 'Arise, Methuselah, and build thee an house, for thou shalt live yet five hundred years longer.' But Methuselah answered and said: 'If I am to live but five hundred years longer, it is not worth while for me to build a house; I will sleep in the air, as I have been used to do.' Physicians, after having for ages contended that the sick should not be indulged with fresh air, have at length discovered that it may do them good. It is therefore to be hoped that they may in time discover likewise that it is not harmful to those who are in health, and that we may then be cured of the aerophobia that distresses weak minds, and makes them choose to be stifled and poisoned rather than leave open the window of a bed chamber or put down the glass of a coach."

Franklin died at the premature age of eighty-four. Some of his colleagues were convinced that he was thus early cut off by his foolish habit of exposing himself to drafts of air.

Some of our esteemed readers have become offended at our unseemly and undignified language. If old Ben Franklin were with us to-day we imagine he would stir up many a hornet's nest for the long-suffering editors of this paper. Really, our comments are exceedingly tame when compared with the things printed in old Ben Franklin's day.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

What Is Cholera Morbus?

Please explain what cholera morbus is, and give the proper treatment.

Answer—Cholera morbus is a kind of a meaningless title to cover most any acute diarrhea. It is popularly attributed to green apples, etc., but in fact usually comes from eating food like milk or meat which has undergone bacterial change from standing in a warm place. Treatment, as well as we can define it in a general way, should be (1) Castor oil; (2) fasting for twelve to twenty-four hours; (3) rest in bed; (4) heat to abdomen.

Diet In Summer Complaint

What diet is best for one with summer complaint?

Answer—If you mean acute diarrhea, white of egg cooked as you like, tea without sugar or cream (or coffee without sugar or cream), no milk, stale bread, twice-baked bread (zwieback), or toast with a minimum of butter; barley water for a drink; a little scraped beef for meat; no fruit or vegetables.

ROTATION

ROTATION is the process of allowing one thing to follow another in swift alternation.

It was first utilized in America by old Andrew Jackson, who believed that if Democrats could be allowed to rotate rapidly in offices formerly held by whigs the party would be much more contented. This proved to be the case but the government suffered from dizziness most of the time. Rotation in office was perfected until the department buildings were constructed with wide corridors in order to allow the outgoing and incoming forces to pass each other without disturbing the routine of government.

Rotation is also practised on American farms with great success. By planting first one crop, then another, the farmer deceives the land into thinking it is getting a rest. This plan is also applied to the farmer's wife with good results. By allowing his wife to rest up from the housework by milking and to rest up from milking by doing housework, many an old style farmer makes the same wife last as much as twenty years.

This plan, however, would never do in the city, where rotation of wives has been developed to such a science that our courts can now grant a divorce in ten minutes, though they can't settle a lawsuit in ten years. Thanks to this system a man can remain constantly and entertainingly married as long as he has money enough to pay lawyer's fees.

Rotation in styles has made millions for the dressmakers and tailors, and is also a boon for the wise man who lays away his clothes in camphor when they become out of date and digs them up twenty years later when they are in the height of style.

Rotation is very valuable in the medical profession. Just about the time appendices ran out it was discovered that adenoids were superfluous; and by the time there are no more adenoids to extract another crop of appendices will be ready.

Rotation of wives has been developed to such a science that our courts can now grant a divorce in ten minutes

The horse was once mighty and indispensable. But he could not rotate, so the automobile has taken his place and is dodging shrapnel in the war. If the horse could speak he would give three cheers for rotation in all its many phases.

Getting Farmers Together

FARM co-operation — especially for credit purposes—is pretty much a German invention; but the conditions under which it evolved in Germany are very different from those in the United States. In this country only eight hundred thousand farms—or roughly one farm out of eight—are less than twenty acres in extent. The typical American farm is from twenty to a hundred and seventy-five acres—about three-quarters of all our farms falling in that class.

In Germany, on the other hand, over four million farms, or about three-quarters of all farms, are less than thirteen acres in extent. These small farmers usually live in villages, from which they go out to their tiny fields in the morning, returning at night; so they are constantly in contact with one another. Meeting to talk over affairs of common interest is a matter of daily occurrence. And when the co-operative movement sprang up they were in far worse plight than the majority of American farmers are. Few of them could obtain credit on any tolerable terms. Only by standing together could they survive at all.

Co-operation is more difficult here, both because farmers live much farther apart and because they can make a better shift at standing alone than the German farmers. It is significant that rural co-operation has been most successful in this country among fruit and vegetable growers, where the holdings are usually small and co-operation is the only alternative to complete failure.

Nowadays the rural telephone and the automobile go a good way toward canceling distance; and American farmers, with these inventions, might be about as neighborly as German farmers are if they wished, in spite of their much larger holdings. The fact that a man can exist independently is not a good reason for rejecting co-operation when he could exist better by combining with his neighbors.—Saturday Evening Post.

The PEOPLE'S LEGAL FRIEND

by E. R. BRANSON

It's Too Late Now

Q. A man promised to sell me a stock of goods at any time within four weeks. Nothing further was said and I turned the matter over in my mind and, at the end of two weeks, told him I would take the goods. I learned then that he had sold them to some one else. Could I recover damages from him?

A. No. If he had agreed to keep the offer open for four weeks and you had paid him for doing so, the case would be different.

They Are Agreed

Q. Kindly tell me what is meant by an "account stated."

A. When two persons mutually agree to the correctness of the account between them, and the balance, as ascertained to be due to either, it is called an "account stated" or an "account settled."

Maybe He Is A House Wrecker

Q. A neighbor of mine borrowed some of my household furniture and used it in such a way that it was badly damaged. Could I make him liable in a suit if he should refuse to pay me?

A. Yes.

Interest-ing

Q. Is the legal rate of interest the same in all the states?

A. No.

He Is Going To Buy

Q. I am about to buy a stock of goods. Could I have a warranty clause put in the bill of sale?

A. Yes.

Look In The Lease And See

Q. Does a tenant have the right to sub-let a part of the building occupied by him?

A. That depends upon what the lease says.

Deed Effective Upon Delivery

Q. At what time does a deed take effect?

A. As soon as the deed is delivered.

Signs

Q. May a sign on a factory or a store be considered a trade mark?

A. No.

Power Of Attorney

Q. Is a power of attorney ever given to endorse checks, drafts and notes?

A. Yes.

He Is Not Legal Agent

Q. Where an individual represents himself as the agent of another, will the person to whom the statements are made be justified in taking them as true and acting on them?

A. No. The mere statement made by one person that he is the agent of another will not be sufficient to establish the fact of such agency.

Sooner Or Later—Why Not Now?

Q. Please tell me how soon, after one has received a check, he should present it for payment or deposit at the bank.

A. He should do so within a reasonable time. It is better to present the check or deposit it within twenty-four hours.

Bonds For Public Officials

Q. Is it necessary for all city or village officers in Illinois to give bond?

A. All city or village officers, except aldermen and trustees, are required to enter into bonds.

Your Salary Can't Be Taxed

Q. Please tell me whether the salary of a state judicial officer is subject to taxation by the United States government?

A. It is not.

Intoxicated. Is Contract Valid?

Q. If a man makes a contract while intoxicated, will the contract be valid?

A. It will be valid unless the intoxication was such that he did not know what he was doing.

Patent Medicine Contract

Q. May one make a valid agreement for the purchase and sale of the exclusive right to compound and sell a patent medicine?

A. Yes.

He Can, If——

Q.—Is an old man, rather infirm, legally able to make a will?

A. The mere fact that a man is of advanced age, infirm physically and somewhat enfeebled in mind will not be conclusive evidence of his incapacity to make a will. If he is able to comprehend the nature of the transaction and act rationally and understandingly, it will be a valid instrument.

Did The Company Know?

Q. A certain man was employed by a corporation as its agent. While so engaged, he made an agreement with another man and I happen to know that this agreement is directly opposed to the company's interests. The man with whom the bargain was made says it is a good contract. What is your opinion?

A. The contract will not be good unless the company expressly assented to it or expressly affirmed it—that is, consented to be bound by it—after having full knowledge of the material facts.

Push And Pull

It is easier to Push than it is to Pull. What you Push has to be in front of you where you can see it and where you can concentrate every energy that is in you to your task. When you Pull, everything is behind you—half of your energy is lost, and besides—

When you Push your Work keeps pace with your Interest.

The man with the Push system accurately installed in his makeup is never heard to grumble because of lack of Pull. He both Pushes and Pulls, but the Pull is always from within himself the same as his Push.

Furnish your own Push and Pull.

Take down your history from its shelf. Read of the doers in that book. Who gave them their Pull? But one thing is true and certain and that is—they had Push!

Never mind about the fellow who seems to be getting on so "swimmingly" through all varieties of Pull. Remember this—there is sure to come a time when the Pull will give out, and if at that time he hasn't Push somebody, somewhere, will furnish the Push for him and he will be pushed out of the path of Success.

If you yourself do plenty of Pushing there will be plenty of other people who will want to Pull for you.

Daddy's Bedtime Story— The First White Boy Who Ever Saw America.

It Sailed Farther Than Any Ship That Sailed Before.

"THERE have been many little boys—white boys, I mean—in America since our great land was first discovered," said daddy. "Yes, indeed, there has been quite a procession of the little fellows."

"Was the first little boy with Columbus?" asked Jack, very much interested. "And could he play baseball, daddy?"

"No, Jack," answered daddy, with a smile. "He was before the time of Columbus. And that was long before boys learned to play baseball. There really isn't any record preserved of the first little white boy to visit our shores, but there must have been such a little boy, so I will imagine him.

"You know, it is well established that many years before Columbus discovered those islands far to the south of this continent a company of Norsemen sailed over here in their big ships and landed on the coast at the south of New England. There they built a tower of stone and lingered awhile, and then, after a time, they sailed away and did not come back again. These Norsemen were called vikings and were from Scandinavia, which land is now comprised of those countries at the north of Europe which we call Norway and Sweden.

"I am going to assume, just for our story, that the commander of the ship had a small boy, about Jack's age, with red hair, and that his name was little Eric. And he heard his daddy planning to sail away from Scandinavia's shores to see if he could find new lands, and he asked if he could not go too.

"'No; you are too little,' replied his daddy. And little Eric was too brave to cry, but his little eyes winked hard, and his little throat swelled.

"Then his daddy noticed that he felt bad, and he said little Eric could go. And Eric was as happy as he could be, and he got ready to go.

"And the ship started, and it sailed, and it sailed, and it sailed, farther than any ship had ever sailed before. And you would have thought that the sailors would have been afraid, but they were vikings and afraid of nothing, and neither was the little boy.

"And after awhile the ship landed on the New England coast, and little Eric went ashore with the sailors, and they built the tower and stayed for some time. They saw the funny red Indians, and little Eric wanted to play with some of the Indian boys. But the little redskins were shy, and little Eric had to sail back without making friends with them.

"So that's the make believe story of the first little white boy in America," concluded daddy.

Glimpses of Married Life

BY MRS. EVA LEONARD

Nell, I am just as sure that Mrs. Ellson was listening behind the syringa bushes when the doctor and I were talking the other evening as if I had seen her. I felt the tragedy in the air, the tragedy of hearing the man she loves, the man who once loved her, ask another woman to be his wife." Olive gazed over the field of clover, her chin resting in her hand.

Nell raised herself from dusting the rounds of a chair and looked at Olive while she adjusted her dust cap.

"Don't you believe you were thinking of her and imagined it?" she asked. "I can't believe even she would be able to secrete herself there and not be discovered. Did you look to see if you could find anyone behind the bushes?"

"Yes, in a way. I thought it would be hard for the doctor to find her and so did not insist on a thorough search."

"It certainly would have been a trying situation for all three of you," admitted Nell, resuming her dusting.

"But I do not propose to sit tamely by and be shadowed, feeling that she is eavesdropping all the time. She may as well be settled first as last," continued Olive.

"There is no use of my trying to guess your move. I would never succeed," laughed Nell, arranging the papers on the library table.

Olive rose and picking up the idle dust cloth began vigorous operations on the furniture before she replied.

"If Mrs. Ellson is in Fairport the maid will be at her own home probably. I shall ask the doctor to drive by there and stop to inquire for eggs or something for you. If the maid is at home I shall be confirmed in my suspicions."

"I need some eggs and they keep hens. That will work all right," encouraged Nell.

"Then I have bought some plaster of paris. I shall scatter that over the grass behind your shrubbery. It will not be seen in the shadow, and footsteps will show in that after the dew has fallen," continued Olive.

"Very clever! Sister Sherlock Holmes," laughed Nell, pausing in her work to look admiringly at Olive. "If she is here in Fairport, the chances are that she is staying with Mrs. Ash, the dressmaker," she added.

"I'll do some shadowing myself and find out." Olive spoke with decision.

"Nell wants us to bring her some eggs from Mrs. Brent's, if you don't mind stopping for them," said Olive to Dr. Ellson that afternoon as they sped down the fine brick road in the brilliant sunshine.

"That maid of yours that Nell hired was named Brent, wasn't she? What became of her?" asked Olive after the doctor had expressed his willingness to do the errand.

"I have no idea. I think she must be out of town working, as I never see her any more," answered the doctor, as they drove up to the gate.

"Queer; you were asking about that maid," he continued when he reappeared with the eggs. "She's at home now on her vacation; says she is working for someone out of town." Olive was silent.

"Where do you want to go?" he asked as he climbed into the machine.

"To our old picnic grounds. I have a fine lunch." Olive tapped a hamper with her knuckles.

"Old picnic graunds? We were never there until two weeks ago."

"And have been there twice since, so it has associations that I prize," interrupted Olive, smiling.

Household Hints

PICNIC SANDWICHES

Bacon - Egg Sandwiches — Chop crisp slices of bacon (fried and cold) with cold hard-boiled eggs. Mix with salad dressing and spread thin slices of lightly buttered bread with the mixture. Place lettuce leaf in each sandwich and wrap in linen cloth wrung out of cold water. These will be fresh and nourishing if directions are followed.

Surprise Sandwiches—Cream one-fourth cup butter, gradually beat it into two ounces of any soft, mild cheese, season with plenty of paprika. Have ready a little crabmeat or tender bits of lobster, seasoned with French dressing. Spread bread lightly with cheese mixture, set a bit of the lobster in the center part of the pieces and press the other part above.

Checkerboard Sandwiches — Use white and dark graham or nut bread; of each cut three slices half inch thick. Spread a slice of dark bread with creamed butter and on it press a slice of white bread, spread with butter and press upon it a slice of the dark bread. Begin again, spreading a slice of white bread with butter, then press upon it a slice of dark bread. Set these aside in a cool place, on a small bread board, a light weight above each. After half an hour trim each and cut in half-inch slices; spread a slice with butter and set a second slice above in such a manner that the cubes of bread will alternate in color, proceed in the same manner until all the slices are used, press again under a weight, then cut in thin slices to serve.

SUMMER BEVERAGES

Lemonade—Squeeze juice from one-half dozen lemons. Boil rinds in sufficient water to cover well—about twenty minutes. Strain water after removing rinds and add one pound sugar. Boil about ten minutes. Put the lemon juice on fire and allow to come to boil. You will find that this method strengthens the flavor and is always ready to be served by adding water. Pour over large pieces of ice, as crushed ice melts and weakens the flavor. Doubling this recipe will be enough for a small lawn party.

Blackberry Wine—Take one gallon berries, mash and pour over sufficient water to cover, set away in cool place from twenty-four to thirty-six hours. Then strain and add to juice one pound dark brown sugar. Again set away twenty-four hours, or until it begins to sing, then take off scum, pour into a jug and cork. Flavor with cloves and cinnamon.

THE TABLE

Potato Soup—Take six potatoes, two onions, small bunch parsley; boil in about one gallon water with salt to season. When potatoes are done, take nearly one quart flour in a dish, put in half teaspoon salt and two or three eggs and rub together into what we call "rivels." Stir in and put in butter the size of an egg and a half cup of cream or a cup of milk; boil about ten minutes. If too thick, add more water.

Baked Fish With Oatmeal Balls (English dish)—Take about 1½ or two pounds of fresh cod (middle cut is best); wash it and remove skin, sprinkle with salt and allow to stand a few hours. Then wipe dry and place it in large buttered pudding pan. Pour over a cupful of milk and one of water and bake half an hour. Mix together two cups oatmeal and half cup chopped suet, a little salt and pepper and minced parsley. Bind with a beaten egg and a little water. Make into small balls, roll in dry oatmeal and put in dish with the fish. Allow all to cook another half hour.

Orange Cups—Cut off stem end of an orange. Remove inside, cut it into small cubes, mix with bits of pineapple and banana, add small quantity of grape juice and sugar to taste. Return to shell. Serve with plain nut meats.

If there are children in your family, you have no more important duty than to protect them from impure milk.

DAINTY MISSES' EVENING DRESS.

No. 8967.

An informal evening dress is to a young lady what rompers are to the active child—an absolute necessit, and a need for an abundance of them. There must be ample variation in style. A very pretty dress is Ladies' Home Journal Pattern No. 8967 shown above. This opens in back and consists of a waist with a round neck, plaited on the shoulder in front and having a scarf drapery in the back, short sleeves to be made with or without the frills, one piece straight gathered skirt with or without cascades and deep girdle. Length of skirt at center-front is as follows. Size 14, 34 inches; 16, 36 inches; 18, 38 inches, and 20, 40 inches. Size 18 requires 7¼ yards 36-inch material, with ¾ yard 36-inch silk and ⅜ yard 42-inch lining for foundation girdle.

Patterns can be purchased at the store of A. E. Force & Company.

It Wasn't Going.

Sir James Barrie tells of Charles Frohman's reply to a cable message he received from France during the opening of one of his plays. It was from the French author of the play and read:

"How's it going?"

Mr. Frohman read it after the second act, when it was clear the play had failed, then replied:

"It is gone."—New York World.

You Touch a Magic Button When You Become a "Want Advertiser."

Our day is the day of "touching buttons."

A President presses a button in Washington, and a titanic explosion, thousands of miles away, weds the two great seas.

We are fond, nowadays, of accomplishing big effects with simple processes.

And so the "button-pressing" magic applies to the "little things" of life, as well as to the big episodes.

When you become a "want advertiser" you press a MAGIC BUTTON—and the influence is felt in the homes and business places of the city.

Your quest becomes of interest to the people who are able to help you accomplish it.

If you seek work, and "press the button" of Plainfield Daily Press want advertising publicity, your quest becomes one of personal interest to the people who need you. The same law operates in the working out of every "want ad task."

For classified advertising makes the whole city your market; makes the right people your audience; delivers your message to all people to whom it could have any interest or importance.

MODERN WARSHIPS

They Are Vastly More Than Mere Fighting Machines.

LIKE WELL ORDERED CITIES.

Each One Has Its Own Police Force and Its Court of Justice and Is as Complete as an Ocean Liner or an Up to Date Hotel as a Living Place.

The modern warship is not only a fighting machine, but, like the big ocean liner, she may be compared with the most up to date hotel or even with a well regulated commonwealth, according to Rear Admiral Charles D. Sigsbee, U. S. N., retired. The former captain of the Maine has drawn a picture of one of Uncle Sam's typical fighting craft from a new angle, and he says:

"When one of these great battleships, with her many people, puts out to sea she must be self supporting from her own supplies. She is everything from a village to a large city, according to one capacity or another. She has her own police force, her own courts of justice and metes out her own punishment. In no small degree she rewards as well as punishes.

"Normally, and counting to the uttermost corner and crevice, she is one of the cleanest and most sanitary establishments to be found anywhere. Her spring cleaning is administered every day and before the earliest busy hours of the forenoon. At her best she is a beautiful souvenir of patriotism to the vision of the patriot. At her worst, after each coaling of soft coal that she burns, we find her as grimy everywhere as a coal pit. In her war paint her white sheen has departed somewhat, but her cleanliness remains.

"Her people drink germless water distilled on board from salt water over the side. She has her own ice plant, ice water, 'pipe line,' cold storage rooms, tubular fire mains and flushing systems, hot and cold water supply through pipes, and has bathtubs and shower baths for either salt or fresh water. She has no sewer gas, nor has she the murderous mosquito that we have on shore to usurp the iniquity of our old bugaboo, the household sewer gas. She has laundrymen and tailors, stewards, cooks and attendants. Her range of special artificers is a long one.

"Her hospital and pharmacy are up to date, and even her canteen, while on the dry order of canteens, possesses some of the combined qualities of a cigar store, notion counter, confectionery and delicatessen store. With her hardware, utensils and mechanical adjuncts of many kinds she could stock a gigantic hardware establishment on shore. What hardware house keeps on hand more than $1,000,000 worth of supplies?

"She has a telephone system for internal use and a wireless outfit for external communication. She is heated by steam and lighted by electricity and has scores of electric motors. Her guns are fired by electricity, and finally with her powerful electric plant she could provide the electric needs of a city of more than 50,000 people.

"She harnesses and uses, with nice application, tremendous forces of steam, electricity and explosives. Her satellites are scout vessels, hospital vessels, supply vessels, repair vessels, dispatch vessels, tugs, destroyers and submarines. When the battleship has done what the ocean liner does she has not yet begun her reserve of gigantic accomplishments—her war specialties. In her power of damage a battleship is truly infernal."

Admiral Sigsbee says that practically all the enlisted men in the United States navy are American born, which is a great reversal of conditions that existed before sails gave way to steam. The present typical man-o'-war's man is much younger than his prototype, but each year is increasing the average age, and this is a great advantage to the navy.

The young men who enter the service and pass through only one or more periods of enlistment, preferring civil life thereafter, carry with them a sense of discipline and a knowledge of mechanical niceties that have much influence in shaping their lives and in popularizing the navy throughout the country. It no longer is the rule to seek men only on the coast. Every state is now well represented by enlisted men, especially those of the middle west.—New York Times.

Extremes In Iceland.

In Iceland nature seems to have deserted all her ordinary operations and to have worked only in combining the most terrific extremes which her powers can command. Nor is she yet silent. After the lapse of ages the fire of the volcano still bursts out among the regions of eternal snow, and the impetuous thundering of the geysers continues to disturb the stillness of the surrounding solitude.

Truly Feminine.

"Ladies," announced the president of an afternoon bridge club—"ladies, it has been moved and seconded that there shall be no conversation at the card tables. What shall we do with the motion?"

"I suggest," said a sprightly little blond—"I suggest that we discuss it while we play."—New York Times.

SIGNS OF RAIN.

Simple Things That Tell Us When a Storm Is Brewing.

On the subject of predicting rain, Rollin Lynde Hartt in the Woman's Home Companion writes in part as follows:

"There are plenty of soundly scientific weather signs that are right before our eyes and vouched for by the best meteorologists. For instance, the 'ring around the moon,' which is produced by a thin, filmy cloud made up of minute particles of ice—a state of things not built to last. Either some unlooked for commotion will put a stop to it in a different manner, or it will pour 'cats and dogs' within three days at most. In eighty-six cases out of a hundred the rule holds good. A still better sign is the 'ring around the sun.'

"This is science, pure and simple, and so is the old maxim: 'The farther the sight the nearer the rain.' It is not pessimism that makes people along the coast predict a downpour when they can pick out the separate houses on a faraway island, or people in mountainous regions call it 'too good to last,' when a distant peak, generally invisible, comes into view. They are shrewd meteorologists in making these predictions, and also in declaring that sounds carry better when a rainstorm is brewing.

"Of all nice, convincing weather signs, however, a 'sickening sky' is pretty nearly the most reliable. When the deep warm blue grows paler, and then whitish, and your spirits drop, and shadows fray at the edges and disappear, then you have a sickening sky. Rain is not being brought up ready-made from afar, it is being manufactured directly overhead.

"The color of the sky, then, is a fairly trustworthy sign in and of itself, and so is the color of the clouds. Intensely white clouds against an intensely blue sky mean bright weather ahead. Grayish clouds on a lightish blue foretell rain."

A FAMOUS SUBMARINE.

In Its Day Le Diable Marin Was Considered a Marvel.

Le Diable Marin (the Sea Devil) was one of the most famous of the nineteenth century submarines. It was the invention of Wilhelm Bauer, who launched it in 1856.

This vessel was built of iron. She was fifty-two feet long, twelve feet wide and eleven feet deep and shaped somewhat like a dolphin. Her sides were six-tenths of an inch thick and could resist the pressure of a 150 foot column of water.

The motive power was provided by a screw, which was operated by a treadmill, and the up or down motion was achieved by shifting water in longitudinal tanks by means of pistons.

At the bow was a bomb or torpedo containing fifty pounds of powder, and near it were two heavy india rubber gloves, by means of which a man inside the vessel could reach out and fasten the bomb to the bottom or side of a ship. To purify the air Bauer arranged long pipes, which were quite effective in revivifying the stale air for a short time.

The Russian government supplied him with a crew of eighteen men, who were to make a trial trip with him, but on his first descent they were so alarmed as to be useless, and when the Diable Marin rose again to the surface they cried, "Praise be to God!"

When his men were more accustomed to the work Bauer executed many wonderful maneuvers and on one occasion stayed under water while he wrote letters to his mother, King Maximilian of Bavaria and the Grand Duke Constantine.—Boston Globe.

The Knight of Snowdon.

A Cambridge High school boy figured out the character of James Fitz James in "The Lady of the Lake." He did it on a piece of paper which his teacher took away from him. Here is what he calls the "Knight of Snowdon:"

"A bow legged, knock kneed, pigeon toed, cock eyed, broken nosed, donkey earned, bone headed, wiggley, crippled nut."

As if that were not clear enough, he accompanied the epithets with drawings, evidently of the noble knight with the sun laughing at him from the skies.—Boston Record.

Constitutional Government.

By "constitutional government" is meant the government that has checks imposed upon it by a written (or unwritten) constitution or charter. The United States and England and France and various other countries are "constitutional" in this sense, whereas Russia and one or two other countries are nonconstitutional because of the absence of the above mentioned checks, the will of the czar, etc., being practically supreme.—New York American.

His Meaning.

Little George—I met Miss Smith in the street this morning, mother, and as she recognized me her countenance fell. Mamma—What do you mean, dear? Little George—There was a piece of orange peel on the pavement. The rest of her fell too.—Pittsburgh Press.

Common Phenomena.

"Father," said the small boy, "what are delusions of grandeur?"

"My son, they are what would cause almost any man to be considered insane if he were so indiscreet as to own up to them in public."—Washington Star.

The Wrong Thing.

"I can give you a few wrinkles about keeping young."

"That's where wrinkles won't do."—Baltimore American.

MRS. FELS FINDS USE FOR TAINTED MONEY

What to do with tainted money is no puzzle to Mrs. Mary Fels. She uses it to combat the source of the taint. Nearly $70,000 realized in a recent land deal will be spent in an effort to make land speculation unprofitable.

The land in question was eleven and a half acres at Sixtieth and Kingsessing streets in West Philadelphia. The late Joseph Fels, soap manufacturer and single taxer, bought it for $32,500. It sold, without further improvement for $100,000. A house that stood on the property was used, during his ownership, as a working girls home. Part of the profits have gone toward a new home. The bulk of the money will be spent in educating toward an increase tax on site values.

Fels entered into the transaction for two reasons. He was giving the bulk of his income to the fight against "unearned increment." Why not make increment finance its own destruction? Also he used the tract in question as a platform illustration of what he was opposing.

"I did not make the land," he used to say. "I did not do one stroke of work to improve it. The growth and activity of Philadelphia increases its value. The people of Philadelphia are making me a present daily of money that I am not entitled to. Since the law says it is mine, I will put it to the best use I know of, to fight the system which makes this burden possible."

Fels died in 1914 without selling the property. His widow, who is carrying on his work, has sold it and is using the money in accordance with his wishes.

SPORT BRIEFS

Motorcycle marathon of twenty-six miles will be the feature at the Brighton Beach Motordrome tonight.

Maurice McLoughlin the California tennis star, yesterday won his first match in the singles in the Seabright Lawn Tennis and Cricket Club tournament, defeating Lyle E. Mahan, of the West Side Tennis Club.

Mike McTeague, the Western middleweight, easily defeated Battling Johny Baker, of Harlem, at the Olympic A. C., last night, in ten fast rounds.

President Weeghman, of the Chicago Feds, anounced last night that baseball at a minimum admission price of ten cents would be inaugurated at Chicago, August 22, when the local Fed club returns home from the East.

Umpire Quigley, the National League arbitrator, was painfully injured yesterday at the Chicago National ball park in the umpire's dressing room, when a gas stove exploded.

University of Chicago won the mile relay title, with Chicago A. A. taking 400-meter race, at the Panama-Pacific Expositon games yesterday.

ROD AND REEL

A true sportsman does not like to see his catch suffering a slow death, and hesitates at anything else that may seem cruel. He kills the captured fish at once, and this is the more humane way. There is another reason why you should kill the fish as soon as it is caught; it is much better for food purposes.

A mode of fishing practiced by salt water anglers, and much in vogue along the Eastern coast, is what is known as surf casting. It is a sort of bait casting from the beach into the ocean surf, where certain fish, such as channel bass and striped bass, resort to feed on crabs, sea worms and certain shell fish that stay just at the edge of the deep water made by the waves on the sand.

At a certain distance out from this line will be found a sudden deepening of the water, a cut of from a few inches to several feet deep. In this water the surf casting is done; that is to say the bait is cast into that place.

The rod for this kind of fishing should be from seven and a half to nine feet long, if made with a plain long butt, and somewhat longer if made with a spring butt. It should be of split bamboo, and should weigh in the neighborhood of twenty ounces, the weight, of course, depending upon the length. The line should be 150 to 200 yards long, and made of twisted linen about 12 to 18-thread size.

The reel should be a double multiplier, made especially for this kind of fishing, with a throw off to make it a free spool reel when casting, and it should have a handle drag or leather brake. To the end of the line a triangular swivel is fastened, and to this a six-ounce pyramidal sinker and a short leader, a foot or more in length, and made of six strands of braided gut. The hook is 9-0 for red drum or striped bass.

Shedder crab is the bait mostly used. The angler should be provided with a rod belt, having a leather or rubber cup to hold the butt of the rod, and a beach rod holder, which is a tube-shaped affair with a long spike on the bottom. It is stuck in the sand and used to hold the rod when baiting, etc., for rod and reel would be injured if thrown down on the sand. The belt with the red cup is to hold the butt of the rod while waiting for a strike, also to "pump" a large fish.

The casting is done from the reel as in bait casting, but the rod is handled with two hands, and instead of making a direct overhead cast the rod is swung at an angle of forty-five degrees, or thereabouts, from the vertical line. The weight of the sinker draws out the line in the same way that the bait draws out the line in bait casting. The angler must be able to cast one hundred feet or more for this kind of fishing.

Sea bass were caught in large numbers off Long Beach, Wreck Lead, and Buoy 4 Sunday. Five-pounders were landed at regular intervals.

Sheepshead Bay fishermen have been making good catches of seabass and blackfish all week. Porgies have been landed quite frequently by anglers in that region.

Fluke are being caught in large numbers off Point Rockaway Point daily.

If there are any local anglers who contemplate spending their vacation in New York State, the Twin Cascade Lakes have our endorsement. Trout catches registered there during the past few days warrant our recommendation.

The rod and line fishing in the bay was rather poor Sunday. No one reported a large catch, and the wise fishermen must have known there wouldn't be anything doing in the fishing line, so they went to the ball game. There were less boats on the fishing banks than any day this summer. A very heavy rain Saturday night spoiled whatever chance there might have been for clear water, and another one yesterday afternoon didn't help matters any. The writer anchored at four different places between Morgan and Keansburg and then carried home the shedder crab bait and cooked them for supper.

Weakfish were caught in large quantities off Morgan Sunday, the few anglers who braved the adverse conditions being unusually lucky.

A well-known angler reports the capture of a large water pilot at the dam near Bound Brook, as the snake seemed to be gorged with food the angler decided that a "post mortem" was necessary. On examination he found Madame Snake had been indulging in a fish dinner consisting of a rainbow trout about twelve inches long.

Fresh water fishing is improving in the nearby streams, some very good catches being reported from Bound Brook and vicinity where bass, white and yellow perch, catfish, carp and eels are biting freely.

A few bright clear days are all that is necessary to give us some of the best bass fishing we have had for years, the streams are full of water of a temperature lower than is customary for this season of the year and the fish show by their activity when hooked that they are feeling good and are in prime condition.

The best fishing is generally due in September and lasts well on in October.

ANOTHER SHIFT RUMORED FOR TABS' BALL-GAMERS

According to reliable information another shift will be made in the Tabs' line-up. This change is necessitated by the fact that a new man has been added to the team's roster and that Joe Geary intends leaving for Philadelphia in a short time. Wall, the new man, will cover third, Hannon second and McCarty short. Scott will still tend to first base unless his work becomes unsatisfactory.

Monahan tried Tone Demby at short Saturday and the former P. H. S. hurler proved himself capable of tackling the position although Manager Jim intends using him, as formerly, as a hurler.

The loss of Joe Geary will be sorely felt by the Abstainers' forces as the little second sacker was full of "pep" on all occasions. Geary was a poor hitter when he came to this city, but under the watchful eye of the Tab manager developed into a reliable slugger.

WILL GO ON OUTING.

Owing to the fact that the Hope Chapel excursion will be run on next Saturday, the scheduled Hope-Clinton Avenue match will not be played.

NEW TALENT FOR CITY BALL CLUBS

Some Names Added to Rosters at Last Night's Meeting Promises Much.

ABRAMS GETS A PLUM

Hymmie Will Henceforth Appear In An Umpire's Garb at City League Games—Gage Retained as First "Sub"—Moguls at Peace.

The mildest City League meeting of the season was held last night in the Daily Press office. In the absence of the president, who is on his vacation, and the vice-president, who was detained by business, Thomas Heron occupied the chair.

Representatives of all six teams were on hand. Progress was reported in the business arrangements with A. G. Spaulding, and preparations for next week's games were made. Hymen Abrams was appointed permanent umpire to take the place of Henry Hansen, who resigned. George Gage was retained as substitute. Inasmuch as the roster lists were not at hand, a motion was made and carried that additions be made and no withdrawals be announced until the next meeting. Following out this plan, the name of Casey Lamberton was added to the Clinton Avenue list. Those of Clark and Mills were anexed to the Baptist roster, and Mills' name was put on the Hope list also replacing Hand pending his personal decision as to which team he wishes to join. The name of Billy O'Loughlin was placed on the T. A. B. list, and that of Frank Lawton withdrawn. J. B. Coughlin withdrew his name from the Netherwood team, Huffmeister taking his place. Owing to the fact that the Hope excursion will take a number of the players away from the city it was decided to call off the Hope-Clinton Avenue and Saurer-Tab tussles. The Netherwood-Baptist contest will be played. It was moved that an all-star team be organized to give the T. A. B. outfit a little practice. This motion was approved, with the stipulation that the league standing would not be impaired. Rosenson declared that he and "Kats" Miller would gather in the stars, and intimated that the following would be on hand: B. Rosenson, Miller, Jaeger, Hirsch, H. Rosenson, Savidge, Bergen Harriman and Alberts. The game will be staged on Baptist Field. No arrangements as to when the postponed encounter would be run off were made.

MAJOR LEAGUE HUNTING FOR MORE PERFORMERS

The opening of the Parker Field Major League yesterday, was far from being a success. Only three of the regulars on one of the teams put in an appearance and these, assisted by a few "recruits," were treated to a 11 to 1 trimming.

The initial encounter was entirely unsatisfactory due, perhaps, to the fact that the older boys have been successful in their search for summer employment. The Minor League race is sure to prove successful.

CHIEFS FOLLOW SUIT.

Chicago, Ill., Aug. 10—President Charles Weeghman, of the Chicago Federals, announced yesterday that baseball at a minimum admission price of 10 cents would be inaugurated here August 12. He said 3,000 bleacher seats would be available at 10 cents each, 5,000 pavilion seats at 25 cents, 10,000 grandstand seats at 50 cents and 4,500 box seats at $1.

CHICAGOANS TAKE CLASSIC.

San Francisco, Aug. 10—The open one mile relay championship of the Amateur Athletic Union at the Panama-Pacific Exposition was won yesterday by the University of Chicago, with the Boston Athletic Association second and the Cincinnati Chamber of Commerce third. The time was 3 minute 23 2-5 seconds. Four men teams competed.

HOW MANY LOCAL GIRL ATHLETES CAN EQUAL THIS?

Tacoma, Wash., Aug. 10—What was said yesterday to be a new world's baseball throwing record for a girl was made Sunday by Miss Ruth McCabe, when she threw a ball 203 feet 5 inches.

Miss Dorothy Smith, of Vassar College, is said to have established the best previous record in 1911 with a throw of 204 feet. Miss McCabe is a fourth year student in High School here.

B. A. C. OUTFIT HUNG ONE ON THE P. S. S. COMBINE

Pounding the ball for a total of sixteen hits the B. A. C. baseball team defeated the P. S. S. outfit yesterday afternoon by a score of 16 to 2. Titsworth led the clouting with four hits and Feiring came next with a collection of three.

The score:

AMATEUR BALL JINGLES

Haberman sprang into the limelight again Saturday. The Saurer man tried to "shoulder" a trolley car off the tracks a few weeks ago and failed in the attempt. Saturday, he was called to relieve his mates of impending danger and got away with his effort.

Saturday's longest fly, Gene Dowd of Montrose, hope chapels lard. By the way this youth, Dowd, is been infusing grit and life into the Baptist squad. In the game Saturday and in the one played a week ago he exhibited unusual fielding, running and batting ability.

Last Thursday "Hub" Stine confessed to us that he hadn't a thing on the pill. By the looks of things Saturday we should judge that the sphere must have been unusually small or actually invisible.

Such is fate! "Hopes" Wall was deprived of two nice bingles in the Baptist-Hope farce by "Buster" Lanham, the fleet-footed outfielder of the Baptist nine. "Buster's" activity in the outer garden has given several of the league's slugger cause to worry.

Henry Overland, dressed up in a Clinton Avenue suit, having cast away his brownish-hued Hope uniform, slammed out two nice taps for [illegible] looks to be a valuable addition to Brown's forces.

The manager of the Hopes has issued a "war" statement in which he declares that he is far from pleased with the manner in which Dick Schott treated him. In addition he states that he intends making a great shift in his team.

Jimmy Monahan will be allowed to use Wall this Saturday and expects the Bound Brooker to shine. Wall's ability is not known here as although he was signed up by the Clinton Avenues, he never performed with them.

"Con" Schroeffer wonders what became of that well-directed challenge of his. As far as he knows it was last seen in T. A. B. quarters.

SIX STRAIGHT HITS.

Chicago, Aug. 10—George Cutshaw, second baseman for Brooklyn, yesterday tied the record held by Clarence Beaumont, of Pittsburg, by making six consecutive hits in as many times at bat in the game against Chicago.

TEN YEARS POLICEMAN.

Westfield, Aug. 10—Acting Chief of Police Martin Caulfield completed ten years of active service on the Westfield police force Sunday. He was appointed a patrolman on August 8, 1905. On April 15, 1907, he was advanced to the position of sergeant.

PROCTOR'S THEATRE

The second victrola guessing contest was started at Proctor's Theatre, and judging from the great interest manifested in the first, the second promises to outdo itself in popularity. Guess the number of this musical instrument and you may have it.

Dorothy Donnelly, the grandest of the grand emotional actresses before the public today, will appear this evening at the Proctor house in a heart-thrilling drama entitled "Sealed Valley," a Metro picture which guarantees it as a topnotch production.

Mary Pickford, one of the greatest heroines of historic and romantic drama, is to appear tomorrow in that wonderful love tale of the days of gallant knighthood, a drama of hearts and swords, "Little Nell." Miss Pickford has the support of a cast of strength, including Owen Moore, Arthur Hoops, Ruby Hoffman and Amelia Rose in stellar roles. Combined with the star and supporting cast comes the magnificent settings and photography, and acting beyond compare, giving every reason to expect a production well worth the while.

Educational pictures still continue to feature the programs at Proctor's Theatre, as do light comedy photoplays, thus affording well-balanced bills which appeal to most any taste. Pony votes are still being given with each ticket. The matinee of Thursday, when 'Buckshot John" is to be shown as the feature picture, silver souvenir spoons will be given to each housewife in the audience.

MR. GAVETT TO SPEAK.

Andrew J. Gavett will address the men's Monday gospel meeting at the Rescue Mission Hall tomorrow noon. The service begins at 12:30 sharp. All men are cordially invited. A special musical service has been arranged.

ANNOUNCE ENGAGEMENT.

Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Wuergler, of Webster place, announce the engagement of their daughter, Minnie Wuergler, to Robert Charles Ruerup, of Newark.

Don't forget that classified advertisements must be in by noon on Saturdays.

The Daily Press can be purchased each night at Mallinson's drug store, East Second street.

GEO. F. BROWN DIES IN BORO

Brown's first political office was that of public school trustee, after which he ran for borough tax collector and treasurer, and was elected. This was sixteen years ago. He was serving the second year of his fifth three-year term at the time of his death.

Mr. Brown was a Republican in politics, but was so well liked that time after time he was elected to the office of collector even though his party went down to defeat. He was held in high esteem both by his constituents and his opponents on the other side. Miss Julia Williams has been his efficient stenographer and office assistant for many years, and is in charge of the collector's office at present. She has a thorough working knowledge of all borough affairs. Mr. Brown's successor will have to be appointed by the Mayor, the appointment to be approved by the members of Common Council, and this appointee will serve until the next election, filling Mr. Brown's unexpired term. A special meeting of Common Council will be called for the purpose of selecting a collector for the interim.

Flags on the municipal buildings are placed at half-mast today out of respect to Mr. Brown.

In his daily life, Mr. Brown lived his Christianity before his friends. He was a member of the First Baptist church, having joined upon his removal to this city. At the time of his death he was a member of the board of deacons. He was a former assistant superintendent of the First Baptist Sunday-school, and was one of the teachers in the school. Owing to frequent attacks of rheumatism he was unable to be regular in his attendance at church or Sunday-school services, so had no regular Sunday-school class.

Mr. Brown was twice married. His first wife was a sister to Newton Smalley. His second wife, the widow, was Miss Nettie Worth, of North Plainfield. He had no children, but leaves surviving, besides the widow, three brothers and a sister. The brothers are Warren Brown, of Plainfield; Edward Brown, of Westfield, and Charles B. Brown, who resides in the State of Pennsylvania. The sister is Mrs. James S. Pray, of this city.

In connection with his duties as borough collector and treasurer, Mr. Brown conducted an extensive real estate and insurance business at 94 Somerset street. He was associated with Frederick A. Martin, former North Plainfield borough clerk, in several real estate transactions, and the two built houses together for speculation. Mr. Brown was the second tax collector and treasurer to be elected in North Plainfield, his predecessor being Newton Spencer.

Mr. Brown was taken ill two weeks ago last Saturday. Almost from the first his case was regarded with concern by the members of his family. It became apparent last week that the disease was likely to result fatally, but everything possible was done to aid the patient's recovery.

Yesterday morning Mr. Brown was apparently better. He rallied and was fully conscious, but that he had a foreboding of the end was evident in certain remarks he made to Dr. D. C. Adams, the attending physician. He requested the physician to apprise him of his condition, supplementing it with the words, "You need not fear to tell me the worst, for everything is all right with me."

Dr. Adams informed him that he was a very sick man, but urged him to maintain the fight to recover and not to give up hope.

Mr. Brown realized from the doctor's words that his condition was regarded as serious, for he simply answered, "Dr. Adams, I hope to meet you in heaven."

$239,340 GAIN IN CITY RATABLES

Lower Tax Rate Is Now Assured Plainfield Property Owners.

LOSS IN THIRD WARD

Drop In Valuations There Is $12,900, But Other Wards Show Increase—Total Valuations In City $30,921,975.

Indicating a slight decrease in Plainfield's tax rate, figures showing an increase of $239,340 in ratables in this city were filed yesterday with the Union County Board of Taxation. This conclusion is reached from the statements of monies needed to run the city and county this year, which show a drop over the figures of 1914. The total valuation for 1915 is $30,921,975, as against $30,682,635 in 1914.

Increases in ratables are shown in all wards but the third, where a decrease of $12,900 is noted. Last year the total valuation for the Third ward was $7,333,775 as against $6,582,569 in 1913, there then being an increase of $751,206. Taking these figures as a basis, it will be seen that the increase in the Third ward ratables since 1913 has been $738,306, the falling off of this year having been insufficient to counteract the big increase of 1914 over 1913.

Second-class railroad property in 1914 was assessed at $192,652, whereas in 1915 the figures are $194,677, or a gain of $2,125. The biggest increase over 1914 comes in the First ward where $117,525 has been added, being very nearly evenly divided between land, buildings and personal. In 1914 this ward showed a total of $6,209,475 against the $6,327,000 of this year. The Second ward has risen by $77,090 and the Fourth ward has come up $57,625.

A table showing comparison between the figures of 1915 and 1914 follows:

First Ward.	1915	1914
Land	$2,537,550	$2,547,350
Buildings	2,857,575	2,765,125
Personal	931,875	897,000
Totals	$6,327,000	$6,209,475
Increase, $117,525.

Second Ward.	1915	1914
Land	$3,745,550	$3,807,100
Buildings	4,821,575	4,756,310
Personal	1,360,400	1,287,025
Totals	$9,927,525	$9,850,435
Increase, $77,090.

Third Ward.	1915	1914
Land	$2,810,175	$2,834,450
Buildings	3,918,000	3,899,400
Personal	592,700	599,925
Totals	$7,320,875	$7,333,775
Decrease, $12,900.

Fourth Ward.	1915	1914
Land	$2,739,350	$2,765,850
Buildings	3,541,950	3,461,650

RECEIVES WORD OF CHANGE IN PLANS FOR POSTOFFICE

United States Senator James E. Martine has received a letter from Byron R. Newton, assistant secretary of the Treasury, that suggested changes which were proposed by the Senator, are to be made in the interior of the Plainfield postoffice. This will give the postmaster more room than was originally arranged for, and at the same time not interfere with the working space available for the other employes. When Senator Martine suggested the changes he surprised the attaches of the architect's office by his ability to read the plans, and the work is to be done entirely as proposed by him.

G. O. P. WARD CLUB BEGINS ITS LABORS

Planning Active Campaign for the Fall Elections—Candidates Discussed.

Plainfield's Republican political pot was started boiling last night at a meeting of the First Ward G. O. P. Club in the offices of V. W. Nash, Jr., a large attendance answering the call to the first session of the year. Discussion relative to singling out councilmanic timber occupied the major portion of the evening, the names of Charles S. Sminck, A.A. Prudhon and E. K. Lorton being mentioned as possibilities.

V. W. Nash, Jr., Albert Littell and Victor Lorton were suggested as candidates for the Republican city and county committees. Addresses were delivered by William Newcorn, the Union county G. O. P. chairman, and John J. Carroll, head of the city committee. Both spoke with optimism regarding the prospects for the Republican party at the fall elections and awakened much enthusiasm by their remarks.

ONE HURT WHEN AUTO AND TROLLEY COLLIDE

Both Sides Claim That Accident Was Fault of the Other.

A collision between an automobile and a trolley car in North Plainfield late yesterday afternoon resulted in the removal to Muhlenberg Hospital of Miss Laura Buckley, head nurse of the Babies' Hospital, Newark, who has a broken collar-bone and other injuries. The other two occupants of the car, N. A. Merritt, of 137 Livingston avenue, New Brunswick, and his niece, Miss E. L. Merritt, of the same address, were slightly injured. The automobile, a large seven-passenger touring car, was badly wrecked.

Mr. Merritt, driving the car, was on his way from Newark to New Brunswick and was proceeding along Mountain avenue. At Somerset street the collision occurred, as a result of which the front of the automobile was crushed in, and the trolley car was knocked from the tracks and sent crashing into the bank on the west side of Somerset street.

The trolley crew, Thomas H. Duffy, of Franklin avenue, and the motorman, Michael Welsh, claim that Merritt drove head on into the trolley car without looking where he was going, while Merritt claims that he stopped his automobile and that the trolley car ran into him. It was said by some who examined the trolley car after the accident that on the side of the trolley at a point four feet or so back, were the marks of the collision, which would indicate that the automobile had struck the trolley car.

The escape from serious injury of Mr. Merritt and his niece was remarkable. Mr. Merritt was sitting alone on the front seat, while the two women occupied the rear of the car. Miss Merritt was thrown forward and shaken up badly, but Miss Buckley was tossed clear out of the car and struck her head and shoulder in falling. There were several passengers in the trolley car at the time, but none were injured, although the shock of the impact between trolley and automobile was terrific and broke all the windows in the car. The radiator and hood of the automobile were bent in and the windshield was broken. Both front tires were also cut.

Dr. Arthur H. Dundon was hurriedly called to the scene of the accident and rendered first aid to the injured. He ordered Miss Buckley's removal to the hospital at once, as her injuries were of too serious a nature to treat on the spot. Mr. and Miss Merritt were able to be taken to their home in another automobile, the wrecked car being left on the scene of the accident until it could be towed to a garage.

News of the accident to Miss Buckley reached the Babies' Hospital, High and Bank streets, Newark, soon after it occurred. Miss Buckley has been connected with the hospital as nurse for seven years.

DRUNK IN THE BOROUGH.

One case required the attention of Recorder Fred W. Hand in the North Plainfield police court this morning, that of Louis Blumetti, 42 years old, of Stony Brook place. He was arrested yesterday afternoon by Marshal Pope, who found him drunk on Somerset street and unable to take care of himself. Recorder Hand fined him five dollars.

Local Young Man Brings Relics From Marne Battlefield to Plainfield.

HIS GRUESOME FINDS

Sallo M. Kahn Returns to City With Big Collection, Now On Exhibition at Rothberg's Store—Many Bodies Only Half Buried.

Newspaper and magazine stories have supplied America with volumes of literature to portray the horrors of the European battlefields, but few verbal accounts rival the realistic description of the results of the terrific conflict between the French and German armies as is given by Sallo M. Kahn, a graduate of the Plainfield High School in the class of 1908. Mr. Kahn sailed aboard the Lusitania for Liverpool, December 5, even at that early date experiencing many of the thrills that ocean travelers have felt since, because of the activity of submarines. The Plainfielder has a graphic, first-hand tale to tell, but his natural modesty and desire to keep his accounts to himself made him a hard subject for a Press reporter this morning. Few Americans have had the opportunity of witnessing the heart-rending scenes and the opportunity to identify themselves with one of the world's most important epochs of history as has been accorded Mr. Kahn.

His relics of the battlefield, articles that were both useful and ornamental to the fighters, form a remarkable collection. These memos,

PROF. THOMAS B. STILLMAN TO BE BURIED AT HILLSIDE

The funeral of Professor Thomas Bliss Stillman, whose death occurred yesterday at his home in Hoboken, following a brief illness, will be held at his late residence tomorrow afternoon at 1 o'clock and later in Trinity church, Hoboken. Rev. Mr. Mitchell, pastor of the church, officiating. The body will be brought to this city for burial, interment being made in Hillside cemetery at 3:30.

As the author of many books and pamphlets in technical and applied chemistry and as a professor at Stevens Institute of Technicology for many years, he became one of the most prominent men of his profession in this country, as was told yesterday. At the time of his death, Professor Stillman was working on the fifth edition of his "Engineering Chemistry," which he planned to be his life's greatest work.

Professor Stillman became famous in February, 1906, when he gave his "synthetic dinner" at the Hotel Astor. He created from various chemicals and under the very eyes of his guests, wines, sauces, salads and other foods in every respect as tempting to the palate as if they had been the products of the vineyard and garden. His guests ate them with wonderment and relish, and none suffered evil effect. Furthermore, he started the dinner by mixing chemical cocktails that were every whit as appetizing and potent as the bar-man's creations.

He is survived by a widow, who was Miss Emma L. Pomplitz, and by two sons and a daughter, Albert Leeds Stillman, Thomas Bliss Stillman, Jr., and Miss Anita Stillman, secretary of Christ Hospital in Jersey City, and a brother and sister, Counsellor-at-law William M. Stillman, of West Seventh street, and Mrs. J. K. Myers, of East Seventh street.

MEXICAN ISSUE CAUSES ANXIETY

More Troops Will Be Dispatched to Texas Border to Capture Bandits.

ADVICES ARE AWAITED

It Is Believed That First Call For Aid Will Come From Vera Cruz—Deny Report That American Trooper Was Killed.

Washington, Aug. 11.—Intense anxiety has been occasioned here by the development of Mexican matters and reports are keenly awaited. Both the Navy and War Departments are prepared to take action immediately on advices from Vera Cruz, New York or directly from the President, who is on his way to this place from Cornish.

Officials of the executive departments of the Government today admitted that more troops are to be sent to the Texas border, but Secretary Garrison carefully explained that the purpose of the move was to spread the men over a larger area through Texas to capture bandits. General Funston tody denied the report that an American trooper had been killed near Mercedes, Texas.

If a sudden alarm is received that Americans are in peril, it is the belief here that it will first come from Vera Cruz, or possibly from Mexico City, in either of which places an anti-foreign outbreak is considered distinctly probable.

Protection for foreigners, it was said at the Navy Department, could reach Vera Cruz most quickly from Haytian waters, where a number of warships are concentrated as a result

BIGGEST EXCURSION HAD A GREAT DAY

Knights of Columbus Took 2,800 to Asbury Park Yesterday In Three Sections.

Twenty-eight hundred excursionists, the largest number that ever accompanied a Plainfield organization on a single day's outing, went to Asbury Park with the Knights of Columbus yesterday. Ideal weather conditions made the trip a delightful one for all and the fact that the big throng was transported to and from the popular Atlantic coast resort without the slightest accident reflects with credit on the committee in charge. Eighteen hundred children enjoyed the trip at the expense of the Knights, but it is thought that the number of grown people who paid for tickets will make up for the expense incurred in taking the juvenile pleasure seekers.

A large majority of Plainfielders took advantage of the excellent bathing conditions and when the crowd surged into the North Avenue depot shortly before 9 o'clock last night each individual possessed a healthy coat of sunburn.

The committees in charge were as follows: Arthur Cannon, chairman; M. L. Griffin, secretary and treasurer. First section—R. McCormack, M. Mohan, A. A. Cannon, George Howe, A. E. Kenney, J. J. Kenney. Second section—W. Messler, F. Donnelly, G. A. Keating, J. J. McCarthy, D. B. Doyle, George Taylor, J. J Carty. Third section—J. Strappe, T Harding, P. Neylon, J. McGarrigle, Jr., C. Shannon, T. J. Meaney and F. Burke.

FIVE DOLLARS ADDED TO FUND FOR DAY NURSERY

Five dollars was received by the Daily Press this morning from "C," in response to an appeal made last night for the King's Daughters Day Nursery. As was then told this worthy charity is in great need of funds this year. Because of extraordinary expenses therein, and the fact that during the flood last week the back of the lot was washed away, the women in charge are hard pushed to make both ends meet. There have been unusual demands for milk also. Any person wishing to make contributions to the Daily Press office, an acknowledgement will be made through the news columns, or may be sent to the nursery. The fund to date is:

FIELDER PRESENT AT 'PLAINS PICNIC

Governor Escorted to Scene of Community Gathering By Ten Decorated Autos.

OTHER NOTED SPEAKERS

Statesmen Arrive Early—Big Athletic Meet Held This Morning—Parade Opens Festivities—Flag-Raising Impressive.

Promptly at 9:30 this morning about 250 children, accompanied by as many citizens from Scotch Plains and Fanwood, formed in line in front of Public School No. 1, and ten minutes later, led by Chief of Police Florence O'Sullivan, Rev. J. Madison Hare and William Sisseron, all started for the community picnic grounds, on Front street, near Hunter avenue, where booths of all sorts, Scout dog tents and various athletic apparatus had been erected. Immediately upon their arrival at the grounds the impressive "flag-raising" exercises were held. The "Star-Spangled Banner" was sung by the hundreds present. Interspersed with the singing cannon salutes were belched forth. The Rev. J. Madison Hare made a few suggestions to the committee in charge, and the morning's sports began. At exactly 12:25, five minutes ahead of his schedule, Governor James F. Fielder arrived, having been met at the Pennsylvania Railroad Station in Rahway at 11:52 and taken to the picnic grounds by auto. The reception committee made the trip to Rahway in ten private cars, all artistically decorated with the nation's colors, flowers and bunting. Accompanying the Governor's party

NATHAN LEWIS FINED $25 FOR BEATING HIS HORSE

Charged by Mrs. Stephen G. Van Hoesen, special agent for the S. P. C. A., with beating his horse, Nathan Lewis, of Liberty street, was arraigned before Judge DeMeza in the city court this morning and sentenced to pay a fine of $25.

In disposing of the case Judge DeMeza admonished the man not to repeat the offense under penalty of serving time in jail. It was shown conclusively by Mrs. Van Hoesen that the horse had been badly treated.

WEDDING GUESTS PAID $10 EACH IN THE CITY COURT

Joe Stacurski, Martin Diski, Peter and John Roscea and Frank and Joe Alkowski, the six men arrested by Patrolmen Martin Welsh and Raymond Strayer, Sunday night, charged with creating a disturbance at a wedding on West Second street, were fined $10 each when arraigned before Judge DeMeza in the city court this morning. According to complaints received by the police from persons living in the section of the thoroughfare where the wedding took place, the occurrence of Sunday afternoon has become a weekly event in that vicinity, and requests have been made to have it broken up.

Thirteen kegs of beer were in the house from which the men were taken, and these were also confiscated. The trobule, which culminated in the men's arrest, started after they had imbibed too freely of the liquid.

MISS ELLEN CROSS IS NOW MRS. JAY H. FALKERSON

A pretty church wedding was solemnized yesterday in St. Stephen's church, Netherwood, when Miss Ellen Cross, daughter of Mrs. George W. Cross, of East Front street, became the wife of Jay Harper Falkerson, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Falkerson, of Carbondale, Pa. Rev. Henry Mesier, rector of the church, officiated at the marriage. The edifice was attractively decorated for the event with palms and other cut flowers. The couple was attended by Miss Natalie Falkerson, sister of the groom, as maid of honor, and Charles Winters, of Carbondale, as best man.

Following the ceremony the couple and their relatives, with a few intimate friends, enjoyed a reception at the home of the bride's mother. The home was beautifully decorated, the color scheme being pink and lavender. After a short wedding trip the couple will be at home to their friends in Carbondale.

WALTER LINBARGER AFTER MAYORALTY?

It Is Rumored That Well-Known Democrat Will Seek Nomination Next Month.

It was announced in North Plainfield this morning, that Walter C. Linbarger will be a candidate for Mayor this fall on the Democratic ticket. Mr. Linbarger is said to be circulating a petition in anticipation of the primaries. William L. Smalley, the announced candidate for the Republican nomination for Mayor, is so far, Mr. Linbarger's only opponent.

Mr. Linbarger has long been a worker for his party. Last fall he was defeated for clerk of Somerset county.

Allen Wilson, Republican, of Grove street and Linden avenue, is circulating a petition for the nomination of councilman.

RUNYON AND GODFREY CONFER AT TRENTON

Plainfielder, At Conclusion, Refuses to Commit Himself On the Speakership.

Trenton, Aug. 11.—Assemblymen Carlton Godfrey, of Atlantic county, and William N. Runyon, of Union county, the Republican Speaker and leader, respectively, of the House of Assembly, were both at the State House yesterday, as Governor's Day visitors, and held an earnest confab in a corner of the main capitol corridor that lasted nearly an hour. It caused some speculation, in view of the fact that Speaker Godfrey will tomorrow evening, in Atlantic City, announce himself as a candidate for the party nomination for Governor.

Leader Runyon was asked if he would be candidate for the Speakership next winter in the event of his re-election and Republican control of the House.

"I don't care to discuss that matter now," he replied. "I do not know whether Mr. Godfrey will seek the Speakership, and my action will depend upon how matters shape themselves later. I feel, however, that there should not be a hot party fight over the Speakership."

Assemblymn Runyon did not seem to think there was any doubt of the re-election of the Republican members of the Assembly from Union county.

Speaker Godfrey maintained considerable reticence as to his plans because of a desire not to anticipate his formal announcement tomorrow night on the Governorship. He said he did not know whether he would be a candidate for Speaker again or not.

"That will depend upon circumstances," was his only comment.

Mr. Godfrey will return to the Assembly, but his attitude toward the Speakership will be subordinated to his Gubernatorial campaign, and he will seek to wield the gavel again only if it appear that this will be a stepping stone to the higher honor.

TWO BIG EXCURSIONS TO POPULAR COAST RESORT

Two excursions will be run from this city to Asbury Park and Ocean Grove, one tomorrow and the other on Saturday. The outing tomorrow will be under the auspices of Trinity Reformed church, of this city, and will include Sunday-schools from the Netherwood Reformed church, Marconnier chapel and Mt. Pleasant chapel. Trains will leave Plainfield at 8:15 and Asbury Park at 7:10.

Tickets for the Hope chapel excursion on Saturday may be procured from the following committee or at the station Saturday morning: G. Herbert Condict, Donald McInnes, Thomas G. Hendry, Dr. D. G. Atwood, Frank Rimmer, Robert Slorah, William Baker and Walter Firstbrook. Saturday's excursion is the only excursion that stays a full twelve hours at the seashore, leaving here at 8 and returning from Asbury at 8.

MAY SURRENDER KOVNO THIS WEEK

Russians Admit That Germans May Be Successful In Getting City Soon.

ITALIANS HOLD BACK

Are Consolidating Gains Already Made—French Continue Repulses In the West—Germans Admit Loss of Mine Sweepers.

Petrograd, Aug. 11—The fortress of Kovno, now under heavy attack by the Germans, may be evacuated by the Russians before the end of the week, it was admitted in military circles here today.

Since midnight on Saturday the Germans have sent thousands of shells crashing against the three principal forts guarding Kovno from the west. They have blown away sections o fthe Russian works, but the desperate heroism of the Russian army before the fortress has each time hurled back the Teutons when they attemptd to charge through the gaps.

The Petrograd military critics, while regretting that it may be necessary to retire from Kovno, continued optimistic over the situation all along the Russian front today. They declared the Slavs, if forced to leave the fortress, would fall back in good order upon Vilna, resisting stubbornly the enemy's advance toward the Warsaw-Petrograd railway.

North of Warsaw the most violent infantry engagements are occurring near Wyskof, where the Germans thus far have been unable to force a passage of the Bug, and north of Ostrow, where the Teutons are aiming at both the river and the Warsaw-Petrograd railway. The enemy is bringing fresh troops into action on the Ostrow-Sniadova road in a determined effort to batter his way through.

Around Warsaw and in the southeast the situation is described as satisfactory, the Slavs continuing their orderly retirement. A Red Cross train arriving at Gomel reported that two hospital trains carrying wounded away from Warsaw to Siedlce were bombarded by Zeppelins and many of the wounded killed.

The war office early today issued a review of the operations against Kovno on Sunday, but containing no mention of the Monday fighting. The Germans, it was stated, bombarded the fortress with siege artillery of all sizes up to 16 inch and then attempted to storm the forts by massed assault.

The war office reported heroic resistance on the part of the Russians and concluded with the statement that the enemy at the end of the day retained only the works near the village of Piple, won at tremendous cost. Since this fighting occurred, the evacuation of Vilna, east of Kovno, was begun and it was generally accepted here today that the official review of the Kovno fighting was issued to prepare the public for the evacuation of the fortress.

Rome, Aug. 11—In view of the Austrian reinforcements that have been drawn to the Gorizia front by the Italian successes, Gen. Cadorna will proceed to consolidate the ground gained in recent victories before launching another general offensive on the Isonzo front, according to advices from Udine.

Austrian losses in wounded alone are reported to have reached a total of 85,000. Conservative estimates of their total casualities place the figure at more than 125,000. They are sorely in need of the additional troops that have been brought up. One report has it that the reinforcements have come from Pola, another that they have been withdrawn from the Russian theatre.

Onthe Carso plateau the Austrians are suffering from lack of water. Dependence upon Lake Doberdo has failed, as Doberdo is now dominated by the Italian artillery.

Last night's official statement by the Italian war office says that the general situation is unchanged. Italian artillery has caused serious damage to Tagliata and Ruaz, near Livinallonga. On the Carso plateau attacks or diminishing velocity are easily repulsed, and the Italians, without serious hindrance, are strengthening their positions and naking ready for further advances.

London, Aug. 11—The latest official statement from Vienna regarding the operations on the Italian front says violent bombardments continue on the Gorizia front, near Plava. The repulse of three Italian attacks on the Doberdó plateau and one near Zagora, southwest of Plava, is reported.

The Russian bark Baltzer has been sunk by a German submarine. The captain and seven men of the crew were landed today. The trawlers

"A CASE OF SUSPENCION."

Last evening the playlet, "A Case of Suspension," was given in the session rooms of the Seventh-Day Baptist church by a cast composed of the members of the Y. P. S. C. E., of the church. A large crowd turned out, many being obliged to stand.

The acting was good, C. M. Ryno, as "The Professor," and Miss Edna Burdick, as "Miss Judkins," starring.

After the play ice cream was sold. Although no admission was charged, the committee in charge realized a neat sum from the sale and a voluntary offering. The proceeds will be expended for song books for the Y. P. S. C. E.

DEATH OF YOUNG SON.

Mr. and Mrs. James McGowan, of Bound Brook, former residents of the borough, are mourning the loss of their six-month's-old son, Donald, who died Monday night after a brief illness. The funeral will be held from the McGowan home, 22 East Franklin street, Bound Brook, at 10 o'clock, Thursday morning. Interment will be in the Bound Brook cemetery.

WORK ON NEW HOUSES.

Contractor Raymond Whitford has been awarded the contract of erecting two houses for Samuel R. Schwartz, on Sanford avenue, of the Equator tract. The houses will contain seven rooms. They will cost about $1,200 each. Work in excavating the cellar of one of these houses was started yesterday.

FISHER—KENNEDY.

Miss Lillian Kennedy, daughter of Mrs. Ella Kennedy, of Washington avenue, and Ruliff J. Fisher, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Fisher, also of Washington avenue, are to be married on the afternoon of Wednesday, the 18th. The ceremony will be performed at Miss Kennedy's home. The wedding will be a quiet affair, and only the members of the families and a few friends will be present.

PAINFUL ACCIDENT.

Former Councilman William Shively, who is chief assistant to J. C. Gardner, supervisor of the bridges of the Jersey Central Railroad, suffered a painful injury at Jersey City at 11 o'clock yesterday morning, when he slipped while walking across piling for bridges and piers, which he was counting. Mr. Shively fell forward, and one of his limbs slipped down between two of the piling. The limb bore the brunt of the fall, and its tendons were slightly strained. Mr. Shively was able to continue his duties of the day, but last evening his leg troubled him so much that it was all that he could do to get around.

SOME RUMORS THESE.

Rumors are in circulation to the effect that the National Beef Company is negotiating with Michael A. Gallagher for the purchase of his building at the corner of Washington and North avenues. According to these rumors the National Beef Company, which has branch retail stores all over the State, desires the building, which is in close proximity to the Central Railroad, for a distributing plant to supply its stores in this vicinity. With the purchase of the building the local retail store of the company would be moved from its present location in the Block building. If the company is successful in its negotiations with Mr. Gallagher, Dame Rumor further states that the company will open a bank, making first class banking quarters out of the corner part of the building. The opening of a bank in this borough would be no new departure for the company, as it has banks in many of the important towns and cities of the State.

The manager of the local store of the company, when approached by a reporter and asked whether there was any truth in the rumor, said: "The rumor is absurd and the bank part of it particularly so."

Michael A. Gallagher would neither deny or affirm it. It is said that Mr. Gallagher was closeted with an official of the company for over an hour yesterday morning.

STOPPED RUNAWAY.

Jumping off the porch of a house being erected at Equator Park, Joel Giddes, a carpenter, risked his life yesterday when he hurled himself at a runaway horse attached to a bakery wagon and grabbed the animal by the nose and brought it to a stop a block away. The animal had shaken off its bridle while left untied, and all that Giddes had to hold on to was the horse's hose and main. His fellow workmen stood aghast, expecting any minute to see his hold broken, and he trampled to death by the flying hoofs of the horse.

Pies and cakes were scattered in all directions from the lurching wagon. Giddes modestly disclaimed any credit for what he had done.

REMINDERS OF WAR'S TOLL

which but a short time ago were cherished by men who have since been put away to decay in crude trenches, are now on exhibition in the window of Samuel Rothberg's clothing store on West Front street. Hundreds of persons have taken occasion to view them and possibly some of the persons who have passed comment on them and who have French or German blood flowing through their veins, are in some way related to the dead owners of Mr. Kahn's souvenirs.

Life in the trenches falls far short of being the half-way comfortable existence that some correspondents seek to make it. In the words of Mr. Kahn, war is all that General Sherman held it to be.

His visit to Europe took him to the north of France and his relics include many souvenirs of the battle of the Marne. With the aid of a police passport such as is accorded to certain fortunate neutral beings, Mr. Kahn was able to take some personal exploring tours on the fields which a few weeks before were the scenes of wholesale slaughter. All that remained to tell the battle story to the American being a barren waste, dotted here and there by mounds of dirt. Under this earth were buried hundreds of German and French soldiers who had sacrificed their lives for their country. Black spots on the field indicated where bodies had been burned, shreds of uniforms and metal buttons and other relics being the only things remaining.

Instead of the comfortable trenches, Mr. Kahn found rude holes in the ground, resembling strongly the ones made in our city streets for the installation of sewer and water mains. In these ditches the dead had been thrown and hurriedly covered with loose earth. That the burial was hurried was shown by the frequency of half covered bodies, decayed to a state where only the bones were visible. This sickening sight told the gruesome story of Europe's war, this instance being only a sample of conditions in other countries.

One of Mr. Kahn's relics is a "Tragschlaufe," a pasteboard receptacle used by the Germans to carry a blanket in the daytime and to be used as a pillow at night after it had been stuffed with straw. This was found in a church at Acy and indicated that the soldiers had sought shelter in the edifice. In a church at Eta Vigny a small coffee ration tin was picked up. This receptacle had in it about 200 karnels of the bean and had evidently been given out a few hours before the soldier who received it was shot, for the ration tin had been left untouched. A letter mailed at Meaux, from Hotel Des Trois Rois, was found by Mr. Kahn and the writing on it cannot be made out. It is addressed in German and was evidently written by one of the soldiers who occupied this hostelry before they retreated from the French.

Coffee and tea sacks were taken from the trenches at Acy, a portfolio containing identification tags was taken from the trenches at the battlefield of Marne, and a cartridge box with a bullet hole through it was found on a ruined farm at Eta Vigny.

One of the interesting bits of history connected with the relics centers around two altar ornaments taken from a church at Eta Vigny. The edifice had been literally shot to pieces by the French bullets, one of the big shells passing through the outer walls and taking a course that just clipped the top off the altar ornaments. The bottoms were added to Mr. Kahn's collection. Other articles included bullets, shrapnel, German battlefield song-book, stirrups, French cartridge belt, holder for feeding bullets in machine gun, German shoulder strap, French water bucket, drinking cup, German mauser rifle, playing cards, fragments of German shells, time fuses and French cartridge case.

POLITICAL NOTES.

August 21—Union county Republicans hold annual outing at Coney Island.

August 25—Union county Democrats hold annual outing at Witzel's Point View Grove, L. I.

August 27—Last day for filing county nomination petitions with county clerk.

September 7—First registration day.

September 21—Primary day and second registration day.

October 19—State referendum election, and third registration day.

November 2—General Election Day.

A unique sort of announcement of a meeting in Rahway has been sent out on postal cards by Ernest J. Beutell. It is headed "Higher Political Life Means Higher Civilization" and, continuing, reads as follows: "Every citizen should have a deeper knowledge of the political needs of the people. Steven Bircher, of Newark, has been engaged to speak on 'The True Democracy.' I know you will enjoy hearing Mr. Bircher, as he is an exceptionally good speaker and a thorough student of political life." The meeting, it is stated, will be held tonight at 8:30 o'clock at Main and Cherry streets, evidently under Mr. Beutell's auspices.

Formal launching of Carlton B. Godfrey's candidacy for the Republican Gubernatorial nomination, is scheduled to take place tomorrow night at a banquet in the Hotel Traymore, Atlantic City. Mr. Godfrey, who is president of a bank in that resort, is speaker of the 1915 Assembly. It will also become known at the banquet whether or not he will be a candidate for re-election to the Assembly. His Gubernatorial boom is furthering a clash in Atlantic county with Walter E. Edge, president of the State Senate. Some of the other candidates for the nomination, who reside in other parts of the State, are looking on the Atlantic county complications with complacency.

EASILY DECIDED.

This Question Should Be Answered Easily by Plainfield People.

Which is wiser—to have confidence in the opinions of your fellow-citizens, of people you know, or depend on statements made by utter strangers residing in far-away places? Read the following:

C. L. Treat, painter and paperhanger, 411 East Third street, Plainfield, says: "I suffered for a long time from kidney trouble and for years couldn't get relief. My back ached constantly and I had pain across my kidneys. My kidneys were in bad shape and I was all run down, in fact, was almost a physical wreck. Hearing of Doan's Kidney Pills, I got a supply at Randolph's drug store and my experience was so satisfactory that I cannot make my endorsement too strong. I simply wouldn't be without Doan's Kidney Pills on hand."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Treat had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.—Adv.

BLOODIEST CHAPTER IN HISTORY OF WARSAW IS NOW BEING WRITTEN

Assault on Polish Capital Result of Operation Planned Months Ago.

City Is Center of Railroads, and Loss Will Be Hard Blow to the Russians.

CAPTURED by the Swedes, taken and retaken by the Poles, occupied twice by the Prussians and also by Russian forces, ceded to Prussia in 1764 and 1795, occupied by the French in 1806, seized by the Russians in 1813 and attacked by the Austro-German forces in August, 1915—such is the bloody history of Warsaw in modern times.

Warsaw's status as a fortress is less important than as the central ganglion of communications and the distribution center for re-enforcements, for wounded and for prisoners. The city was the chief objective of the German drive against Russia and may well be called the Boston of Russian Poland, a larger Boston, to be sure, for more than ten years ago it claimed 756,000 inhabitants. However, greater Boston and greater Warsaw would probably be of about the same size. This ancient city is the political, literary and artistic capital of Russian Poland.

Moreover, Warsaw is a great railroad center, and the eagerness of the Germans to capture Warsaw and their willingness to expend uncounted men and millions in this effort are easily understood when it is remembered that there are six trunk lines connecting the city with Berlin. Warsaw is indeed a prize worth winning. There is no more attractive city in eastern Europe.

The great operation against Russia, which was planned by General von Falkenhayn and has been in course of execution for the past three months, is the most aspiring and in some ways the most brilliant piece of strategy this war has yet produced. General Falkenhayn obviously prepared his plan by the light of the signal failures of the other German plans of the autumn and winter, but his merit is not less because he recognized previous errors and sought to avoid them.

When in the early days of May he set going his columns from Cracow and the Carpathians for the reconquest of Galicia his ultimate aim was to place the German armies in the south in such a favorable position with regard to Poland that an enveloping attack upon the Russian central and northern armies could ultimately take place under conditions to promise success.

An Enveloping Attack.

The German center in western Poland, south of the Vistula, was little more than a thick screen, and what was needed was to secure the flank positions to the north and south, so an enveloping attack might proceed without the necessity of frontal attacks along river lines such as previously brought Hindenburg's plans to naught.

To secure such flank positions it was necessary to reconquer Galicia and also the territory north of the Niemen without unduly alarming Russia. To the reconquest of Galicia two months were given up and practically the whole of May and June devoted to this purpose, which was efficiently carried out and greatly superior forces were assembled.

The Germans at the end of June had nearly 450,000 Russian prisoners, taken in the reconquest of Galicia, and 339 guns and 896 machine guns were captured. It is certain the Russian southern armies and that part of the central armies which helped them suffered heavily.

The mechanism of this operation was modeled closely upon the Japanese Mukden model. There was not a general simultaneous attack on all the fronts, but rather a succession of attacks, of which the last was launched a fortnight after the opening of the first.

Populace Quits Warsaw.

Thursday evening, July 15, the Russian authorities announced in the newspapers that the city's official evacuation would begin on the following Sunday. As a matter of fact, it began immediately. The police visited every house and told the "stoosh," or porter, to try to induce the inhabitants in his building to leave at once for Russia (as distinguished from Poland).

Free transportation on the railway to any destination in Russia and grants of money were promised when needed. Unlike the partial evacuation of last December, every effort was put forth to induce citizens to leave Warsaw, the police showing a kindness and sympathy which greatly touched them.

Rich Made Penniless.

While 350,000 citizens, including nearly half of Warsaw's ghetto, thus departed eastward, nearly another 350,000 of peasants came trooping into the Polish metropolis from the neighboring districts. Practically the entire population of the country from the north, south and west came in ceaseless procession day and night, the tired peasant families with their cattle and portable goods thronging the roads converging on Warsaw. In the city itself literally tens of thousands of homes were broken up instantly. One correspondent told of four cases of men worth more than $1,000,000 last month who are now nearly penniless.

Day and night gangs of soldiers were briskly stripping league after league of copper telegraph wires from the poles. The church doors were flung open, and the edifices were crowded with weeping and praying Poles and Russians, among whom passed the ministering priests in their gorgeous robes, while aloft in the towers the huge bronze bells were unslung lest they become food for the Krupp cannon later on. All the church bells, archives, treasures, gem studded ritualistic implements, screens, vestments and ikons are now being carried over the Vistula and away to Russia.

It is reported that the vault of the Church of the Holy Cross in Krakovski street was opened by chopping and that the sacred heart preserved there was removed to Moscow.

The telephone exchange was dismantled. The dynamos supplying power to the street cars were removed, as were all wheels and detachable fittings of the cars to be taken to Russia. All the crops around Warsaw were destroyed when no troops could be spared to garner them. Villages are being razed to the ground, and the city's suburbs are being surrounded with trenches. Suburban residents were ordered to retire into the city to avoid injury in the rear guard action. The three Vistula bridges, including the new Praga bridge, more than a mile long and costing $3,000,000, were lined with sandbags, and wires were set in readiness to explode land mines at the moment the Germans entered Warsaw.

The newspapers of Warsaw made their last appearance with the issues announcing the evacuation. Then the linotype machines were rooted up from the floors and carted away. Police and soldiers visited every printing establishment and every newspaper office, taking the fonts of type and dismantling the presses. Hardly a ton of copper fittings was left in the city. All stocks of copper in pipe factories and plumbing shops, copper used for household ware—copper of every kind wherever found—was removed. So were the stocks of ironmongers, hospital supplies and officers' kits.

Endless Columns of Vehicles.

Warsaw knew no stoppage of work in that week end. The huge postoffice, the banks, the telegraph offices, the law courts and the various municipal departments were busy dismantling their furnishings and packing their archives and portable equipment for immediate transport to Russia proper.

Through the streets endless columns of laden carts and drays converged on the Praga and Alexandroveski bridges across the Vistula, only a group of soldiers with their legs dangling over the side distinguishing from the wagon containing peasants with a few sacks of potatoes that containing the banks' millions of rubles in paper money or the irreplaceable records of the law courts.

After the Warsaw defeat the northern end of the Russian line was established at Kovno, the key to the railway system of northwestern Russia.

Kovno is the central fortress in the Russian northwestern chain of frontier strongholds. It stands at the confluence of the Niemen and the Viliya rivers, east of central East Prussia. Petrograd lies 550 miles by railroad to the northwest, while behind Kovno and between this fortress and Petrograd the Russian plain is strewn thickly with lakes. Mitau, Kovno, Grodno and Lemberg lie nearly in the same line, north and south, and Kovno forms the northern termination of the line of the Bug and of which Brest Litovsk forms the central fortress.

The railway from Eydtkuhnen, East Prussia, to Vilna runs through Kovno and at its terminus joins the trunk line between Warsaw and Petrograd, which the Germans severed. Kovno is a fortress of the first class and has been considerably strengthened in recent years. Its main defense consists of a girdle of eleven forts, surrounding the town in an arc with a radius of about two and a half miles. The fork of the river junction is an important feature of the city's strength. Here it is guarded by three forts in the direction of Vilna, one of which commands the Vilna bridge. The fortress is fifty-five miles from the East Prussian border.

LOCK YOUR WHEEL WHEN YOU LEAVE IT STANDING

That bicycle thieves are operating in Plainfield was demonstrated yesterday by reports received at police headquarters, three persons asking the police to hunt for wheels that they claimed had been stolen from in front of Hodge's pharmacy, at Watchung avenue and Front street. Adam Heim says his was taken from in front of Ivamy's store, on West Second street, and George Frech missed one at Mendel's Pond, near South Plainfield.

The police are working on those three cases, together with the report of the one that was taken Monday. Only meagre clues are available, however, and the owners of bicycles have been requested to do their part by locking them when they leave them standing at curbs or in front of buildings.

TWO SUSPECTS ARE TURNED OVER TO MIDDLESEX COUNTY

Alexander and Edward Kurtzhner, the two ex-convicts who were arrested by Captain John J. Flynn, Monday night, at the request of the New Brunswick authorities, were turned over to Detective Peltier, of the Middlesex county prosecutor's office this afternoon. They will be taken to New Brunswick and will probably be liberated under $500 bail, a bondsman being ready to supply this amount.

In speaking to a Daily Press reporter this morning, Detective Peltier said that the men were suspected of stealing a motorcycle from Paul Meyer, of New Market, the offense in question being committed July 12. The Middlesex officer intimated that the evidence against the men was meagre, and he expressed a doubt concerning the possibility of the Grand Jury indicting them on this charge.

CONTRACTOR RESUMES WORK ON GROVE STREET BRIDGE

Contractor Arthur E. Smith is pushing ahead with the work on the Grove street bridge over Green brook. The ravages caused by the flood a week ago have been pretty well removed and the work put back in the condition it was in when the dissstrous storm visited this section.

Mr. Smith's excavations for the foundation of the bridge on the North Plainfield side of the brook were partly filled in by the high water and the cribbing for the concrete wall was torn out. This has been replaced and this morning the workmen were preparing to put in the footing course for the concrete foundation wall.

The great hole made in the North Plainfield bank by the swirling waters will be filled in by Mr. Smith, although it is a question whether this is his duty or not. But as he has a quantity of dirt on the ground which was taken out of the excavation made for the foundation wall, it will not be an expensive operation for him to put the bank back in the condition it was before the flood. The temporary foot bridge across the stream has not been replaced. Altogether, Mr. Smith's loss from the flood was about $600.

PERSONAL.

The Misses Elsie and Ruth Stanley and Isabel Brousse, of Netherwood, are spending their vacation at Low Beach.

H. J. Cochran and family, of Hillside avenue, have returned home after spending their vacation at Wellfleet, Mass.

AFTER MEXICAN BANDITS.

Brownsville, Tex., Aug. 11—A large detachment of United States cavalry set out at dawn today to run down Mexican bandits who killed a United States infantryman at Palm Gardens, near Mercedes, Tex., last night. The soldier was shot down in the darkness, while with three companions he guarded the town from attack.

DR. STRONG TO RETURN FOR COLLECTOR BROWN'S FUNERAL

Word has been received from the Rev. Dr. Philip B. Strong, pastor of the First Baptist church, that he will return from Vermont, where he is spending his vacation, and conduct the funeral services for George F. Brown, tax collector and treasurer of North Plainfield, tomorrow afternoon. The services will be held at 3.30 o'clock from the house, 87 Grove street, but an opportunity will be given the public to view the remains tomorrow from 11 o'clock to 1 o'clock.

It being a public office, the collector's office remained open for business all day yesterday and today, but will be closed all day tomorrow.

GEORGE FITCH, CONTRIBUTER TO DAILY PRESS, IS DEAD

George Fitch, whose rollicking stories of "Old Siwash" won him fame as an American humorist, died on Monday in a sanitarium in Berkeley, Cal., after having failed to rally from the effects of an operation for appendicitis performed the day before. Mr. Fitch's work is appearing among the new editorial page features of the Daily Press, and will continue to do so until the present supply is exhausted.

Mr. Fitch was born in Galva, Ill., June 5, 1877, and was the son of Elmer E. and Rachel Helgeson Fitch. He was educated at Knox College, Galesburg, and there gathered the material for the series of fantastic college yarns depicting Ole Skjarssen, the invincible fullback, and the doings of the Eta Bita Pie Fraternity.

His first work was in the printing plant of his father when he was nine years old. Later he took up newspaper work.

In 1912 Mr. Fitch went into politics and was elected to the Illinois House of Representatives. He was president of the American Press Humorists, the Crave Coeur Club of Peoria, the Cliff Dwellers of Chicago and a member of the Beta Theta Pi fraternity. At the time he fell ill of appendicitis he was visiting his sister, Miss R. Louise Fitch, a student at the University at California. The body will be removed to Peoria, Ill., for burial.

NEW BRANCH OF S. P. C. A. TO DESERT LOCAL SOCIETY

A Westfield branch of the New Jersey Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals was organized last night in the Town Hall, Westfield, with 140 members. Joseph D. Bennett, of Elm street, Westfield, who spent thirty-five years of active work in the society, was elected president. Other officers elected are: Vice presidents, Mrs. H. W. Evans, Mrs. R. L. McIntosh, Douglas Smythe and W. B. Woodruff; secretary, Mrs. F. L. Washburne, and treasurer, Miss Beatrice Buddell.

Mr. Bennett stated that Westfield must first get a release from the Plainfield and Summit societies in order to organize at Westfield. He said that both organizations were willing to grant these releases, and this being the case there would be no trouble to secure a charter. Mr. Bennett told of how he had been interested in the work for thirty-five years and of how he was at the present time serving as a State officer of the society.

BAND CONCERT AT WESTFIELD.

Westfield, Aug. 11.—The Westfield Band of the Board of Trade will give its fourth concert on Friday night, at Washington Park, Elm and Walnut streets. The program will be as follows: March, "Challenge," Hazel; overture, "Great White Way," Pierce; cornet solo, "The Lost Chord," Sullivan, by Mr. Frazee; selections from "Faust," Gounod; waltz, "In Old Wisconsin," Tennent; one-step, "A La Carte," Holzmann; march, "No Surrender," Morrison. In the event of rain, the concert will be given in the Washington High School auditorium.

PIERCE CALLED AWAY.

Owing to the death of his father, which occurred in New York last night, State Senator Carlton B. Pierce was unable to be present at the community picnic in Scotch Plains today. He was slated as one of the speakers for the event. Inquiry at the Pierce home in Cranford today revealed the fact that Mr. Pierce had left at 5 o'clock this morning for his father's home.

QUAKERTOWN HARVEST HOME.

The sixth annual harvest home under the auspices of Washington Camp, No. 108, P. O. S. of A., will be held on the school grounds at Quakertown on Saturday, August 28. A feature of the program will be music furnished by the Dutch Arms Band, of Trinity Reformed church, Plainfield.

Y. W. C. A.

Miss Ethel Colton will lead the Bible class study tomorrow night at the association. Members will bring their suppers with them and at 6:30 all will go in a body to the residence of Mrs. F. G. Mead on East Front street.

A Galley o' Fun!

THE QUESTION QUEST.

"It's something new," said conscientious Mrs. Housekeep. "When Henry went away on his last trip he told me that he did hope I'd begin to take an interest in the Questions of the day, and read about them in the papers; and, my dear, if I'd ever had any idea how interesting the Questions of the Day are, policemen and jails couldn't have kept me from them.

"The Magazine Section of the Sunday Scream seems to think that the most important Questions of the Day is whether Clara Devere, of Hamilcar, Ohio, did or did not put rat poison in her husband's coffee. There's two whole pages about it, with pictures. You see, they've proved that she went to the drug store and bought something for rats, but every woman on earth has done that. This case is especially complicated on account of the servant-girl in the house. That's her picture up there. She's trying to look as though butter wouldn't melt in her mouth, but I've seen those tricks before. If ever there was a sly hussy it's that girl. She looks the very image of my husband's second cousin, Henrietta Hinks, who is a deceitful cat of the first water, and who leads George—that's her husband—a simply terrible life.

"But the Question of the Day that's ever more puzzling is the question asked in the Sunday Yell: 'Did Mrs. Watley Tooms, of Waukegan, run away with the chauffeur because she loved him or because she wanted to get away from her mother-in-law?' Sometimes I think one way and sometimes another. But this I will say: When my sister-in-law was living with us, just after Henry and I were married, there were times when I would have run away with the garbage-man if he'd only asked me.

"The Howl, you'll notice, is offering five dollars as a first prize for the best answer to the Question of the Day: 'Can a Woman Really Love a Cross-eyed Man?' I'm going to write a letter there myself. Not that I want the money, but because I insist on saying my say. 'Does it Help a Baby to Teeth on a Gold Spoon?' 'Will New York Be Devoured by Oysters Before the Year 2037?' 'Who Was the Mysterious Stranger Who Kicked Willie Astorbilt?' 'Is Ragtime Known on Mars?' 'Would You Rather Wed a Cheerful Counterfeit or a Bilious Bishop?' Of course, that's only a very general selection of topics, but it shows how interesting public questions are. I'm ashamed of myself to think I've never before looked up the Questions of the Day, but when Henry comes home, if I don't surprise him with what I know I'll eat up every last comic section on the pantry shelves."

He—A maid must not expect such lovers as she finds in books. Few men are paragons.

She—Oh! I should not expect a paragon. I should be satisfied with a lover, young, handsome, brave, noble and unselfish.

HIS OPINION.

"And what," asked the reporter, "do you consider the success in life?"

"I should say," replied the wealthy philosopher from the Klondike, "that it consists in being at the right place at the right time."

"Want ad publicity" is the solution—when work-finding becomes a serious matter with you.

RECREATION NOTES

Plans are being completed for the athletic meet for girls which is to be held at Parker Field on Labor Day afternoon. So many girls are entering the various events that the meet promises to be a great success. A silver cup will be awarded the girl who wins the larger number of points. The meet will be followed by a men's baseball game, which will doubtless draw a large crowd.

CONCERNING OUR PRICES.

"A Peasant is one who was lacking in all the finer tastes before he became rich."

So said recently one of our foremost cynics.

In our store there is a chance for the "finer tastes" to play—not at "rich men's prices" but at prices that are fair for STYLISH and RELIABLE merchandise.

The Rothberg Store for "Most Things Men Wear" needs no attorney to hold its brief for honesty, quality and selected assortments.

But there still be those who need to be reminded that prices in the ROTHBERG STORE are often lower than are to be found elsewhere for the same character of goods.

Suits now $8.50 to $16.50.

WANT YEAR DIVIDED INTO THIRTEEN MONTHS

New York, Aug. 11.—Many bishops of the Episcopal church in England and America, and bishops of other Protestant denominations have endorsed a movement to establish a new calendar, dividing the year into thirteen months. The idea is suggested by a New York clergyman, and it has been discussed in the British Parliament.

The new calendar proposes each month to consist of exactly four weeks, or twenty-eight days, the first day of each month always being Sunday. The extra month would be called Holiday, and would come in between June and July. On ordinary years one extra day would be put in at the very end, the eve of the new year. Such day is to have no date. On leap year another extra day would be put in; not at the end of February as now, but in midsummer, in the new month of Holiday. Thus everybody on holiday at that time would get an extra day.

It is proposed that legal holidays always fall on Monday. Christmas would always fall on Wednesdays, the 25th of December. Easter would always fall on the third Sunday in April, doing away with the elaborate tables to find the dates according to the moon.

UNDERWENT OPERATION.

Following his sudden removal to Muhlenberg Hospital, last night, Harold Sharkey, sporting editor of the Courier-News, was operated on for appendicitis. Inquiries at the institution say that "he is a very sick man and nothing definite regarding his condition can be determined for a day or two."

It it is still valuable, you can sell it through a For Sale ad.

TEMPORARY HALT IN WAR AGAINST THE BLACKBIRDS

There is still no relief in sight for the sufferers from the blackbird nuisance in North Plainfield. Mayor Robert Clark, Jr., has received no word from Game Warden Welch, of Somerset county, to whom he wrote nearly two weeks ago asking for suggestions as to how he could drive the blackbirds away. According to one of the residents of the blackbird infested neighborhood, the general public looks upon the blackbird pest as a huge joke, but to them it is a very serious matter.

That the North Plainfield Board of Health should take up the bird nuisance in some way is the sentiment of the residents in the vicinity of Jackson and Watchung avenues, but the Board of Health still maintains that it has no jurisdiction in the matter save to insist upon cleanliness about the properties which the birds have selected as their nightly dwelling places. Meanwhile there has been a cessation of hostilities against the birds on the part of Mayor Clark and his neighbors, as the Mayor has his hands full of local political and borough business just at present.

FIELDER AT 'PLAINS PICNIC

was Congressman John H. Capstick. Shortly after their arrival the Governor posed for the "movies," the pictures being taken by Al Aquado, of this city. After posing for the photos, Governor Fielder and his party were escorted to the reception table, where they dined. This afternoon he delivered his address. Congratulatory speeches were made by U. S. Senator James E. Martine, Congressman John H. Capstick, Assemblyman William N. Runyon and Assemblyman Arthur N. Pierson. Members of the G. A. R. also spoke.

During the morning most of the junior athletic events, consisting of boys', girls' and Scouts' competitions were run off under the leadership of Edward Hatfield, who acted as timer, and Edward Tulloch, who started the events. Boy Scouts of Troops No. 1 and 2, Wolf and Bear Patrols, acted as assistants and kept order about the grounds. By the time the first event, the obstacle race, was run off, about 1,250 picnickers were on hand. Lunch baskets were to be seen everywhere.

The obstacle race opened up the day's sports. The entrants were Richard Vincent, Robert Howell, John Widner, Norman Hollenbeck, George Albert, Charlie FMeyer and Henry Roberts. The affair was run in two heats, the boys being compelled to jump out of barrels, crawl through ladders, run up step-ladders and scale fences. The first three to cross the tape in the first heat were John Widner, Robert Howell and Dick Vincent. In the second heat Henry Roberts, Holton Hodge and George Alberts registered in the order named. Holton Roberts finally won the event. Jack Widner being a close second.

The girls' potato race was hotly contested, Margaret Barrett winning, her time being 1 min. 14 1-5 secs. The other contestants registered as follows: Doris Meyers, 1 min. 17 1-5 secs.; Margaret Peek, 1.18 2-5; Marjorie Tuzo, 1.19; Ella Fanacher, 1.22 2-5, and Florence Meeker, 1.27 3-5.

The boys' potato race was the next event, John Peek, a mite of a lad, winning, his time being 56 secs. He had a handicap of two potatoes out of ten. The rest of the lads finished as follows: Robert Howell, 58 4-5 secs; Westcott Reineer, 1 min.; Bill Seurmilch, 1.10; Howard Peek, 1.08; Harold Hodge, 1.08 4-5; George Alberts, 1.02 4-5; Richard Tull, 1.05 2-5; Alex. Boasoa, 58 3-5; Roy Treet, 1.17 4-5, and Jack Widner, 1.05.

The girls' 50-yard dash was a lively affair, the first three girls to finish being Marion Gregson, Edna Gregson and Harriet Perrine. The winner's time was 7 4-5 secs.

The 100-yard dash for boys was run in two heats, the first three to finish in the first heat being Henry Swabach, Richard Vincent and Eddie West. In the second heat Robert Howell crossed the tape first, closely followed by George Albert and Holton Hodge. Robert Howell run the event.

The sack race produced quite a little mirth, only one heat being run up until the arrival of the Governor. In this Holton Hodge finished first and J. Widner second, the winner's time being 12 secs.

In the running broad jump Robert Howell easily carried off the honors, his best mark, out of the trys allowed all contestants, being 14 ft. 4 8-10 inches. Holton Hodge jumped 10 fe. 3-10 in.; John Widner, 11 ft. 7 6-10 in., and Wilbur Huff, 13 ft. 3 4-10 in.

It is likely that Robert Howell will capture the cup awarded by A. Rutgers Nielson. To win this cup is the aim of the whole of Wolf Patrol, and Howell's possible achievement will gain him much popularity.

This afternoon the rest of the junior events, together with all of the senior events will be run, and at that time the various cups will be awarded.

ADVICES ARE AWAITED

of the recent disorders and revolutions at Cape Haytien and Port-au-Prince.

Orders had been sent to Admiral Caperton to hold an adequate naval force in readiness to make the run to the Mexican coast without a moment's loss of time in response to a possible emergency summons.

The battleships New Hampshire and Louisiana, which sailed from Newport on Tuesday night, were believed to be steaming to the same destination, but, owing to the greater distance could not reach so speedily, even with their present start, as the vessels in Haytian waters.

The United States gunboat Marietta has been ordered from Progreso, Mex., to Vera Cruz. The cruiser Tennessee, which left Philadelphia this morning with 800 marines for Hayti, will be within reach by wireless and if the situation requires will be directed to head for Mexican waters.

"Vera Cruz isn't the only place on the map," was the naval operations bureau's response to urgent queries concerning plans for the New Hampshire and Louisiana, implying that they might have been ordered to some other port.

It was not expected that the orders to the vessels would be divulged until they were within striking distance of Vera Cruz, since it is known that the Navy Department is gravely anxious lest advance information received there precipitate an attack on foreigners.

In effect, the Navy Department declared at 9 a. m. today that no announcement will be made concerning the destination of the battleships New Hampshire and Louisiana until that destination has been reached. This was considered as meaning Vera Cruz with absolute certainty, as there could be no possible reason for secrecy were they bound for any other port.

The necessity for sending the battleships to Mexico arises at a peculiarly unfortunate time, when final approval of the conferees of the Administration's plan for Mexico was expected. It was feared today that the Latin-Americans might interpret the movements of the battleships as a sign that the United States intends to use force in Mexico regardless of the joint deliberations begun last week.

But it is known on the best authority that the Administration has no intentions of using force anywhere in Mexico if it can possibly be avoided. This intention will be changed under the compulsion of only the most extraordinary circumstances.

An alarming feature of the Mexican crisis is the apparent connivance of the Carranza government to incite feeling against foreign citizens. The supporters of Carranza have been angered by the intention of the United States to effect peace in Mexico by co-operation with the six Latin-American countries, Carranza fears his own elimination, and the fear is that this reprisal will take the form of a "rule or ruin" policy.

Reports by Commander McNamee, of the cruiser Sacramento of conditions in Vera Cruz are accentuated by letters said to have been received in this country telling of the critical conditions which have existed since the latter part of July. According to one of these reports Mexico City had on July 31 three changes of government in twenty-four hours.

The Zapata army evacuated before noon; the Villa contingent of the former army of occupation rallied and street fighting followed with the invading Carranza forces. The American Red Cross headquarters at Mexico City is said to be surrounded by hungry people, and reports of deaths from starvation are numerous.

The chief fear for Americans, however, arises in the light of conditions in Vera Cruz. Serious anti-American rioting has been going on in that city during the past twenty-four hours. American citizens, according to reports from Galveston, have been insulted and threatenend with death.

Soldiers and civilians have delivered inflammatory speeches in the public squares against the American policy toward Mexico. A party of Americans, including several women, are reported to have been abused by Mexican soldiers in the street. General Carranza, though appeals have been made to him, has refused to quiet the demonstration.

GOLFER'S SPEEDY DRIVE WINGS BIRD.

George Cook Wiehl, son of a St. Joseph (Mo.) banker, was playing on the links of the Country club in his home city recently, and on driving from the fifth tee the ball hit a red headed woodpecker which was flying in the opposite direction, killing the bird instantly.

The golfers continued playing, and nothing peculiar was observed until Mr. Wiehl prepared to drive to the next green. Then he noticed that there was something wrong with the ball and upon examining it found that the bird's beak had become imbedded in the sphere. It was inserted a half inch, with a quarter of an inch protruding. Mr. Wiehl put the ball in his pocket and substituted a new one. He will have the relic framed and hung in the trophy room at the club.

LOCAL KNIGHTS TO JOIN IN FIELD DAY PROGRAM

Knights Templar from this city, as well as other municipalities throughout the State are preparing for the field day of the order which will be held in Atlantic City, Friday, September 17. Instead of the usual parade and review that accompany such affairs, there will be competitive drills for prizes, athletic vents, and an interesting program of other forms of entertainment.

Special trains on the Pennsylvania Railroad will carry the Templars from every corner of New Jersey to the shore resort and Plainfielders will no doubt take the train from Jersey City which will make stops at Elizabeth, Rahway, New Brunswick and Trenton.

AUTO VICTIM IMPROVING.

WAR NEWS

Young Admiral and George Criddle, the steam trawler Utopia, Norwegian bark Morna, and the British steamer Oakwood, also were sunk. As far as reports thus far received show, not a single life was lost among the crews of the seven boats.

The British steamer Rosalie was attacked by a German submarine and beached.

Paris, Aug. 11—Today's official war statement says:

"In Argonne there was a sharp cannonade in the course of the night around Souchez. An attack with petards attempted by the Germans was repulsed.

"In the Argonne violent bombardment of our positions to east of Vienne le Chateu-Binarville highway was reported. The night was calm on the rest of the front."

It has been definitely decided that the charges against Raymond Swoboda will not be pressed. Swoboda was arrested on a charge of having been responsible for the fire in the French line LaTouraine and was also accused of being a German spy. Evidence to support either accusation has not been found.

Berlin, Aug. 11—Two German mine sweepers were lost Monday at the Gulf of Riga, it was announced today.

The Russians have evacuated Fort Benjamnow, one of the outer defenses of Novo, Georgievsk.

JACK MARTIN DRAWS NEW BOSS IN CLUB SALE

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 11—John W. Norton will exercise the option he holds for the purchase of the franchise, stock and grounds of the St. Paul Baseball and Amusement Company, the corporation operating the St. Paul Club in the American Association, according to an announcement yesterday by Mr. Norton's attorneys, who notified George E. Lennon, principal owner of the club, that the deal might be closed immediately if satisfactory to him.

It is understood that Mr. Norton, who has been president of the club this season under the terms of the option which extends to September 19, already has liquidated obligations to the amount of $60,000. When the purchase is completed Mr. Norton will hold all the 1,000 shares in the corporation. Mr. Lennon indicated that he is ready to transfer his holdings.

MARSANS AFTER A RIGHT.

St. Louis, Aug. 11—Attorneys for Armado Marsans, yesterday filed a motion in the Federal District Court here asking dissolution of the injunction which restrains him from playing with any club except the Cincinnati Nationals. Arguments on the motion will be presented tomorrow. Marsans jumped to the St. Louis Federals last year, but an injunction order was issued against him June 25, 1914, and since that date he has not appeared on a ball field. He has, however, drawn his salary of $6,500 a year. The Cincinnati Nationals are under bond of $13,500 to indemnify the St. Louis Federals should the latter win the case. In the motion for dismissal Marsans alleges his contract with Cincinnati expired last October.

How to Keep Our City Moving

We must keep moving. A city booms only so long as its manufacturers and merchants keep moving. The wheels of every line of endeavor must be kept turning if the city is going to develop, and what is of deeper concern than the wheels of Plainfield kept turning?

Should every one who has the interest of Plainfield close at heart buy goods from our merchants, the benefits all around can easily be seen. Thousands of dollars that would otherwise go out of the city will be kept circulating here and contribute a big share towards making a bigger and busier Plainfield.

A dollar spent at home will keep that dollar at home and all will share in the profits.

Plainfield, N. J., Aug. 11, 1915.

A REGULAR CAMPAIGN.

All the earmarks of a regular political campaign are beginning to creep into the suffrage fight, the libel suit stage having been reached, following the adoption of misrepresentation, lying and trickery on the part of some of the male opponents to giving the women the vote. An alleged anti-suffragist, who has not as yet been located, and who has been challenged to make himself known by former Senator Colby, is the most recent person to be condemned by the friends of the cause.

The man in question wrote a letter to a Newark paper in which he said that Helen Ring Robinson, a woman Senator in Colorado, who by the way has spoken in Plainfield, introduced a bill legalizing race track gambling in that State; that it became a law and the State will get $140,000 income this year from the gamblers. Senator Robinson voted against the bill, and has instructed her counsel to bring an action for libel against the person, in case he can be found.

Down at Spring Lake, where there is a hot-bed of anti-suffragists, the local paper, the Gazette, is bitterly opposed to votes for women, and it recently published a statement that certain literature being circulated by the suffragists had been excluded from the United States mails, and Dr. Anna Howard Shaw has indignantly denied this assertion.

As the Trenton Times says: "Lying and unfairness will not decide the suffrage issue in New Jersey, and the anti-workers who resort to them are neither damaging the cause of the suffragists, nor helping their own."

ANOTHER KIND OF COURT.

While we have a multiplicity of courts in New Jersey, there is room for one more, such as is described in the World's Work for August. It could be conducted without any additional expense, by putting the work on some of the judges who now have to give up but a small part of their time to their judicial duties. The idea originated in Kansas, and is called the Small Debtors' Court, it having been successful in correcting a long standing abuse. The old retort of a prosperous debtor, "Go ahead and sue," is no longer a safe answer in that State to a demand for the payment of a just bill, due to the laundress, the day laborer, or the odd-jobs mechanic.

The law provides that no lawyer shall be permitted in the court; that no fee shall be charged for bringing suit; that the judge shall make his decision on the basis of common sense and common justice, disregarding all niceties of legal quibbling. No case may be handled which involves more than $20. The complainant must be, legally, a poor person, and the defendant must live within the jurisdiction of the court. A telephone call from the judge is a legal summons to any witness who may be required. Most cases are settled in half an hour, and when the creditor wins his suit the debtor usually settles on the spot, though the judge sometimes has to arrange for payment in instalments.

George F. Brown, who died on Monday, was a faithful public official of North Plainfield, and it will be a great task to find a man of equal calibre to fill his place. Closely identified with every activity of the borough through a residence of forty years, which antedated the time that it was set off from North Plainfield township, he was probably better posted on its affairs than any citizen of the municipality, and this information he was always ready and willing to put at the service of anyone who sought it. His character was of that cheerful type that made everyone like him, and he had no enemies—something that cannot be said of many men in political life today. The heartfelt sympathy not only of the people of North Plainfield, but of hundreds in this city who knew Mr. Brown has gone forth to the family of the bereaved.

The New York Health Commissioner tells the people of the city that the New Jersey mosquitoes have not come over there to make trouble. There has been no doubt in our minds during the last few days that they are all staying right at home. The pests are worse than they have been in years, and it seems a shame to spend $23,000 of the taxpayers' money to try to get rid of them.

In Bridgeport, Conn., they have a city ordinance prohibiting the delivery of labor orations in the streets. Too bad we cannot have some such regulation here for the Holy Jumpers and their ilk!

We're almost inclined to believe that if that iceberg into which the Titanic bumped were in Plainfield we'd be willing to have a head-on collision ourselves one of these hot days.

Swat the fly may have been all right as a slogan, but we're too busy nowadays swatting mosquitoes to bother with a little thing like a fly.

Three excursions out of this city this week are rather putting a crimp in business at the stores.

Off Again On Again

STRICKLAND W. GILLILAN

The Town Of Otternell

I traveled on a local train one blist'ry summer's day.
The cinders came in where the sash was lifted by the jay.
The dirt flew in whene'er we ran, the heat whene'er we stood—
That was the day I "sure got mine" —aye—twice—I "got it good!"

And every town at which we stopped a fellow just behind
Would pull his red bandana off, hoist up the leather blind,
And mutter to his fleshy self—I heard him very well—
"This is a funny place to stop—I heck, it's Otternell!"

I did not count how many times he found that town, that day
On which I rode the local cars behind the fresh-air jay.
But every place that train would stop—I recollect it well—
That fellow just behind me thought its name was "Otternell."

The Technically-Minded Child

"Where is your mother, Edward?"

"To play culvert?"

"Yes; she said she was going to play 'a little bridge.'"

The Careful Man

"Mister Enpeck! Mister Enpeck—wait a minute!"

"Yes'm."

"If you're going down-town will you please leave this box at Foster's store and tell 'em, 'A size larger'?"

"What is it?"

"It's well—something to wear."

"No; I'm sorry, but I can't do it. If Mrs. Enpeck heard that I'd helped you change any of your clothes she might misunderstand it and raise ned."

Needless Deprivation

An Ohio town is said to have a minister who gave his note for an automobile two years ago, never paid a jitney on the note, and has now traded the old car in for a new one. And yet people go without automobiles, giving mere poverty as a sneaking subterfuge!

Grave Quandary

If we were going to live in the valley of the Ohio River and were bent solely on making money, we are not at all sure whether we should live on the West Virginia side and sell cheap suit-cases, or on the Ohio side and keep a booze store.

Trying To Make It Inviting

A great improvement is already noticeable in the interior of the county jail where, under the direction of Sheriff Clyde Posey, a force of prisoners, assisted by a professional painter, are administering a coat of white paint. Besides the inside and outside of cell-tiers, walls and ceiling are being gone over, and the work has improved the sanitary condition of the jail as well as its appearance!—Marietta Times.

Isn't She Clever?

The eloquent young theologian pictured in glowing words the selfishness of men who spent their evenings at the club leaving their wives in loneliness at home.

"Think, my hearers," said he, "of a poor, neglected wife, all alone in the great, dreary house rocking the cradle of her sleeping babe with one foot and wiping away her tears with the other."—The Newburgh (N. Y.) Journal.

HEALTH TALKS

by WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

Catching Appendicitis

ISN'T it charming how frequently our prophecies, uttered in this domain of dogma, come true? On two or three occasions, we are quite sure, it has been observed that the far-sighted conductor of these talks harbors a strong suspicion that a great many cases of appendicitis are nothing else than the localization in the appendix of bacteria which have entered through the nose or throat in an attack of "cold" or sore throat.

This observation is purely clinical—putting two and two together at the bedside and making six or eight of it. But now, we are happy to announce, good scientific evidence is at hand to support the bare clinical facts. The conclusion is greatly strengthened that you can really catch appendicitis—but not necessarily from another case of appendicitis; no, you can catch it from a plain coryza or a simple sore throat or tonsillitis just as well, which is all the more reason for isolating yourself from these "simple colds," it being still considered good form for the subject of such an ailment to spread his germs about indiscriminately as he pleases.

Among the illuminating nvestigations carried on by Dr. Rosenow, one of the foremost experts in bacteriology, it was found that certain strains or cliques of bacteria which produced tonsillitis also produced appendicitis. It has been known for years that the pneumococcus—that versatile "cold," sore throat and pneumonia germ—is a fairly frequent invader of the appendix. But Dr. Rosenow's studies add considerably to the evidence and practically convict the "cold" microbe.

Adenoid, or round cell tissue, is present in the appendix as in the tonsils; tonsillitis and appendicitis are typically diseases of young persons, in whom adenoid tissue is most vulnerable to infection; and finally, it is by no means a rare occurrence for a victim of tonsillitis or a "cold" to develop acute appendicitis as a complication or soon after the "cold" comes on.

So here is one way to avoid appendicitis: Avoid the friend who has a "slight cold."

But still the old way helps prevent it too: Keep the bowels regular by suitable diet and exercise and habit, for the ever present colon bacillus is easily the most prolific factor of appendicitis.

Vest Pocket Essays

FAME

FAME is a sort of petrified prominence which time cannot wear away.

Some men achieve notoriety but presently the spotlight of publicity turns elsewhere and they fade away. Some men become prominent, but when they stop work the public forgets them and they have to be identified in their own towns when they cash a check. But some men acquire fame and a hundred years after they are dead distant descendants will be able to pawn their signatures for groceries and booze.

After a man has become famous he doesn't have to work any more. He can board around on a grateful nation, making after dinner speeches, and when he writes his autobiography copies of it will sell at two dollars a pound, payable in instalments.

No one knows exactly how to obtain fame but its symptoms can be easily distinguished. The first incipient indications are the desire of book agents and stock sellers to permit him to head the list of suckers without expense—to himself.

Shortly after this the home newspapers begin to call him up to interview him on peace, war, politics, his opinion on tight skirts for women and other vital subjects. Then some manufacturer names a cigar after him and strong men perish with his name on their lips. This may properly be called the first stage of fame.

The second stage begins when the rubber-neck wagons stop in front of his home and the neighbors who referred to him in his boyhood as the village pest begin to get into society on the strength of their life-long acquaintance with him. This is a very painful stage and causes many victims to climb a tree in the Maine woods, leaving no address behind.

In the third stage Chautauqua managers offer huge sums to the patient, allowing him to speak or beat a drum as he chooses; automobile companies give him cars in the hope that he will drive them past a photographer; when he buys a can of tobacco the fact is announced on the back pages of all the newspapers; and when he attends the funeral of a friend the fact is telegraphed over the country with the friend's name left out.

They have to be identified in their own towns when they cash a check

Some men wait until after death to become famous. This is a much less painful method. It is easier to support a marble statue after death than a large tin laurel wreath with calliope trimmings during life.

The PEOPLE'S LEGAL FRIEND

by E. R. BRANSON

The Children Of One's Brain

Q. Has an author any property right in an unpublished manuscript?

A. Yes. He is regarded in law as the owner and will be protected in such right until or unless he disposes of it. If he publishes the manuscript, however, or allows it to be published, he must have the protection of a copyright.

A Receipt May Be Contradicted

Q. May a receipt for the payment of money be explained or contradicted by verbal evidence?

A. Yes.

The Seal

Q. Lady secretary asks: Is the seal of a corporation necessary to make a contract binding?

A. It is not necessary, under the laws of Indiana, for a corporation to affix its seal to a written contract, in order that the contract may be binding, unless the charter of the corporation requires it.

Sunday Contracts

Q. Is a contract made on Sunday valid?

A. Yes, unless expressly forbidden by statute. In most states, such contracts are good.

A Receipt For Payment

Q. I ordered some goods from a mail order house and made five instalment payments. I kept some of my receipts, but not all. After I had made my fifth payment, the house wrote me, saying, "Your remittance received; this squares your account with us." Later, they wrote me again, saying they had made a mistake and that I still owed a balance of ten dollars. I am quite sure I have paid the account in full, but as they have threatened to bring suit, I don't know what to do about it. What would you advise?

A. While the letter sent you by the house is an acknowledgment of payment in full, it is not conclusive evidence of such fact, for a receipt is always open to explanation. It does, however, afford some evidence of payment in full—sufficient evidence to enable you to rely upon it until the house shows by stronger proof that you really owe this money. If you are confident you have paid the entire amount, you can defend the suit by producing whatever evidence you have, including the letter you received, and you will be successful, unless the house, by means of greater or stronger proof, establishes the fact that a balance is still due.

Draw Up A Mutual Release

Q. I have certain claims, growing out of a money transaction, against another man. He also has some demands against me. We have agreed on a settlement and want to put it in such shape that neither one of us will have the right to sue the other. How can this be done?

A. You can enter into a mutual release. See your lawyer and have him draw it for you.

Copyrighting A Song

Q. I wish to have a musical composition protected by a copyright. How should I proceed?

A. Write to the register of copyright, Library of Congress, Washington, D. C. He will supply you with full information.

The Pen Is Mightier Than The Tongue

Q. Mr. C. and Mr. M. made a contract with each other and it was drawn up in writing and signed by them. At the same time there was a verbal understanding between them different from the terms as expressed in the written agreement. Which will have controlling effect—the written or the verbal agreement?

A. The written agreement.

When Is A Partnership?

Q. Is it necessary in order to constitute a partnership, in law, for the partners to have articles of agreement?

A. No.

She's Young—He's Old?

Q. A man seventy-five years old proposed marriage to a woman considerably younger. After consulting with a relative, she decided to accept the proposal if the man would provide for her future comfort and support. She told him this, and he then deeded a farm to her. Since their marriage the claim has been made that the deed would have no effect. Please tell me whether this is the case.

A. If the deed was executed in due form of law and no fraud was practised, it will be good.

The Life Line

By Laura Kirkman

The Selfish Scholar

His wife sits beside him in the evening, as he reads. In her lap is a darning basket. But her hands lie idle. Her eyes are on the fire. Somehow, to-night, she doesn't just feel like doing anything—she doesn't feel like darning, she doesn't feel like sewing; and what else is there to do? Not for years and years has she gone to the theatre. She used to be fond of going—when she was a girl—but since her marriage she has spent the evenings at home; Henry would be miserable if he were forced to "waste an evening" away from his beloved books. For this same reason, her friends have dropped away, one by one; Henry, poor dear, was so impatient when they called, that he couldn't help showing it. So now Henry is perfectly happy. Yes, now. But how about later on? The time may come when his wife no longer sits across the table from him in the evenings; when he will sit before his books and be unable to read them. For the picture of her wistful face will swim between him and his books. "I might have made it a radiant face!" he will regret.

He's putting poison in his tea.

Everything Seems Just Real to Them.

Daddy's Bedtime Story— The Great Country of Make Believe.

"I MUST tell you riddles about the great country of Make-Believe," said daddy as Jack and Evelyn came to him for the bedtime story they always loved to hear. "It's such a great country, and so many people live in it at one time or other. In fact, children, there is no end to that wide country of Make-Believe. You can go on and on and on and never stop, but just keep going, and you will never come to the end of it. For, you see, the great country of Make-Believe is located in your mind.

"There are some people who do not live in it very much, for they haven't a great deal of what we call imagination. But little boys and girls live in it most all the time, and I will show you just how they do it.

"Supposing that Jack here plays with the other boys that he is a bold pirate and sails the raging main. Then he and his jolly though naughty pirate pretending mates are in the Land of Make-Believe. And while they are there everything seems just as real to them as if they were really happening.

"And supposing that Evelyn and some of the other little girls who live near her play that they are grand ladies with great big titles and that some prince gives a very fine ball in their honor. Well, don't you see, children, that while they are playing this very fine game they are not Evelyn and the other little girls at all, but are instead these fine ladies they are pretending to be? Oh, it is a very charming game, this game of make believe! But children enjoy it more than does anybody else. You will find out why when you are older.

"But I am sorry to say that some parts of the great land of Make-Believe are not good for children nor for anybody else to dwell in. For instance, if Jack is playing some interesting game and mamma calls him to perform some task, and he makes believe he didn't hear her, why, that is an awfully naughty part of the Land of Make-Believe to be in, and he ought to get out of it.

"And if Evelyn doesn't feel like going to school some fine morning after the long vacation days are over, and feels just a little ill, and makes believe she is sicker than she really is, and remains in bed, why, that is one of the worst parts of the Land of Make-Believe to dwell in. And the best thing to be done in a case like that is for mamma to give her pretending little girl some real medicine.

"But there's one part of the Land of Make-Believe that is good for everybody, children and parents, to dwell in. If you're not really happy make believe that you are. Then the first thing you know it will be really so."

Glimpses of Married Life

BY MRS. EVA LEONARD.

The night was warm and sultry. Olive lay across the bed with her head at the window sill gazing off over the moonlit pasture. The cows were lying down or slowly cropping the fragrant clover; everything was as distinctly visible as in daylight. Suddenly she sat up and, unhooking the screen, leaned far out of the window. A slight woman dressed in black was creeping along the edge of the pasture, her body bent to the height of the fence.

Olive sprang from the bed, and slipping on her kimona and long dark coat, took her shoes in her hand and stole softly down the stairs. Unhooking the screen—the door stood open to cool off the hot house—she sat down in the shadow of a porch pillar and put on her shoes, watching meanwhile the figure in black, till it emerged from the pasture, quickly crossed the road and disappeared down a side street. Olive noiselessly let herself out of the gate and ran to the corner. She could see the woman walking down the street. By keeping in the shadow of the trees, Olive was able to follow on the opposite side of the street unobserved. The woman never turned to look behind her, and as it was late she met no one. The village was wrapped in absolute stillness. As Olive hurried along a dog rushed out to bark at her. She stood perfectly still behind a friendly tree, watching to see if the fleeing figure turned, while she called the dog and quieted him with friendly pats.

The woman was walking rapidly and this delay was putting a greater distance between them; while she watched, the woman turned a corner. Olive hurried on, not daring to run for fear of starting the dog to barking again. When she reached the corner the street was empty. Nothing stirred in its entire length.

"Mrs. Ash does not live on this street. I wonder where she is staying. That surely was Mrs. Ellson," thought Olive.

She walked slowly back to the Mortons', taking deep breaths of the fragrant June air. Instead of entering the house she went on to the clump of syringas in the garden, and carefully examined the grass where she had sifted the plaster of paris. The moon was so high now that there was no shadow behind the bushes. There seemed at first to be no footprints.

"She saw the powder and avoided it," mused Olive. "I overdid the matter." On closer examination, however, a small footmark was discovered close to the bush, and some broken twigs near the ground revealed a hiding place right behind the seat where she and the doctor had sat that evening.

"I heard a slight rustling, I felt her presence," mused Olive. "Why will the woman torture herself by coming here and listening to what can give her only pain?" The girl sat down on the bench and leaned her head back among the fragrant blossoms. "The doctor laughed at my suspicions and threatened me with nerve medicine. I'll not tell him what I suspect; not yet, anyway. It would spoil all his happiness. She may succeed in spoiling it, but I'll not help her."

A whip-poor-will sent his notes into the soft summer air from a tree nearby.

"Did you think it was morning, little fellow?" Olive rose as she spoke. "Shut your eyes and take another nap. I'm going to," and she walked slowly to the house with bent head.

IMPERIAL GRANUM

THE UNSWEETENED

FOOD for the BABY

for 4 months, his mother states:—

"He is the wonder of the community for firm, solid flesh, strength in every part of the body, regular habits and sweet temper."

Any mother can easily get the same results with Imperial Granum for her baby.

Three DON'TS in Feeding Baby

DON'T use Cows' Milk alone. Its tough curds, intended for calves, must be modified. Add Imperial Granum, and you make the milk easily digested, besides greatly increasing the nutrition.

DON'T use a highly sweetened food, apt to make only flabby fat, quick to disappear in illness. Imperial Granum is unsweetened, it makes hard, firm flesh, good bone and muscle.

DON'T use Condensed Milk alone. Add Imperial Granum, it supplies the lacking, but necessary phosphates, and makes baby really thrive.

For Nursing Mothers

Imperial Granum taken thrice daily increases the quantity and quality of the mother's milk, and gives strength to bear the strain of nursing. It makes both Mother and Baby thrive.

For free rag doll for baby, sample of IMPERIAL GRANUM and helpful book, "The Care of Babies," show how to keep baby healthy in summer, address Carle & Sons, Desk 153 Water Street, New York.

Household Hints

THINGS WORTH KNOWING.

A wire popcorn popper can be very nicely used for a toaster. Place as many slices of bread as desired in the popper, then set on the hot lid of stove. The bread will toast to a rich brown, and when buttered will taste more delicious than if toasted over gas.

To Prevent Slamming Doors—Purchase some small hooks. Put hook on baseboard door bumper, and eye in door. Fasten, and there will be no fear of broken glass or no need to search for a chair or weight to hold the door open.

Easy Way to Pit Cherries—Take a hairpon, insert round end into stem end of the cherry under the pit, and you will be surprised how easily you can lift the stone out, leaving the cherry practically whole.

MILK SHERBET

Dissolve one cup sugar in one quart milk; put into freezer, pack and freeze about five minutes.

Beat whites of two eggs stiff, add one cup sugar and juice of two lemons, beating together thoroughly.

Open the freezer, put in the last mixture and finish freezing.

TWO PICNIC SANDWICHES.

Between thin slices of bread lay a crisp leaf of lettuce. On this place sliced tomatoes, then bits of cream cheese spread thinly with prepared mustard or salad dressing, a dash of Hungarian sweet pepper, and you have a delicious sandwich.

Minced salmon mixed with English walnut meats (chopped) and moistened with salad dressing, on a lettuce leaf, between slices of brown bread, is good.

THE TABLE.

String Beans and New Potatoes—Cover desired amount of beans with water, add a generous piece of bacon and let boil slowly for a couple of hours. Then add new potatoes and salt to taste and boil another hour. Do not let boil dry. When ready to serve there should be enough liquid to cover about two-thirds.

Pineapple Delight—Drain juice from a quart can of pineapple. Pour juice over one pound marshmallows and cook. When cooked, set in cold place until ready to serve. When ready to serve, mix with whipped cream, stir in fruit and nuts. Top with whipped cream and maraschino cherries.

Creamed Potatoes—Pare potatoes, cut them into dice and boil until done. Take one cupful of cream or milk and a half a tablespoonful of flour, mix together smoothly and cook until it thickens; add a piece of butter, salt and pepper to taste, and pour over the potatoes. Serve in paraffin cups which are decorated with red-white-and-blue ribbons or paper.

Peanut Nutmeat Sausages—Mix together three-fourths cup hot cooked cereal, one-fourth cup soft sifted bread crumbs, two cups finely crushed nutmeats, half teaspoon salt, a little pepper, and half teaspoon each of powdered thyme and sage. Mix all together thoroughly, then mix with one egg beaten light and form into ten shapes to resemble sausage links. Set these on a pan rubbed over with butter, bake twenty minutes. Serve with bananas cut in halves crosswise, then lengthwise, rolled in flour and browned in hot fat. Serve at the same time about a cup of tomato or cream sauce.

Baked Rhubarb Dumplings—Cut up 1½ pounds rhubarb, add one heaping cup sugar and half cup hot water. Cook seven minutes. Make a paste of half cup flour, scant half cup butter and half teaspoon baking powder; bind together with cold water, roll out, cut in four-inch rounds. Place two tablespoons stewed rhubarb in each round, gather up the dough in balls, pinch edges together, brush with milk, sprinkle with sugar. Bake in hot oven. Serve with remaining sauce, to which has been added a lump of butter the size of a hickorynut. Thicken with one teaspoon cornstarch dissolved in one tablespoon cold water. Boil up.

VOTES FOR WOMEN

Conducted by the Equal Suffrage League of Plainfield and North Plainfield.

Progress of Ninetey-Seven Years.

New Jersey and Massachusetts are special sharers in the Lucy Stone birthday celebration this week.

Lucy Stone was born in 1818.

She began lecturing in 1847.

The only vote that women had anywhere in the United States in 1847 was in Kentuccky, where widows with children of school age could vote for members of school committees.

Lucy Stone died in 1893.

One State (Wyoming) had full suffrage for women in 1893.

Four States had suffrage in 1908.

Twelve States have suffrage in 1915.

At present seven States have the question of suffrage before the voters.

Area Does Vote.

(From a letter writen to the Montclair Times by Rev. Clarence Hall Wilson, of Glen Ridge.)

"Area does vote. It votes in the United States Senate. Every measure before it becomes a law must have the approvl of the Senate, as well as the House of Representatives. In the House of Representatives population votes; in the Senate areas vote. Each arbitrary and fixed unit of area called a State has its two votes in the Senate, no matter what its population. There Wyoming, which excites the contempt of our anti-suffrage friends, has as much voice as New York. It was thought wise by the makers of the Constitution to afford minorities of population some adequate protection against aggressive majorities.

"Area also votes on all amendments to the Constitution, as it did in the original acceptance and adoption of the Constitution. In order that an amendment shall become a part of the Constitution, it must be approved by three-fourths of the States, without any regard whatever to their population. Upon some supremely important occasions area does vote."

The Eastland Disaster.

(Editorial from the Woman's Journal, of August 7, 1915.)

The frightful disaster to the steamer Eastland carries many morals. Among other things, it emphasizes pointedly the need of the ballot for women, as a protection to men, women and children.

For the sake of profits, the Eastland was run as an excursion boat, although her build made her quite unfit for such use. For the sake of profits she was overloaded. Because of pressure brought to bear in some form by those who wanted to make money, she was passed by the U. S. inspectors, whose duty it was to safeguard the public.

The tragedy calls attention to the fact that all the excursion steamers plying on the great lakes are allowed to take terrible risks with their passengers. The Eastland was particularly dangerous because of her shape, but even if she had not had this defect, she and the other excursion steamers are not required to carry nearly enough lieboats or liferafts for all the people.

William C. Redfield, Secretary of the Department of Commerce, has published a letter addressed to him last year by the general manager of the St. Joseph-Chicago Steamship Company, which owned the Eastland, protesting against a bill pending in Congress which called for stricter protective regulations, and instancing the Eastland as a boat that would have its profits seriously cut down by such requirements. Secretary Redfield, in his reply, said, in part:

"You are licensed to carry 2,570 people, and have lifeboats and rafts for but 771. Your vessel is at times in excess of an hour from shore (at midlake one hour and thirty-five minutes). You say 'at all times within ten to sixty minutes of all steamers.'

"Your position is, therefore, one in which in case of serious accident you might be at least a half hour from help and over twenty miles from shore, while possibly having on board as many as 1,799 persons for whom there are neither lifeboats nor liferafts. I DO NOT CRITICISE THIS. IT IS AT PRESENT THE PERMITTED THING."

Secretary Redfield went on to say that he personally thought there should be more protection. But the steamship companies were able to bring enough influence to bear on Congress to defeat the provisions requiring excursion boats on the great lakes to have lifeboats or rafts enough for all.

Men are not to be blamed for looking mainly at the business side of every question. For centuries they have had to earn a living for their families, and it has become ingrained with them to look first at the money side of things. For centuries women have been engaged mainly in protecting and cherishing human life, and it has become ingrained with them to look first at the human welfare side of a question. Both points of view need to be represented in order to get a right perspective. With most women the motto is "Safety First." With the excursion boat companies it is "Profits First"—and precautions cost money.

The whole community suffers because in our legislation the business interests are represented fully and directly, the humanitarian interests only partially and indirectly. The Eastland tragedy is a fresh proof that women need the ballot, not only for their own sake, but for the sake of men.

Governors of Western Suffrage State Have a Message for Eastern Suffrage States to Be.

Governor Carlson, of Colorado, to the men of Pennsylvania:

"Don't let people tell you that the mothers of your children will prove incapable, or become coarse, cold or neglectful in the home if given the ballot; those who for nearly a quarter of a century have actually observed the enfranchised woman at work know that she can sense the enemy of the home more quickly and will fight him with more telling effect than the husband, and while preserving all her natural feminine charm and sweetness, she will become even more devoted to the man who has allowed her ampler means and fuller power for the protection of their common fireside.

"The State, in safeguarding and preserving the health and morals of the young is but doing a mother's work.

"We need the blending of the mother heart and the masculine judgment and will to sustain and guard our homes."

Governor James Withycombe, of Oregon, to the voters of New York State:

"I take pleasure in indorsing the working of equal suffrage in wisdom, and I am confident they are a strong factor for good government and progressive principles. Their example should encourage the voters of the East to grant their mothers, wives and daughters the full right to which they are entitled as working, taxpaying citizens, bearing the full burdens of the Commonwealth without all its privileges. The women of Oregon have done well with their franchise."

MRS. FEICKERT ASKS WHO PAYS THE BILLS

Wonders What Interests Are Financing Anti-Suffrage, In View of Denial.

Commenting on the tilt between James A. Bradley, the founder of Asbury Park, and the Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage last week, Mrs. E. F. Feickert, president of the New Jersey Woman Suffrage Association, says:

"I do not understand why Mrs. Oliphant and Mrs. Emery are so much excited over Mr. Bradley's refusal to let them use the beach auditorium for an Anti-Suffrage meeting, on the ground that the ladies opposed to votes for women were in effect allies of the liquor interests.

"Mrs. Oliphant says Mr. Bradley has no right to say that we are backed by the liquor interests of the State. Such a statement is untrue, unqualifiedly untrue, and is unwarranted by the facts. Mrs. John R. Emery also comes to the rescue by saying, 'Our funds are raised by subscriptions and are the result of faithful, honest self-denial on the part of the home-loving women of New Jersey, many of them self-supporting, who make up our organization. Our speakers are paid from such funds only, and our work is carried on from such funds only.'

"Does Mrs. Oliphant wish us to understand that the liquor interests are not fighting suffrage? If so, she knows more about the liquor interests than they know themselves, for the leading papers of the State have reported that it was part of their policy to oppose votes for women, a report which has never been denied. Mr. Bradley did not say that the women opposed are knowingly seeking the support of the liquor interests. His statement was perfectly courteous and correct, and a too great hastiness on the part of Mrs. Oliphant not unnaturally raises certain questions in my mind.

"I should like to know from our opponents if the Anti-Suffrage campaign is supported solely by the savings of home-loving women of New Jersey (not all of the home-loving women of the State, by the way, for some hundred thousand of them are enrolled in the ranks of the Suffragists), how is it that, by general admission, the leading part in the campaign is being taken by James R. Nugent? If the women are running their own campaign, why is it that their publicity work is handled by Edward J. Hanley, who tells us that he was engaged by Mr. Nugent in April of this year to fight woman suffrage? Also is it possible that the fund collected from the home loving women is sufficiently great to pay the salaries of the clerks who are addressing, and for the postage which is placed upon, the Anti-Suffrage literature which is being sent out by Horace Nixon, of Woodbury and Camden, to all the voters, not only of Gloucester and Camden counties, but also to those in Cape May and other southern counties?

"Are we to understand that the money at the disposal of Mr. Nugent and his press agent, and of Mr. Nixon, is taken from a fund raised by honest self-denial on the part of the home-loving women of New Jersey?

"If not, from what source does Mr. Nugent and Mr. Nixon derive the funds they are using in their philanthropic and altrustic efforts to save women from the burden of the ballot?

"A full and frank answer from the leaders of the Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage would shed much light upon the present situation."

MANY SMART STYLES SIMPLY AND EASILY MADE.

No. 9018.

Many of the smartest styles, not only for grown-ups, but for children, are surprisingly simple and easy to make, and the fact that the trend is toward the elimination of complications, makes home dressmaking increasingly possible and popular. The winning little girl's dress, Ladies' Home Journal Pattern No. 9018 shown above, can be made with or without the ruffles. The waist has a round neck and full length or shorter sleeves. Skirt cut in 3 gores. Sizes 6 to 12 years, size 8 requiring 3⅝ yards of 36-inch material.

Patterns can be purchased at the store of A. E. Force & Company.

MRS. BREESE PROTESTS TO FOUNDER BRADLEY

Former Local Woman Says Asbury Parker Has Made Misstatement.

Spring Lake, Aug. 11—That the members of the New Jersey Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage are not going to permit James A. Bradley's assertion that the liquor interests are connected with the anti-suffrage cause to go unchallenged was made evident today when Mrs. E Yarde Breese, formerly Miss Georgianna Smith, daughter of William Palmer Smith, of Plainfield, made public the following letter and affidavits, which had been sent to the founder of Asbury Park under date of August 6.

Founder Bradley, who is one of the leading exponents of woman suffrage in New Jersey, printed an advertisement in the Asbury Park "Press," over his signature, in which he alleged among other things that anti-suffrage speakers are paid by a fund furnished by the liquor interests. Mrs. E. Yarde Breese, president, and Mrs. Helen T. Yard, treasurer, both of whom are prominent in social and charitable circles in Trenton, have made affidavits on behalf of the anti-suffrage association in which they aver that no moneys have ever been received, either directly or indirectly, from the liquor interests in support of their cause, and they ask Founder Bradley to retract his statement.

"LUCY STONE DAY" WILL BE MARKED BY FESTIVITIES

Suffragists throughout the country are making extensive preparations for celebrating "Lucy Stone Day" on Friday. This is a red letter day in the women's movement for it commemorates the anniversary of the birth of the founder of the pioneer suffrage weekly. The New Jersey Association will place a bronze tablet on the house in Orange where Lucy Stone lived and where her daughter, Alice Stone Blackwell, was born. The ceremonies which will begin at 2 o'clock, will be in charge of Mrs. E. F. Feickert, president of the State association, and will include an address by Former Governor J. Franklin Fort, on "An Appreciation of Lucy Stone."

Thursday night a banquet will be held at the Essex Country Club at which Mrs. Feickert will be toastmistress. Many prominent workers will speak at that time.

THE WOMAN'S COLUMN

Philadelphia—Brides from Sunny Italy are now in the hands of the Italian Government. By a suspension of passports to girls coming to America to wed their sweethearts, who have wrought out homes for them, the Italian Government wields a new club over the reservists. The dock weddings have been a feature of immigration statistics here. Many of the Italians are miners, and some of them are reservists, who find it more congenial and easier to make homes for their brides.

New York—Miss Anne Morgan has left her comfortable home at Bar Harbor and is on her way to France to find in what way she can best direct her energies toward relieving suffering in Europe. Miss Morgan is the treasurer of the Vacation War Relief Committee, which is working in co-operation with the London French Wounded Emergency Fund. The daughter of the late American financier is probably better known in Europe and America than any other American woman. In addition to personal magnetism, force of character and administrative ability, she is blessed with good looks and great wealth.

Boston—Rev. Gertrude von Petzold, pastor of a church in Birmingham, England, who has been expelled from England by order of the British Home Office, is well known in Boston. When she visited here in 1907 she was the only woman minister in England. She is now thirty-nine, and has lived in England for some eighteen years. She visited America as delegate to the Congress of Religious Liberals. During her stay she preached here. She was educated in England and Scotland. Although the details of her expulsion are not disclosed, it is known here that she came of a long line of German military men, and her father was a captain in the Prussian army.

Glacier Park, Mont.—The American novelist, Mary Robert Rinehart, has been adopted into the Blackfeet Indian tribe. Her new name is Running Eagle. The ceremonies of adoption were held in Cutbank Canyon, and the squthoress was presented with Indian curios and relics. War dances occupied a prominent place in the mystic rites of initiation.

New Orleans—Miss "Johnny" McDonald, of Mississippi is the undisputed champion of Tulane University in the art of boxing. Regulation ring battles, although under the college ban, are pulled off in private, and when the fall session begins a new champion will be picked. Miss Hilda Simons, of Louisiana, who holds secondary honors, will be a strong contender for the championship next year. Several members have shown marks of encounters in the ring battles, but the athletic girls have managed to keep secret the ring where the gloves fly.

Denver—Mrs. Mary T. Bigelow, of Denver, not satisfied with being an artist, lawyer, mathematician and mother of a family, has just added another profession to her list, that of a doctor. She was graduatd this summer at the University of Colorado, with the highest honors in medicine.

PROCTOR'S THEATRE

This afternoon and tonight, "Mistress Nell," a Frohman production, which is sure to please, with Mary Pickford playing the title role, will be shown at Proctor's Theatre. This photo-play is one of that type that pleases not only young, but the old as well.

Charles E. Van Loan's famous story, "Buckshot John," with an all-star cast, is to be shown tomorrow. A story is told here of how the classes of men occasionally get mixed, and a rapid fire series of brilliant and gripping scenes are promised. The cast includes Hobart Bosworth in the leading role, Courtenay Foote, Helen Wolcott and Carl Von-Shiller.

A Fox production, in which the old favorite, Theda Bara, plays the leading part, is to be shown Friday, entitled, "Lady Audley's Secret." This is a society drama of unusual power, and one of a depth and strength which places the photo-play on a higher level than most of the pictures to be had.

Tomorrow afternoon is the day for the souvenir silver spoons to be distributed.

U. S. ASTOR THEATRE

Betty Bellairs, motion picture actress of wide fame, will be seen in a photo-drama of powerful appeal at the U. S. Astor Theatre this afternoon and tonight. The picture is entitled "The Spanish Jade" and is produced by the Paramount Picture Corporation.

Betty Bellairs is one of the best known screen stars in the country. She is, perhaps, best known in the West for her excellent portrayals of characters in films depicting frontier life.

The story of "The Spanish Jade" is compellingly interesting throughout. The plot moves swiftly through numerous thrilling episodes and the interest of the spectators is never permitted to lag. Throughout the photography is excellent. Some of the best exterior views ever presented in this city are embodied in this splendid subject.

Tomorrow, "My Best Girl," another film of engrossing interest, will be screened at the Astor Theatre.

You Touch a Magic Button When You Become a "Want Advertiser."

Our day is the day of "touching buttons."

A President presses a button in Washington, and a titanic explosion, thousands of miles away, weds the two great seas.

We are fond, nowadays, of accomplishing big effects with simple processes.

And so the "button-pressing" magic applies to the "little things" of life, as well as to the big episodes.

When you become a "want advertiser" you press a MAGIC BUTTON—and the influence is felt in the homes and business places of the city.

Your quest becomes of interest to the people who are able to help you accomplish it.

If you seek work, and "press the button" of Plainfield Daily Press want advertising publicity, your quest becomes one of personal interest to the people who need you. The same law operates in the working out of every "want ad task."

For classified advertising makes the whole city your market; makes the right people your audience; delivers your message to all people to whom it could have any interest or importance.

SPORTING NOTES

Packey McFarland and Mike Gibbons, who signed last week for a bout at Brighton Beach for September 11, should furnish the best bout of the season. The boys have never met, and they are both clever. Although the distance is only ten rounds, this ought to be enough to reach a decision. The boys are both 27 years old and their ring experience matches up pretty evenly.

The oarsmen are all looking to the Springfield regatta, the big national rowing event, to settle the superiority between Canadian and United States amateurs. The two oarsmen picked as the serious contenders in the single sculls are Robert Dibble, of Toronto, and John B. Kelly, of Philadelphia. Dibble is the present champion, but Kelly has been rapidly forging to the front, and rules the favorite in his home town. Should Dibble again win he will tie the record made by Frank Greer, of Boston, who won the race three years in succession.

Leach Cross is going back to dentistry. He is practically through with the boxing game, having stored away considerable shekels and won a creditable number of ring battles. Leach never did believe in waiting until he was a has-been before quitting. Hereafter he will put the punch into aching molars. In real life he is Dr. Louis C. Wallach, and he already has an established dental business in New York.

After basking in the baseball limelight for a quarter of a century, the Delehantys have passed from the major leagues. There were five of the Delehantys, all brothers, and they trained on the sand lots at Cleveland. Every one of them found their way to fame in the baseball world. Ed was the first to get into fast company. He met with a tragic death by falling from a bridge. Tom came second, then followed Joe, who was with St. Louis for a number of years. Jim was the fourth to shine in the big leagues. He starred with the Detroit Tigers for years, and was one of the greatest of infielders. He jumped to the Federals last year and was recently released to the minors. Frank was the fifth member of the Delehantys. He played with Cleveland and later with the New York Americans.

While millionaires never set the world afire in sport, there is one member of the tribe who is still bowling over championships with regularity. He is George Meyers Church, of Princeton, who won the Northwest tennis title a few weeks ago. Given a cool million at his birth, offered three more millions at 16 to change his name, and finally inheriting twenty millions at 20, is the pleasant experience of this hero of the tennis courts. Church wears no air of the "idle rich." He has just finished his course at Princeton, and says he will tackle the affairs of life as he has tennis.

To put boxing in the realm of organized sport, so that exhibitions can be controlled and boxers forced to give the fans a run for their money, a meeting of boxing promoters is set for next week at Cleveland. The scheme is to form a nation-wide board for the supervision of boxing. The outlook is bright for such supervision, and it is believed all boxers seeking legitimate matches and willing to go through honestly will welcome the idea. It is said that Snowy Baker is ready to put through a similar organization in Australia, and that the English promoters will join in such a movement.

The big yacht race of the season on the Atlantic coast is the match for the King's Cup, which is being sailed today off Marblehead. The cup was presented to the New York Yacht Club in 1912 by King George. The sloop Winsome won it that year, and in 1913, Spartan was the victor. There was no race for the cup last year, at the request of King George. There will be an illumination of the yachts off Marblehead tonight, and fireworks will be shown on the shore.

Old Jupe Pluvius has played a serious part in baseball this year. Now comes the wail of Decatur, in the Three-Eye League, which club lost its grandstand in a tornado and has had a shrinkage of the wallet by the constant interference by the rains.

HE FIGURES CLOSELY.

Manager J. B. Coughlin is no longer an active member of the East End club. He withdrew his name from the Netherwood list Monday, declaring that inasmuch as his withdrawal from playing service would make room for a fast man he would not hinder the signing up of the new "speed demon." It developed that Huffmeister was the "speed" boy referred to.

ALMA W. RICHARDS NATION'S CHAMPION

Chicagoan Wins Title at Panama - Pacific Exposition Games from Big Field.

San Francisco, Aug. 11—Alma W. Richards, of the Illinois A. C., Chicago, became champion all around athlete of the nation when he won the naitonal A. A. U. decathlon here yesterday. On top of his great performances in the first half of the program Monday, Richards continued to show amazing versatility in the other events, doing really first-class work in every sort of track and field contest. C. Avery Brundage, another Chicago entry who bore the colors of the Chicago A. A., finished second to Richards.

Ted Meredith's attempt to break the world's 440-yard straightaway record was spoiled by a mistake of the timer, who failed to see the flash of the starter's pistol.

Hannes Kolehmainen finished first in the modified marathon of fifteen miles, with Willie Kyronen second and Nick Gianakopulos third.

SPORT BRIEFS

Sam McVey knocked out Sandy Ferguson in eighth round at Boston last night.

Maurice McLoughlin, the California tennis player, defeated S. Howard Voshell in their match at Seabright Lawn Tennis and Cricket Club tournament, yesterday.

Outfielder Compton, of Kansas City American Association, was sold yesterday to the Boston Nationals. Compton was formerly a member of the St. Louis Americans.

Milburn Saylor, of Indianapolis, lost on a foul to Jonnny Griffiths, of Akron, last night, in fourth round.

A. M. Richards, of the Illinois A. C., of Chicago, won first place in the decathlon, the all around championship at the Panama-Pacific Exposition games held Monday and yesterday.

In the Marathon race of 15 miles Hannes Kolehmainen, of the Irish-American A. C., New York, was returned the winner, running the distance in one hour, 25 minutes and 5 seconds.

At a meeting of the New York Boxing Commission held yesterday, the Clermont Athletic Club was granted a license and the Long Acre A. C., which had been suspended by the Commission some time ago, was given permission to resume.

ROD AND REEL

This is the time of the year when the large blue claw crabs begin to come into our waters, and who doesn't like to go out and land a mess of these toothsome morsels?

There are many places around New York where one can go and in an afternoon catch a potato bag full of them. One of the best places is in New Jersey, out from Sewaren. To reach there take the Central Railroad of New Jersey trains from North Avenue station to Sewaren. Then go over in Ollie Ackor's place, where boats, bait and lines can be obtained. Ackor will point out to you the best places to get them, and if you don't come home well satisfied it won't be his fault.

Other places where one can get crabs are in Gravesend Bay, out from Ulmer Park, Bergen Beach and the waters around Freeport and Wreck Lead. August and September is the best months and the best bait is a piece of stale meat tied to a string.

The weakfishing in Raritan Bay is a bit slow at present. The water is still roiled up from recent storms, and it will take a few hot days to bring the weaks in again. There were not many out on Sunday, but those that did make the trip were rewarded with a few fish.

A big school of weakfish are reported as wandering about off the thoroughfare near Corson's Inlet.

Weakfishing at Asbury Park yesterday, was unusually good, a number of local excursionists taking advantage of the fact.

PLAINFIELD A. A. TO TACKLE T. A. B. TEAM

Manager Jones Out After Abstainers' Scalp With Plenty of Confidence.

Confident that they can repeat the victory they pulled off at the expense of the T. A. B. S. earlier in the season, the Plainfield A. A. will stack up against them on Avon Oval this Sunday. Manager Jones intends using practically the same line-up with the exception of the pitcher, Johnny Dixon doing the hurling this time. Eddie Conshay and Lou Brown twirled last time the two outfits met and both were a puzzle to the Abstainers.

Jim Monahan, in an effort to annex this game, will use Tone Denny on the slab with Art Kyle receiving. Jack Denny will be held in reserve.

The line-up of both teams give every indication of the fact that a splendid exhibition is going to be staged. Manager Gifford Jones is sure that Johnny Dixon, fresh from his Newark triumph, can check the fire of the T. A. B. S. The probable line-ups:

Plainfield A. A.	T. A. B. S.
Jones, lf	Day, lf
Alberts, cf	J. Denny, cf
Carney, rf	Lawton, rf
Rosenson, 2b	Hannon, 2b
Miller, 1b	McCarty, 3b
Jaeger, ss	Brennan, ss
Bergen, c	Scott, 1b
Dixon, p	Kyle, c
	A. Denny, p

The decisions will be handed down by "Ump" Malanga.

NEW NAMES ARE ADDED TO CITY LEAGUE ROSTERS

The name of Freddy Mills was added to both the First Baptist and Hope Chapel rosters Monday evening. Owing to the fact that Dick Schott has left the Hope forces, the Chapelites are sorely in need of a hurler. However, Dan Randolph, the Baptist boss, was not willing to part with Freddy until he had received assurances that the Hopes had first grasp on his services.

The addition of Mills to the Chapel combination would plug up a big hole, left vacant by the quitting of Schott. Mills pitched for P. H. S. a few years ago and was considered unusually good. Recently he has been playing on the Park Avenue Baptist nine, but this team has not been doing much of late.

Huffmeister, the new man added to the Netherwood list, played with the Faurers earlier in the season and pleased Martin, but Britt was forced to release him in preference to an older and more experienced man.

KAUFF TO QUIT IN FOUR YEARS

Expects to Stick With Topnotchers Until He Acumulates Fortune.

"After four or five more years in this baseball business I'll be ready to step aside," said Benny Kauff of the Brooklyn Federals and champion batter of the Gilmore circuit, in discussing his plans.

BENNY KAUFF OF THE BROOKLYN FEDS.

I hardly believe I'll go back to a pick and shovel.

"I'm twenty-four now, and I believe I can stick with the topnotchers for four or five years. If I keep my health and am not crippled in that time I should be able to collect a bank roll that will enable me to pick out some other business and live pretty soft for the balance of my natural life."

GOTCH READY FOR ACTION

Champion Wrestler Comes Out of His Retirement.

WANTS TO MEET STECHER.

Man Who Recently Won American Title From Cutler Is Chap Whom Humboldt Farmer Would Like to Tackle—Gotch Bars All Foreigners.

Frank Gotch, wrestling champion of the world, will come back.

There is only one condition to the Humboldt (Ia.) gladiator's string that he attaches to his retirement of several years ago. The financial condition must be "proper," which is the word he uses himself in a letter to a Chicago sporting writer.

This is a trifling condition, since there are but few foreigners in this country who could by any stretch of imagination be considered to have the slightest chance with the Humboldt man.

Offer Aimed at Stecher.

The offer to come back is aimed squarely at Joe Stecher, the plowboy from Nebraska, who won the American title in Omaha from Charley Cutler recently. Stecher's victory, it is apparent, was all that smoked Gotch out of the quiet of his Iowa home.

He saw the young fellow flop Cutler as easily as he would a sack of grain, and immediately he intimated that he might reconsider his retirement and return for one more whirl at the game.

He was asked in a wire if he still considered wrestling Stecher or anybody else, and this is his reply in part:

"If proper inducements are offered I might accept a match with some American, possibly Joe Stecher, but no foreigners. Bout would have to be pulled off inside of ninety days."

First News Since Retirement.

This is absolutely the first definite news from Gotch since he announced his retirement shortly after the Gotch-Hackenschmidt match at the White Sox ball park in Chicago on Labor day, 1911. Gotch said at the time he would enter the game no more, but wished the public to consider that he had retired for all time.

Gotch stuck to his resolution in the face of frequent challenges from men with whom he could have drawn fat houses. Within the past few weeks Gotch has taken a couple of promising youngsters in exhibition bouts and showed some of his old time form.

With Gotch back in the game promoters will make every effort to bring about a meeting between Gotch and Young Zbyszko, the Pole, who has been defeating every wrestler he has tackled in the past two years. There are many wrestling experts who believe the Pole would come pretty near taking away the title from the Iowa farmer.

NAT RAY NOW DRIVER.

Famous Steeplechase Jockey Is Handling Harness Horses.

Like a millionaire one day and almost broke the next, is the way Nat Ray, the Canadian trainer and former steeplechase rider, says he has felt upon many occasions during his career in the horse sport.

Nat accomplished wonders with the ponies, and his feats of daring with Good and Plenty and Hylas, two of his best jumpers, are well known to followers of the thoroughbred sport. Ray rode many good horses and might have ridden for the Prince of Wales had he wanted to go abroad to race. He was offered the job, but declined, preferring to race in this country.

Steel of nerve and possessing an iron constitution, Ray has pulled through many serious accidents that would have caused taps to be sounded for less rugged men. Hurts sustained when horses have fallen with him in the steeplechases have been many, and since joining the ranks of the harness [illegible] he has had a few mishaps.

Ray is now racing a stable of trotting horses and does his own driving. His home is in Canada. Jack Welsh, the famous referee, is also the owner of a stable of trotters this year.

EXPERT REPAIRING.

ALL-STAR LINEUP FOR SPECIAL GAME

Talent That Will Take Part In Exhibition Contest Saturday Afternoon.

Owing to the fact that the Saurer management requested the T. A. B. leader to cancel Saturday's game in order that the players of the shop might take in the Hope excursion, the league authorities thought it best to provide the T. A. B. S. with some sort of a practice game. As the Hope-Clinton Avenue argument was called off for the same reason, the Baptist-Netherwood go is the only league game to be played in this vicinity Saturday. However, the league moguls hustled a little and gathered together an array of All-Stars to play the Abstainers on the Baptist field. Two league managers declined to pick stars from their outfits as they believed that all their boys were of "constellation calibre." Consequently the matter was left to two players, "Kats" Miller and Benny Rosenson. These two leaguers pondered a little over the proposition, their action resulting in the forming of the following All-Star combine: Miller, p; Bergen, c; Jaeger, 2b; Hirsch, 1b; H. Rosenson, cf; "Henny" Alberts, rf; Harriman, 3b; B. Rosenson, ss; Savidge, lf. The game will be played on Baptist Field and an independent umpire will handle the indicator. Jack Denny will toss them over for the T. A. B. S., with Henny Winters receiving the "shoots." The game will have no effect on the league standing, the proceeds of the affair going in whatever direction the two managers see fit to send it.

TOMORROW IS THRIFT DAY AT THE EXPOSITION

San Francisco, Aug. 11.—Believing that Americans will have to pay a big share of the European war losses, officials of the Society for Thrift are urging upon the Congress of Thrift, now in session here, the necessity of inculcating the habits of thrift, even to the introduction of a thrift curriculum in the American public schools. By thrift, the officials mean the conservation of money, time and health. That much of the waste of war must be made up by the thrift of Americans is the slogan of the big congress.

"It is not a case of whether we want to save; the fact is that we must save," said S. W. Strauss, of New York, president of the society. "The congress must try to force upon humanity the truth of this statement. A great many people think that because the war is in Europe, Europe will have to pay the bill. This is foolishness. It is a bill that is incurred by humanity, and all humanity will have to share in the debt, directly or indirectly. Just as sure as night follows day we will have to preserve our resources, voluntarily or involuntarily, and it is a great deal better to be thrifty from choice than from necessity."

Tomorrow has been officially designated "Thrift Day" at the Exposition, in honor of the sociologists and economists who are attending the meetings here.

WOULD STOP SHIPMENTS OF WAR MUNITIONS

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 11.—General Samuel Pearson, once an officer in the Boer army, and recently a soldier of fortune with visions of millions to be made by means of floating concessions in undeveloped countries, and still more recently an agitator of German theories in this country, is again on the war path. The shipment of munitions to the Allies must cease, he decides, because it is criminal, and because these munitions may injure his holdings in the Continental Pressputz Company, at Frankford-on-the-Main.

The "general's" latest move to hold up munition shipments by legal process will be passed upon by the Attorney-General of Wisconsin. The action is aimed to prevent the Dupont Powder Company, of Barksdale, Wis., from shipping the explosives which it is manufacturing for European countries. The action is taken under a Wisconsin statute, by which the manufacture of explosives for the killing of persons or the destruction of property in Wisconsin or elsewhere is prohibited.

In a recent interview here, the "general" declared that his agents have traced shipments of explosives directly from the Dupont plant to the Allies. These shipments endanger the property in which he claims to be a stockholder.

A few months ago Pearson started a civil action against the Allis-Chalmers Co., of Milwaukee, for providing the Allies with ammunition of war, but this was thrown out. Previous to that the "general" had been sojourning in Germany and Austria, having disappeared from his haunts in Scranton, Pa. For many years the spectacular Pearson has vouched for the statement that a price had been set upon his head by the British Government. He originated many schemes for making millions, but none of them came to anything.

THREE WARSHIPS ARE TORPEDOED

Breslau, Goeben and Transport Reported As Victims of British Submarine.

ALLIES MAKING GAINS

General Hamilton Says Operations On Gallipoli Peninsula Are Successful—Submarine Stops Norwegian Mailship.

London, Aug. 12—Reports from Athens, published this morning, announce that British submarines which have penetrated the Black Sea have torpedoed the former German cruiser Breslau and a transport gunboat in those waters, and also state that the Goeben, also a one-time battle cruiser of the Kaiser, has been torpedoed and is now aground in the Bosphorus.

No details of the action are given. A despatch to the Daily Mail says:

"British submarines have succeeded in entering the Black Sea and have torpedoed the cruiser Breslau. They also torpedoed one transport gunboat."

The despatch to the Daily Telegraph says:

"The Goeben has been torpedoed. She was run aground in a narrow creek in the Bosphorus where she is lying alongside shore in default of a dry or floating dock in Turkey sufficiently large to accommodate a vessel of her size. A dike has been built around her from which the Turks are pumping out water. All the approaches to the creek are severely guarded and no one is allowed to pass. My informant, however, succeeded by a bypath in getting at the place and verifying these facts."

Good news also came of the land operations at the Dardanelles. Sir Ian Hamilton reports important gains on the Gallipoli Peninsula as a result of severe fighting in the "Anzac Zone." The name Anzac is coined from the initial letters of the Australia-New Zealand Army Corps. Owing to gallantry and dash of this corps Gen. Hamilton reports their area of operation has been nearly trebled. At other points the British have inflicted heavy losses on the Turks. Hamilton's report follows:

"Severe fighting took place on the Gallipoli Peninsula yesterday, mainly in the Anzac zone. Some of the north positions were occupied in slightly varied places. The general result is that the area held at Aansaz has been nearly trebled owing chiefly to the gallantry and dash of the Australian and New Zealand Army Corps.

"No further progress has been made to the north. The troops have inflicted heavy losses on the enemy.

"The French battleship St. Louis is reported to have put five of the guns on the Asiatic battery out of action."

The British fishing smacks Ocean Mist, Esperant and George Borrow have been destroyed by German submarines. The crews were landed today.

Berlin, Aug. 12 (by wireless)—The Bavarian army of Prince Leopold of Bavaria, which captured Warsaw, has occupied the important railway junction city of Lukow. Announcement of the occupation of Lukow was made today by the war office. The Austro-German, army of Gen. Von Gallwitz, which has been operating on the Narew front has stormed Zambrowo and occupied the city.

Replying to the recent German air raid over the British east coast, French airmen attacked Zwiebrucken and Sankt Ingbert today, killing eight persons and wounding several others. All the victims were noncombatants. The property damage was small.

Paris, Aug. 12—The French war statement issued today says:

"In Artois heavy artillery duels and combats with hand grenades have taken place, particularly around Souchez, near Fontaine Aux Charmes and Marie Therese. In the Argonne the Germans attacked our trenches twice last night, but were repulsed. At Lingekopf in the Vosges, a counter attack of the enemy was repulsed after a severe struggle in which hand grenades were used."

Copenhagen, Aug. 12—The Norwegian mail ship Iris, bound from Newcastle to Bergen, was held up in the North Sea today, by a German submarine and compelled to throw overboard all Russian mail matter.

DAY NURSERY FUND NEARS $100 MARK

Big Boost Given Today For Work of Popular Local Charity.

The fund for the King's Daughters Day Nursery being collected through the Daily Press, in response to the appeal which was made on Tuesday night, received a big boost today, approaching the $100 mark. As has been told, the nursery, probably the most worthy local charitable work, is in need of more funds than usual this year, and it looks to the generosity of friends to furnish them. The various circles of King's Daughters raise a large sum toward keeping the work going, and during the summer months there are always additional contributions from interested friends toward the milk fund, and for extraordinary expenses such as those which face the management this year.

In yesterday's report it was stated that $15 had been received from "C." This was an error, as $5 was received from that source and $10 from a friend. This morning's mail brought $10 more from "L. W. B.," and $55 came later in the day.

Further contributions will be welcomed by the Daily Press to be applied to this work, and will be acknowledged in the columns of the paper. The list to date is as follows:

PLAINFIELD TRANSIT CO. NO LONGER IN EXISTENCE

Trenton, Aug. 12.—The Plainfield Transit Company, of 32 Park place, North Plainfield, filed a certificate of dissolution with the Secretary of State today. It was incorporated in 1913 to do a general bus and cab business and had an authorized capital stock of $20,000. The amount of stock issued and outstanding was $4,075.

The officers were: President, George Hauser, of Warrenville; vice president, Alfred E. Binz, of Plainfield; secretary, Guy D. Peck, of North Plainfield; treasurer, Marcus L. Clawson, of Plainfield.

TENDERED HIM SURPRISE PARTY ON HIS BIRTHDAY

A pleasant surprise party was tendered Daniel Gray at his home last night by a number of friends, the occasion being his twenty-fifth birthday. The affair was arranged by his wife, formerly Miss Helen Lynch, who proved herself an able hostess. Card playing was the feature of the evening, a euchre prize going to Miss Clara Gray, and others to Mrs. Thomas Lynch, Mr. Gray, Sr., and Mrs. Gray, Jr.

During the evening refreshments were served. About twenty-five relatives and friends attended the event.

CHAPELITES WILL SPEND TWELVE HOURS AT SEASHORE

Another excursion is coming! Next Thursday, the final outing from this city to Asbury Park and Ocean Grove will be run under the auspices of Warren chapel. Trains will leave Plainfield at 8:15 and Asbury Park at 6:10 o'clock, stopping at Netherwood both ways. The outing will be run in two sections.

The longest day at the seashore will be offered excursionists Saturday, when the annual outing of Hope chapel takes place. The pleasure seekers are given an opportunity to stay a full twelve hours at the shore. Trains will leave Grant Avenue at 7:56 and North Avenue at 8 o'clock. Returning they leave Asbury Park at 8 o'clock. Tickets for Saturday's outing may be secured from any of the committee or at the stations mentioned the morning of the excursion.

UNION FREEHOLDERS TO RUN.

Freeholders Charles A. Smith and Joseph Perry, Republicans, are circulating their petitions for renomination as members of the County Board.

SCOTCH PLAINS HAS GALA DAY

Community Picnic Greatest Event In Recent History of Fanwood Township.

GOVERNOR WAS THERE

And So Were United States Senator Martine, Congressman Capstick, Assemblymen Runyon and Pierson, to Saying Nothing of 3,000 Others.

Scotch Plains did itself proud yesterday. If there was a man, woman or child in Fanwood township or borough who did not help make the community picnic held there one big, glorious success, it was because the doctor had foroidden them to leave the house. The get-together spirit displayed from one end of the town to the other was such as is seldom seen in any community, and so successful was the day that the people voted unanimously to repeat it every year.

Second only to the community spirit shown was the tribute paid by all the speakers of the afternoon to the sterling qualities of Rev. J. Madison Hare, pastor of the Baptist church in the town, and the prime mover of the whole affair. And the group of speakers, largely secured through Dr. Hare's efforts, included Governor James F. Fielder, United States Senator James E. Martine, Assemblymen William N. Runyon and Arthur E. Pierson, and Fire Chief T. O. Doane, of Plainfield, who spoke on behalf of the G. A. R. veterans. The latter occupied a conspicuous place in the audience of three thousand or more, which gathered in the shade of a handsome group of big trees on the "old Hunter place." Congressman

MANY FAIR PRIZES BROUGHT BACK HERE

C. W. McCutchen's Horses Triumph and William E. Briggs Also Has Winners.

A number of automobile parties made up of Plainfielders left this morning for Flemington to attend the annual fair now in session at that place. Harness horse and running races will feature the program for today and automobile races will be put on tomorrow. Yesterday was "Farmers' Day" and our bucolic neighbors were present in large numbers.

This afternoon Governor James F. Fielder will visit the show and will make an address. The windup of the horse show attracted considerable interest at the grounds yesterday, the equines entered by C. W. McCutchen, of North Plainfield, coming in for a large share of the awards. His animals won first prize for the best team in the farm class; first for the best stallion three years and under four; first for the best mare three years and under four; first for best mare one year and under two; second for mare with foal by side; first for heavy draft stallion; first for stallion of any age for general purposes; third for mare, any age; first for filly or gelding three years and under four; first for farm team in general use shown in harness; first for single cob.

William E. Briggs, of Albert street, who has gained much prominence locally with his wonderful collection of poultry, won first prize in every event entered in the fair yesterday, capturing first honors in the cock, cockerel, pullet and pen; also second in the pullet. Beside getting the cash prize of fifteen dollars in gold he was awarded ten pounds of Spratt's laying mash and two quarts of disinfectant. Five hundred birds were in the contest, exhibits being sent from Phillipsburg, Chesterville, Pa.; Flemington and Southern Jersey. William Borman, of Somerville, was the judge of the entries, the prizes for the best being as follows: $1 for best pullet, $1 for single entries, $2 for first prize pen, $5 for best exhibit of Orpingtons, $5 for best Buff Orpington and $1 for best male bird in show.

Tomorrow will be known as "Ford Day," prizes being offered for the oldest car, the newest car, the car that comes the longest distance and the car best decorated. A parade of Fords will be a novel feature. Automobile races will conclude the festivities tomorrow afternoon.

Hupmobiles.

These cars have an enviable reputation. Their output is sold to their customers early each year. The new "Hup" has wonderful power, speed and appearance. People ask for Hupmobiles both new and second hand. Price, touring car, $1,085, plus $35 freight. Stryker's Garage, next to station.—Adv. 7 29 3-th ***

ELKS' DELEGATION TO STATE REUNION

Plans Being Made For a Monster Representation At Atlantic City.

Plans are under way among members of the local lodge of Elks to send a big delegation to the second annual reunion and parade of the New Jersey State Elks' Association, which will be held in Atlantic City on Tuesday, September 14. The Plainfield members will go from this city in a special Central Railroad train which will leave this city about 8 o'clock that morning, making stops at Westfield, Cranford, El Mora, Elizabeth, Elizabethport and Second avenue to pick up Elks living in those places. Returning the train will leave the seaside resort at 11 o'clock Tuesday night.

The Plainfielders are especially desirous of winning the prize to be awarded to the lodge having the greatest number of women attending, and a majority of the local delegates will take their wives or sweethearts along to swell the numbers. The regulation uniform to be worn by the Queen City lodgemen is a Palm Beach suit, many of the prospective delegates having already purchased the regalia.

SPICER MACHINISTS WILL MEET TONIGHT

Whether Or Not a Strike Will Be Necessary to Gain Short Day the Issue.

Machinists employed by the Spicer Manufacturing Company will meet in Building Trades Council Hall tonight for the purpose of discussing their demand for an eight-hour day. While nothing of an official nature could be learned today it is believed that the Spicer concern has as yet refused to concede the demand for a shorter day and if this is the case indications point to a strike being declared by the machinists at tonight's meeting. Efforts to locate Superintendent Dana at the Spicer plant in South Plainfield by telephone proved futile this afternoon, it being explained that "Mr. Dana was in conference and could not be disturbed." It was said, however, that the conference did not concern machinists' matters.

The Hod-Carriers Union will also meet in Trades Council Hall tonight for the purpose of discussing an agreement presented to them recently by the boss masons. It is the opinion of the carriers that the demands of the bosses are unfair and the possibility of a strike from this quarter may also develop tonight.

SWACKHAMER MENTIONED AS ASSEMBLY CANDIDATE

It is probable that Samuel S. Swackhamer, of North Plainfield, will seek Assembly honors again this fall. Rumor has it that he will be a candidate on the Democratic ticket. Mr. Swackhamer has already served two terms in the State Legislature, being elected both times by a large majority.

While no official information has been obtained as to the candidacy of the present Assemblyman from Somerset county, Ogden Hammond, of Bernardsville, it is said hat he will seek re-election. Mr. Hammond is a Republican, and is serving his first term in the New Jersey Assembly.

EDWARD GREEN MISSING.

Has anyone seen Edward Green, colored, of East Fourth street? His wife is anxious to know of his whereabouts. After receiving his pay envelope from the Dunellen Lumber and Stone Company last Saturday, Mr. Green, who is a driver for that concern, disappeared, and has not been heard from since, either at his home or by the company. Friends and relatives of the man are anxious, fearing foul play, as all search of his usual haunts have proved fruitless.

COMMITTEE TO MEET.

The committee from the North Plainfield Board of Health appointed at the last regular meeting of the Board to draw up a plumbing ordinance for use in making sewer connections, will hold a meeting tonight. This committee is composed of James L. Love, Cormick McDonough and Health Officer Louis Oliff.

The Misses Linda Cave, of East Front street, and Ruth Sadler, of East Sixth street, have returned from an extended trip through the West. They visited the Panama-Pacific Exposition and other points of interest throughout that section of the country.

MAYOR CLARK MAY SEEK RE-ELECTION

Petition Being Signed By Borough Voters Urging Him to Run.

HE IS NON-COMMITTAL

Declared a Few Months Ago That He Would Not Seek Office Again, But May Respond to Urging of Petition Which Is Being Circulated.

A petition requesting Mayor Robert Clark, Jr., of North Plainfield, Republican, to allow his name to be used at the forthcoming primaries for renomination for the office he now holds, is being circulated extensively among North Plainfield voters by Walter C. Linbarger, a Democrat. Mr. Linbarger, who supported Mayor Clark both times that he ran for office, said this morning that the petition was being signed generously by borough voters of all parties without regard to their party affiliations. While having been out with the petition only a few days, Mr. Linbarger has secured the signatures of a large number of voters, and already the petition is a long one.

Mayor Clark has cognizance of the petition, but only through information carried to him. He disclaimed any intention of running for the office again some time ago, and stated positively to a Daily Press reporter early in the summer that he would not enter the race this fall. This was before any movement in the nature of a petition was started in his behalf, and Mayor Clark may change his mind in view of the insistent call for him to run again made upon him by the petition.

'SKEETERS TO BE RUN OUT OF SOMERSET?

Commission to Press Claim for $500 to Start Extermination Work.

Dr. C. R. P. Fisher, of Bound Brook, one of the members of the Mosquito Commission for Somerset county, appeared before the members of the Board of Freeholders at the monthly meeting at the Court House, yesterday, and made an urgent plea for $500 with which to begin work of exterminating the mosquito pest in Somerset county.

He stated that the Commission had been in existence for several years, but thus far it had not been able to do anything for the lack of funds.

Dr. Fisher also said that he had come before the Board last year, but was unsuccessful in getting any money, and thereupon the Commission had resigned in a body. Justice Parker had refused to accept the resignations, and Dr. Fisher notified the freeholders that this was the last time he would come before the Board and ask for funds, but that other means would be taken to compel the county officials to grant the request, as the law was mandatory.

It was decided to defer this matter until the regular meeting in September, when the request will probably be granted. The Commission will then get busy and have a survey made of the county to ascertain what is necessary to be done.

BOROUGH POLICE STILL AFTER DOG TAX MONEY

Another campaign to compel North Plainfield dog owners to take out licenses for their pets is on in the borough. As the result of notices served yesterday by Marshal Pope, four residents appeared this morning at police headquarters and paid for licenses. In the absence from the borough of Borough Clerk Charles M. Dolliver, Acting Chief Marshal Keller took the applications and the money, and the licenses and necessary tags will be sent out upon Mr. Dolliver's return.

CAMP FIRE GIRLS' HIKE.

A hike is planned for the Camp Fire girls of the First Presbyterian church tomorrow. The members will meet at the Y. W. C. T. at noon, each bringing with her a lunch. If the weather is inclement, a social time will be planned at the association. Miss Esther Karner will have charge of the outing.

PROHIBITION MEETING.

E. M. Kester, one of the field secretaries of the Prohibition party, will speak at the corner of Front street and Madison avenue at 8 o'clock tonight. He will discuss the liquor traffic. It is hoped that many men and women will attend.

SCORES SEEK JOB AS N. P. TAX COLLECTOR

Mayor and Councilmen of Borough Beseiged By Job Hunters.

A special meeting of the North Plainfield Common Council has been called for tomorrow night at 8 o'clock for the purpose of selecting a tax collector and borough treasurer to succeed the late George F. Brown. Scores of candidates have lined up already for the job, and Mayor Robert Clark, Jr., and the six members of Council have a difficult task before them to make a choice.

William J. Trembath, of Chatham street, is said to be favorably considered by the powers that be. Others persistently mentioned for the office are: District School Clerk Frank Rowley, James Arnold, Guy D. Peck and Frederick Martin, former borough clerk. The appointment will be for the unexpired term of Mr. Brown. As the office pays a salary of $1,500 a year, it is considered a desirable plum by office-seekers.

Mayor Clark has received at least a hundred applications for the office, while the members of Council, who will have to concur in the Mayor' appointment, have doubtless been approached by many more. It is said that more than one aspirant for the office began his campaign to secure the appointment before Mr. Brown passed away.

Yesterday afternoon Mayor Clark received so many telephone calls and personal applications for the appointment that he had no opportunity to rest. The Mayor said this morning that he is considering all the applicants, and will make his appointment publicly at the meeting tomorrow night. He would give no intimation as to whom he would appoint.

There will be a caucus of the Mayor and Council tonight for the purpose of settling upon an appointee. The applications have come in in many ways, through personal visits to the borough's chief executive and over the telephone. Some are in the form of typewritten statements of candidates' qualifications. In some cases the candidates have pushed their candidacy themselves, while in other instances aspirants for the job have friends who are using their persuasive powers and their influence with the Mayor and members of Council.

"LAW OF THE LAND" OPENING ATTRACTION AT THEATRE

The opening attraction at the Plainfield Theatre will be "The Law of the Land," which ran for many months last year in New York. Counihan & Shannon announce this show for Saturday, August 21, and the following attractions will be offered during the months of September.

Cohan and Harris great success, "Seven Keys to Baldpate," September 2; "High Jinks," September 4; "Under Cover," September 6; "Daddy Long Legs," September 11; "Bringing Up Father," September 15; Daniel V. Arthur Opera Company, in "Robin Hood," September 18; Joe Weber's "The Only Girl," September 21; Harry Frazee's "A Full House," September 24, and the Cohan Theatre success, "It Pays to Advertise," September 27.

On Monday, October 4, a season of stock plays will be inaugurated by the Malley Stock Company. William Malley, under whose direction this stock company will be, has had many years' experience in this particular line in all the large cities of the country, and for the last ten years has had stock companies in many New England cities in association with the Castle Square Stock Company, of Boston. Mr. Malley will follow the same plan here with which he has met so much success in his other stock ventures, and that is to present only the latest and best plays each week, and this will include musical as well as dramatic productions. In the musical plays the chorus, both male and female, will be made up of local talent, which is in itself a decided innovation, and will no doubt arouse considerable local interest and give the embryo stars of Plainfield an opportunity to display their talents.

WILSON STUDIES MEXICO'S CASE

Executive Hears That Plans Are Complete For Invasion of Texas.

CABINET MEETING OFF

Will Confer With Individual Members Before Calling Body Together —Carranza Says That No Foreigners Are In Danger In Mexico.

Washington, Aug. 12.—Immediately following the President's return at 9:35 this morning from Cornish, N. H., the Cabinet meeting scheduled for tomorrow was canceled. The President desires to go over the accumulated work at individual conferences with the different Cabinet members before holding a full session of the Cabinet. He also desires to wait a few days longer for the completion of the details of the Mexican peace plan.

After reaching the White House the President immediately applied himself to office work. No appointments were made for callers, the President wishing to reserve the day for a conference with Secretary Lansing, at which they took up for consideration the Mexican situation. At the conclusion Mr. Lansing said that there had been no change in the Administrations peace plan for Mexico, and that the note to be sent had been approved.

Proof that a complete organization for the invasion of Texas is in existence in Mexico was contained in a telegram to the War Department from General Funston today. General Funston transmitted to the department a report from the commanding officer at Harlingen, Tex., detailing the results of a skirmish there, Tuesday night, when one American trooper was killed. Among the trophies taken was a flag bearing the motto, "Army of liberty of Mexico and Texas."

Secretary of War Garrison today ordered General Tasker H. Bliss, acting chief of the staff of the army, to report at once the number and nature of mobile troops that could be rushed at once to the Mexican border.

The gunboat Sacramento left Vera Cruz last night at 6 o'clock for New Orleans with the Brazilian and Guatamalean Ministers to Mexico on board.

A battalion of the Ninth Infantry was today ordered to Laredo, Texas, from Brownsville, at the request of Colonel Blocksom, General Funston notified the War Department today. It is probable that the forces at Laredo will be reinforced by a battalion from Texas City, Texas, to replace the battalion just sent to Brownsville. Colonel Blocksom did not state the reason for the need of reinforcements.

The Mexican situation was regarded hopefully here today. The Pan-American conferees were believed to have taken a wise first step. Indications were seen that a basis of agreement with General Carranza might be arrived at.

Conditions at Vera Cruz and throughout Carranzista territory generally were considered better than was supposed a day or two ago. Much of the earlier uneasiness was attributed to published reports that more warships had been ordered rushed to Vera Cruz.

The vessels are to be held in Southern waters, within easy striking distance of the Mexican coast, but not to be sent there unless more urgent reasons developed for such a step.

Danger from raids by bandits along the Texas border continued.

General Funston reported that Texas politicians were playing the Mexicans against one another to fight the former's own battles. This, coupled with the general lawlessness due to prolonged revolution throughout Mexico, had produced a state of chaos, it was said by adherents of the Wilson Administration, which could be dealt with only by drastic methods.

The rushing to border territory of practically the whole of the nation's mobile regular military forces was considered a likely development to be looked for any hour.

It was made plain that Gens. Carranza, Villa and Zapata would be given another chance to agree among themselves on a provisional Government to remain in power until a permanent constitutional regime could be established, probably in thirty to sixty days.

Villa, it was understood, had agreed to this. It was believed Zapata would do so.

Until last night there was no sign that Carranza would do so. Then, however, a suggestion of a slight concession came from the first chief's agency here.

Perhaps, it was said, Carranza would consider a proposition to get together with his rivals on the basis, in the peace conference, of representation in proportion to the territory and number of people controlled by the respective factions.

All the Happenings of the Day In Plainfield's Hustling Suburb.

RETURNS FROM PLATTSBURG STUDENT ENCAMPMENT

Richmond Ritterbush, son of Henry Ritterbush, of Dunellen avenue, has returned from the barracks at Plattsburg, N. Y., where he took a five weeks' course in military instruction.

The object of the course was to fit college and senior High School men for commissions in the volunteer ranks of the army. The camps were started in 1913 at Gettysburg, and have since progressed, three camps having been founded this year. These three camps are the one at Plattsburg, which is the largest, with an enrollment of 625 men; one at Ludington, Mich., and the other one at Monterey, Cal., in the Presidio.

The instruction course is conducted by regular army officers. Captain R. O. Van Horn is the commandant at Plattsburg.

Mr. Ritterbush qualified on the rifle range as sharpshooter with an aggregate score of 209, being one point less than is required for the expert rank.

The entire encampment went on a practice march to Silver Lake and back, a distance of 85 miles, each man carrying an equipment weighing about 45 pounds. Instructive talks on first aid work, signaling, bayonet fencing and road map drawing were given.

The students also heard the presidents of Yale, Harvard, Princeton, Cornell and Lehigh Universities, and Major-General Leonard Wood.

Mayor E. B. Latham spent Tuesday in Philadelphia, where he has a branch store.

Miss Martha Kratzel, of Front street, is camping at Keansburg.

William Herlich, of Front street, departed yesterday afternoon for the Pocono Mountains, where he will remain until Saturday.

Philip and William Thompson, of Prospect avenue, have returned from San Francisco, where they attended the Panama Exposition.

Mrs. H. E. Nelson, of Lincoln avenue, entertained Mr. and Mrs. B. R. Decker, of South Orange, yesterday.

Frank Neye, of Jefferson avenue, had the honor of winning three prizes in the poultry contest at the Flemington Fair yesterday. In the Rhode Island Red, rose comb variety, he won first in cock bird and first in pullet. This pullet also took first in a shape and color special over 65 other birds.

Miss Adelaide Fritz, of Penfield place, has returned from Asbury Park, where she spent a month.

Mrs. H. E. Nelson, of Lincoln avenue, leaves Saturday for Newport News, Va., where she will visit her father, Frank Kelly.

Mrs. William Jeffrey and family, of York, Pa., are visiting Mrs. Charlotte Fritz.

Mrs. Clarence Vliet, of North avenue, who has been ill for the past five weeks, has been operated upon. She is reported to be slowly recovering.

The Frank Broshart house at 526 Front street, has been sold to Frankzink Kottsmann, of Carlstadt, who will soon take possession. The deal was made through the John Fedderman Agency.

'Plains & Fanwood.

To plan to make the "community picnic" of Fanwod township and borough an annual affair a meeting will be held in the Memorial Parish House on Monday night to appoint standing committees. A full account of the athletic meets and other attractions yesterday will be found elsewhere, and it can easily be seen what attracted the 3,000 odd people estimated to be on the grounds early in the afternoon, when the affair was at its heighth. The band from Westfield played until 7 o'clock, the married and single men indulging in a ball game in the meantime.

Miss Rose Thomae has returned to her home on North avenue after spending several weeks with Mr. and Mrs. J. Hudson Thompson, of Martine avenue, who are spending the summer at Lake Hopatcong.

Miss Grace Thompson, a resident of the borough, but who has been spending the summer at Lake Hopatcong, is visiting Miss Dorothy Beeken, of North avenue.

Another successful dance was held in the parish house of the Stony Hill church last night and attracted about seventy-five couples from the 'Plains, Westfield, Plainfield and Dunellen.

The weekly prayer meeting of the Baptist church postponed from last night owing to the "community picnic" will be held tomorrow night. Rev. J. Madison Hare will be in charge.

Florence O'Sullivan has rounded out his first month as police marshal in Scotch Plains. Although there has been no disorders he has brought four cases before Recorder Jahn, and did so after some good work. Twice he has gone into the "Big Woods" and made arrests for the Plainfield police. Yesterday, after a night on duty, he was at the "community picnic" and, although he made no arrests, preserved order and attended to traffic on Front street owing to the many automobiles and carriages.

The Scotch Plains Boy Scouts camped out onthe "community picnic" grounds for the second time last night, and have become in a measure acquainted with the routine of camp life that they will encounter on their two weeks' camping trip to Fox Hill Lakes. They leave Monday and by that time will have completed all arrangements for their equipment. The dog tents are completed and were used during the last two nights, while knives, hatchets, canteens and other scout tools were won at the meet at the picnic yesterday.

The Willow Grove Boy Scouts held a drill and meeting last night.

Miss Elsie Clinket, of the township, is visiting friends in Cranford.

Miss Blanche Martin, of Metuchen has been visiting her aunt, Mrs. O. C. Reinhart, of Grand street.

SCOTCH PLAINS HAS GALA DAY

John H. Capstick was present, but had to leave before the time came for the speeches, and Senator Carlton B. Pierce was unable to be present because of the death of his father.

Dr. Hare acted as "master of ceremonies," and he started the speechmaking by calling on Assemblyman Pierson, who had to leave early. The speaker felicitated those present on the very evident success of the gathering, and thanked them for the privilege of being present.

After Mr. Pierson had concluded, Dr. Hare welcomed the throng on behalf of the committee which had arranged the gathering, and said that the purpose was to make the people of the entire borough and township forget that some live in one part and some in another, and that from that day on he expected them all to be brothers and sisters of Fanwood township and borough. He urged all present to forget their religious denominations, and to be Christian men and women, trying to make the community the best community that is possible, "a sort of a reformed Garden of Eden, without any poisoned apple trees." Before presenting Governor Fielder Dr. Hare said that he doubted whether any place ever had such an opportunity to hear so many distinguished men as was then the case. He presented Mr. Fielder to the assemblage as "one of God's nobleman and a true American statesman."

In opening, the Governor said he felt sure that no one present had any idea that the affair was going to be such a great success, and after paying a tribute to Dr. Hare, he praised the State. "One may well speak in the highest terms of New Jersey, for we have a right to be proud of the place where we live. After a trip across the continent to California and back, I am more convinced than ever that there is no State in the union which is more attractive, has more beautiful scenery or wealth of resources than ours. But after all, it is the people that make the State, and all the natural beauties in the world are of no use without living beings. It is through such gatherings as this that we make our State and our communities more attractive, and getting together produces a marvelous feeling of sisterly and brotherly civic pride. It makes you all strive to aim for the highest degree of municipal success.

"Such gatherings as these help the progress of the town, and as you progress you will find that Westfield and neighboring communities will become jealous of you. You can thus see how the leaven in the town of Scotch Plains may spread throughout Union county."

The Governor addressed himself to the large group of veterans who were present, and urged them to take as much interest in civic affairs as they did in helping defend the country years ago. "Show that there is still fight left in you for municipal reform, and make the younger men look to you for an example. Don't let the politicians get control of things, and see what a wonderful community and State you will have.

"I am realizing more and more every day that a change has taken place in New Jersey—that our people are awakening to the necessity for taking a more active interest and part in civic affairs, and we have reached the commencement of a better day, when party is thrown aside, especially in municipal matters, and we are electing the men who give the best government, regardless of their party label." When the Governor concluded he was greeted by a great round of applause.

Dr. Hare then read a leter of regret from Assemblyman Morgan, of Elizabeth, who is in Maine, and introduced Assemblyman Runyon of this city, as the "Daniel Webster of Union county." Mr. Runyon amused the crowd by saying that it was very appropriate to place him where they did at a picnic, because everyone had sandwiches at picnics, and "he was a poor slice of meat to place between such bread as Governor Fielder and Senator Martine."

"This gathering is an inspiration," said the Assemblyman, "and no one can fail to be impressed with the fact that the realization exceeds the expectation for all of you. I certainly hope that we can make this from one end of the county to the other a great anual affair, and that every community will be exalted by the example that is set here." He contrasted the peaceful scene before him with the scenes abroad, and said that it was a fine example for the children of the two communities, as a distinct step upward had been taken. He then paid a tribute to Dr. Hare similar to that of the Governor, but said that he felt sure that "the Doctor was glad to get to a community where he could mingle on more friendly terms with the people." In closing, Mr. Runyon said that he hoped that the opportunity would be given to meet again for many and many another community picnics.

Fire Chief Doane, commander of Winfield Scott Post, G. A. R., was called to speak "for that organization into whose membership no money can buy a place." He created considerable amusement by saying that the glowing words of introduction had made him forget all the good things he had in mind, and he wished he had Judge Runyon there to do it for him, as he was sure that if the latter said what he had been thinking Mr. Runyon would make an even better speech than he had. The Chief then walked across the platform, took Governor Fielder by the hand, and said, "I want to thank you, Governor, for forgetting politics and appointing Captain William C. Smith, of our post, a member of the board of managers of the Soldiers' Home at Kearny. He is the best man that they ever had on the board, and we all appreciate what you did."

Dr. Hare then publicly thanked William Hand and "Deacon" David Hand for presenting and erecting the flagpole on the grounds, and asked Mrs. Davis, the only living member of the Hunter family, who formerly lived on the tract where the picnic was held, to stand up. Then he called on Senator Martine.

The Senator also complimented everyone present on the success of the gathering, saying that in his opinion the most unfortunate being in the world is the person who shuts himself up and lives for no one else. He added his bit of praise to Dr. Hare, and said that he was convinced that the people of Union county live a little nearer heaven than anyone else on earth. He told of how much pleasure it gave him at Washington to praise the State of New Jersey, and dipped into a bit of history about the country around Scotch Plains, following with an address on the great record New Jerseymen have made in the past. He paid a glowing compliment to President Wilson as the greatest accomplishment of the State, and the man who, by his "at first ridiculed policy of 'watchful waiting,' has kept us out of the war, and held this country up as one great nation which will stand for peace." The reference to the President was received with enthusiastic applause by the audience.

After the speechmaking the crowd was asked to gather around and shake hands with Governor Fielder and the other guests, and then to remain and listen to a band concert or see the various sports concluded. A full account of the latter will be found on the sporting page.

The men who contributed to the great success of the day, by acting as committee chairmen, were: Dr. Hare, William Ward, William I. Guest Mrs. John Z. Hatfield, A. Rutgers Neilson, Jr., Miss Marguerite Jahn, Edward Hatfield and Philip Jahn. William Sisserson was chairman of the general committee, and Mr. Neilson acted as secretary and publicity director.

REFORMED CHURCHES TOOK 1,000 TO POPULAR RESORT

Plainfield sent its second delegation of the week to Asbury Park this morning, when 1,000 persons filled seventeen cars of the two sections chartered by the Trinity Reformed church Sunday-school for its annual outing. Accompanying the Trinity excursionists were members of the Netherwood Reformed church, Marconnier chapel and Mt. Pleasant chapel.

Ideal weather conditions prevailed when the pleasure-seekers left Plainfield, and although clouds made their appearance before the train reached the resort, the weather was not threatening enough to seriously interfere with the day's plans.

The committee in charge of the outing included: Chauncey Colthar, chairman; Clarence Rittenhouse, William Wyman, Harry Kenyon, Sidney French, Raymond Cutter and James B. Conklin.

PERSONAL.

Assemblyman William N. Runyon, in company with several other Assemblymen, left today morning on a fishing trip that will probably last for several days.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Harding, of Terrill road, are touring the West, their destination being the Panama-Pacific Exposition, Oregon and other places of interest. The trip will last about a month.

Albert G. Fritz, of fire headquarters, North Plainfield, is taking a ten days' vacation which he is spending at various points of interest in this vicinity.

Henry E. Bowen, of Watchung avenue, is spending his vacation at Woodstock, Conn.

Mrs. William Startup and family, of Westervelt avenue, have returned home after sojourning at Carmel, Maine.

J. M. Lewis and family, of Richmond street, are stopping at Asbury Inn, Asbury Park, for a few weeks.

Horace M. Fisher and family, of Willow avenue, are registered at "The Breakers," Spring Lake.

C. B. Egan and family, of Norwood avenue, are staying at The Sea Side, Sayville, L. I.

L. J. Ellis and family, of Watchung avenue, are spending their summer outing at Rockaway.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Smith and children, Enis and Iris, of East Seventh street, are sojourning at Atlantic City on their vacation.

Mrs. E. H. Ladd, of Stelle avenue, is spending her vacation at Lake Parlin, Jackman, Somerset county, Maine.

Miss Leila Wherry, of Park place, left today for her vacation. She will spend it traveling to various points of interest throughout the State.

Postmaster A. E. Hoagland and family, of West Front street, are spending their vacation at Manasquan.

J. C. Peck and family, of Myrtle avenue, are stopping at Prospect House, Good Ground, L. I., during their vacation.

Miss Beatrice Gardner, supervisor of the housekeeping centre at 210 East Front street, in company with several young women, left Tuesday morning for a three weeks' vacation at Cambridge, N. Y. The young women will lead camp life while away, returning to this city the first week in September.

JOHNNY HARKINS NAMED.

John J. Harkins, of New Brunswick, at one time famous as a baseball star, and well-known in this section as a Plainfield-Somerville rooter, has been appointed sergeant-at-arms of the New Brunswick District Court, by Judge Freeman Woodbridge. Mr. Harkins succeeds Anthony Silzer, brother of Circuit Court Judge George S. Silzer, of Metuchen. Mr. Silzer becomes clerk of the Middlesex grand jury, succeeding former Assemblyman Schuyler Van Cleef, who has been appointed to administer the inheritance tax for Middlesex.

If it is still valuable, you can sell it through a For Sale ad.

WM. B. DIXEY, ACTIVE IN MANY LODGES, DEAD AT WESTFIELD

William B. Dixey, for the last six years a resident of Westfield, died at his late home, 500 Summit avenue, that place, yesterday, following after an illness of more than a year. He was 58 years old and a native of Philadelphia. For ten years he was connected with the Blaw Steel Corporation, of New York city, and at one time their Eastern representative. He was connected with the Atlantic City lodge of Elks, Knights of the Golden Eagle of Atlantic City, the A. O. U. W. of Philadelphia, and was past regent of Fireside Council, Royal Arcanum, of Westfield.

Beside his widow, five children survive him. The latter are Mrs. L. B. Off, of Atlantic City; Mrs. David Smalley, Jr., of New York; Miss Mary Dixey, of Westfield; William B. Dixey, Jr., of Philadelphia, and Joseph Dixey, of Westfield.

WELL KNOWN SPEAKERS WILL ATTEND ST. JOSEPH'S EVENT

The committee in charge of the arrangements for the ceremonies to commemorate the Feast of Our Blessed Lady's Assumption, which will be held at St. Joseph's Villa Sunday afternoon at 3:30, met last night and completed the final details of an elaborate program. The names of a number of prominent statesmen and speakers have been suggested and indications point to a number of interesting addresses on the occasion.

During the afternoon two grottoes will be dedicated with appropriate services. These enshrine the statues of Our Blessed Lady and St. Joseph. Father Hart will have charge of the ceremonies and will be assisted in the celebration by members of the Holy Name Society.

DEATH OF MRS. ZAISER AT SOUTH STIRLING

Mrs. Fannie P. Zaiser, wife of Harry C. Zaiser, tax collector for Warren township, died yesterday afternoon at her home in South Stirling in her forty-eight year. Funeral services will be held Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock from the residence and interment will be made in Mt. Bethel cemetery. The funeral services will be in charge of Rev. George Bowers, of Warrenville.

An illness extending over a period of nine months preceded Mrs. Zaiser's death. She had been a resident of South Stirling for many years living on the Coriell farm, which she and her husband purchased from the family.

Besides her husband, she leaves surviving three sons and two daughters. The sons are Wilbur, Harry and John, and the daughters Gertrude and Frances.

U. S. ASTOR THEATRE

Max Figman and Lois Meredith film stars of the highest magnitude, appear on the screen of the U. S. Astor Theatre, this afternoon and tonight, in "My Best Girl," a picture of engrossing interest throughout. Mr. Figman long has occupied a position of distinction in filmdom by reason of his ability to portray powerful dramatic roles. He has appeared in many stage successes in recent years.

Miss Meredith rose to prominence in the theatrical world last season when she played the leading part in "Help Wanted." She also appeared in "The Woman," in the films produced by the Lasky Company. Her part in "My Best Girl" affords abundant opportunity to play just the kind of part for which she is best fitted.

Tomorrow afternoon and evening Victor Moore will appear in the leading role in "Snobs," a comedy in which Frank McIntyre played, the leading part at the Hudson Theatre New York, some years ago. The film unfolds the story of a milkman who suddenly becomes heir to an estate in Englaad and there are numerous scenes of rare humor when he begins to spend his fortune.

COMMON PLEAS COURT FRIDAY.

Judge Daniel H. Beekman will hold a session of the Somerset County Court of Common Pleas, Friday. It was first thought that only one session would be held this month, but now it appears probable that cases will be heard August 27, as well as Friday. On Friday the court will consider petitions for the transfer of a number of licenses, it is understood. An Employers' Liability case will also be heard then.

FOUR KILLED IN WRECK.

Cincinnati, Aug. 12.—An excursion train returning from Cedar Point to Mount Sterling, on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, was wrecked at Orient, southwest of Columbus, as the result of a rear-end collision early today. A freight train struck the passenger train. Four persons were killed and sixteen injured.

IT'S A BOY.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Post, of Watchung avenue, are the proud parents of an eight-pound boy, born yesterday. Both mother and son are doing nicely. Mrs. Post was formerly Miss Sarah Koechlein.

CLARK MAY SEEK RE-ELECTION

"I know no more about the petition than you do," declared Mayor Clark when asked for a statement by a Daily Press reporter this morning. Asked if he would consent to run again if a large number of his fellow-citizens requested him to do so by means of a petition such as Mr. Linbarger is circulating, Mayor Clark declined to commit himself. Asked if he would reconsider his declaration not to run again, Mayor Clark said that he always gave heed to anything in the nature of a petition or a business communication, and that he would certainly consider this petition when it was presented to him, but he positively declined to state whether or not he would change his mind on the question of running for the office.

Mayor Clark is finishing his second term, his two administrations having been characterized by harmony in all departments of public business and general progress in the way of improvements and the administration of affairs. Mayor Clark is well liked by voters of both the leading parties, as is attested in the willingness of Democrats and Republicans alike to place their names on the petition.

If Mayor Clark decides to allow his name to be used in the primaries this fall, William L. Smalley, the only other avowed candidate for the office on the Republican ticket, will have strong opposition for the nomination. For several weeks Mr. Smalley has been the only Republican candidate in the field. It is said that a Republican nomination for Mayor of North Plainfield is tantamount to an election.

BLAZING AUTO RUNS ALONE

A heavy six-cylinder car ablaze from bonnet to tail-light performed the unusual feat of running for nearly half a mile without an occupant. The driver jumped, without shutting off the power, when the fire started. When he caught up with it, the car was a twisted steel skeleton. This accident happened near here on July 28th and proves the necessity of carrying fire insurance. Insure your car here, now, before you have a similar experience. Auto fire at 1%.

VESUVIUS AND AETNA ARE IN ERUPTION

Populace of Nearby Cities and Towns Flee In State of Terror.

Paris, Aug. 12.—A despatch from Naples says that Mounts Aetna and Vesuvius are in eruption today, pouring forth streams of lava which have burst from two new craters. Great clouds of steam and smoke are rising over surrounding villages, from which the people are fleeing.

The whole population of Naples, Messina and other Sicilian towns is in a state of terror, and thousands are fleeing in terror.

Several earthquake shocks have been felt at Taranto and Brindisi, in southern Italy, according to despatches received here today, increasing the fear here that a gigantic earth disturbance is about to shake Italy, though Naples scientists are trying to reassure the public. The first earth tremor was felt at Brindisi at 3 o'clock on Tuesday morning, followed by nine others. It was estimated that the centre of disturbance was 125 miles from Brindisi. The meteorological apparatus at Vesuvius Observatory was wrecked by earth tremors yesterday.

Messina, sixty miles northeast of the great volcano and the scene of the greatest earthquake disaster in history, is greatly alarmed.

SCOTCH PLAINS GROCER DIES AT HIS HOME HERE

Walter H. Dorlon, of 721 South avenue, died at his late home last night following a brief illness. He was forty-two years old and was born in Mt. Pleasant. After being employed as clerk in Luther Henry's grocery store on Liberty street for sometime, the deceased opened a similar business for himself in Scotch Plains. He is survived by a wife.

The funeral will be held from the late residence on South avenue, Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock, Rev. Lewis Bond conducting the service. Interment will be made in Evergreen cemetery.

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR THOMAS BLISS STILLMAN

The funeral of Prof. Thomas Bliss Stillman, whose death occurred Tuesday, was held this afternoon at 1 o'clock in Trinity church, Hoboken, and was attended by hundreds of friends and associates. Rev. Mr. Mitchell pastor of the church, conducted the service and spoke in a eulogistic vein of the life of the man. Delegations from nearly every organization he belonged to in New York city were present and accompanied the body from the house to the church and later to the train.

Flowers in large numbers, as tokens of the high regard felt for the man were sent to the house by individuals and fraternal organizations. The body was brought to this city later and interment was made in Hillside cemetery at 3:30.

CHRISTIAN FIELD

Miss M. Y. Cromwell, of Cranford, will speak at the afternoon service tomorrow, at the meeting of the Christian and Missionary Alliance, in the German Reformed church, at Duer street and Craig place. The evening service will begin at 7:30 and will be in charge of Miss Catherine Hyslip, of Westfield. W. C. Hart, of Westfield, will conduct the service Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Rev. F. Y. Lininger, pastor of the church, will be absent for several days.

TREE ON FIRE.

A large tree opposite the property at 226 East Second street, began blazing last night at about 7:30 o'clock and the fact was telephoned to fire headquarters. The department responded and put out the fire with an extinguisher. It is thought that an electric wire, from which the insulation had been rubbed off, set the tree on fire.

STEALING APPLES THE CHARGE.

Charged with stealing apples on the old Truitt property on Greenbrook road, five boys were brought to North Plainfield police headquarters this afternoon by Marshal Pope. They were released by Acting Chief Marshal Keller upon their promise to appear for a hearing tomorrow morning.

Y. P. S. TO MEET.

The regular monthly meeting of the Young People's Society, of St. Peter's Lutheran church, will be held tomorrow evening, at 8 o'clock, in the Sunday-school rooms, corner Grove street and Mercer avenue, when Mrs. Theodore Moldenke will entertain. All are requested to be present.

ART OF BAIT CASTING.

Landing the Lure That Coaxes the Battling Black Bass.

The bait caster! What memories of lilypadded lakes, shimmering in the burnished gold of the setting sun, of a roseate twilight peace, when the lake is one vast mirror; of furious battles with that bulldog of the sweet waters, the black bass, are his!

A most difficult art, one that requires more than a modicum of practice to acquire—to place that lure precisely in a given spot, forty or fifty feet away, where a bass may lurk—not near the spot but right in it, mind you—to land that lure so as to simulate a frog or minnow naturally leaping or jumping to escape possible attack by a bass; to do all this with a short rod and high speed reel—casting the lure as a small boy throws an apple from the end of a stick—to do this with accuracy and deftness is no unworthy ambition.

And after the strike comes a battle between a five pound fish and a 150 pound man, equalized by fair tackle, that will put the exhilaration of eternal youth into any man—especially if he proves himself worthy to beat the fish at his own game—to take him with all the handicaps imposed by the necessary tackle and win out against all the snags, tactics, leaps and plunges, rushes and feints employed by the battling bass.—Warren H. Miller in American Forestry.

The Kind of a Friend to Have.

I have a friend who calls on me every now and then and always gives me a new lease on life. He makes me think more of myself; makes me more ambitious, more determined to see my opportunities and to make the most of them. His calls are like the coming of spring after a long, cold winter, which awakens the sleeping buds and calls out the flowers. The sunshine of his cheerful mind, the alchemy of his optimism, awakens me to renewed effort and encourages me to outdo myself. I am never too busy to see him, and I always urge him to stay, because his presence makes me a larger man, makes life seem more worth while than ever. He helps me to get a new grip upon myself. He arouses me, so that I feel equal to any task when he leaves.—Christian Herald.

How Purple Dye Was Discovered.

It is often said that the old Phoenicians discovered the purple dye in the murex shell by observing a dog which had eaten one of the mollusks and thus colored his chops with a rich purple stain. The ancients were accustomed to hunt the murex by the assistance of pointer dogs. Some of the myths say that Heracles by the aid of his dog first discovered the purple murex.

Her Vague Views.

"I asked for alimony of $50 a week. I see women are getting that right along."

"But, madam," expostulated the lawyer, "your husband is earning only $12."

"What's that got to do with it? I thought the government provided the alimony."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

THE WEATHER.

When an Advertising Man Writes Our Forecasts.

With the first day of next month the Weather Bureau will have the finest assortment of days ever offered to the general public. The month will open up with a fine, balmy day, perfect in every particular, flawless as a jewel, that will bring joy and peace to the hearts of all who take advantage of it. During the first week a slight perturbation in the elements will be experienced, but all who like vigorous, blood-building weather will appreciate this departure from the routine. The next few days will be devoted to a snowstorm—a snowstorm that will send your thoughts flying back to your boyhood and girlhood days when your blood pounded through your body, when your eyes sparkled with the vim of living, and your appetite made cold turnips taste better than the mellowest plum duff ever set before a king. After the snow has cleared away you are promised a three days' rain that will set hearts pounding with gratitude—when old picture-books will come out and old memories cling affectionately around you. The month will come to a close with a most picturesque sleet—a sleet that will make the trees have long dangling fingers, when children will get out and send up happy shouts, palpitating with joy, as they slide on the walks and down the embankments, that will send the blood thrilling through your veins. All in all, it will be the best, the most delightful month offered you for many years. You cannot afford to lose an hour of it. Tell your friends about it.

Brown's boss was mean and small and low
And not Brown's equal in the least;
But still he was the boss, and so
Felt free to treat Brown like a beast.
That very day, for something new,
He'd lectured Brown—unjustly, too.

Poor Brown went home that night to find
A letter from some lawyer there,
Informing him in language kind
That to great wealth he'd fallen heir;
And would Brown call and let them know
His pleasure soon? Well, Brown guessed so!

Of course, Brown bought the business then,
And hired away from other firms
Some managers who'd treat the men
As human beings, not as worms;
But, first of all, he fired that boss;
And no one mourned much at the loss.

And then Brown bought a touring-car,
And when that former boss he'd see
He'd follow, smoking his cigar,
And spatter him extensively.
Of course, 't was all a dream. But say,
Why can't things happen once that way?

MANY PUBLIC OFFICIALS ATTEND BROWN FUNERAL

North Plainfield officials generally attended the funeral this afternoon of the late borough tax collector and treasurer, George F. Brown. No orders were issued to the police or firemen to meet and proceed to the house in a body, and the Mayor and members of the Common Council did not attend in a representative capacity.

Expressions of sympathy and respect for the late official are heard in all parts of North Plainfield, and outward evidences of mourning are displayed by the flags being at half-mast on the municipal buildings. The tax collector's office was closed all day.

From 11 o'clock this morning until 1 o'clock there was a constant stream of friends and business acquaintances of the deceased at the house to view the remains. The funeral services were held this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at the residence, 87 Grove street, in charge of Rev Dr. Philip B. Strong, pastor of the First Baptist church, of which Mr. Brown was a member and an official

AGED DUNELLEN RESIDENT DIES AFTER LONG ILLNESS

Mrs. Richard Boyle, an aged resident of Dunellen, died at her home on Bound Brook road yesterday afternoon. She had been ailing for the past four years, but had not been seriously ill until a month ago. Mrs. Boyle was a native of County Mayo, Ireland, where she was born seventy-four years ago. Forty years ago she came to Dunellen with her husband, the late Thomas Boyle.

She is survived by three sons and three daughters. These are P. J. Boyle, of Crawfordsville, Indiana, John Boyle, who lives at home; Martin Boyle, of Bound Brook road; Mrs. Lawrence Reidy, of Lincoln; Mrs. Thomas Reidy, of Dewey Park, and Mrs. Margaret Higgins, who lives at home. Fourteen grandchildren also survive her.

The funeral will be held from the late residence Saturday morning at 8 o'clock and later from St. John's church in Dunellen. Burial will be in St. Mary's cemetery, this city.

SPRAINED HIS KNEE-CAP.

Roy Miller, of Summit Hill, Pa., while attempting to board a freight train on the Central Railroad near the Netherwood station yesterday afternoon, slipped and received a severe injury to his knee. He was removed to Muhlenberg Hospital where it was seen that the extent of his hurt was a sprained knee-cap.

PUBLIC SERVICE WELFARE COMMITTEE MAKES REPORT

The fourth annual report of the Welfare Committee of the Public Service Corporation of New Jersey has just been issued. As its name implies, the Committee administers the welfare work of the corporation and its subsidiary gas, electric and railway companies, which work covers sick benefits, pensions and life insurance. In addition the Committee looks after the payments made necessary by the Employers' Liability and Workmen's Compensation Act.

The corporation's voluntary welfare work and the operation of the State law are made somewhat reciprocal in that the employe receives the benefit of the one which rebounds to his greater advantage. For instance, if the company's own plan called for a larger payment than the liability law in any specific case the company would not stand on the strict letter of the law, but would make the larger payment.

During the four years that the plan has been in effect the company has disbursed to employes, their relatives or dependants, $370,990.27. Of this amount $144,697.69 was compulsory under the State law, the balance, or $226,292.59 having been voluntarily paid for pensions, sick benefits and life insurance under the corporation's own plan. For the year last past the corporation paid $68,744.25 under the head of welfare work and $53,301.01 required by the compensation act, a total of $122,045.26. This was an increase over the preceding year of $12,319.49 in voluntary payments and of $5,443.27 in compensation required by the State law.

The corporation has nearly 15,000 permanent employes.

Leading Suffragists of Nation Gather at Orange For Big Celebration In Memory of Lucy Stone

Suffrage rays are concentrating upon Orange today for all the big leaders, including the presidents of the international, national and the New York, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts and New Jersey State Suffrage Associations, followed by 1,000 lesser stars, meet there.

Inspired by the thought of one of their greatest pioneers, Lucy Stone, whose birthday is to be celebrated tomorrow, it is expected that many brain waves will emanate from the suffrage conference of the campaign State co-operative committee, which meets today under the chairmanship of Mrs. E. F. Feickert to discuss the most practical program for the last weeks of the campaign. At this conference there will be Miss Carrie Chapman Catt, president of the International Woman Suffrage Alliance; Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, president of the National American Woman Suffrage Association; Miss Alice Stone Blackwell, president of the Massachusetts State Woman Suffrage Association and daughter of Lucy Stone, and Mrs. E. F. Feickert, Mrs. Raymond Brown and Mrs. Frank J. Roessing, presidents of the New Jersey, New York and Pennsylvania State Suffrage organizations. Other prominent suffragists will include the Rev. Antoinette Blackwell, the sister-in-law, mate and close friend of Lucy Stone; Mrs. Henry Garrison Villard, Miss Mary Garrett Hay, chairman of the Woman Suffrage party, New York, and Miss Hannah J. Patterson, chairman of a like party in Pennsylvania.

While the chiefs have come in advance to the conference, from the twenty-one counties of New Jersey suffrage pilgrims have been gathering in Orange at the headquarters of the Orange Equal Suffrage League, a beautiful colonial house on Main street. The pillars of the house are gay with the suffrage colors, all is activity on the lawn and the first floor, while with feminine foresight the Orange suffragists have provided for the safety and comfort of the travelers by filling the upper floor of the house with cot beds, where weary and jolted pilgrims are to rest.

The "Lucy Stone celebration" will begin at 7:45 tonight with a banquet at the Essex County Country Club, with Senator and Mrs. Everett Colby and Mrs. Gordon Grand, host and hostesses. The speakers will include the suffrage leaders and Judge Thomas A. Davis, of Orange.

A celebration program in gray and yellow has been prepared by Miss Clara Stroud and George P. Swain. In it is contained a foreword by Alice Stone Blackwell, photographs of Lucy Stone and the house, 16 Hurlbut street, Orange, from which was taken her babies cradle, and the other household furniture when she refused to pay her taxes as a protest against the injustice of taxation without representation.

The speeches at the ceremony before the house, when a tablet will be unveiled, will be made by Alice Stone Blackwell, former Governor John Franklin Fort and Dr. Anna Shaw. A later meeting will be held in East Orange at the headquarters at 3 p. m., at which David H. Goodnish, mayor of Glen Ridge, and Dr. Shaw will speak. This will be followed by an automobile trip and street meetings through the Oranges, Montclair, Glen Ridge and the outskirts of Newark.

THROCKMORTON PUT OUT BY McLOUGHLIN

Woodbridge Youngster Put Up a Game Fight At Seabright.

Seabright, August 12. Maurice E. McLoughlin, T. R. Pell and Karl H. Behr were the players yesterday in the semi-final round of the Achelis challenge cup singles in straight set victories. The turf courts of the Seabright Lawn Tennis and Cricket Club were in the best condition since the opening of the tournament, and McLoughlin took advantage of it to work-up his speed.

The Californian met youthful Harold A. Throckmorton, the Princeton and metropolitan junior champion. The youngster made McLoughlin work harder and show more activity than have his other opponents. Throckmorton's swift, twisting service was good for a few aces at the start. Temporarily it checked McLoughlin, who had to let himself out on drives and volleys to win.

WESTFIELDERS WILL TRY PLAINFIELD JUNIOR CLUB

The Plainfield Juniors, managed by Samuel Semer, tackle the Westfield A. C. on Parker Field, Saturday.

Barnes and Crist will compose the Westfield battery, while the locals will present their usual line-up with Butler hurling and Cohen catching, Semer, V. Mullin, Trotter and F. Mullin in the infield and Brandt, Boos and Randolph in the three gardens.

The lost article that is of enough consequence to worry about is of enough consequence to advertise.

KRAMER IN FORM, BEATS ALF. GOULLET

Grenda, of Australia, Breaks World's Record in Brassard Race at Newark.

More than 12,000 bicycle racing enthusiasts cheered when Frank Kramer, American champion, defeated his rival, Alf Goullet, of Australia, in straight heats of a match race at the Newark Velodrome last night. It was a wonderful "come-back" for the Yankee, who has been defeated by the Australian in all recent races. That Kramer has recovered his form and his confidence was shown by the manner in which he rode. He let Goullet ride as he pleased, while the "old master" took the longer and harder route, riding around Goullet in the last 100 yards in both heats. Both heats produced remarkable close finishes the second heat being won by less than six inches.

Alf Grenda, of Australia, clipped two seconds off the world's record in the two-mile professional handicap in his heat and won the final, the time being 1 minute 10 4-5 seconds. Ray Eaton, Newark, was second, and Donald McDougall was third. Harry Kaiser, the Bronx rider, looked like a winner, but finished fourth. Grenda defeated Francesco Verri, the Italian champion, in the Brassard match, by half a length after a hard ride in front.

AMATEUR BALL JINGLES

Henny Albert was taught how to play baseball yesterday. He mingled with the Scotch Plains Benedicts and Bachelors in their annual agony.

On a broad jump Joe Albert is a fine baseball player.

That All-Star-T. A. B. match ought to prove interesting. "Spot" Hines believes he's going to pitch. Benny Resurzon is already counting those dividends he's going to make.

"Nibs" Hand informed a local fan that if he was a Netherwood City Leaguer, he never knew it. Ignorance is bliss, anyway.

Herman Abrams goes to work, reads a headline. Yes, as an umpire, too. It is funny what occupations some people choose.

THURSDAY AFTERNOON BALL BEGINNING TO TAKE FORM

This city is to have a regular Thursday afternoon baseball team, if the plans of W. L. Smalley work out. Mr. Smalley and his son, Pal, the ex-N. P. H. S. captain, have been signing up men during the past week. It was thought that a game with the Royal Giants could be scheduled for today, but since the most of the colored people from this section are enjoying themselves at Belwood Park, Manager William Kline did not think that his boys would be willing to stay home and play.

The Smalley team has been considerably fortified by the addition of Johnny Wilson and Harry Moulton. It is possible that the Royals and these fellows will clash next Thursday and the "wiseacres" say that Warry McLaughlin and "Smiler" Brown will hoop up in a lively pitching duel.

GAMES CALLED OFF.

No games were played in either the Parker Field major or minor leagues this morning, the non-appearance of several players necessitating a postponement.

SWIMMING LESSONS IN SCHOOLS.

When the swimming pool was first talked about for the Plainfield High School there was a lot of criticism of the Board of Education for spending the money to erect this excellent tank. As a broader use has been made of the pool, the criticism in many quarters has been turned to praise, and since the schools closed hundreds of the residents of the city have taken advantage of the opportunity offered to the public to swim during the summer months.

It is not only in Plainfield that school children are being taught to swim. Philadelphia has already learned of the benefits which the youngsters can derive from such instruction, and the first term of instruction has just closed with 948 boys and girls (558 of the latter) taught to swim. While no records have been made public as to the results of the instruction in the High School pool, they are probably as gratifying as the ones at Philadelphia.

In the Quaker City the records show that one boy or girl in every three who started learned to swim, and many of those who did not learn failed because they dropped the lessons. Every child can learn to swim, but it is probable that every child will not, for some one of many reasons, chief of which is the fear that strikes many on contact with deep water.

Compared to other proficiencies it is fair to assume that as many boys and girls will become good swimmers as become equally proficient in any one branch of study. The proportion of those proficient in arithmetic, grammar, or most other studies will not run much higher than in the swimming department, if any higher.

The advantages that follow the exercise of swimming cannot well be overestimated. The health will be benefitted and the mind given another anchor of reliance tending toward greater stability because of the confidence cultivated.

The teachers' institutes have well prepared programs, but here is a point in the welfare of children in the public schools which they have overlooked and which they might well take up for discussion. Life is not necessarily all work, all labor, and if the public schools at a cost of $1.50 per pupil, which is the price in Philadelphia, can bring returns like this the price doesn't seem high.

These are only some of the athletic pastimes in which girls get a fair chance with the boys, but here is one in which they may easily excel. It is so well known by swimmers that women and girls not only learn to swim easier than boys, but swim easier because of the lighter tissues of the body, that, as a rule, teachers prefer to instruct girls than boys.

If the High School tank can teach swimming to 200 or 400 children each year, the time and the money is remarkably well spent.

THE GOLD BALANCE.

The gold coin in the treasury of the United States at this time is said to approximate $2,000,000,000. This is probably the largest stock of gold ever held in the vaults of any nation. Of course it is not all subject to use by the government for any purpose. A large part of it is held against gold notes outstanding; but that is not material. The point of the case is that the gold is here and in the actual custody of the nation. The standard of financial power is gold. It is of little concern whether the gold itself is in circulation or only its token in the form of a government note which represents it.

In 1896 the question before the country was an issue of paper money based upon silver at a ratio of 16 to 1—that is, sixteen ounces of silver interchangeable for one ounce of gold. That was a dangerous heresy and the good judgment of the American people killed it. But the certainty of its death is now more firmly established by the fact that the gold itself is in the treasury at Washington, and so long as that fact lasts no possible fear of another dangerous attempt at inflation exists.

In the fight in 1896 it was made evident, to the American people, that a standard of value must be single. A double standard, on a ratio basis of 16 to 1, or some other such basis, can never be stable; because one of the two is liable to fluctuate and vary the value, between the two metals composing the ratio. With a single standard this can never happen. The value of the single standard, of course, may rise or fall a little, but that is of no concern, as with its rise or fall commodities will rise and fall in harmony with it, but the value will always remain the same.

Prosperity has come to us under the gold standard. Values have been stable. Agreements to purchase in future have been safely made, and the single standard has assured both buyer and seller, that a future transaction will be carried out on present money values, and hence, there has been no uncertainty about any agreement, present or prospective. This nation in 1896 bed-rocked its credit in the marts of trade and today, with the great war in all Europe, we find ourselves the one firm credit-nation of the whole earth.

If we could only have the ocean moved up to our doors that we might take a dip in the sea each morning, while continuing to live in the comfortable surroundings of our own homes, how delightful it would be. But why wish for the impossible?

We can stand anything except to have some one say to us it is hot. We know it and do not care to be constantly reminded of it.

TWO LOCAL PROPERTIES BOUGHT AT SHERIFF'S SALE

Elizabeth, Aug. 12—The board of trustees of the Seventh-Day Baptist Memorial Fund was purchaser yesterday at sheriff's sale, of property at Monroe avenue and West Eighth street, Plainfield, for $2,000. The board was complainant against Sadie Nathanson, the holder of the property.

Alfred Spangenberg, complainant, bought in property at the southerly side of Halsey street, near West Third street, Plainfield, for $1,000. Morris Rabinovitz was the defendant.

RECREATION NOTES

Tomorrow evening the Dunbar dance will be held at the Washington School by the colored people.

The Dramatic Club will welcome its new members in the kindergarten room of Washington School tomorrow night.

Washington School will be a very busy place during the fall. Many new activities will enliven the building each evening. Already much interest has been aroused in the immediate neighborhood by the proposed community center. Everyone who is public spirited and desirous of lending a helping hand will find a big field in the Washington School community center.

The man or woman who have not the habit of "trying again" very often fail as want advertisers, wholly for that reason.

To Give The Farm A Nice Ride

A number of young folks are making arrangements for a straw ride which they will give to Bridges' farm next Wednesday evening.—Parkersburg News.

Huh!

Nowadays when two girls go to stay all night at some other girl's house and all three lie awake in the same bed giggling and telling stories till three o'clock, they call it a house party!

Meum And Teum

You don't have to know more than half the things in this world, Bud, to catch onto the other half. For instance, if you find a woman who thinks her son-in-law is a bad man, you can bet your entire stack on the fact that son-in-law thinks mother-in-law is helonwheels. If you find a man declaring that another man owes him a whole slew of coin, you can gamble that the other fellow is maintaining that he doesn't. If you find one person saying that another man is a liar, the party of the second part can be depended upon to say he isn't, but that the other fellow is. And so on.

The Riparian Disposition

Recently we gave a number of Ohio River towns a treat by visiting them in person. While in these towns we studied the characteristics of the riparian dweller. As in other lines, the aquatic or amphibious human has traits different from other branches of the same kingdom.

The natural-born river-bank denizen will live nowhere else. You would think the flooding of his house until the gas-jets gasped for breath would be looked upon as a calamity.

It is not, to him. He points with ill-concealed pride to the place on the wall, just four inches above the top of the walnut frame of grandpa's crayon portrait, where the water found its climax in 1913.

He tells you luxuriantly of the time when the wood-box in the kitchen was found full of live carp, after the cessation of moisture hostilities.

He boasts of the time his little son was sent out across the waves just under the parlor-ceiling in a galvanized tub to reach under the water and turn off a gas-jet that had been left open, and was blowing bubbles up through the surface of the visiting deep.

He brags of the trip he had down to Gallipolis riding on a Victrola, balancing himself with a chiffonier drawer in one hand and the baby's high chair in the other.

Of course casualties now and then occur during these things, just as they do in baseball games, picnics, weddings and other hilarious occasions.

But the real riparian, to the manner born, arises from the flood, crawls up through the horse-weeds, lets the mud dry on him, empties his boots, dusts himself, climbs on the first passing train headed up stream, goes back to that same house, marks the high spot on the upstairs bedroom wall, and makes a bet with himself that it will go higher next time.

But he won't move—not if you give him a farm on the third level of the Cordilleras.

The Young Lady Across The Way

The young lady across the way says of course there's such a thing as being too prodigal of one's money, but she certainly does think everybody ought to save at least a little.

HEALTH TALKS

by WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

Further Apology To Grandma

WITH due and becoming humility we apologized to grandma a few weeks ago for some of the unkind slants we have perpetrated in this Department of Distress. Now we beg to make further apologies, for it appears we were wrong and grandma was right, after all, in the notion of "drawing out the poison."

British army surgeons have found that the old idea of drawing something out of the wound is a good one in practice. They noticed, in the first place, that Belgian soldiers whose wounds were more or less soaked in sea water recovered very promptly; also that British sailors, subjected to immersion in the water for an hour or more before they were rescued, recovered from their wounds more rapidly than soldiers wounded in land operations.

Sir A. E. Wright, Sir W. B. Leishman, Sir B. Moynihan and Colonel F. F. Burghard—surgeons of world-wide fame—put their heads together and figured out a reason for these things. They concluded that sea water causes an exudation or outpouring of blood serum—the fluid, colorless part of the blood—from the wound surface; thus fresh blood serum is admitted to the infected area, and of course it is the blood serum that puts the kibosh on any harmful germs there may be lurking about the wound.

Sir A. E. Wright suggests the following substitute for sea water: About a teaspoonful of citrate of soda, ten teaspoonfuls of common table salt, and one quart of boiled water. To be applied to infected, dirty, sloughing, poorly healing wounds or ulcers, by keeping the surface covered with compresses wetted with the solution. If citrate of soda is not at hand, then just use the salt solution alone. Sea water is equivalent to a solution containing about half as much salt as above suggested.

It is interesting to note that these eminent authorities reported that ".... Up to the present time experiment has not confirmed the idea that the introduction of antiseptic substances into wounds would be likely to contribute to the arrest of suppuration (formation of pus or matter)."

So you see, grandma, you are thoroughly vindicated. Antiseptics prove useless, but we can "draw out the poison," just as you always insisted.

But, understand clearly, it isn't done with a poultice, and it can't be done through unbroken skin. If you will compromise with us upon these minor details, we will agree to suspend hostilities from now on. Your principles were correct, grandma, even if your practice was sometimes faulty.

AMERICAN UNIVERSITIES—SYRACUSE

SYRACUSE is a young American university which has demonstrated the fact that oil and water will mix, in spite of what science has always said.

The faculty of Syracuse believe firmly in oil and Chancellor Day is famous for his endeavors to have John D. Rockefeller listed as a martyred saint. On the other hand, the students of Syracuse believe with equal firmness in water and have won the great regatta at Poughkeepsie three times.

Syracuse University is located in Syracuse, N. Y., and has a large wooded campus and a fine collection of old-fashioned college buildings, bristling with octagonal towers. It is a Methodist school and has an endowment of $2,000,000. Four thousand students attend Syracuse, but it is still regarded by Yale and Princeton as a little college. However, Michigan has had no delusions regarding the size of Syracuse since last fall, when its football team came home with Syracuse hoof marks all over it.

About half of the students of Syracuse are young women. These do not row or play football, but they organize sororities with great enthusiasm. After a Syracuse girl has had four years' practice in running a half acre sorority house she can run a cottage built for two in her spare moments.

Syracuse is one of the only colleges in the world to own and operate a skyscraper. It does not keep it on the campus, however, but has located it in the middle of Syracuse. One of the most pleasant duties of the college treasurer is to go downtown on the first of each month with a wheelbarrow and collect the rent.

The chief sights on the Syracuse campus are the captain of the Varsity eight and Chancellor Day indulging in free screech whenever he thinks up something new to say against Colonel Roosevelt and the other low lives who have pestered John D. in the last few years.

Conscription

THE London Economist calculates that something like twenty-nine million men are now under arms in Europe, not including the mobilized but inactive troops of Switzerland, Holland, and other noncombatant nations. This would be about ten per cent. of the total population of Germany, Austria, France and Servia, and about five per cent. of the total population of Russia, England, Italy and Turkey; or it would be seven per cent. of the population of the belligerent countries taken in a lump. Such is the rather staggering result of the Napoleonic system of conscription.
